

YOU cannot rightly expect to keep well unless you get the proper amount of sleep. Open-air exercise and moderate eating will not put you in shape to avoid influenza and kindred diseases unless you allow your mind and body the rest that nature demands. Exercise, moderation and sleep are the three great guards to health. To "cut down" on sleep is rank foolishness. You will undermine your bulwark against illness by "burning the candle."

HOLLYWOOD DOPE AGENT DISAPPEARS AFTER MOVIE MURDER!

The Star Goes Into 11,727 More Homes Every Day Than Any Other Seattle Newspaper

The Seattle Star

HOME EDITION

Entered as Second Class Matter May 8, 1893, at the Postoffice at Seattle, Wash., under the Act of Congress March 3, 1879. Per Year, by Mail, $5 to $5

SEATTLE, WASH., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1922.

TWO CENTS IN SEATTLE

WEATHER
Tonight and Saturday, rain or snow; fresh easterly winds.
Temperature Last 24 Hours
Maximum, 42. Minimum, 36.
Today noon, 41.

VOLUME 23.

Boy, 8, Laughs Last at Teacher Who Beat Him

Home Brew

Greetings, folks! It's getting warmer, but don't leap into your R. V. D.'s yet.

H. S. Turner, candidate for mayor, is in the real estate business. Let's see, wasn't Ole Hanson in that business?

OMIGOSH OMIGOSH
On Monday, February 13, the Seattle Yacht club is entertaining with a ladies' smoker.—Society column, The Star.

We suppose their husbands will stay at home and mind the babies.

A Decatur, Ill., man says he can make grain alcohol from gas. We hope this doesn't lead a lot of fellows to turn on the gas.

The Eskimo sleeps in his bear skin and keeps very warm, we are told; last night we slept in our little bare skins and caught a helluva cold.

SOME ATTIRE!
The bride was attired in a gray tail-coat, a smart spring hat and a corset of arches and cyclamen.—Society item to The Star.

Dan Landon will get the flapper vote—he's a bachelor.

Sign on Third ave. restaurant window: "Order here today; we serve you tomorrow."

Little drinks of Muller. Taken while or red. Transfer business worries to an aching head.

COMPLETELY OVERCOME
The bride was beautifully dressed in blue satin and georgette, and the groom was neatly tired in a blue serge suit.—Springfield Democrat Herald.

Seattle bakers say bread prices will rise here. Few of us will be able to raise the dough.

Well, if we can't buy bread we can eat cake, as Marie Antoinette so aptly put it.

The President (a few years hence) —Where's the army?
The Secretary of War—He's gone out rowing in the navy.
—Cornell Widow.

FLAPPERISMS
It's the girl with the prettiest ankles that sees the mouse first.

Many a girl's eyebrows are not so black as they are painted.

A girl is known by the engagement ring she keeps.

Don't make the mistake of believing that the girl with dreamy eyes isn't wide awake.

A girl's heart is naturally light when she strikes a match.

In the beautiful air castles which girls build you will never find any washtubs.

Mr. Hays will be worth more than $100,000 to the movie industry if he can eliminate the cowboy heroes who pluck their eyebrows.

NO, YOU GUESS!
Last—On Saturday, January 7, on train leaving Pennsylvania station at 2:04 p. m., or between Main st. station and Amity and Bowen. Reward, Phone Flushing 1781-J—Flushing (N. Y.) Journal.

We're a member of the Star Book Club
Whatever that is
But the worst light fiction
We read is our
Monthly bill from the Municipal Light Co.

WHAT'S BECOME OF—
The old-fashioned parent who used to say that "children should be seen and not heard?"

Dear Sir: Could you please tell me how this word is spelled? It sounds like "wala," but the first 2 letters are "fo." It means a narrow passage. Also what language is it?—Jimmie Sullivan (Age 27), Bremerton.

Dear Jimmie: You probably mean word "funicular" pronounced with the f silent as in soap, which is Polish for boot-lifter, but can be susceptible to several meanings in Zebra.—Homer.

Howard Hoffman
—Photo by Price & Carter, Star Staff Photographers

Mountaineers Waver in Rainier Attempt

BY JOHN H. STODDARD
PARADISE VALLEY, Feb. 10.—Rainier National park officials and correspondents here seriously question the probability of Jean and Jacques Landry and Jacques Bergue ever reaching the summit of Mount Rainier. The Alpine climbers have shown no disposition since their arrival here, to take advantage of favorable climbing weather.
Park Superintendent W. H. Peters declares the summit climb, even in summer, is only successful by leaving Camp Muir at daybreak. The three mountaineers left here at 10 a. m. Thursday, with bedding and provisions for a stay at Camp Muir, two hours after the Camp Lewis signal corps detail started. The latter made the trip to finish installation of the telephone line to Anvil rock, which point they first reached Wednesday, in a driving windstorm. They were unable to enter the cabin, because the French trio of climbers had kept the key and made no effort to accompany them.
The trio have manifested no particular anxiety during their stay here to wait at Camp Muir for favorable weather to make the dash to the summit. If the party does not remain now at Camp Muir, ready to make the dash to the top, it will be evidence, in the opinion of Park Superintendent Peters, that they do not care to make the climb and an admission of failure. In that event, the entire party here will return at once.
Private Clarence P. Erickson, of the Camp Lewis signal corps detail, who assisted in laying the phone wire to Anvil rock, suffered minor bruises when he fell on a sheet of ice on the way to the cabin. He rolled several hundred yards and ended up abruptly in a gully. A farther descent might have ended disastrously.
The three mountaineers left here at 10 a. m. Thursday, with bedding and provisions for a stay at Camp Muir, two hours after the Camp Lewis signal corps detail started. The latter made the trip to finish installation of the telephone line to Anvil rock, which point they first reached Wednesday, in a driving windstorm. They were unable to enter the cabin, because the French trio of climbers had kept the key and made no effort to accompany them.
The trio have manifested no particular anxiety during their stay here to wait at Camp Muir for favorable weather to make the dash to the summit. If the party does not remain now at Camp Muir, ready to make the dash to the top, it will be evidence, in the opinion of Park Superintendent Peters, that they do not care to make the climb and an admission of failure. In that event, the entire party here will return at once.

Thief Fires Home to Conceal Murder

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Police were searching the city today for a negro servant who is suspected of having murdered his employer, Mrs. Morris Greenberg, stealing $3,000 worth of jewelry and then setting her home afire in an effort to conceal the double crime.

MRS. STELLA SAWLEY, 31, died at her home, 4302 Sixth ave. S., Thursday. She is survived by her husband, A. O. Sawley, and two sons, Clifford and Warren.

Boasts His Instructor Was Fined

Pedagogue Had Innings by Getting Woman Fighter Punished

By E. P. Chalcraft
Eight-year-old Howard Hoffman was the hero of juvenile Woodville Friday.

"I'll bet that of teacher won't like me again," he boasted to youthful admirers, who crowded around him to congratulate him on his legal victory over Miss Anna Swigert, primary school teacher. Miss Swigert was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace C. C. Dalton Thursday for administering a spanking to Howard because he couldn't pronounce the word "never."

"Yeah," Howard admitted, "I'll bet he'll hurt—but, gee, it was worth it. Judge Dalton—he's a great man."

In court Thursday he declared: "I'd rather have mamma spank me—it doesn't hurt so much."

Perhaps it was this naive statement that won his case. At any rate, the judge fined the teacher.

He then fined Mrs. E. Meacham, mother of six children, $1 and costs for beating up Miss Swigert for a real or faked grievance.

SHE TRIED TO PROMISE
"If the court is lenient with you, will you promise to behave yourself and leave Miss Swigert alone?" the court asked.

Mrs. Meacham, a large, powerful woman, looked across at the slender teacher and hesitated.

"I will if I can," she said at last.

The bailiff restored order. Testimony showed that one of Mrs. Meacham's boys had to stay out of school for lack of a pair of shoes. When Miss Swigert was informed of this by one of the other Meacham children, she is said to have refused to believe it.

"I knew that a neighbor had given her a pair of shoes," the teacher declared on the stand.

She did not know, however, that it was a pair of wooden shoes, and the boy could not wear them.

When Mrs. Meacham heard that her excuse had not been accepted, she is said to have left the cook stove and to have started across the fields.

She ambushed Miss Swigert at a lonely stretch of road, and, according to the testimony of the victim, beat her up, pulled her hair, and sat upon her. Neighbors parted them.

Another commotion was caused in the court room when Miss Swigert strayed from the subject in leading up to the details of the encounter.

JUDGE IS EAGER FOR FIGHT NEWS
"Tell us about the fight. Tell us about the fight," Judge Dalton demanded.

Miss Swigert was fined after it had been shown that she whipped Howard with a short blackboard pointer when he had trouble with his reading lesson. He persisted in pronouncing the word "never" like "over," she said, and finally balked when corrected several times. The punishment followed, the strokes marking the lad on the legs.

Miss Cordelia Thist, deputy prosecuting attorney, deplored the flogging of such young pupils, she asserted a teacher must maintain discipline.

Arthur Hutchinson, defense counsel, declared that the teacher had only "spanked the pupil on the place provided by God for that purpose."

POLICE SCANDAL BARED!

Sergeant and Patrolman Suspended Following Tipped-Off Raids

By Jack Hall
Police Sergt. F. W. Pielow and Patrolman C. O. Legate were suspended Friday, by order of Chief William H. Searing, without pay for 15 days. Searing gave his reason for the action as failing to keep their districts free of undesirable women.

This action, according to Inspector Hans Damm, grew out of a long series of raids on Main st., which culminated last week in the arrest of May Curtis, colored, an alleged notorious character in Seattle's underworld, and three "bums" of the place. Prosecuting Attorney Malcolm Douglas has begun statement proceedings against the place, which is owned by Mrs. Curtis, a negro.

It became known Friday that Inspector Damm has tried several times without success to "get the goods" on the proprietor, but in almost every case the raids were "tipped off" and the occupants had fled before the raiding party arrived.

In some mysterious manner telephone calls warned the inmates almost as soon as the officers left central headquarters.

"It is a fact that these houses employ lookouts for the express purpose of watching for raiding parties," declared Damm, "and I think my raids were probably frustrated by these men. As soon as a police car leaves, these fellows call the different bootleg joints and other underworld agencies, warning them all."

One woman, arrested many times, informed The Star that while living in a questionable house just south of Yesler way, the police raided the place several times during the last few months. In each case they were "tipped off" by mysterious telephone calls.

"I was sitting in the living room," she said, "when the telephone rang. One of my companions answered the phone and heard someone say, 'Beat it, the cops are coming!'"

"We grabbed our things and rushed out the back way, hiding behind a garage. Just as we reached the other side of the street, a police car loaded with officers drew up at the curb. They rushed in but found nothing."

Charges of extortion against officers, brought by women, are being probed.

Child Given Poison in Error Improving

Given poison by his mother by mistake Thursday afternoon, two-year-old Frederick Allen Seif, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Seif, 4063 35th ave. S., was reported to have a fighting chance for recovery in city hospital Friday. The boy at times recovered consciousness during the morning, altho his condition was still dangerous.

The battle was reported to be a considerable one.

Trains in Ireland Seized by Strikers

CORK, Feb. 10.—Refusing to accept a strike settlement proposed by the provisional government, Cork railway men took possession of local railways today and will run the trains themselves tomorrow.

Replicans in War With Constabulary

DUBLIN, Feb. 10.—Fighting broke out today in Cladystrabane and County Tyrone, between special police and troops of the Irish republican army.

One constable was killed and at least one republican soldier severely wounded.

The battle was reported to be a considerable one.

The damaged vessel was 700 miles off Cape Flattery at 8 p. m. last night. She reported yesterday that she was returning to Vancouver, but gave no reason.

Girl of 23 May Be Governor of Kansas

She Is Campaigning on Anti-War Platform; Political Line-Up Works in Her Favor

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Feb. 10.—"No more war!" With that three-word platform, Helen Pettigrew, former shop girl, has entered the race for the republican nomination for governor of Kansas.

And the existing political situation gives her a chance to sit in the gubernatorial chair, politicians say.

"Man is the root cause of war," Miss Pettigrew says. "The world is dying of war disease. The last war made 8,000,000 cripples."

"If you want this stopped, then stop voting for corrupt male politicians who encourage this monstrous, atrocious crime to serve their own ends."

Miss Pettigrew was graduated a few years ago from the public schools of Springfield, Ill.

Then she came here with her parents. Her father is a building contractor.

Until a year ago Miss Pettigrew was a schoolgirl in a department store. Then she became interested in combating war.

She began giving lectures and soon became founder and head of the Anti-War association. She gained the approval of congressmen and other political leaders.

Then came her campaign for the republican nomination. The republican nomination practically means election.

But Miss Pettigrew's touring the state now. And her platform is winning support.

THOUSANDS JOIN ULSTER FORCES

BELFAST, Feb. 10.—Three thousand Ulsterites, bitter enemies of southern Irishmen, today joined the force of 5,000 constabulary patrolling the Ulster frontier.

The Sinn Fein extremists who raided Ulster are still holding many captives.

Republicans in War With Constabulary

DUBLIN, Feb. 10.—Fighting broke out today in Cladystrabane and County Tyrone, between special police and troops of the Irish republican army.

One constable was killed and at least one republican soldier severely wounded.

The battle was reported to be a considerable one.

Trains in Ireland Seized by Strikers

CORK, Feb. 10.—Refusing to accept a strike settlement proposed by the provisional government, Cork railway men took possession of local railways today and will run the trains themselves tomorrow.

Replicans in War With Constabulary

DUBLIN, Feb. 10.—Fighting broke out today in Cladystrabane and County Tyrone, between special police and troops of the Irish republican army.

One constable was killed and at least one republican soldier severely wounded.

The battle was reported to be a considerable one.

5 BEING SOUGHT IN CASE

Strange Woman and Four Men in Taylor Inquiry Hunted by Police

BY FRANK H. BARTHOLOMEW, LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 10.
—New and direct evidence singling the rich and idle son of a New York manufacturer from the four unnamed suspects under investigation in the William D. Taylor murder case identified the district attorney's office today.

The lead was furnished by the deputy sheriff, Joseph Nolan, who returned from Hollywood, made a hurried report and again disappeared.

"The new angle I am working on may result in an arrest the next few hours, if the man we're after fails to clear up the question of his whereabouts on the night of the murder," Nolan said.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 10.—The field of suspects in the Taylor murder mystery today narrowed down to four men and Miss X—mysterious and unknown woman.

Forces of law tracking the murderer of the director have combined under a single head to concentrate on the suspects. Random clues reports of William Desmond Taylor's past life and love affairs, letters, disappearing and reappearing, handkerchiefs and "pink silk nighties"—all were consolidated today into a single mass of evidence.

DOPE AGENT IS NOW MISSING
The "dope" dragon reared its sinister crest in the Taylor mystery today.

A peddler of narcotics, well known to the police, has disappeared from his Hollywood home, missing since the day of the murder.

None of his studio acquaintances are able to give a clue as to his whereabouts.

The man knew Taylor well, altho the picture director is not suspected of having been a drug addict. Taylor, like every other motion picture executive, was thrown in contact with the occasional "hopeheads" among the studio hangers-on.

Among Taylor's acquaintances were women of the studios who are known to be addicted to "dope." The mystery of the "dope" peddler's disappearance is believed sufficient evidence to warrant a rigid investigation.

Among those slated for questioning at the office of District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine today are several acquaintances of the "doper" who, it is hoped, may have some clue to his whereabouts.

MABEL NORMAND NOW RECOVERED
Mabel Normand, entirely recovered from her breakdown, following the Taylor tragedy, was to tell District Attorney Woolwine today all she knew of the dead man and his past.

Miss Normand, in a statement to the United Press, flatly denied a published report crediting her with saying that her visit with Taylor on the night he met his death was to determine that he returned to her the "blessed baby" letters she had written to him.

This report quoted Miss Normand to the effect that Taylor had refused to return the packet of letters and telegrams she had written to him, and then over, for an unexplained reason, to two officials of the Famous Players-Lasky company.

"I made no such statement," the comedienne said today. "The report is totally false."

The "blessed baby" letters are now in possession of the district attorney.

MAN IS HELD UNDER ARREST

TOPEKA, Kas., Feb. 10.—A man giving his name as Walter Scott Underwood, and said to be wanted in Los Angeles on a charge of taking $1,100 from the Pacific Electric company, where he was employed as cashier, today was held by authorities here, pending arrival of Los Angeles police.

Topeka authorities said Underwood declared he knew the murdered Wilcox.

(Turn to Page 7, Column 2)