STILL WANT BOISE IN UNION CIRCUIT

Efforts Being Made to Induce Local Magnates to Reconsider Decision.

Salt Lake baseball promoters propose to annex Boise to the Union association regardless of the fact that President Bossner of the Boise Baseball club and President Sweet of the Western Tri-State league, notified Dick Cooley that negotiations had been called off and they would not attend a conference at Salt Lake. Unless Dick Cooley can show to Boise magnates that he is not responsible for the faction stories that were peddled by R. L. Hughes, the man who came here as representative, and is not active in stirring up strife among fans here, there will probably not be a meeting of any kind. If Boise is to be invited into the Union association, and the magnates of that league feel that Boise by all means should be taken in, fans assert it is up to Cooley and those behind the plan to come to Boise and not for local magnates to go to Salt Lake.

The Salt Lake Tribune contains the following story showing that the Union league magnates have not as yet given Boise up as hopeless:

"The Union association made the worst mistake of its existence when it permitted Boise to leave the organization," declares Dick Cooley, owner of the Salt Lake franchise. "It is a mistake we are determined to remedy and we will leave nothing undone to have the great little Idaho city a member of next year's circuit." Mr. Cooley is acting as a committee of one representing the association in the efforts to bring Boise back into the fold.

As a member of the 1911 circuit of the Union association the Idaho capital proved a live wire, being second only to Salt Lake in the total attendance figures. But Owner Cody and the late W. H. Lucas, president of the association, could not agree and when the league for 1912 was formed Boise had no representative at the meeting and dropped out of the organization, later becoming a member of the Tri-State league.

The Union association soon discovered its mistake in letting the "biggest little town on earth" leave the organization while the Boise fans, accustomed to the fast game of the Union, have never been fully satisfied with the Tri-State ball, although to give the little organization due credit, its showing was an excellent one. The 1912 season had not progressed far before it was generally understood that Boise would again have a team in the Union association next season.

But right here, the directors of the league showed poor judgment. More than anxious to have the Idaho capital back in the fold, they did not extend an open and cordial invitation to that city to resume its membership, but waited for the Boise people to petition for reinstatement. In this, they reckoned without the sterling independence and sportsmanship of the Idaho people. President Bossner of the Boise Tri-State league club and President Sweet of the Tri-State league are not of the kind to come hat in hand asking to be taken in. The Union association has at last awakened to that fact, and Cooley on behalf of the organization has extended that city an open and hearty invitation to again take up membership in the organization.

"With Boise and one other city in the Union association we will have one of the strongest minor leagues in the country," says Cooley. "And I am certain that when the Boise people realize the cordiality of our invitation, they will be glad to join with us in building up the organization."

Should Boise again cast its lot with the Union, it would mean the abandonment of the Tri-State league as the Idaho capital is the backbone of that little circuit. Should the little league break up, President Sweet might be available for the presidency of the Union association, and his record at the head of the Tri-State proves him a fit man for the position. The Tri-State's annual meeting is set for Jan. 26, giving the Boise people ample time in which to decide under what flag its 1913 team will play. Pocatello is ready and willing to become the eighth city of the circuit, but should the Gate City fall to come in, there are several others in the territory ripe for organized baseball from which the league could be rounded out to full membership.

Negotiations for the purchase by a local syndicate of the Salt Lake club are still under way and the deal probably will be closed shortly after the holidays. Cooley has set a price on his holdings and while not anxious to sell, will stand by his offer. It is the intentions of the syndicate to make John J. McCloskey manager of the local team if the deal is consummated.

HART MAKES FINAL EFFORT TO KEEP OUT OF THE PENITENTIARY

Sydney J. Hart is making another effort to keep out of the penitentiary. Today his attorneys are arguing a motion for a new trial before Judge Carl A. Davis.

Nineteen volumes of law and authorities are piled on the desk of Raymond L. Givens, county attorney, in his fight against the motion of the defense for the new trial. The case is a hard fought one and goes into all of the testimony taken before the court during the original trial. The attorneys argue that the defendant suffered because of alleged prejudicial errors on the part of the court during the admission of testimony.

Some time ago Hart was convicted on the charge of taking money under false pretenses and received a sentence of from 1 to 14 years in the state prison. It is contended that there was no one placed on the stand by the state to show that the treatment which he gave would not have, in ordinary cases, produced the cure that he claimed nor that he ever claimed to be a regular and practicing physician.

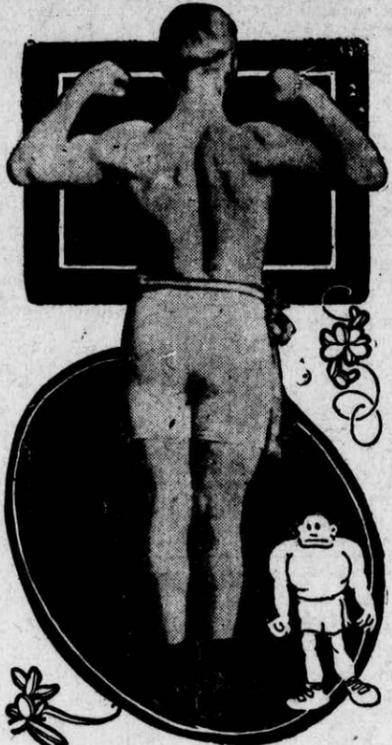

Frawley & Block and Davidson & Davidson are counsel for Hart, while Raymond L. Givens, the prosecuting attorney, is representing the state. The argument will probably occupy the attention of the court all through the day.

KNOCKOUT BROWN, CLASSY LIGHTWEIGHT, IS MARVEL OF PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT

K. O. Brown, New York's classy lightweight who has won many battles in the last four years and gives promise of winning more, is a marvel of physical development. From the waist up there probably never has been a youth who had anything on K. O. for development. Wherever he has appeared the flaccid fans have marveled at Brown's wonderful back, shoulders and arms.

The accompanying picture gives a general idea of Brown's great muscular development.

He is only twenty-one years of age, and if he keeps on developing the next four years as he has in the past four he stands an excellent chance of becoming the most dangerous boy in his class.

Knockout Brown.

PREPARING BOOKLET ON IDAHO CAPITOL

Idaho's beautiful new capitol building which is now rapidly being occupied by state officials, will be appropriately displayed with exterior and interior views by the architect, Tourtellotte & Hummel, according to a communication of J. E. Tourtellotte sent to Governor James H. Hawley. In this notification Mr. Tourtellotte says:

"My Dear Governor:

"As I stated to you a few days ago I am preparing a booklet of Idaho's capitol which will be high grade and contain no advertisements whatsoever. We propose to show views of Idaho's capitol as it now appears in interior and on exterior and also as it will appear when completed, both exterior and interior. We propose to make this the most artistic and beautiful booklet of its kind ever produced in the United States and the expense of this will be borne by our firm wholly and we will present several copies to each of the commission and one copy to each member of the incoming legislature."

It is understood that the illustrated booklet will contain actual photographs of the building both within and without, instead of engravings. An artist in photography has been secured to take the views and they are now being prepared. The book will be the first one of its kind issued of Idaho's new capitol building.

RITCHIE'D BETTER WATCH OUT FOR HIM

Joe Rivers.

Joe Rivers, Mexican lightweight, after reverses at the hands of Johnny Kilbane, Ad Wolgast and Joe Mandot, is again the topmost contender for the lightweight championship. Through licking Mandot Thanksgiving day he won back a place in popular favor.

Last Labor day Rivers, in poor condition it has since developed, fought and lost in 20 rounds to the Frenchman, also losing a chance for a return fight with Wolgast. Rivers was lucky enough to cajole Mandot into a second meeting, however, and now he probably will be Willie Ritchie's first opponent when the new champion gets ready to enter the ring again.

Rivers has been a pugilistic card on the Pacific coast for nearly two years.

quarters of the present national wealth. The most effective move toward reduced cost of living is the production of greater crops, says the secretary, and this move he declares is due to the work of the department of agricultural colleges and experiment stations and to the help of the press in publishing every movement to help the farmers. The nation, he adds, forgot its farmers in the general scheme of education of past years and few philanthropists thought of them when giving for education, but they are waking up and thinking for themselves and congress has been good to them.

The Best Proof

Given by a Boise Citizen.
Doan's Kidney Pills were used—they brought benefit.
The story was told to Boise residents. Time has strengthened the evidence. Has proven the result lasting. The testimony is home testimony—the proof convincing.
It can be investigated by Boise residents.
Mrs. Ellen Dial, 1114 Miller St., Boise, Idaho, says: "I felt miserable and didn't know just what ailed me. I suffered a great deal from backache and had many other troubles. I know several people who had used Doan's Kidney Pills with fine results and finally I got a supply at the Joy Drug Store. They soon relieved the pains and aches and helped me in other ways." (Statement given October 28, 1907.)
A Permanent Cure.
On October 30, 1912, Mrs. Dial said: "In confirming my indorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills, I can say that the cure they made in my case has been permanent. Continue publishing my statement for the benefit of other kidney sufferers."
