MUSICAL CLUB OUT FOR HALL

Women Initiate Move for Civic Auditorium
With the idea toward interesting the Seattle Chamber of Commerce in the erection of a great civic hall, members of the Ladies' Musical club have authorized the appointment of a committee to call upon the chamber in the near future.
It has been suggested that the auditorium be erected on city property, thus eliminating taxation.
The movement, now being sponsored by the Ladies' Musical club, is one which has been under-current in Seattle for several months. Such an auditorium, it is declared, will make Seattle a great convention city, and will bring the greater artists of Eastern cities to the West.
Foxes, as a rule, are very spiteful.

(Quoted from a current French anti-Prohibition poster)
"Side by side they shared the barbituric of war. Today, with the same rich juice of the grape, may they work together to maintain that peace which they fought to secure."

NOT

one American in a hundred, however well educated, really knows how the rest of the world stands on the drink question. Nothing could be more timely, therefore, than the series called "The World War on Booze," by Frazier Hunt, now running in Hearst's International. Mr. Hunt went to Europe to make a personal investigation. In our November number, he definitely explodes for us the myth of France as a country of Moderate Drinking.

Men Like Gods

By H. G. WELLS
A New Novel of 2000 Years from Now

A NEW novel by the most important thinker alive today. "Men Like Gods" is vivid with Mr. Wells's imagination about the Future—no problem is too deep for him to settle. But it is also a fascinating and very entertaining adventure in the romance of science. A simple Englishman, driving his little automobile in the outskirts of London, runs off the road and into the Seventh Dimension. The things that happen in that Seventh Dimension are what the Germans would call "kolossal." One of the three great novels in Hearst's International for November.

Why Ireland Made Up with England

ANOTHER year of warfare with the British forces and Ireland would no longer have been able to grow its own food. Michael Collins—the Abraham Lincoln of Ireland—saw no use in throwing away a population to gain a government. To Carl W. Ackerman, the only American in his confidence, he gave his dream of Ireland's future. See Hearst's International for November.

Doctors and Drug Mongers

NO part of education is more important than how to keep well. Paul H. De Kruij, Ph. D. has resigned from Rockefeller Institute to devote his energies to making clear to the public what is unsound among medical claims. His contributions to Hearst's International are of permanent value, not only to the medical profession but to every home. This month Dr. De Kruij speaks frankly about Syphilis; a devastating disease with, nevertheless, a certain cure.

Her Biggest Thrill Was in Meeting Sweetheart

Woman Makes Bid for Prize; All Women Are Eligible

By Wanda von Kettler
They're beginning to pile up—these letters telling of "Greatest Moments." Already it is necessary to gaze upon the envelopes with their stories inclosed and query: "Hum—now, which of all these should best see print today?" For each day, as said previously, some one of the letters submitted will be published in the columns of The Star.
Anybody who now isn't quite clear in regard to the details of the contest?
In case some such somebody exists, we shall take space enough, before submitting today's essay, to present at little who, what, why and when outline.
Who? The Seattle Star, Palace Hip theater and thou, provided thou art a woman.
What? The contest—"The Greatest Moment" contest—in which every woman is invited to participate. She is asked to send an essay of not more than 100 words, entitled, "My Greatest Moment," to the Greatest Moment Contest Editor of The Star, thus naming herself as a candidate for one of the two prizes to be awarded November 4. The first prize is $20, the second $10. To each person whose essay is published in The Star will be given two complimentary passes to the Palace Hip.
Why? The contest? Oh, just because of the coming of a picture, "The Fatal Marriage," at the Palace Hip, suggested it.
When? Right now. It began Monday, and will continue until November 2. The winning contestants will be announced two days later.
That being completed, we will now

submit the essay chosen for today's publication:
"My great moment," the essay reads, "came when at 17 years of age I met my first sweetheart. My home life had been very unhappy, so I awakened to real love.
"He was an orphan, so had been without a home since a little boy. He came to my home town in Minnesota. We met one Sunday at church and after that day we were the happiest couple on earth.
"We were married six months later, and soon saved enough from his pay to buy a home. We have been married 18 years and are still the same happy couple.
"MRS. H. D. M., Seattle."

DR. WILLIAM K. MCKIBBEN will discuss "Narcotics, a Menace to the World, and the Way to Suppress It" at the Western Bible Chateau, Tabernacle, Fourth Ave. and Lenora st., Wednesday night.

There are fewer than 5,000 children in the Sunday schools in all Spain.

Sensible, Thinking Women

no longer doubt the efficacy of that old-fashioned root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, because it relieves the ailment to which they are afflicted. In almost every neighborhood there are living witnesses of its wonderful effects. Therefore, if you doubt its value or power to help you, ask your neighbor. In nine times out of ten she has been benefited by its use or knows someone who has. It will pay you to give this root and herb medicine a trial.—Advertisement.

The Great French Light Wine Fallacy

NOT one American in a hundred, however well educated, really knows how the rest of the world stands on the drink question. Nothing could be more timely, therefore, than the series called "The World War on Booze," by Frazier Hunt, now running in Hearst's International. Mr. Hunt went to Europe to make a personal investigation. In our November number, he definitely explodes for us the myth of France as a country of Moderate Drinking.

Her Own Life

By ROBERT HERRICK
A Novel of a Modern Woman's Search for Freedom

THE moral education of women is a subject we have no right to avoid merely because it is difficult to discuss. In his new novel starting in Hearst's International, Mr. Herrick has faced the problem frankly. With firm and elevating hand he takes Lilla Vance, a girl without a father and practically without a mother, and shows how—step by step, over rough places—she works out her own life. For older girls—for some men, married and unmarried—for all mothers and fathers—a story to weigh most carefully—is Robert Herrick's new novel just starting.

By the Author of "If Winter Comes"

WHILE the critics still battle over "This Freedom," A. S. M. Hutchinson's last book, "If Winter Comes" continues a best seller on at least three continents. Read his new story, "The Return of the Swordman" in Hearst's International for November. It is only one of the eight sparkling short stories you will find in the November issue.

The Other Henry Ford

NORMAN HAPGOOD reaches—in one of the eight splendid articles in November—the final stage of his "Inside Story of Henry Ford's Jew-Mania"—the use of the vast Ford sales agent system to distribute a personal message of intolerance. Next month begins the other side of the story. In the "Intimate Life of Henry Ford," Allan L. Benson starts a compelling biography of the picturesque details of the great manufacturer's business and personal life.

The Screen

LIBERTY

Wallace Reid, popular Paramount star, is seen to excellent advantage at the Liberty theater this week, when he plays the part of a young American who undertakes to clear a Spanish castle of ghosts. The picture is "The Ghost Breaker," and it fully lives up to all that is claimed for it. Exciting situations follow each other in swift succession. The star is supported by Lila Lee and Walter Hiers.

COLISEUM

Katherine MacDonald as Susanne Danbury, a successful novelist, who is playing at the Coliseum this week in "Heroes and Husbands" is drawing large crowds. The picture portrays the story of Susanne's rise to success, and one of the exciting incidents in the picture is the shooting of Demis, a publisher, which for a time casts a shroud of suspicion over Susanne.

STRAND

Bebe Daniels, beautiful Paramount star, is featured in the new Paramount picture, "Pink Gods," which is showing this week at the Strand. She is cast opposite James Kirkwood, who plays the part of John Quoloh, an African diamond merchant. Miss Daniels and Mr. Kirkwood have many opportunities to demonstrate their ability to carry off an emotional scene successfully. The picture, directed by Penrhyn Stanlaws, is not overdone, and proves unusually interesting. Anna Q. Nilsson and Raymond Hatton are well cast.

BLUE MOUSE

The immediate reason for Larry Semon deciding that "Golf," which is showing at the Blue Mouse, should be made is the result of the comedian's entry to the golf enthusiast ranks. For several months Semon and most of his company have been regular habitués of the golf links in and about Los Angeles. Semon not only talked and played golf, but dreamed it as well. His valet declares that Larry cries "Fore" when awakening.

COLUMBIA

Sets rivaling "Foolish Wives" in their range of architecture and beauty are seen in "Under Two Flags," as the background for stirring scenes of Ouida's undying tale of love and war. "Under Two Flags" is the Universal Jewel attraction at the Columbia theater, starring Priscilla Dean, and directed by Tod Browning; the same combination responsible for the great

Wallace Reid

"The Ghost Breaker," playing at the Liberty this week with Wallace Reid, carries the hero to a haunted castle in sunny Spain.

COLONIAL

"The Trap," a strong story of the North woods, starring Lon Chaney, which comes to the colonial on Thursday for an engagement of two days, is unique in having one of the most remarkable casts of any recent production. In this picture, Gaspard, played by Chaney, is a simple, lovable French Canadian trapper, who goes about the world with a song in his heart and on his lips. Then enters Benson, an American adventurer, who ruthlessly steals Gaspard's mine and sweet-heart without the slightest knowledge of the danger he invites in awakening the fires or hate in the heart of the simple trapper. As he had loved with all his heart, so now he hates with equal fervor. He becomes a wolf in human form and step by step wreaks vengeance on the man he hates. The climax comes with a rush, and under Chaney's deft touch of artistry, lifts a great story into a masterpiece.

WINTER GARDEN

Johnnie Walker, who is co-starring with Edna Murphy in the Fox photoplay, "Extra Extra" which is showing at the Winter Garden, this week, plays the part of a youthful reporter. To enhance the realism, in making this drama of newspaper life, Director William K. Howard engaged a half a dozen real newspaper men in Los Angeles to help supervise the scenes showing an editorial room in full operation.

PRINCESS

Ralph Lewis, who plays the part of Patrolman Pat O'Hara in "In the Name of the Law," now the featured attraction at the Princess theater, is not easily frightened. He admits, however, that he was under a "spell" when he undertook the task of directing the traffic in Market st., one of the busiest thoroughfares in San Francisco, for almost an hour to obtain a necessary scene for the production.

HOWLAND AND BERG ON OLYMPIC BILL

With Ted Howland and Phil Berg in the comedy spotlight, "Stop Luke and Listen," their first Seattle presentation at the Olympic, starting today. This clever team of comedians will have the support of the entire cast in the new bill, which is heralded as one continuous laugh. The unusual number of comedians selected from the latest output of the publishers' market will be presented by the chorus. Elsie Broesche will be seen in the leading feminine role.

Hobo Head Sues to Collect His Salary

CINCINNATI, Oct. 25.—Charles Kruse, former president of the International Brotherhood of Hoboes, sued his organization for 146 weeks' salary, $1,460, here today.
Kruse sets forth that as president he was to receive $10 a week, and that in the face of frequent demands his salary has not been paid.

Missing Bicycle Is Soon Returned

"Oh, Mrs. Smith, what was the matter with your James last night? I passed him on the street and he seemed heartbroken about something. He is usually so cheerful."
"Yes, the poor boy has been downhearted since yesterday noon. Someone stole his bicycle while he was in school and he missed it when he came out at lunch time. To make matters worse, he has been saving up his small earnings to buy himself a new suit, and of course, he thought he would have to buy a new bicycle instead. You know, he rides his wheel to school and he would have to walk a considerable distance to the car line if he had to do without."
"Well, that is too bad. Does he have any idea who took it?"
"No, but I was going to tell you that someone returned it to the place he usually leaves it while in school. You should see him today. He is all smiles. Now he can buy his new clothes."
"I'll bet he is tickled. A bicycle means as much to a youngster as an automobile does to a grown-up. Speaking of boys' clothing, why don't you send Jimmie to Cherry's at 1015 Second Ave., on the 2nd floor of the Riato Bldg., right over the Pig's Whistle, for his new suit? They have wonderful values in boys' clothing, and the beauty of buying there is that they extend credit to responsible parties."—Advertisement.

Bad Mexicans of Movies Are Taboo

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 25.—The Mexican bad man has been barred from American films, Bernon Woodie, personal representative of Will Hays, supreme ruler of movie-dom, announced here today. Elimination of the Mexican villain was ordered to promote more cordial relations between the government of the United States and Mexico, Woodie said. He made his decision after a conference with President Oregon.
