Adulterated and Misbranded Food Product

I, E. F. Ladd, chemist of the North Dakota government agricultural experiment station, and food commissioner for North Dakota, do certify that the list of food products and beverages herein specified have been analyzed during the six months preceding July 1st, 1906, and the same found to be adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the pure food law, as shown in each individual case.
I further affirm that this is a true and correct list to the best of my knowledge. —E. F. LADD, Chemist and Food Commissioner.
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 2d day of July, 1906, Fargo, North Dakota.
—CLAUDE E. NUGENT,
Notary Public, Cass County.

A Miracle Explained.
William and John were telling about miracles. William said, "Why, just the other day a man dropped 250 feet and survived."
"How impossible," said John, "Tell me about it. That surely was a miracle."
"Well, it was just like this," William continued, "they were pig's feet, and he had them in a basket."
No Sale.
"Can't I sell you a painless corn cure, madam?" said the peddler.
"No, you can't," snapped the woman of the house. "I have no painless corns."
Then the door shut with a sudden slam.

Buried by the Public.
In some cantons of Switzerland all the dead, rich as well as poor, are buried at the public expense.
Extravagance for the Dead.
Burial customs were once modest with our people. But complicated and costly living appears to have made simple dying impossible, remarks the New York Mail. We run to weak ostentation in the surroundings and trappings of mortality. It is necessary to obtain this, to purchase that; it is the only good form, nothing else will do. It is the consideration of the living that we think about, not the simple respect due the dead. We forget that the costlier the earthly memorial we erect the shallower may be the record that we cut upon the tablets of our hearts.
