SAMUEL PEPPY'S BEER

Friday, May 12 THIS morning I did purchase a radio-phonograph, which cost me little, but methinks buying a radio set is like a man taking unto himself a wife or a Ford—the initial expense is small but the accessories are huge! And so to work, but a quiet day, and nothing unusual until I did meet Maurice H. McMicken outside of Judge Foster's court and he did tell me his baby could recite "Hans, Hans, black sheep, have you any wool?" And I, knowing that the infant was only two weeks old, was greatly astonished thereat, until Maurice said, "of course she can't say all of it yet, but she's got as far as 'Hans, Hans.' Whereupon I did laugh heartily.

And so to home in the evening, listening to the radiophone, and hoping they would play some of Mr. Kipling's ballads, but they did not. And so to bed.

TRIBUTE

By Leo H. Lassen

THE years have come and gone and you have held Your children's children safely in your arms; But still your heart is young with all Youth's charms— The precious gift that only Love can weld. If God would open wide the golden door That bars the way to Yesterday, I know That you would not turn back, because to go Would mean to leave the loved ones you adore.

FOR me the road of life looms far ahead, But while Youth's cup is still within my hands I ask that I may go thru those strange lands As splendidly as you have gone. Your brow is fleeced with Winter's snow, but roses, red As Roman wine, are in your smile, I vow!

Handwriting on the Wall

(EDITORIAL)

It seems peculiarly fitting that plans should be announced on the eve of Mothers' day for two of the biggest projects that Seattle has ever fostered—the erection of an "all-women clubhouse" and a Fine Arts building.

Because, altho they are of interest and vital importance to everyone, regardless of sex, they are essentially MOTHERS' projects.

But for the importance that women are assuming in the world's civic, political and cultural life, the projects would never have been born. They're not the kind of projects that men conceive.

Therefore, as handwriting on the wall, they are of infinitely more importance than the mere number of dollars which they involve.

For centuries man has been telling woman: "You're all right in your place—but your place is in the home."

He was too stupid to see that her place was outside the home too—part of the time; just as his place was in the home—part of the time.

Because there was nothing else to do, woman accepted the man-made mandate—until she saw a way out.

Now she has found the way out—and things are humming!

He will leave Monday en route to England via North Borneo and the Suez canal.

Air Mail Service to Coast Approved

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The house today agreed to the senate amendment to the postoffice department appropriation bill appropriating $1,900,000 for continuance of the air mail service between New York and San Francisco via Chicago and Omaha.

The house's action means the air mail service will be tried out at least for another year.

CITY TO FIGHT PHONE METER INSTALLATION

Utilities Official Denounces Plan for Measuring of Speech

That the city of Seattle will fight any attempt on the part of the telephone company to install measured telephone service here was the declaration Saturday of E. D. O'Brien, assistant superintendent of public utilities.

"Telephoning is a service—not a commodity," O'Brien said. "The amount of electricity used in a telephone call is infinitesimal; what the patron pays for is the service."

O'Brien declared that it was the ambition of every public utility to put in measured service. He said that the new automatic telephones may result in an attempt by the local telephone company to install a system of "pay-for-each-call."

METER FIGHT IN EVERETT GROWS

Investigator Finds Device More and More Unpopular

By S. B. Groff

EVERETT, May 13.—After questioning people everywhere, in the homes, stores, shops, poolrooms, cigar stands, club houses, and, in fact, every meeting place of men, I am convinced the telechronometer is not the popular device the Puget Sound Telephone Co. would have the world believe.

The telephone company admittedly has an ulterior motive for boosting the device, because its president, William Neal Winter, says he is "heavily interested financially."

And yet Winter has announced his only aim in installing the meters is "to make party line service more efficient and acceptable and to serve more people by decreasing their investment."

In the next breath Winter says the yearly rental of each meter may run over $3 to each phone user.

According to Winter, the meters were made at a cost of $19 each, under adverse conditions, by Kuhlbourne-Clark Co., of Seattle.

The telechronometer has apparently brought to a standstill nearly all the social welfare and civic improvement work in Everett. It has blocked the work of charitable relief and missionary enterprises. In fact the new phone meters have done all that was claimed for them—they have made silence in Everett golden.

A bill of $5.20 convinced Mrs. G. S. Rose, 1524 Wetmore ave., president of the Parent-Teachers' association, that she couldn't use her phone for social work or pleasure. She decided five minutes a day were useless and ordered her phone out.

"When I can't call up my invalid mother to see how she is getting along without being charged extra, then I don't want a phone," said Mrs. F. P. Ptolemy, 2903 Wetmore ave.

MRS. W. R. PADDOCK, 3501 Rockefeller ave., ordered her phone out after receiving a bill of $7.60 for 20 days.

A woman who refused her name, said she suddenly decided she could get along without a phone after getting a bill for $4.50.

"They might as well knock me on the head with a gun," said Bill Scott, 1913 Walden ave., "as to rob me like they do with that meter. It's coming out now; I can't see what a phone is for if it isn't to use."

JOE KING, owner of a popular cafe and soft drink bar, declared sentiment was bitter against the new meter. He himself had been overcharged $2.00, and registered a vigorous kick.

STOPS FERRY SERVICE FOR SPITE, CLAIM

Bellevue Runs Are Discontinued in Retaliation for Probe, Charge

With the sudden taking-off of all boats between Leschi park and Bellevue on the Saturday afternoon and evening schedule, Bellevue residents declared Saturday that Capt. John L. Anderson, lessee of the county ferry system, is employing this method of retaliation for charges which have resulted in a county grand jury investigation of the whole ferry matter.

Thomas Daugherty, Bellevue farmer, chairman of the committee which caused the grand jury investigation, displayed Saturday a notice from Capt. Anderson which was posted at 5 p. m. Friday. This notice states that on Saturday afternoon, May 13, ferry service on the five afternoon and evening runs between Bellevue and Leschi park will be discontinued.

Commuters are instructed to take the ferry Leschi and ride to Medina, where they will be transferred to the Bellevue stage without additional cost.

"We are not going to let Capt. Anderson run over us like that," Daugherty declared. "As soon as we receive this notice, we chartered boats from private owners and will patronize them so long as our regular schedule is cut out."

The Bellevue citizens were unable to find out whether the new reduced schedule was for Saturday only or whether it was to be continued on subsequent days. Today's schedule leaves only two trips a day between Leschi and Bellevue. Both of these are morning runs.

Daugherty declared that curtailment of the Bellevue schedule was Capt. Anderson's first move to bring the run into liquidation, so that later he could go before the public service commission and have it abandoned.

"He may transfer passengers to the stage without additional cost," Daugherty said, "but once the Bellevue ferry run is cut off we will be paying 15 or 20 cents, instead of 10 cents, to cross the lake to our homes."

The principal witness before the grand jury, Saturday, was Olaf Carlsson, engineer on the Ferry Leschi. The grand jury was expected to recess at noon and to meet again Monday morning.

NARCOTIC BILL UP TO HARDING

Seattle's Fight Against Dope Is Finally Won

Announcement that the fight inaugurated in Seattle to strengthen federal laws designed to stamp out traffic in narcotics has been won, was contained in dispatches from Washington Saturday.

The Jones-Miller bill, fostered by the China club and the White Cross society of Seattle, and amending the Harrison anti-narcotic act to prohibit the importation of narcotics into the United States or any of its territories, has been passed by both house and senate and is now in the hands of the president. President Harding is expected to sign it without delay.

Ten years' imprisonment or $5,000 fine is the heaviest penalty prescribed under the act. Any alien convicted of violation of the act will be deported immediately after completing his term in the penitentiary.

The bill provides for the establishment of a federal narcotics board, to comprise the secretaries of state, treasury and commerce, which will be permitted to authorize, in special cases, sufficient crude opium and coca leaves for legitimate medicinal purposes.

VETERAN KILLS WIFE WITH GUN

Man Is Disarmed Attempting Suicide

PENDLETON, Ore., May 13.—Floyd E. Hall, overseas veteran, formerly with the 148th field artillery, shot and probably fatally wounded his wife, Elsie, in the Tuelle restaurant here this morning. The man was arrested before he could carry out an apparent attempt to commit suicide. He said he was suffering from shell shock.

The two had been estranged, but had patched up their domestic troubles yesterday, Hall told police. This morning he went to the restaurant, where his wife worked as a waitress. As she came to take his order he whipped out an automatic and shot her three times in the neck.

According to the police Hefner had started out for Vancouver, B. C., with five Seattle women. The women were in the machine when it was intercepted by the police and they were held at the Everett police station while their companion was returned.

OFFICER AND FUGITIVE IN AUTO CRASH

Machine Plunges Over Culvert on Way to Jail in Seattle

Facing prosecution on grand larceny charges if he recovers, Otis Hefner, 30, lay in the city hospital Saturday, paralyzed from the hips down and suffering from a possible broken back.

While being brought back to Seattle Friday night in an automobile which he was accused of stealing, the machine skidded off the Edmonds road, crashed over a high culvert and pinned Hefner beneath it.

Detective F. W. Richardson, who was in the car with Hefner, was thrown clear of the automobile and escaped with slight bruises.

Hefner is said to have driven to Seattle from Arizona this week with A. E. Lowe, 6344 51st ave. S., in Lowe's car. Friday Lowe reported his machine had been stolen and a warrant was issued for Hefner's arrest.

Within a few hours the police had located Hefner in Everett and ordered his arrest by long distance telephone. Detective Richardson, with Sgt. William G. White, was sent over to Everett to bring back the prisoner.

White drove ahead in the police car on the return trip, while Richardson followed with his prisoner in the stolen car.

They were forced to make a slight detour, which carried them up a long hill, followed by a slight drop. Just after passing the top of the hill, Hefner apparently lost control of his car and the next moment it was catapulting over the culvert.

Richardson and White were unable to remove the heavy car from Hefner and were obliged to summon assistance before they could release him. He was in a critical condition when he reached the city hospital at about midnight.

According to the police Hefner had started out for Vancouver, B. C., with five Seattle women. The women were in the machine when it was intercepted by the police and they were held at the Everett police station while their companion was returned.

FOUR SLAIN IN CHICAGO TODAY

Two Bandits and Two Citizens Are Killed

CHICAGO, May 13.—Gunnmen murdered two wealthy Italians in a barber shop here today and escaped.

Two men entered the shop of Deblino Lisacchi, brought a woman sitting in the barber chair and James Casalo was playing pool.

"You taken the one in the chair and I'll take the one shooting pool," one yelled.

Four shots were fired and the two men killed instantly. The slayers ran out and disappeared.

Both men's homes were in New Orleans. They had just arrived in Chicago from Buffalo, N. Y. Police believe the slayers trailed the men over the country to assassinate them.

A black hand feud is believed responsible for the murder.

CHICAGO, May 13.—Police turned the tables in the war with gunmen early today when two bandits were shot and killed.

"Shoot to kill" orders of Chief of Police Fitzmorris brought results when policemen killed two highwaymen.

Policeman Kearney Driscoll killed John Broda, 19, following a hold-up. Broda tried to snoot the officer, but Driscoll beat him on the draw.

An unidentified robber was shot to death by Policeman Patrick O'Connell during an attempted holdup. The officer was shot in the shoulder in the fight.

Both men were identified by men who had been robbed.
