

COLONEL MAKES AN INVASION OF THE SOLID SOUTH

Tells People of Louisiana to Get Away From Their Political Traditions—Speaks of Tariff.

New Orleans, Sept. 27.—The political solidarity of the south, Roosevelt said today, was retarding progress. In a speech in New Orleans late today he planned to say the south's problems cannot be met as they should be unless the "solid south" is broken up, because as long as it gives unbroken support to the Democratic party it cannot receive consideration in the affairs of the government. The Progressive party, a non-sectional organization, offered the opportunity which he believes the south will take to get away from political tradition. At Hammond, La., Colonel Roosevelt told the people that the passage of the Democratic bill to abolish the protective tariff on sugar should be the first step if the Democrats should win, the sugar industry of the country would be imperiled.

POSTAL INSPECTOR OF WEST UNDER ARREST

Cleveland, Sept. 27.—It was learned last night that Postal Inspector Clement is on the Pacific coast with warrants for James and R. F. McNicholas, brothers, charged with having used the mails wrongfully in promoting mines in Oregon and Idaho.

Warrants were issued recently by United States Commissioner Duest and placed in the hands of Postal Inspector Edland, who started at once for Portland.

The affidavit on which the warrants were issued said that M. B. Dewey of Connecticut, O., received by mail false information regarding the old channel hydraulic mines company, with property near Galice, Ore. The brothers are said to have sold stock in several other mines in the west during a period of eight years. They maintained offices in Cleveland until two years ago. After stock had been sold in six gold and three lead mining companies for a total, it is said, of $1,000,000 dividends ceased, stockholders aver, and an attorney was sent to Oregon to investigate the properties. His report was turned over to the post office department.

BLISS TO TESTIFY BEFORE COMMITTEE

Washington, Sept. 27.—Senator Clapp, chairman of the senate campaign fund committee, today received a telegram from Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., saying he would be in Washington Monday prepared to testify when the committee resumes its hearing. He will be questioned as to any papers bearing on campaign contributions left by his father, treasurer of the Republican national committee in 1904. The elder Bliss is said to have received a $10,000 contribution from the Standard Oil company to Roosevelt's campaign fund. Archbold told the committee he paid the money in cash.

After the horse was stopped and before medical aid arrived, some one stole her gold watch and purse containing $17.

GREAT ARMADA OF AEROPLANES OF FRANCE REVIEWED

Minister of War Watches Maneuvers of Fleet—To Keep France in Lead in Aviation.

Paris, Sept. 27.—The first review ever held of a complete aeroplane armada took place this morning at Villacoublay, near Paris. Seventy-two French army flying machines, with their full complements of pilots and observers, and the attached party of motor trucks bringing supplies therefor, passed in review before the French minister of war, Alexandre Millerand. The armaments and their craft had just returned from the great army maneuvers at which they had achieved many triumphs. M. Millerand made a speech in which he dwelt on his and the nation's determination to keep France in the forefront of aviation.

An extraordinary spectacle was presented at the conclusion of the review, when 20 aeroplanes rose in a flock, circled a few moments over the parade ground and then sped eastward to resume their stations on the German frontier.

JURY VISITS THE SLAUGHTERHOUSE FOR INSPECTION

Judge McCarthy Delivers Instructions and Final Arguments in Libel Suit Begun

After giving the jury in the Central Dressed Meat company libel case against the Capital News an opportunity to visit the slaughterhouse this forenoon, Judge McCarthy gave his instructions on the law in the case at 2 o'clock and at 3:35 argument was begun, Attorney Gibson addressing the jury first on behalf of the plaintiff company. An agreement was reached whereby the argument should be limited to an hour and a quarter on each side so that the case will finally be submitted to the jury shortly after 5 o'clock this evening, if the program is carried out.

The instructions given by Judge McCarthy were exhaustive upon the law of libel and were considered very fair. In addition to laws bearing upon libel he instructed the jury as to the laws governing the conduct of slaughterhouses and the care of meat and manufactured food products from animals. He stated the case to the jury and outlined the accusations made in the article which was made the basis of the suit in which it was charged that the premises were insanitary; that the offal was not tanned; that offal was run into the river; that animals were slaughtered which had been without food for 48 hours and without water for 20 hours and others, which he told the jury, if true, constituted misdemeanors. He set forth that the defendant had alleged as its defense, the truth of its statements and then said:

"In proving the truth of each of the charges above-mentioned it is sufficient that the defendant prove so much of the defamatory matter therein as constitutes the sting of the charge. It is unnecessary to repeat and justify every word of the alleged defamatory matter if the substance of the charge be justified. If the substantial imputations be proved true, a slight inaccuracy in the details will not change the complexion of the affair so as to affect the reader of the article differently than the actual truth would."

Preponderance Necessary.
The judge also told the jury that it was unnecessary to prove the commission of the alleged crimes imputed to the plaintiff beyond a reasonable doubt but merely by a preponderance of the testimony. He explained compensatory and punitive damages which the jury might find in accordance with whether there was actual malice or not and said:

"If you find that the sting of all the statements contained in said article mentioned in these instructions as being libelous on their face are substantially true, as herein explained, then your verdict should be for the defendant."

"By the sting of the libel I mean the injurious effect upon the plaintiff and its business made by the libelous impression created by the libelous statement and by the sting of the libel I mean that essential part of it which creates such impression and thus produces such effect. The defendant must prove the truth of such essential part of the libel, but, if it does so, it need not prove the truth of any detail, which would not vary, change or add to, the effect and impression created by such essential part."

Bucket of Maggots.
With a bucket of burned offal containing maggots taken from the offal pile of the Central Dressed Meat company to rebut its claim that the offal built by it entirely consumed offal and refuse thrown upon this pile and that there were no maggots in the pile, offered in evidence by the defendant, the Capital News, in the libel case against the meat company against the publishing company, the introduction of evidence in that case was speedily brought to a close yesterday afternoon. Judge McCarthy reserved his ruling upon whether the bucket of burned meat and maggots should be admitted as evidence.

The bucket of putrid and burned meat with its numerous maggots was secured by the same reporter who had written the original article which caused the suit to be filed and a committee consisting of City Building Inspector Hammond, I. A. Jarvis, the real estate dealer and Charles L. Davis of South Bolge, who went out the day before to make certain measurements and to ascertain what condition the slaughterhouse premises are now in. It had been stated by a number of witnesses in behalf of the plaintiff that there were no maggots in the offal pile. This evidence was given by some of the committee that inspected the premises on behalf of the plaintiff company and the bucket of putrid and burned meat with its maggots was offered as the best sort of evidence to rebut this evidence.

F. G. Taylor was called. He visited the slaughterhouse yesterday with Mr. White and Dr. Smith, deputy health officers; Mr. Hammond, city building inspector; Mr. Jarvis, a real estate man and Mr. Davis. He said the offal pile is now considerably smaller by reason of being burned but they measured it with steel tape and found it now to be 17x26 feet. He said he found maggots still there and produced a bucketful which he said he took from the offal pile. This bucket was marked "Exhibit F." The witness said he had also included portions of flashy refuse which he had picked up with the maggots. Attorney Crow said he did not care to open the bucket and present it to the jury just at that time.

The witness said he was at the lard house also yesterday and found the lard in apparently the same condition as upon his first visit. He said he brought with him a bucket of the lard which he presented and it was introduced in evidence. The bucket bore the label of the company as "Lard" and the top of the lard was nearly covered with mice droppings and dirt and showed that it had been eaten into by mice.

Measured the Distances.
He said he measured the distance to where the branch stream joined the main street and found it to be 2680 feet, or about one-half mile.

Dr. M. W. Smith was next called. On Aug. 26 he went out with the state chemist, the state bacteriologist and Mr. White. He found the yard had been cleaned up of dead chickens, the floor of the slaughterhouse had been cleaned, although the slaughtering tools had not been cleaned. The chute had been cleaned and the hog hides removed. He said they found animal matter below the chute and took samples of water but this evidence was not admitted.

He also went out the same evening with Mr. Wallis, Mr. White, Mr. Safely and Mr. Crow. The offal pile was in the same condition except it had been burned over a little on top. They found maggots and saw the chickens eating the maggots. He said he dug down into the hog vat and that time and dug up hairs and animal refuse. There were not as many flies that day as there were on the former occasion. The premises were about the same as on the 15th except there had been no killing done since and the slaughterhouse had been generally slicked up. He gave evidence directly contradictory to certain denials made by Mrs. Bradford, declaring she had said she had been trying to get feed for the hogs and that she had had trouble to get the meat company to move the offal pile. She also said that the meat company scraped the dirty part off the lard cans, filled them up with fresh lard and took them to town to sell and she had seen them do it.

He said C. Lee French had not emptied the water from the tub in the cattle pen, as Mrs. Bradford had testified.

W. L. Hammond Called.
W. L. Hammond, city building inspector, was called. He visited the slaughterhouse yesterday. He visited the offal pile. He found maggots crawling through the offal and they took a stick and put some of the offal and maggots in a bucket. He identified the bucket heretofore introduced as the one containing the offal and maggots.

He said they measured the distance from the slaughterhouse to the mouth of the branch of the river and the distance was 2686 feet. He told of the condition of the lard in the lard house with mice droppings and other dirt and identified the bucket introduced. He said the screen on the door was broken and had holes through which flies could enter. The conditions around the bunk house were not good. The hog yard had no grass whatever in it. He said he went at the request of Mr. Veatch.

I. A. Jarvis, a real estate dealer, was called. He visited the slaughterhouse yesterday. The offal pile was about 22 or 23 feet square and maybe 30 feet square. It had maggots in it. He identified the bucket of maggots introduced as a bucket filled at that time. The screen was partly off to the south side of the lard house. He told of the condition of the lard in the lard house. Some were fairly clean while there were very dirty. He noticed dead flies and mice refuse about the lard house.

BIG CREAMERY PLANT WILL BE BUILT HERE

Plans are completed and within a week work is to be started on a $40,000 creamery to be built on a block on South Ninth street for the Jensen Creamery company, which is a Salt Lake company operating a chain of creameries in Utah and Idaho.

Mr. Jensen, head of the creamery company, who has been in Boise several days investigating conditions here, announced his plans last night for building one of the finest creameries in the northwest in Boise on South Ninth street in the wholesale district. The building is to be built of Boise white pressed brick and will be two stories high with a full basement. Plans for the building have been drawn for some time and while it was not originally the intention of the company to start operation until next spring, it was found that the present quarters at Fifth and Idaho were inadequate and it was decided to begin operations at once in order to have the building completed by the first of the year. An order for the most modern machinery for the building was ordered today to be delivered here early in January.

BOISE CHOIR GIVEN PRIZE AT FESTIVAL

Boise captured the second prize of $50 in a contest with choirs and songsters at the Harvest Festival at Nampa yesterday. According to those who returned late last night, the choir here came within a small margin of taking the $100 gold first prize away from Caldwell.

Each of the entries appointed a judge while a third was picked from a city that was not entered in the final contest. They were Fred Norris of Boise, E. P. Brawn of Emmett and Professor Beale of Caldwell.

The Boise choir consisted of F. N. Norris, director; soprano, Mrs. S. D. Feldler, Mrs. W. O. King, Miss Ethel L. Bruce, Miss Anna P. Compton, Miss Lucy Lane; contraltos, Mrs. Frank S. FAKE POLITICAL STORY IS GIVEN A STRONG DENIAL Judge King Flatly States That Fred T. Dubois Has Not Been Placed in Charge of Campaign.

The persistency with which false political stories are being published in a morning paper in this city for the purpose of creating dissension and causing friction within the rank and file of the Democratic party, and then refusing to publish the facts even when they are placed in its hands, has so aroused the ire of those in charge of the national and state campaigns of that party, that a sweeping denial is made to the fake reports, especially the one purporting to show that ex-United States Senator Fred T. Dubois has been actively in charge in either directing or assisting in directing the national committee in the western states.

Will R. King, chairman of the campaign committee of the Pacific and Intermountain states, working under the direction of the national Democratic committee, was given complete charge of the campaign work in the western territory. This story acted as a denial to the report that had been published in a morning paper here that Mr. Dubois had been placed in charge. It was received by the Statesman and the Capital News and was only published in the Capital News. In fact of this report, stories still continued to be printed that Mr. Dubois was active in the management of the western campaign.

Sweeping Denial Entered.
In a telegram from Mr. King a straight out and out denial is made of this report. To Democrats over the state its contents will unquestionably set at rest all fake political reports with reference to the Dubois issue, that have been or may be published by the discredited paper. It is as follows:

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 26, 1912.
"Evening Capital News:
"We are continually harassed by reports to effect that daily papers in Boise are repeatedly publishing that ex-senator Dubois has charge western campaign for Democrats and will control patronage and so forth. I will esteem it a personal favor if you will deny this charge in the columns of your paper. Telegraphic reports were sent to hundreds of papers throughout the northwest including both dailies in Boise to effect that I am in charge of campaign for Pacific and Intermountain states.

"Will you kindly correct same in today's issue of your paper? You are at liberty to publish this telegram in full if you wish and if necessary we will pay advertising rates to correct this false report which is evidently designed to cause friction in the Democratic party of Idaho. Kindly publish and send us bill.

"We are at a loss to understand here why after newspapers were wired true status of affairs they will persist in publishing without foundation reports of this kind."
"WILL R. KING,
"Chairman Pacific and Intermountain Bureau"

The denial publication pulsed a fake political story to the effect that Judge W. W. Woods of Wallace, was a Democratic candidate for United States senator, when in fact Judge Woods had never entertained such an idea. He published a denial in the Press-Times of Wallace as follows:

"I did not know until today that my name had even been suggested. I certainly have none of the symptoms of 'senatoritis' of which I am accused. The idea of entering the race or of making a campaign for the place had never entered my head."

structed buildings in the city and was built of Idaho cut stone by Ada lodge No. 3, I. O. O. F., during the winter of 1907-8 at a cost of approximately $22,000, which does not include the lot. It has a frontage of 100 feet on Idaho street and 122 feet on Ninth street. company will secure the corner giving it the 100-foot frontage on Idaho street and 60 feet on Ninth street, the building being so constructed that half of it could be sold or leased without in any way interfering with the other half. If sold, an entrance will be made on the Ninth street side and the south half in which the magnificent lodge hall is situated, will continue to be used by the lodge for a meeting place.

At the time the building was constructed, it was built with the idea of adding four more stories as the city justified and the deal may possibly mean the adding of additional stories in the spring as every store and office room in the building is rented.

At present the Idaho National bank has a long lease on the corner room in the building, but the Pacific National is purchasing the property with the idea of making it a permanent banking home in the future and will likely occupy the entire ground floor of the north half of the building when moving to the new quarters.
