

LEO CRAMER OUT OF STATE PRISON AFTER 13 MONTHS

Released on Parole Under the Indeterminate Sentence System — Cannot Leave Ada County.

Having served 13 months of his indeterminate sentence of from six months to two years, making him subject to parole, Leo Cramer, the convicted defaulting vice president, former active manager and head of the defunct Idaho State Bank of Halley, is now out on conditional parole having been released by the state board of parole on Dec. 2. The board has adopted a policy not to announce action taken by it in the parole of prisoners, so that information relative to the parole of the convicted banker had to be obtained from those outside of state circles who had gained the fact from relatives. There is considerable comment over the silence of the board on matters of this kind.

The parole of Cramer is conditional, the condition being that he does not leave Ada county. His family is now here and he is living with them. For the next eight months he will be on parole and at the end of that time will become a free man. He is required to send out the usual reports to the warden of the penitentiary, the same as all other paroled prisoners.

Was Model Prisoner.

While an inmate of the penal institution Cramer is said to have been shown no special favors. He was given employment as a waiter in the guards' dining room and performed his duties without a murmur. Warden Snook speaks exceptionally well of Cramer's conduct, stating that the penitentiary officials never had trouble with the prisoner and he was model in every respect.

The conviction of Leo Cramer came as a sensational climax to the wrecking of the Halley bank, which closed its doors two years ago. He was convicted in the district court, making a hard fight to prevent the sentence passed over him going into effect. The supreme court sustained the verdict of the lower court and Cramer gave himself over to the sheriff and was taken to the penitentiary where he commenced the service of sentence and had been, up to Monday, an inmate of the prison.

Only his immediate relatives and the members of the parole board knew of the action taken in granting the parole, the board following out its established policy of saying nothing for publication with reference to paroles so that the information had to come from other sources.

Cramer has secured employment in Boise.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT WILL OCCUPY PULPIT

For the first time in the history of Boise, a high school student will occupy the pulpit of a local church and preach two sermons tomorrow. The youth is Joyce Kendall and he will preach both morning and evening tomorrow at the Immanuel Methodist church at Fourteenth and Eastman streets. The evening service will be especially for high school students and music is to be rendered by one of the organizations of the high school. In the morning he will speak on the topic, "Christ the Touchstone of the Human Heart," and in the evening, "The Unbelief of Thomas." Miss Lulu

MRS. LARAMORE TELLS TROUBLES

Lady in Goodwater Describes Her Distressing Experience and Tells How She Was Finally Relieved.

Goodwater, Mo.—"Ever since I was a little girl," says Mrs. Riley Laramore, "I was a great sufferer from dyspepsia. I suffered misery after eating, and had terrible heartburn. I thought I had to suffer this way as long as I lived, but when I began to take Theford's Black-Draught, in small doses, every night, the heartburn was all gone in a few days, and I could eat without distress. I took two small packages in all, and although that was some time ago, the dyspepsia has not returned. I speak a good word for Theford's Black-Draught whenever I have the opportunity." If eating causes distress, we urge you to try Theford's Black-Draught. It cleanses the system, helps the stomach to digest its food, regulates the bowels, and stimulates the liver. It acts gently and is without bad after-effects. Try it. Price 25c.

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT

The problems of the home are more difficult today than they have ever been, for each advance in science, each modern invention has brought new responsibilities and new duties. More knowledge and skill are required than ever before in the administration of every department of the home. Standards of living have changed and greater perfection in all housekeeping is demanded of the housekeeper.

The food problem is perhaps the most difficult of all the physical problems to solve, because of the influence of food upon the welfare of the family. We are all face to face with the problem of securing nutritious food at prices we can afford to pay. At one time this meant providing something palatable and supposedly wholesome at a cost within one's means. Today it must be a knowledge not only of the cost and nutritive value of the food materials, their composition and digestibility, but of the proportion of different food principles necessary for perfect nourishment, and all this in variety to suit the old, the young, the laborer, the business man, woman or the student.

It has been estimated that there are five ways in which one-fifth of the money expended for food is actually wasted:

- First—Needlessly expensive material, providing little nutrition.
- Second—A great deal, not wilfully, but thoughtlessly thrown away.
- Third—Knowing little or nothing of food values, consequently bad preparation.
- Fourth—Selecting foods out of season.
- Fifth—Badly constructed ovens and failure to understand the relation of heat to food which is to be baked.

Long before a woman asks anything

Mills of the Christian church will sing at both services.

Joyce Kendall is the youngest preacher in Idaho in actual service. He is taking a post graduate course at the high school and on Sunday supplies pulpits at King Hill and Bliss and at both places is securing large congregations. Joyce Kendall is the son of Rev. Kendall of Roseberry, but has made his home in Boise during his high school course, which has occupied several years. He is well known here and will undoubtedly command large congregations at his first services in this city.

TO DELIVER LECTURE TO MEN AND BOYS

At 3:45 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the new Box theater, the men and boys of Boise will again have the pleasure of listening to Dr. Lyman B. Sperry, the great sex hygiene lecturer, who is making his third visit to this city. His subject will be, "How to Live Long and Prosper." On his two previous lecture engagements in this city, Dr. Sperry has secured crowds which have taxed the capacity of the auditorium at the Y. M. C. A., and his opening lecture is being given at the new Box theater in order that more may have an opportunity to hear him. On Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights he will speak in the Y. M. C. A. to men and boys and on Wednesday night in the high school auditorium on the topic, "Sex, Home and Human Progress," a meeting which will be for parents.

If your watch passes through our repair department and does not give satisfaction we will give a new movement in exchange.

PROPOSE A NEW ROAD TO YELLOWSTONE PARK

(Capital News Special Service)

Idaho Falls, Dec. 7.—At an enthusiastic meeting held at the Club of Commerce rooms Representative P. G. Johnston of Bingham county proposed a new plan for good roads from the south line of the state to the National park. He said he had conferred with other parties and it was proposed to secure aid from the national government for one-third of the expense, the state to pay one-third and the various counties through which the road would pass the remaining one-third. His proposition was heartily indorsed. Ex-Governor Gooding was also present. He is an aspirant for United States senator and stated that if he should secure the prize he would do all in his power to bring about the proposed aid from the government. Representative Johnston also stated that before the death of Senator Hoyburn he had prepared and introduced a bill in the senate to this end.

about muscle or bone-building foods, the question: "What shall I spend for food?" "How shall I proportion my income?" appeal to her and usually by absolute necessity she is forced to decide the questions, then later, "How shall I spend wisely?"

In determining the amount of money for food per person per day, locality will be very important. In Cleveland we find this especially the case, as in different sections in the city there is a wide variation in prices. In institutions where food is purchased in large amounts the food is less per person.

So an absolutely definite statement is, therefore, impossible, while we say one-fifth of the income should go for rent, if for schools, churches, sanitary conditions, etc., it should seem wise for the best interests of the family to expend more, then there must be the economy on food or clothing. It can more safely be made on the latter, or furnishings of the home.

With a little training along this line we soon grasp the meaning of essentials and non-essentials.

The best living or economy does not represent spending a small amount, but necessarily spending money in such a way that it may bring in the largest returns.

All things in the house planned and arranged according to a system will fall into line and serve us, if our wills are strong enough, and our purpose is sufficiently steady. This looks very well as I write it, but in an instant a home with all its possible interruptions is seen. The butcher, the baker, the telephone or door bell, and usually both at once, callers, sickness, and we could go on indefinitely, loom up before us. We all know the story, but have we as housekeepers deliberately planned our homes and housework for convenience, order and system, so as to accomplish what we had to do with the least possible effort and the shortest space of time?

Yes, I believe many homes have and are doing just this very thing today. But it does not represent the majority. Use your brains while you use your feet and hands, plan what you have for the week in advance, whether it be cooking, sewing, preparation or buying.

Much of our housekeeping can be made more efficient, more economic and more systematic by using new methods, materials and appliances in cooking and general housework.

A business man said to me recently, "I have every known labor-saving device for the woman in the home in my office, and yet my wife insists upon going on using the utensils and methods her mother and grandmother used."

Revolutionize your kitchen equipment, use gas denatured alcohol, steam and fireless cookers, and electricity, when practical.

And especially with the fireless cooker, if interruptions come, your food is where it is cooking without burning and no anxiety to you.

We do so much useless housework. Get rid of it. The wise domestic administration is planned so that everything is done in the least labor and in the shortest time. Housekeeping is recognized as a definite science, and schools and colleges are adding courses in domestic science and home economics.

When a great many people want the same thing they get it. Manufacturers are making wonderful time and labor-saving devices, but they cannot systematize your work for you. Do this, and the homes will be more comfortable, less friction, no nerves, and more attractive to young and old.

It is utterly impossible to make out a schedule for your work in your home as it would be to make menus for you.

In my housekeeping I could not see that Monday was a good day for washing. But that might be the very best day for you.

Take a pencil and paper and make out your own schedule and trim, fit, systematize until it is best adapted to your family and your standards of living.

SURELY SETTLES UPSET STOMACHS

"Pape's Diapepsin" Ends Indigestion, Gas, Sourness and Heartburn in Five Minutes.

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that's just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments in the stomach, you feel gas and flatulence, sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back. It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.—Adv.

A Puzzled Booklover Asks an Important Question

Welsler, Idaho, Dec. 7, 1912.

Dear Sir: As you seem very willing to offer suggestions to the Contestants, will you please give me a little advice on how to get at the titles that are puzzling me. There are five of those published so far that are real puzzles to me. You understand that I do not expect you to tell me the titles of them, as I would not try to solve another picture if I thought that you would give anyone that information. I read your story every day, but there is nothing in any of them that would give me a lift on those pictures. Thanking you for any information, I remain

Yours truly, L. E. M.

We are glad you asked that question as it is one that we intended to take up some time ago, but the extra work in getting out the complete sets took up so much of our time that we overlooked that very important question, looking at it from the Contestants' side. And you are right about us not giving titles of pictures published, now or later. We will give the public all the titles, but it will be after the prizes are awarded.

In former Booklovers' Contests the wise contestants would take pictures such as you speak of and mail them to some bright friend, telling them that they were in the Great Booklovers' Contest to win and that the enclosed pictures were a bit puzzling to them, and asking them to look at them and mark the possible solution as they appeared to them. In that way they told us that they could get correct answers to nearly all the hard ones.

You see no two people look at the meaning of a Booklovers' picture alike, and while the pictures may be hard to you to your friend they may come easy. Try that plan. Your friends will be glad to help you and will rejoice with you if you win a prize.

Our complete set offer at $2.00 will be withdrawn on Dec. 9th, and if you desire any extra pictures now is the time to act. Use the coupon printed daily for that purpose. Getting the complete set now gives you three weeks more time to solve the answers and have your friends assist you with the hard ones. It will be at least three weeks after the last picture is published before the final date for receiving answers.

So you see you do not have to worry about time to solve them all.

And a word to new Contestants. You can enter now and get the complete set and a Catalogue with ten extra pictures for $2.50.

Your chance to win is just as good as those who started with the first picture.

Remember You Have Six Weeks to Earn Your Share of $1500.

And That $500 in Gold May be just what you need to start the New Year right!

THE CAPITAL NEWS HAS ARRANGED FOR FOUR ADDITIONAL HUNTING ARTICLES

By Colonel Theodore Roosevelt

First Article Will Appear Sunday, December 8th

Dec. 8—"WITH THE COUGAR HOUNDS" tells of a five weeks' cougar hunt in northwest Colorado. Mr. Roosevelt and his party killed fourteen of these savage panthers and much other game, the ex-president alone shooting five bobcats. The narrative is full of interest, each move in the hunt being described with graphic distinctness.

Dec. 15—"A COLORADO BEAR HUNT" Colonel Roosevelt tells of his first bear hunt with hounds, his previous ventures being with rifle alone. In mid-April, with John Goff and Jake Borah as guides, and with a pack of 26 hounds, the party went in search of bears, and the author's account of what happened makes delightful reading.

Dec. 22—"WOLF COURISING" describes a hunt for coyotes in Oklahoma with a party of ranchmen and cowboys. John Abernathy, famous hunter and father of the celebrated kids, was in the company. Several days of coyote hunting on the open prairie and an entertaining account of camp life, with cow punchers and hunters for companions. Much interesting information concerning the curious prairie wolf.

Dec. 29—"IN THE LOUISIANA CANEBRAKES" is the record of a fortnight spent in bear hunting in the swamps. For several days the party finds plenty of game—good game—but no bears. At last, however, Colonel Roosevelt gets his bear, a monstrous she-bear, and the way he tells of it makes a story worth reading.
