

LEAGUE ADOPTION TO MEAN WAR RENEWAL, SEN. SHERMAN SAYS

Predicts Strife Between Two Great Coalitions If League Formed; Says Project Sure to Be Defeated in Senate.

New York, March 8.—Adoption of the league of nations plan will be a signal for renewed warfare in Europe not between two nations, but between two coalitions of nations in another world conflict, Senator L. Y. Sherman of Illinois declared in a speech at the Republican club here today.

"The minute you form a coalition of powers," Senator Sherman said, "including those who will be signatory to the league, you drive Russia, Austria and the Asiatic countries into a hostile coalition, and then we would not have to prepare for war between two nations, but between two great coalitions. Germany, admitted to the league, could be just as treacherous as she could in a war coalition. There are just as many Bernstorffs now as before the war. None of them was killed."

Senator Sherman predicted the league of nations project will be overwhelmingly defeated in the senate. "I doubt if it can even command a majority," he declared.

"In spite of a censored press, restrictions on free speech and tremendous influence of governmental powers, swayed by an intolerant administration, people will learn what the league contains.

"It cannot command public sentiment when it is known. No fears need be entertained of what the American people will do when they understand what it will do to them. If the question were brought to a vote today, 52 senators would go on record against it."

SWEDISH OFFICIAL TAKES FIRST SPIN VIA AIRPLANE

New York, March 8.—The first foreign representative to attempt a flight in an American made plane arrived in New York from Washington and landed safely at Belmont field. The passenger was Dinius Jollen, postmaster general of Sweden, and the pilot was Robert Shank. The airplane left Washington at 11:45 o'clock in the morning carrying 300 pounds of mail matter, and after encountering severe high winds arrived in New York at 2:30 p. m.

Dr. Julien said he would recommend the use of airplanes for mail service upon his return to Sweden.

Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the military committee, will make a similar flight next week.

INDICATED SHIP WORKERS VOTE A RETURN TO WORK

Seattle, Wash., March 8.—Unofficial returns from the 22 unions participating Friday and Saturday in a referendum on the shipyard strike in effect here since January 21, indicate a majority in favor of a return to work. The official committee will make a completed list tomorrow morning. Twenty thousand strikers voted in the referendum.

EMMETT

Emmett, March 8.—Frank Chapin has resigned his place in the Gamage-Barker shop and will turn his attention exclusively to the life insurance business.

E. T. Horine and Clarence Hawes, who were arrested a couple of weeks ago for having too much moonshine whiskey in their possession, were up for trial this week. Both pled guilty and each received a fine of $100 and three months in jail. They claimed they found the booze at mill post 89, but acknowledged that they had found the same kind of goods there before.

M. A. Pattison, who lost his home on Washington street by fire the first of January, has a new house well under way.

Construction work on the new Nazarene church will soon begin. The excavation for the basement has already been completed.

The city council has arranged to add a considerable amount of territory to that already supplied by the water system and will accordingly have a lot of pipe laid as soon as the work can be done.

Kirk Landers, who has been city marshal for some time has purchased a ranch east of Emmett and will devote his energies and attention to that during the coming season. W. R. Crabtree has been appointed as marshal to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Landers.

LAMBING SEASON AT PARMA NEARLY OVER

Parma, March 8.—The lambing season here is nearly over. Probably the three biggest shepherds to lamb here this season are Walter Little, who lambed 10,000 ewes; Pat Connelly, about 10,000 ewes; and Mr. McFadden, 1300 ewes.

Some of Idaho's prominent sheepmen are also feeding beef cattle this winter. For instance, Andrew Little, the big Emmett flockmaster, is fattening 100 head of cattle near Parma; and Pat Connelly is fattening 150 steers here.

Other feeders of steers here this winter are: H. F. Lemp, 200 head; Fred Fisk, 100; S. G. Tuning, 100; E. G. Johnson, 100; Mr. Watkins, 100; Mr. Howitt, 100; Neil O'Donnell, 50; William Leigh, 25.

William Leigh some time ago bought three forties adjoining his 300-acre farm which is only a mile west of Parma. He is developing the place into a fine stock ranch.

TONG WAR THREATENING

San Francisco, March 8.—Resumption of hostilities by the Bing Kong and Suey Sen Tong ready to flare up tonight, was postponed through efforts of the peace committee appointed by the Chinese Six companies. The peace committee is still hopeful of settling the trouble, but the Bing Kong remain insistent that they be paid $40,000 or be given the slayer of Jee Jee Fong, powerful tong man, while the Suey Sen declare both demands unreasonable.

He Quit Tobacco

This veteran S. B. Lamphere, was addicted to the excessive use of tobacco for many years. He wanted to quit but needed something to help him. He learned of a free book that tells about tobacco habit and how to conquer it quickly, easily and safely. In a letter he writes: "I have no desire for tobacco any more. I feel like a new man." Others report similarly. Wonderful for cigarette and pipe habit, and chewing.

Anyone desiring a copy of this book on tobacco habit, smoking and chewing, can get it free, postpaid, by writing to Edward J. Woods, TB-100, Station F, New York City. You will be surprised and pleased. Look for quieter nerves, stronger heart, better digestion, improved eyesight, increased vigor, longer life and other advantages if you quit poisoning yourself with nicotine. In three days you can be rid of the addiction—then become yourself, a man among men.—Adv.

GOVERNMENT ASKS AID OF COMMERCIAL CLUB

Department of Labor Seeks to Have Booster Organization Lend Hand in Securing Employment for Soldiers.

The Boise Commercial club is asked, by Secretary Wilson of the department of labor, to make every effort to help returning soldiers and also civilians to get employment as it is believed that if there is any serious unemployment, there will be a period of industrial unrest which may lead to a repetition of the French or the Russian revolution.

In connection with the matter, Secretary Lane, of the department of the interior, says:

"If congress will appropriate the relatively small sum which I have asked for the construction of soldier-settlements in every state in the Union, I can offer jobs almost immediately to 100,000 of our returned fighting men, thus helping to stem the tide of industrial unrest predicted by Secretary Wilson; provide farm homes for 25,000 of these men, thus mitigating the evils of tenantry; and bring into cultivation 1,500,000 acres of at present unproductive land, thus helping to make up the deficiency in the rate of growth of cultivated land as compared with the rate of growth of our population. There can be no surer insurance for the nation than to put its men upon the soil."

Secretary Wilson's views on the subject read that the present period of readjustment is the critical time, and if the nation can pass through it safely, America has before it from eight to ten years of industrial activity equal to any wave of prosperity we ever have had.

The Commercial club will assist in the employment of men and women in every possible way, Secretary Hyatt already having secured, through the aid of the Capital News, employment for several returned soldiers.

ONE SOLDIER KILLED FIVE HUN FIGHTERS

The third and last installment of excerpts from letters of soldiers to parents and friends in Boise and vicinity is given below.

There are many letters in the possession of the News, but the ones which we have printed are those which contain real news of interest to our subscribers and friends. The most of the letters are personal, and would not interest any but the writer and recipient, hence we use but a small bit of them.

The excerpts follow:

Private Lyle M. Farrell: "We are living in an old chateau. All the furnishings were left. It is the most extravagant and magnificent place I ever saw. Some of the rooms are 50 feet in length and 35 feet wide. The walls are paneled and every room, even the bedrooms, have a big fireplace of marble."

Private Richard I. Taylor: "I just came out of some very thick shell fire, but only got hit once, and then not bad. I have five Germans to my credit and hope to have more in the next tilt with them."

Private Raymond R. Hutcheson: "I'd like to be back on a farm to start work if this war was settled, but the very best farm in the U. S. couldn't have made me stay behind. It's the Kaiser's scalp for the Yankees."

Sergeant Orville Jackson: "Could you see England's railroads you would sure laugh. Little dinky cars, divided into compartments. Through France we rode in box cars."

Corporal R. J. Bailey: "French houses are all made out of stone and plaster, no wood only for floors and cross beams, and even some of the floors are made out of tile. Most all the wards are walled in with great heavy iron gates like they expected some one to try and destroy them."

Corporal Clifford Eastman: "Believe me, girls, there are sure some cute girls in this town. I stepped out with a nifty little Belgian queen three times, but I didn't go to town for a week and haven't seen her since."

Private Alvin E. Hashbarger: "A bunch of Huns tried to sneak into our trenches, but they were caught in the act and had to 'ball the jack.'"

Corporal G. V. Shook: "The first night I was here I got lost and thought I never would find camp. The streets in these French towns run in all directions. It seems no two run the same way. If a fellow doesn't hit the right one, he is up against it."

"It sure wasn't very pleasant in that Argonne forest affair," said J. E. Anderson, wounded soldier, who returned to Boise Friday after having been in foreign service for many months.

"Saell and bullets were cutting the trees around us like wheat bends before a gale," he continued. "When the order came for us to advance that day, the 'Fighting Ninety-First' went over the top, laughing and acting like they were on their way to a picnic. But soon, the air was filled with whistling hell. Bullets threw dirt into our faces, or thudded into the bodies of our men, and high explosive and shrapnel literally filled the air with flying fragments of death. We got 'into the forest. All around us trees were being cut in twain by Boche shells, and machine gun bullets rained through the forest. Down we laid."

"Where most of us fell, the ground had been saturated with mustard gas, and some of it was still there. Imagine, if you can, lying with your face pressed to ground that burned your head lest it stop a Hun bullet. Imagine also the turmoil and noise as trees fell with crashes, and shell burst in our midst continually. Finally, we got the word to exterminate machine gun nests which were raking us. It meant death for many, but the spot had to be taken or the division would be annihilated. Up and at 'em we went with a cheer. Gunners were found chained to machine guns, pitifully crying 'Kamarad.' We took the gun emplacements at a large loss of men, but saved the loss of all of them. And we didn't take many prisoners either."

"Where did I get this wound?" "Right there in that same spot. A high explosive shell dropped in our midst while we were laying in the mustard fire in the forest. A piece of it got me in the wrist and hip; other pieces killed two and wounded six of my bunkies."

Anderson was a member of Company B, 361st Infantry, N. A., first engagement with the 91st division. His first engagement was at St. Mihiel, the next Argonne forest. Before entering the army, Anderson was a "fireboy" on the Short Line, and will return to railroading after he has rested up a bit.
