

SENATOR BORAH'S VIEW PRAISED BY RECORD-HERALD

Chicago Paper Editorially
Comments Favorably on Idaho Senator's Discussion of Reorganization.

The Chicago Record-Herald, from which paper the Capital News the other day reprinted an interview from Senator Borah, in the next issue of that paper compliments Senator Borah very highly in an editorial commending him for the statesmanship displayed in his interview and giving entire approval of his suggestions. The editorial is as follows:
Senator Borah on "Reorganization." Premature efforts to "reorganize" or reunite the Republican and Progressive parties are certain to end in smoke. The part of wisdom is to leave the general question largely to the influences of time and tide, to the logic of facts, and to most particular questions—such as a fusion in New York for the purpose of defeating Tammany—as they arise, in a spirit of fairness and common sense.

A sound, statesmanlike view of the matter is taken by Senator Borah in the illuminating interview published in The Record-Herald of yesterday. The Idaho senator is a true progressive who does his own thinking, and his opinions are not formed as he runs. What he says about "reorganization" is, in a nutshell, virtually this: Ignore all selfish and minor considerations; trouble yourselves not at all about this boss or that, this faction or that; but get hold of a constructive and comprehensive policy and offer the people, the restive, dissatisfied, insurgent masses, a definite and honest platform dealing with the vital issues of the day.

Trusts, taxation and finance are rightly named by Senator Borah as the dominating issues. Everybody wants social and industrial justice, but what is justice as applied to the tariff, to finance, to industrial organization? Mr. Borah outlines the trust problem in a masterly way, and then invites the would-be reorganizers to think out and propose a solution of it. A wise, statesmanlike bit of advice, we repeat.

The senator has his own idea of the needed measure, but he is just and broad enough to express the hope that the Wilson administration may gain and hold the confidence of the people by its plan of action. Mr. Wilson does not believe in federal trust commissions or federal incorporation; he believes, however, that the Sherman act is inadequate in certain respects and that further legislation is necessary if "unfair methods of business" are to be prevented in the future and equal opportunity restored. He also recognizes the necessity of overhauling the incorporation laws of states that create irresponsible, inflated corporations to prey upon the nation. He believes, finally, in some indirect form of federal action under the interstate commerce clause that would not violate state rights. All of this must be elaborated, illustrated, made definite and concrete.

The Republican and the Progressive parties should present their respective alternative plans, without further "ducking and side-stepping," in Senator Borah's words. The party that shall present the most practical, honest effective plan will find itself magically "reorganized" and energized by the people. Stratagems and deals, artificial attempts to create unity where there is nothing solid to stand on, will fail. How many of those who glibly talk about a "new era" are prepared to earn success by service, upright dealing, courage and consistency?

CRUELTY CHARGED IN DIVORCE COMPLAINT

Because he pushed her out into the snow when she was only partially dressed, choked her and used indecent and profane language to her, according to her complaint, Annetta St. John asks a divorce from Richard J. St. John.

In her petition, she claims that he frequently came home intoxicated and abused her in various ways. She says he choked her on Feb. 19, 1901, that he came home one evening and broke up the furniture of the home, that he made remarks that cast reflection on her German parentage, and was frequently guilty of intemperance.

They were married June 3, 1896, at West Plamboro, county of Peel, Ontario, Canada.
