The Screen

TODAY'S PROGRAMS
LIBERTY—"The Son of Wallingford."
CLEMMEER—Herbert Rawlinson in "The Millionaire"; Chest Faud Week; special added attraction—BLUE MOUSE—Lon Chaney in "The Night Rose."
WINTER GARDEN—Sessue Hayakawa in "When Lights Are Low."
COLISEUM—Anita Stewart in "The Invisible Fear."
STRAND—Rudolph Valentino and Agnes Ayres in "The Sheik"; second week.
COLONIAL—Buck Jones in "Bar Nothin'."
REX—Charles Chaplin in "The Idle Class."

CLEMMEER
CAREFUL for and spending eighty million dollars would be considered by most anyone as a task incomparably superior to any mere pleasure ever invented. But when the cash makes the owner a target for bullets, poison and spinning knives, the whole thing has a different flavor.

The new picture, "The Millionaire," starring Herbert Rawlinson at the Clemmer this week, offers the young star just such a role. It is a great mystery drama, and the clever actor puts pep into the character of Jack Norman, the hero.

Manager Cutts, of the Clemmer, is providing extra entertainment at the Clemmer this week, and he is donating 7 per cent of the gross receipts for the entire week to the Community Chest fund.

WINTER GARDEN
"Where Lights Are Low," the feature film attraction at the Winter Garden this week, provided Sessue Hayakawa, noted Japanese star, with one of the greatest roles of his entire career. It is an Oriental story by Lloyd Osborne, and has to do with the experiences of a young Chinese prince who is in love with the daughter of a gardener on his illustrious uncle's estate.

The young Japanese actor has been surrounded by a capable cast, including Gloria Payton as the gardener's daughter and Toyo Fujita as the uncle.

BLUE MOUSE
LeRoy Scott is the author of "The Night Rose," the melodramatic picture starring Lon Chaney at the Blue Mouse this week.

"The Night Rose" serves as one of the strongest pictures Chaney has appeared in. He is seen as O'Rourke, king of the underworld and political boss of his town.

The climax of the picture takes place in a magnificent ballroom where the underworld "car" is about

Cave-Man Rudolph Wins Heroine by Masterfulness in "The Sheik"

Rudolph Valentino, out of the Solomonesque wisdom of his 26 years, and a hectic career as a hero in the movies, rises courageously to remark that women like to be dominated. Rudolph has a love recipe that he puts to test in "The Sheik," now showing at the Strand. It works beautifully, masterfulness reducing the proud beauty (Agnes Ayres) to submission—as shown here.

to dance with his "new" girl. The manner in which O'Rourke, who has slipped past the toils of the police time and again is trapped by two women is the big dramatic thrill of the plot.

Leatrice Joy, Edythe Chapman, Betty Schade, John Bowers and Cullen Landis round out the splendid cast.

LIBERTY
George and Lillian Randolph Chester have brought all the characters to life of the famous Wallingford stories in their screen play at the Liberty this week, "The Son of Wallingford."

It took many months for the Chesters to prepare this story for the screen. The simple love scene between Mary Curtis and Jimmy Wallingford has been given as much attention as the magnificent pageant scene patterned after an old Indian durtar, with its gaily comparisoned elephants and camels and thousands of costumed participants. In addition to this, there are big spectacular scenes on a lake of burning oil.

The characters are well portrayed with Wilfrid North playing J. Rufus Wallingford.

COLISEUM
Anita Stewart is playing a big dramatic role in her latest First National offering, "The Invisible Fear," at the Coliseum this week.

Strange circumstances lead beautiful Sylvia Langdon (Miss Stewart) to believe herself a murderer. She carries the secret locked tight in her heart and eventually marries idently Comstock (the man Sylvia thought dead) appears. The situation is intense and what follows provides the audience with keen interest.

The settings for this feature are unusually beautiful.

COLONIAL
Harold Lynne, an English war hero, comes to the American West to recuperate his health. Finding the life of a ranchman too strenuous for him, he advertises for a competent foreman to run the place, and Duke Smith takes the job. Duke does not need it, but the Englishman's sister, Bea, is a great attraction. Later two crooked cattlemen try to discredit Duke and come near success. But Duke manages to show them up and also win the girl.

Buck Jones, burlesqued cowpuncher, gives a lively performance as Duke Smith in the photoplay "Bar Nothin'," at the Colonial.

REX
Unable to stand the sordid surroundings in connection with her life in a little Southern village, Barbara requests David, her small salaried sweetheart, to take her to a large inn situated near her home, where a masquerade dance was being held. At the affair she meets Johnny Lister, a social secretary, and later they are married. It is not long until Barbara's longing for wealth again brings her unhappiness and wrecks her domestic life.

How this selfish girl is brought to her senses and begins to realize that money isn't everything brings a most pleasing ending to "A Woman's Business," the picture drama which is being shown along with "The Idle Class," the clever Chaplin comedy at the Rex this week.

TOM SANTSCHI
Between pictures, Tom Santschi may often be found in his garage in the company of his automobiles, clad in overalls. Tom is an expert mechanic and likes nothing better (except acting) than finding an outlet for his skill in keeping his cars tuned up to the highest pitch.

CECIL DE MILLE
During his vacation abroad, Cecll H. de Mille will go to northern Africa and hunt with a falcon from the back of a camel. It is an ancient sport little known in other countries.

HARRY MYERS
These are busy times for the Connecticut Yankee, as Harry Myers has come to be jocularly termed. Doris May has secured him to play the lead opposite her in her next comedy photoplay, titled "Boy Crazy."

Picture Patter

Broadway records were smashed when 112,625 people saw George Melford's picture, "The Sheik," at the Rivoli and Hilda theatres, when the picture had its premiere simultaneously at those two houses.

"All at Sea," Richard Barthelmess' second starring vehicle, is a satire on the present social unrest of the younger set. It was written by Porter Emerson Browne.

Paramount has released Jack Holt's first starring picture, "The Call of the North."

"The Gilded Cage," which was seen on Broadway as "Love Dreams," a comedy with music, has been purchased as a starring vehicle for Gloria Swanson.

Bessie Love appears with Sessue Hayakawa in a new picture, "The Swamp."

A company has been formed to star Ora Carewe in a series of films.

Conrad Nagel is to play opposite Alice Lake in "Hate."

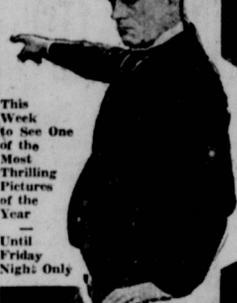

MISS FRANCES NEWMAN
Chicago, Ill.

"Only a medicine of truly wonderful merit could have done what Tanlae did for me, and there is nothing half good enough for me to say about it," said Miss Frances Newman, 2639 Hirsch St., Chicago.

"I don't think anybody ever suffered any more from indigestion than I did, and for over a year I was in wretched health. I had smothering spells and my heart palpitated so violently I thought I had heart trouble, but I know now it was all caused from my stomach."

"Since taking Tanlae, I feel and look like a different person. I have a splendid appetite and my digestion is just perfect. I sleep eight or nine hours every night and get up in the morning feeling fresh and happy. My friends tell me I'm always smiling now, and I certainly ought to be, for I'm enjoying life again."

Tanlae is sold in Seattle at Bartell's drug stores and by leading druggists everywhere.
