Young Idaho Boys' Suits $3.95

A Suit Built Like and that Looks Like a $5.00 Suit

Each season we try to make Young Idaho suits better.

This is the best yet—Young Idaho suits are wonderfully good for $3.95 this season.

Materials are all wool or with just enuf cotton to give service and they're in snappy stylish patterns that boys like.

Young Idaho suits are built to bear a boy's battle—we want to show you one of these suits at $3.95.

Some have two, some one pair of pants.

POTATO EXPERT PRAISES EXHIBIT SHOWN AT FAIR

Colorado Man Pays High Compliment to Idaho Potato Growers—Best Exhibit He Has Seen.

Eugene Grubb of Colorado, the most eminent potato specialist in the United States, after a visit at the Intermountain fair Wednesday, pronounced the splendid exhibit made in the big 70x100-foot tent by the great north side tract—Milner, Jerome, Wendell, Bliss segregations, in Lincoln county, Idaho, as being the finest exhibit of agricultural products from one section that can be found anywhere in the United States. This exhibit, which occupies three-fourths of the space in this big tent, comprises all kinds of sheaf wheat, oats, barley, rye, alfalfa, clover and grasses. These sheafs are done up in attractive bundles 10 to 12 inches in diameter. These bundles, and in fact the entire exhibit, is nicely decorated with green and white ribbons and bunting.

The grains and alfalfa are exceptional for their excellence of quality, all of the wheat and oats having massive heads. This exhibit to New York. The entire exhibit is shown from a commercial standpoint. For instance, the potatoes are neatly packed in steel-celled boxes, the apples are commercially packed for the market, etc. This entire exhibit will be shipped east as far as New York City, and will be displayed at the big land shows, etc., held this fall and winter. Articles in this exhibit will be entered in competition against the nation at these shows, and no doubt they will return with some of the big awards in their possession, and thus will Idaho be further honored and advertised.

The grain in this exhibit shows what varieties are best adapted to this section and are making the heaviest yields. Potatoes for Great Hotels. The remarkable feature about this exhibit is the fine collection of potatoes, which are hand selected and put up in stenciled boxes to supply the hotel and dining car service and all of the high class trade. These potatoes being of exceptionally fine quality and specially selected, command higher prices at all the eastern markets than potatoes grown anywhere in the east or middle west.

There is also on exhibition a number of crates of cantaloupes. This section has been very successful in growing cantaloupes the past two years. There is also a fine exhibit of the several marketable varieties of onions which are of very fine quality. This is the first time an exhibit of onions like this has been shown at a state fair. Most of them came from the vicinity of Bliss, the soil there being specially adapted to the raising of onions of fine quality. Sheafs of alfalfa are shown that are five and one-half to six feet high. Alfalfa on these tracts has yielded as much as seven and a half tons per acre. Produce Fine Seeds. There are several samples of fine alfalfa seed shown. These tracts are making a specialty of growing, with great success, red clover, alfalfa, onion and white clover seeds.

Potatoes on the North Side tract yield 100 to 250 sacks per acre, on raw land, according to the care given. Hardly any of the potatoes shown were grown on land formerly in alfalfa. However, next year much of the alfalfa land will be turned over, and planted to potatoes. This land will return largely increased yields of potatoes.

The exhibit contains threshed grains and seeds, which comprise the feeding and milling varieties of wheat, and the best feeding and malting barley possible to produce. Rye grows prolifically on these tracts, as do oats, beans, peas and other seeds. Some of the farmers on these tracts are specializing in the raising of pure seeds.

In the exhibit shows several bunches of sheaf alfalfa that are practically covered with pods of seed. This exhibit fully demonstrates that corn is being successfully grown in southern Idaho. Some of this corn compares very favorably with that produced in the great American corn belt. Settlers Operating Company. One exhibit of potatoes from the Settlers Reclaiming & Operating company at Jerome contains 19 varieties, although as a rule this great company raises only four varieties of potatoes for commercial purposes on their big 2200 acre farm. The two early varieties grown here are the Early Eureka and the Early Wonder. The two late varieties grown here are the Idaho Rural and Red Peach Blow.

Great Overbrook Farm Display. The great Overbrook farm of 1000 acres at Jerome, owned by D. C. McWatters, the general manager of the Kuhn interests in Idaho, has an exceptionally fine exhibit here of sheaf and threshed products. This exhibit is one of the largest and finest individual displays at the Intermountain fair.

Fine Fruit From Blue Lakes. Included in the North Side Tract exhibit is a fine display of apples of many varieties from Far-View ranch near Wendell, owned by Mrs. Paul S. A. Bickel.

There is also a fine display of apples and prunes from the famous Blue Lake ranch owned by I. B. Perrine. 2500 Cars Potatoes. The North Side tract this year will ship out 2500 cars of potatoes.

R. A. Woody of Bliss this year produced 90 bushels of barley per acre. R. Thorpe of Bliss this year produced on raw land, better than 500 bushels of potatoes per acre.

This exhibit shows 40 different varieties of native grasses. There is a fine bunch of black emmer shown. This is a creation by Professor Buffon of the Wyoming experiment station. It is a species of wheat supposed to stand much drought. It is good for both feed and milling purposes. One stool of alfalfa is shown eight and one-half feet tall grown from one seed.

Those in Charge of Exhibit. Morrison Aitken is in charge of the North Side tract exhibit. He is the right of way agent for the Kuhn Bros. in Idaho. With Mr. Aitken is R. T. MacNamara, who has charge of the Bliss segregation, and C. M. Willey, who is in charge of the Milner segregation, and Ross Updegraff, who is the agricultural expert for the North Side Land & Water company.

Idaho Irrigation Company Display. In the same tent is the splendid exhibit made by the Idaho Irrigation company, which operates at Richfield, Shoshone and Gooding. This exhibit is in charge of J. G. Pierson, who is in charge of the company's agricultural department.

This exhibit is remarkable from the fact of the superiority of the products shown, when considered the land where grown is only two years from sagebrush.

This exhibit won the silver cup at this year's Lincoln county fair for being the best agricultural display at this fair.

The exhibit contains all kinds of vegetables, 10 varieties of fine potatoes, wheat and other grains threshed and in sheaves. There are 14 varieties of grain shown, and 12 varieties of apples. Alfalfa seeded on the company's farm last year, yielded four tons per acre this year.

Chicken Pot Pie

The Chef's Favorite
By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine
Some folks think that only "colored mummies" can cook chicken, but a trial of this famous chicken pot pie disproves that assertion. Every member of the family will thoroughly enjoy it.

8 C Chicken Pot Pie, Baked Dumplings
One fowl cut in joints; 1/2 cup flour; 1/4 teaspoonful salt; black pepper; 2 cups flour; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1/4 teaspoonful salt; 1/2 cup shortening; milk or cream.

Cover the fowl with boiling water and let simmer until tender, then remove to a baking dish. Mix the 1/2 cup flour, salt and black pepper with cold water to a smooth paste and use to thicken the broth. Remove the fat from the top of the broth if necessary before adding the thickening. Pour this gravy over the fowl, until it is nearly covered, and reserve the rest to serve apart. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt, three times; into this work the shortening and use cream or milk to make a dough, less stiff than for biscuits. Put this by spoonfuls over the fowl in the dish, which it should rest upon and completely cover. Let bake about 35 minutes.

When young, tender chickens are scarce, this presents a most satisfactory way of serving old fowls. Veal or lamb prepared in this manner is more appetizing than when served as a stew. Try this and the 89 other delicious recipes in the K C Cook's Book, a copy of which may be secured free by sending the colored certificate packed in the 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the JAGURS MFG. CO., Chicago.
