THANK YOU.

With the closing of 1899, the cold blasts of winter being upon us we have more or less time to stop and reflect over the whole year, a seemingly short 12 months. In taking my inventory I find a small balance to the good, for my labors performed. I wish to assure each and every one of my patrons that my good trade was not occasioned by any one, but from all; and we sincerely hope fruits and harvests gathered by you to be rich and wholesome. The patronage from each of you went largely to the showing of business enjoyed by me this year, and individually I thank you all. Health being with me during 1900, I shall be found at my same place, ever watchful for opportunities whereby I can serve my many customers and myself with pleasing results, realizing that satisfaction in business is the best and cheapest advertisement, and I shall in the future as in the past endeavor to serve you to the best of my ability. Earnestly appreciating your past favors and hoping to be entrusted with a continuance during the ensuing year, and with a happy New Year to all, I remain

Yours, Truly,

DeWitt's Little Early Risers purify the blood, clean the liver, invigorate the system. Famous little pills for constipation and liver troubles. Wamberg & Jacobson.

To run a paper without occasionally publishing an item that is detrimental to some persons is like running a railroad without having accidents or mishaps. To do either is a physical impossibility. No man on earth is so great an extent constantly at the mercy of both friends and enemies as an editor of a newspaper. He must get much of the information concerning transpiring events second or third handed, or not at all. Frequently statements are received from supposed trustworthy sources which are subsequently found to be without foundation. Not one editor in a thousand willfully injures either a friend or foe by misrepresentation. Go to him and ask for a correction, and in nine cases out of ten, if your case is just, you will be received politely and proper correction will be made with pleasure.
