

MISS SHEPHERD POINTS OUT REAL DANGER TO STATE

Great Harm Can Be Done by Making the Unfortunate St. Anthony Incident a Political Matter.

Miss Grace M. Shepherd, state superintendent of public instruction, feels so keenly the disgrace brought upon the state and upon the industrial school by reason of the scandal brought out there and paraded before the public as they were, that she has refused up to this time to make any public statement relative to the matter. Those who have talked with her about the matter know that she feels that there is more danger for harm to result from political agitation of such an unfortunate matter than could be offset by the trustees of the institution through proper officers and attendants at the school in years. She takes the position that justice can be best done to all interests—the children in the school as well as the state—by proceeding quietly, but none the less firmly to an adjustment. Sufficient guaranty has been given that whatever may have been the case before, the institution is now so carefully watched that there can be no harm done to anyone by refusing to make the question a political one.

Miss Shepherd, upon inquiry by the Capital News as to the matter, however, and during a conversation upon the question, made the following statement of her position relative to it:

- "In view of the effort that has been made in certain quarters to make politics of the case in connection with the unfortunate and greatly regretted St. Anthony industrial school incident, perhaps I should say to the people of Idaho that no matter what the result of the election may be for me or my party, I shall do all in my power to see that justice is done to members of that school, to the good name of the state of Idaho and to the institution itself. There is the best opportunity in the world, that in trying to do the right thing relative to the charges made against the management of the institution, its usefulness may be seriously impaired for years to come. That institution is a permanent institution in this state, and I believe now that exact justice can be done the boys and girls there in such a way as not to interfere with the proper discipline of the school.
- "No member of the board of the institution should be pardoned for making politics of an unfortunate situation, and no member would be justified in acting through fear that politics might be made of it, and while I can pledge the people of the state that my influence shall be used to give full protection to the youths sent to the school, I do not feel that I would be justified in acting upon insufficient knowledge of the exact facts nor through fear of the possible consequences upon me politically. Any action taken by me shall be taken solely for the good of the boys and girls there and for the good of the institution."

Not Handsome.
"Women do not especially admire handsome men." "That is true," replied Miss Cayenne. "As I sat on the piazza I saw a number of good looking, well dressed youths cut out by a man whom automobile goggles rendered entirely unrecognizable."—Washington Star.

VICE PRESIDENT

died in the presence of his wife, her brother and sister, his two brothers and his three sons and their wives. He had been entirely unconscious since 7 o'clock, when he had a period of partial consciousness lasting about 15 minutes. He died in a dramatic coma as a result of Bright's disease, heart disease and arterio sclerosis.

Mrs. Sherman bore up bravely under the shock of her husband's death, as also did the other members of the family. Altogether it was said at the house that the hopelessness of Mr. Sherman's fight against death had been realized since Friday, the blow, nevertheless, was a crushing one.

A few of the intimate friends of the family called last night to express their sympathy, among them A. H. Holden, pastor of Christ Reform church, where the Shermans worship.

Soon after the vice president's death it was announced that the members of the family wished to be left undisturbed last night and that no arrangements for the funeral will be made before today.

Dr. Peck remained at the Sherman home for a time and notified several of Mr. Sherman's friends by telephone that the end had come.

News Caused Sorrow.
The announcement of the vice president's death spread quickly through the city. Universal sorrow was expressed and immediate steps were taken for the proper recognition of the sorrowful event. Mr. Sherman was regarded as the first citizen of Utica, and all differences growing out of politics died with him.

The mayor gave out a statement voicing the general grief, and the big bell at the city hall, as well as many church bells, tolled out the doleful news to a public to which it was not news.

Not only did the Republican organization take proper recognition of the event, but the Progressives announced their intention of cancelling all meetings until after the vice president's funeral. Governor Johnson, who so long as Mr. Sherman lived was his rival for vice presidential honors, was to have spoken here tomorrow night in behalf of the Progressive ticket, but his address, like all other events of the kind, has been deferred.

The Democrats also signified their intention of removing a Wilson and Marshall banner which had been flung across one of the city streets, and of suspending all political activity until after the funeral.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The twenty-seventh vice president of the United States and the only one renominated, was christened today as well as many others. But in nearly a quarter of a century of public life, "Jim" Sherman, he was to his intimates, and probably half the nation referred to him as "Sunny Jim," a sobriquet earned by a never-failing all-year round sunny disposition.

Sherman belonged to the school of Republicanism nowadays popularly called "regular" and he fought his political battles without compromise or flinching. The events he helped to change are so comparatively recent that history writers are still in his place until it also records the work of his contemporaries.

To the house of representatives of the Fifty-fifth congress he came in the winter of 1887, just passed his thirty-second birthday, with the energy and optimism of youth, college-bred from the halls of Hamilton, which has given to public life many more statesmen and public figures, none without some mark of distinction. He had been elected mayor of Utica two years before. Like many others he came to lead in the national legislature. He brought with him an education in law. He was well-born and well-bred. His father, Richard W. Sherman, was an editor and public figure in New York state.

Defeated for Third Term.
Two sessions of congress found Sherman defeated and out of office, but not for long.

Harry W. Bentley of Booneville, Oneida county, beat him by less than 1000 votes in the race for the Fifty-second congress. In the interim Sherman went back to Utica, built up his law practice and returned to the Fifty-third congress with a signal victory. He remained in the house without defeat to the Sixtieth congress, when he was nominated and elected vice president on the ticket with Mr. Taft.

His first years in the house brought him into close association with leaders. Joseph W. Bailey, later a senator; Breckenridge, Bryan, Bourke Cochran, Daisel, Dooliver, Henderson, Payne, Paynter, Raynor, Reed, Wadsworth "Fighting Joe" Wheeler and a score of others, whose names became household words in discussion of the tariff and other national policies were his fellows. The senate held such men as Aldrich, Allison, Cokrell, Daniel, Fays, Gorman, Hoar, Hill, Teller, Vest and Wolcott.

All were not Republicans, but all were "Jim" Sherman's friends, and in such an environment he worked to the high place in the councils and finally was numbered one of the "big five" in the house. Cannon, Daisel, Payne, Sherman and Tawney were the great quintette during the comparatively recent years in which congress was Republican. Each of them invariably wore a red carnation for a boutonniere and when Sherman went to preside over the senate and occupy the coveted marble room in the other wing of the capitol he took the custom with him and the flower always appeared at every session of the upper house.

His Work in the House.
Any review of Sherman's life would not be complete without a reference to his work in the house; there is recorded no time when he moved galleries to applaud by a debate from the floor or changed any votes by eloquence. But the statutes bear marks of his work in committee and caucus, and the result of his labors on the rules committee, the interstate commerce commission and other branches of the machinery of the house.

Try This Home-Made Cough Syrup
Cures Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, and all the Coughs of Infants and Children.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir for 3 minutes. Put 2/3 ounce of Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a size bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually such a cough lasted over a week or 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, croup, chest pains, bronchitis and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasantly.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in gualic acid and all the natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and sugar syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equalled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

was a leading figure. He always was active in state conventions and a figure at all national gatherings of the party.

Sherman went to preside over the senate just about at a time when what popularly known as "senatorial dignity" was beginning to feel its first break. In the chair, Sherman was dignity itself, fair in his rulings his colleagues said, quiet, firm, sure and seldom reversed on appeal.

But other senators, reluctantly, perhaps, to transgress custom, fell in with his ideas and nowadays on a blistering Washington summer day the senate looks quite like a business gathering.

His Last Illness.
The illness which proved fatal was little known in Washington until the last few months. Mr. Sherman was not present during the closing days of the last session, and the senate—without a president pro-tem by the death of Frye and unable to agree upon a successor—got along by temporary arrangements, placing some senator in the chair for two weeks at a time.

Sherman was genuinely missed in the capital. It was an occurrence of an ordinary day with congress in session to meet Sherman walking down Pennsylvania avenue, often alone, rosy-cheeked and cheerfully returning the salutes of those who knew him.

Vice president Sherman was born in Utica on Oct. 24, 1855. He was married in 1881 to Carrie Babcock of East Orange, N. J. They have three sons, Sherrill, Richard U., and Thomas M., all living and in business in Utica.

The vice president was an Elk, a trustee of the Hamilton college, a member of the Dutch Reform church, a member of many clubs and a business man of wide interests.

Message From Roosevelt.
New York, Oct. 31.—Just after he left the Madison Square garden meeting Colonel Roosevelt was informed of the death of Vice President Sherman. The colonel immediately sent the following telegram:

"Mrs. James S. Sherman: Mrs. Roosevelt and I are greatly shocked and concerned at the sad news of your husband's death. We beg you to accept our most sincere sympathy."
"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

Received With Sorrow.
Washington, Oct. 31.—News of Vice President Sherman's death, though it had been expected hourly, was received with profound sorrow in official Washington. At the capitol, where every attaché considered him a friend, in the government departments, where he was a frequent visitor, and in the diplomatic corps, where he had many close friends, the announcement will cause genuine regret.

Immediately on receipt of the news Colonel Dan R. Bassett sergeant-at-arms of the senate, dispatched formal notification to Senator Bacon, temporary presiding officer of the senate, now in New York, and asked for instructions.

President Taft and the cabinet probably will attend the funeral.

Chief Justice White of the supreme court is expected also to assign two associate justices to represent the court.

Taft Sends Message.
New York, Oct. 31.—President Taft immediately upon arriving in New York dispatched the following telegram to Mrs. Sherman in Utica:

"Mrs. Taft and I extend to you our heartfelt sympathy in your great sorrow. Our hearts go out to you in the loss of your noble and loving husband. Vice President Sherman had rendered distinguished service to his country and his death is a great loss. As a member of congress and a vice president he endeared himself to all who knew him. His memory is full of sweetness and light."
"WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT."

Senate to Attend Funeral.
New York, Oct. 31.—The senate as a whole will be appointed as a committee to attend the funeral of Vice President Sherman, according to announcement made here last night by Senator Bacon, president pro-tem of that body.

Smock Delivers Telling Blows to Both of the Old Parties

P. M. SMOCK.

Holding his audience spellbound for almost two hours as he discussed national and state politics, P. M. Smock, Progressive candidate for congress, delivered one of the most powerful speeches of the campaign at Star last night. He left no room for doubt regarding the great cause of the Progressives and with facts, figures and history showed how the two old parties are but skeletons of their former selves, and are rapidly being discarded by American voters who believe in clean politics, are opposed to the corrupt practices of bosses and the corruption control of those parties to which they formerly belonged or are now preparing to break away from.

The introductory address was delivered by Miss F. I. Roberts of Star, who is active in the present campaign. She paid a complimentary reference to Mr. Smock and brought forth rounds of applause when she read the 1908 Republican platform eulogy of Theodore Roosevelt, the man the standpat and reactionary Republicans are now condemning and endeavoring to abuse and tear down.

Mr. Smock had from the start the closest attention of his audience. He reviewed the downfall of former great powers because of the domination of the unscrupulous few in their determination and depravity to thwart the will of the people. Launching into national issues he showed the deliberate theft by the same kind of manipulators of the nomination of a president at Chicago and the disfranchisement of states in the Chicago convention to accomplish the object. The bossism and interest domination of that convention and its nomination, the speaker said, had given impetus to the new party destined to bring cleaner politics, cleaner government and placing it closer to the people.

Theodore Roosevelt was given the credit of faithfully carrying out the policies of McKinley, the three years of that administration after Roosevelt had succeeded the assassination president, but that in the one term he was president, he inaugurated and put into effect his own policies which brought the country fame and placed him close to the people. When President Taft succeeded President Roosevelt, the speaker clearly illustrated, he too promised to carry out the Rooseveltian policies and did. He carried them out the back door.

Mr. Smock condemned those representatives of the people in the United States senate who voted for Lorimer or those in sympathy with those who did, and in this he delivered a telling blow at Addison T. Smith, standpat Republican candidate for congress.

State affairs, the attempted disfranchisement of the Progressive voters taxation and other issues of local and state importance were ably handled by Mr. Smock, who left clear in the minds of his audience that the Progressive party would have the solid support of the people, which he predicted would be the outcome of the election next Tuesday.

Dr. Hartman Invites Doctors to Visit His Office

S. B. HARTMAN, M. D.

In my last article I referred to the fact that many doctors have used Peruna and have offered to write me testimonials if I would pay them for their trouble.

The publication of these facts has a comment, especially some comment from correspondents.

The doctors themselves especially emphasize the subject. I give an extract from a characteristic letter written by a doctor. He says:

Dear Doctor Hartman: I have read what you say about the regular physicians using Peruna and their attitude toward written testimonials. I think you treat them generously, not condemning them for making such offers. I know from personal experience that most of the regular drug houses are willing to pay for that sort of work. I wish, however, you had given the names and addresses of the doctors you refer to in your article. Your statements would have been much more convincing if you had done so.

You will excuse me if I express some doubt as to the good standing of the physicians that you refer to. Do you mean to say that you have in your files the letters which you quoted from in your last article? Will you let me see those letters if I should call at your office. I am the editor of a medical journal and would be glad to take the matter up as a news item interesting to physicians.

To this letter I made the following reply:

My Dear Doctor: I am glad you are interested in my article concerning the doctors and their attitude toward Peruna. I assure you that I have the letters that I quoted in the article and that you are perfectly welcome to examine them if you will call at my office. And at the same time I have many other letters quite as remarkable as those that you may examine. In fact, I will open to you my files, which are so arranged that hundreds of thousands of letters covering the last 20 years, are available. You may spend as much time as you please in looking over the correspondence. To each letter I have received, filed in alphabetical order, is appended a copy of the answer they received. You being the editor of a medical journal, I should especially appreciate if you would spend some time in looking through my files. I am sure you will find the most remarkable letters you ever looked at. They tell the story of thousands of invalids who have been afflicted with some chronic catarrhal disease and have found complete relief by taking Peruna. If I should publish them all they would make a library equal in volume to any law library in the city.

Come right along, doctor. You shall not only see the two letters referred to in my former article, but I guarantee that you will see scores of others equally as interesting and valuable. Bring as many other doctors with you as you please.

Peruna, Man-a-Lin and La-cu-bia manufactured by the Peruna Company, Columbus, Ohio. Sold at all drug stores.

Special Notice—Many persons inquire for the old-time Peruna. They want the Peruna that their fathers and mothers used to take. The old Peruna is now called Katarno. If your druggist or dealer does not keep it for sale write the Katarno company, Columbus, Ohio, and they will tell you all about it.
