RECORDS OF BANK ROBBERS FOUND

Chicago, Sept. 30.—An account book with records of routes, expenditures and many names and addresses, which the police are keeping secret, was found yesterday, and is believed to contain clues to the robbers who robbed the Bank of Montreal in Westminster of $27,000 and spent several weeks in Chicago negotiating under the noses of the police for the disposal of the Canadian bills.

Operatives of private detective agencies and police are now seeking members of the gang in Omaha, Minneapolis and Aberdeen, S. D., and Kansas City. James W. Stacey, alias Frank West, alias "Doc" Danzell, arrested on identification by his wife, is not a member of the gang that robbed the bank, but an agent for them, according to James Sidias, the Greek saloon keeper in whose place Lieutenant Burns was injured in an attempt to arrest the safe blowers.

NEW MILLINERY STYLES WILL CREATE A SALE OF TWENTY MILLION HATS THIS SEASON

By J. R. HAMILTON. Former Advertising Manager of Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

HERE will, at least, be an average sale this Fall of one hat to every woman in America. Including girls and children, the percentage will even be greater than this.

The reason, of course, is the change of styles. So long as a woman can adapt a hat from another season, or retrim it in another way, she may come through all right. But once the shapes themselves are changed, there is no hope.

Now the only mental difference between a woman and a man is, that a woman does not even pretend that style is unimportant. She knows it is important—she admits it is important, and usually, she takes the first pocketbook handy and goes out and proves it.

Style is so important, in fact, that any woman who overlooks it, usually finds herself overlooked. The modest home flower makes a beautiful poem but is a dangerous pastime.

When a great simple truth comes home to a man, he goes out and talks about it. But when it comes home to a woman, she goes out and acts.

Wherefore, you will probably find about fifty per cent of the women in this city out looking at the new hats within the next twenty-four hours, and the other fifty per cent following their example within the next week or two. And if there is still any old hat being worn after the next thirty days, it will probably be pointed at as a curiosity and sought after for the museum.

Now just one further point to all women—don't buy your hats blindly this season. If you do, you're going to regret it till Christmas time.

Watch every Millinery Advertisement as carefully as if you had bought a lottery ticket and were looking for the lucky number. Don't let any quiet little modiste take some atrocious thing out of an inner sanctum and tell you that it is the very latest thing from "Gay Paree."

"Dear Paree" has spoken so loudly this year that no one can misunderstand her. Every style that is worth while is being vigorously advertised and generously shown in pictures. Your advertising this year is your style book, if ever it was. Turn to it now and follow it every day as if it were a moral code. If you don't you may, like the negro comedian, "Git suthin that you don't expect."

HOUSE IS BURNED AFTER MURDER OF ENTIRE FAMILY

Awful Crime in Illinois Is Believed to Have Been the Work of a Degenerate—Early Developments.

Sensational Developments. Quincy, Ill., Sept. 30.—Early developments of a sensational nature are promised by officials in the investigation of the murder of Charles Pfanschmidt, a prominent farmer, his wife, daughter Blanche, aged 16, and Miss Emma Kaempfen, aged 20, a school teacher, on the Pfanschmidt farm. The bodies were mutilated as well as burned and in the skulls of the two women were large holes made by a blunt instrument. The bodies of Pfanschmidt and his wife were headless.

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 30.—Four persons were murdered near here under circumstances indicating one of the most revolting crimes in the history of the state. The home of the victims was burned in an effort to destroy the flames sufficiently to show that the heads had been split open with an ax.

The dead are: Charles Pfanschmidt, his wife, their 16-year-old daughter, Blanche. Miss Emma Kaempfen, 21 years old, a teacher, who was visiting Miss Pfanschmidt.

The authorities believe the murder is the work of a degenerate of the same kind as the perpetrators of similar murders in Iowa. Circumstances indicate that the four victims perished while asleep. Nothing remained of their bodies except the charred skeletons. The house was destroyed.

A pillow upon which Miss Kaempfen had been lying was not burned. It is soaked with blood. The Pfanschmidt girl's face is badly burned, but the back of her head was protected from the flames and there is a wound, several inches across, through which the brains has exuded. Indications are that the crime was committed Friday night after the family had retired.

Mr. Wherry does not know if the bodies were of white men or Indians, but one skeleton is of a young person. There is no way of telling how many years have passed since the time of their demise.

ONE DAY STRIKE AT LAWRENCE A FAILURE

Only Seven Thousand Men Leave Work of Own Accord

STRIKERS IN CLASH WITH AUTHORITIES

Men, Women and Children Are Victims of Violence at the Hands of the Strikers and Police—Another Clash at Salem.

Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 30.—The 24-hour strike ordered by the Industrial Workers of the World as a protest against the imprisonment of Joseph Ettore and Arturo Giovannitti failed of effect today. It is estimated not more than 7000 employes came away from the textile mills. Serious rioting followed the attempted intimidation of workers.

The police had many conflicts with strikers going to the mills. A dozen arrests were made for attacks on children, women and men, some of the assailants being armed with revolvers, knives, hammers, bolts and pieces of iron. The most serious disturbances were near the Everett mill. A big crowd of pickets had gathered and was being strengthened. The police charged, using their clubs freely, and several were injured. One man was knocked from a street car and taken to a hospital, where it was said his condition was serious.

In another affray a boy was struck over the head with a bottle and knocked unconscious. Cars bearing the workers were intercepted by pickets and stalled for a time. Leaders of the Industrial Workers' organization will be held responsible for disturbances which they attributed to "excitable youngsters." The leaders are undecided as to future plans, pending the arrival this afternoon of William D. Haywood, general organizer. Besides the police force of 110, there are on duty 50 members of the state police. It is estimated that 12,000 operatives are idle, of whom 7000 are striking members of the industrial workers, while the other 5000 are idle because of lack of work or intimidation.

Clash at Lynn. Lynn, Mass., Sept. 30.—A clash between police and a body of strikers occurred when a man waving red and black flags was arrested and a crowd attempted to rescue him. Several police were assaulted and three arrests were made. Three hundred shoe operatives, headed by women, marched through the factory district asking those at work to strike in protest against the imprisonment of Ettore and Giovannitti.

Police and Paraders Fight. Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 30.—Police and paraders fought with knives and clubs yesterday before a demonstration by members of the Industrial Workers of the World. Two officers were stabbed, a number of demonstrators were clubbed and an I. W. W. leader was captured after a hard fight and then freed. Two arrests were made.

Curto Tresca of Pittsburg, an editor who is an organizer of the Industrial Workers, was in custody, but gained his freedom a minute or two later. Persons who saw Tresca's arrest said he was rescued by comrades. Tresca said the police let him go. All the police professed ignorance of the occurrence.

The clash was unexpected. More than 20,000 operatives met at the railroad station to meet 7000 Industrial Workers, who had come from Boston to participate in a parade to the graves of Anna Lopizzo and John Ramay, who were killed during the strike riots last January. The parade was informal and no application had been made for a parade permit. The police, notified that the operatives were marching, attempted to end the demonstration. A squad of 25 officers was sent to Essex and Lawrence streets, where they threw a line across Essex street and awaited the procession.

Two large banners were carried by the marchers. One was inscribed: "The only justice—freedom for Ettore and Giovannitti." The other bore the words: "Police" and "militia" and below, "Who killed Anna Lopizzo and John Ramay?" When the head of the parade reached the line of officers it halted and an argument began. The police notified the marchers that they must disperse because they had no permit. Those in the front rank were trying to fall back, when suddenly the marchers in the rear pressed forward, and the mill workers tried to pass the police.
