SEATTLE, WASH., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1922.

TWO CENTS IN SEATTLE

Howdy, folks! Vote for the best man—even if he is a lady!

Defeated candidates can keep warm this winter by burning their unused campaign literature.

The golden rod is yellow. The corn is turning brown. The candidate's voice is mellow. He speaks all over town.

Today's addition to the Poison Ivy club is the gink who is too lazy to vote.

STEP UP, GENTS

Our vote for senator goes to the candidate whose platform has these planks:

1. Law to limit the carrying capacity of one-man cars to one man.
2. High tariff on toothpicks, Russian boots and peep pants.
3. Electrocuting of eloquence.
4. Removal of the scent of the tideflats to a less conspicuous place.
5. Deportation of all vaudeville actors and trained fleas.
6. Law to compel sport editors to speak English.

Three bakers in Seattle have lowered the price of bread. Now it will be easier to raise the dough.

With amateur gardeners reporting all kinds of fruits and flowers blossoming a second time, it may yet become necessary to sing, "The Last Rose of Summer, It's Blooming Again."

The world is so full of oddities and things that folks as a rule are sorry for kings.

Lil' Gee Gee, th' office vamp, sez she feels like a million marks—30 cents.

LITERARY NOTE

"The Locusts," The Star's new serial, has its scenes laid in 1945, but no mention is made of the first war, paving having been completed.

Reggie Fitzhugh, the rollicking collegian, says that when his sweetie drops her handkerchief while dancing he never picks it up. It may be her dress.

The trouble with ex-Kaiser Wilhelm is that he is suffering from hardening of the arteries and softening of the brain.

It was all right for the Kaiser to proclaim himself emperor and king in his wedding decree. So long as he doesn't usurp the title of kaiser our honor is not touched.

THE BENEFITS OF CIVILIZATION

Steamer Victoria brought a ton of Alaskan gold to Seattle yesterday. This is enough to supply 14,567 prizefighters with gold teeth.

A guy we feel we must condemn is Reggie Blankenship Hook; he's for all his enterprises unless it hits HIS pocketbook.

"Mental cruelty" is the newest basis for a divorce action. It is mental cruelty to ask your husband to remember to bring home a spoon of thread.

"Attorneys for Hammer Woman Will Mead Insanity," says a headline in the Santa Monica (Cal.) Outlook. Every man for himself.

MOTOR MAXIMS
Still motors run sweet. While there's gas there's hope. To speed is human; to get caught is fine.

Spin and the world spins with you; stall and you stall alone.

Reggie Fitzhugh, the rollicking collegian, says he could dance perfectly but for two things—his feet.

Few men applaud the wife who gets the best of her husband in a motion picture play.

Yesterday we asked the pretty waitress at Meves, "How's the chicken today?" "Oh, I'm all right," she blushed. "How are you?"

Now for a pistachio sundae and a brisk walk thru the alley.

The Four Big Points to Remember When Voting

To Vote FOR Dill for U. S. Senator

It is a clear-cut issue—Dill, progressive and independent, vs. Poindexter, reactionary. If you are weary of Lodge-Newberry-Smoot control in the senate, vote for Dill.

To Vote FOR Poll Tax Repeal. (No. 40)

Two years ago the legislature passed the law imposing this most arbitrary, unequal and unjust tax; passed it against the people's wishes. Now is your chance to wipe that tax off the books forever. The main point to remember is that a "For" vote on the initiative is a vote against the tax.

To Vote FOR 30-10 Measure (No. 46)

This is the bill that equalizes the school funds so that the child in the poor district gains a more equal opportunity for public school education as compared with the child in the rich district; that is all there is to the measure. The cry that it will increase taxes is dust to deceive the voters.

To Vote AGAINST Referendums 14 and 15

These measures would force every voter to register as a member of a party, forbid his voting in a primary unless he does so label himself and otherwise greatly strengthen the party machinery at the expense of the citizen.

Be Sure to Read S. B. H. Hurst's Great Story of the Jap Invasion

THE LOCUSTS BY S. B. H. HURST

Author of "Coomer All" Copyright, 1922, Seattle Star

The foreword introduces us to a sipper of tea in faraway Japan, who sits in his home and directs the conquest of the United States. It is a peaceful conquest, made under the law and without violence. It is made possible by the American law, which gives citizenship to Japanese children born in this country, even though their parents cannot be naturalized. These "American citizens," the first of whom are coming of age now, are concentrating their efforts on the Columbia basin—which is presumed to have been reclaimed under the "reclaiming plan." And, acting on orders from the sipper of tea, they are well on the road to complete supremacy in the great inland empire that white ingenuity had salvaged from the desert.

The story opens in 1945, the scene being laid in the Columbia basin. The Columbia Basin project has been carried thru and a million and a quarter acres have been transformed into fertile farm land, just as was dreamed in 1922. But Americans have not profited. One by one they have been driven out by the Japs of American citizenship, until now only two families remain—

JOHN HAMMOND, a veteran of the world war, and CARLSON, his neighbor. Carlson's son, JACK CARLSON, is engaged to Hammond's daughter, MARY HAMMOND. Jack and Mary are walking together in Neppel. UREN TAKAHIRA, eldest son of TAKAHIRA, the Japanese boss of the community, makes insulting faces at Mary. Jack strikes him in the nose, knocking him down, and is immediately arrested for assault, the authorities holding that the Jap was seriously hurt. Mary rushes to her father and together they call on Carlson, Sr. He is in poor health and the blow kills him. Hammond and his daughter then go to see TOM JENKINS, a white attorney.

Arriving in Neppel—after phoning the state, section 5 crematory—Hammond and his daughter encountered the inevitable "Extra" newspapers. They read the largest of headlines: "Youth murdered." "Carlson makes good threats!" And then the astounded couple read:

7 OUT OF 8 WERE JAPS, NONE WHITE

ARRESTS DUE IN CHURCH MURDER

Man and Woman Will Be Charged

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 7.—Special Prosecutor Mott will take the Hall-Mills murder case before the grand jury Friday, and ask the indictment of a man and woman on first degree murder charges. Detective Mason, his investigator, told the United Press today.

"New evidence corroborating the story of Mrs. Jane Gibson (eyewitness) is being secured daily," Mason said. "We have only a few minor bits of evidence to gather and will be ready to go before the grand jury Friday if the jury is ready to receive evidence then.

"Valuable information was obtained from Barbara Tough and Louise Glesse, maids in the Hall home, when they were questioned today."

PLOT SEEN AT POLLS!

WAR THREAT IN NEAR EAST

Allies Alarmed by New Menace of Turk Leaders

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Lord Derby, minister of war in the Bonar Law cabinet, was summoned hurriedly to London today in connection with the Near East crisis. The interruption of Lord Derby's speaking tour was considered a sign that the cabinet views as extremely grave the menace at Constantinople.

The war office today prepared to rush reinforcements to the Near East while diplomatic circles hinted at the hidden hand of Russian bolshevism behind Mustafa Kemal's bold move. Dispatches from Moscow and Petrograd show that the demands of the Russian-Trotsky and the Anglo government are identical as to passage of allied naval vessels thru the straits and suppression of capitulations.

Official circles in London, Paris and Rome presented a solid front against the Turks. French diplomats, seeing a possible collapse of their nation's Near East policy, were plainly more worried than those of other nations.

An emergency meeting of the British cabinet was held and a message from General Harrington at Constantinople was considered.

PANIC SWEEPS TURK CAPITAL

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7.—Consternation reigned in foreign quarters of Constantinople today as Turkish nationalist military forces advanced close to the harbor with barricades of British forces at Chausk.

The Kemalists served notice that the British would not be allowed to advance beyond the three-mile neutral limit.

Gen. Harrington, British commander, promptly entered a sharp protest to the Turkish commander following this maneuver.

Disorders accompanied the panic in Constantinople coincident with the city's seizure by Kemalist civil authorities and the menacing attitude of the Moslem military.

Four British soldiers were stabbed in street fighting. Greeks fled toward Saloniki, fearing unprecedented massacres. Turkish nationalists further violated the armistice agreement signed with the allies at Mudania by attempting to enforce new tariff laws at Constantinople. Last night they closed the (Turn to page 7, Column 5)

82 DIE IN MINE, IS LAST REPORT

65 Bodies Recovered From Shaft Wreck

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 7.—The death toll at the Reilly mine, Spangler has been unofficially fixed at 82 with 33 injured, several of them so badly that they may die. Sixty-five bodies have been recovered.

Fifty-seven have been identified and it is believed that 17 are still in the mine, the most authoritative figures showing that 118 entered the death mine yesterday morning.

Three escaped uninjured. Of the eight bodies still unidentified, it is believed that several may never be recognized by relatives.

Vote for Duncan, Douglas Advises

"Politics forms strange alliances. If you can't vote for Poindexter for the United States senate," Prosecuting Attorney Malcolm Douglas told a street crowd at Second ave. and Union st., Monday noon, "don't vote for Dill—cast your ballot for Jimmy Duncan."

Duncan was leader of the Seattle general strike, and is a radical farm-laborite.

Another New Low for German Mark

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The German mark reached the unprecedented low of 35,500 to the pound on the London exchange today. Par for the mark is about 25 to the pound.

Wholesale Arrests on Program?

Democrats Charge Republicans With Attempting to Intimidate Their Workers at Election Places

Belief that wholesale arrests of minority party watchers at the polls was contemplated by the republican party workers was expressed at democratic county headquarters Tuesday after one of their challengers had been the victim of alleged attempted intimidation.

W. R. Allen, democratic watcher in precinct No. 271, at Youngstown, reported to his headquarters that a man by the name of Soule, wearing a special deputy sheriff's badge, tried to arrest him after Allen had insisted on inspecting the voting machine before it was thrown open to the voters.

"I was refused permission to look at the machine, and see that everything was all right," Allen said. "I looked, anyhow, and saw what I wanted, as was my privilege. Then this man Soule said, 'You are under arrest.'"

"I told him to show me a warrant. He then called the prosecuting attorney's office, and they told him not to do anything about it until after 4 o'clock."

VOTING LIGHT IN SEATTLE

With the early voting reported generally lighter than usual, election officials Tuesday were preparing to handle increasing crowds as the day progressed.

In one precinct, it was reported by County Auditor D. E. Ferguson, a man who ordinarily was the 16th to 20th voter, and who always votes at about the same hour, Tuesday was number six.

At the same time, a brisk run was noted in precinct No. 158, which has its polling place in the county-city building.

By noon, party leaders declared, they would have their voters out in greater numbers, and from mid-afternoon to the closing hour the booths were expected to be crowded.

With both democrats and republicans claiming victory, the campaign which has held Washington in its grip for the last couple of months, came to a close at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, when the polls opened and voting began.

It is a more important election than the state has seen since the presidential campaign two years ago. In addition to electing a United States senator, five congressmen, an entire house of representatives and half of a senate in the state legislature, all executive officers and four state supreme court judges, the people of the state will vote on two initiative measures, four referendums and three constitutional amendments.

Probably the most important of all measures candidates to be voted on is initiative measure No. 40, providing for the repeal of the poll tax. A vote FOR this is a vote AGAINST the poll tax. Next on the ballot is the 30-10 initiative, described as No. 46. A vote for this initiative is a vote in favor of a more equitable system of distributing school expenses.

The four referendum measures provide an opportunity to pass (Turn to Page 7, Column 3)

BETTING LIGHT AT POLLS

Tuesday's election was marked by a remarkable scarcity of gambling. Many of the cigar and pool rooms, where election betting is usually heavy, were unable to post a single wager, and there were few takers for the little money that was offered.

Virtually no bets were recorded on the results proper, all of the gamblers electing instead to bet on majorities. As far as the gamblers went, Poindexter's election seemed to be conceded—albeit the odds have been decreasing with Dill's surprising last-minute showing of strength. A few days ago betting was even that Poindexter would win by 50,000. This figure had been cut down to 20,000 by Tuesday morning, and some bets were recorded on a 10,000 plurality.

Outside of the senatorial campaign betting seemed to be confined to some of the initiative and referendum measures and to the county ticket.

Betting was even on all initiatives and referendums.

There were a few small bets offered at one to two that Prosecuting Attorney Malcolm Douglas would lead the ticket in King county. Betting was even that Sheriff Matt Starwich would lead the ticket.

LABOR FOR "OWN PEOPLE" In Washington. The outlook for a progressive victory is bright if the workers of America will vote for their own best interests," declares "Labor," official organ of the 16 railroad labor organizations, whose editor is former Congressman Edward Keating of Colorado.

PUBLIC OPINION SPEAKING BY LAWRENCE MARTIN NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The great American jury today registered its verdict on the work of those who have controlled the nation's political destiny the past two years, and expressed its judgment concerning the control to be exercised for the coming two years.

With the opening of the polls this morning, the "off-year" congressional election was under way. The entire membership of the house of representatives—435—was to be elected, and 34 United States senators. Thirty-three governors, many state legislatures and a host of state, county and municipal officials were to be chosen. Election day found leaders of the republican party, swept into power
