NOT DANGEROUS, THIS 'CUCKOO COMPLETUS'

No Need to Worry When Football Player Goes Dippy on Field—His Mental Spark Plug Not Really Cracked.

Football fans are advised not to worry when a man goes dippy on the field. The accident is common and not dangerous, for when a man comes to he is all right and doesn't know he has been hit. Probably he will ask who won the game with his first words.

It is often considered a great joke by the players, this disease which has been diagnosed by the medical fraternity as more or less harmless. It occurs when the central cerebral vertebrae is turned agnostically across the spinal furrow, giving the effect of the cuckoo completus, according to the learned. Sometimes a player contracts it and goes right ahead, never missing a signal and playing great ball. At other times he will wander aimlessly around and has to be taken from the field.

The disease has evidently spread like an epidemic among University of California grid men. Three of them have been so affected this year. Dummy Wells was the first, and was out of his head two hours. Harry Godde got it in practice one day and didn't come out until after dinner. Murray completed the trio last Saturday with the Occidental college game, when he was hit on the head in the second quarter, and not knowing what was going on, had to be taken out of the game.

So far no cases of the kind have been reported among the University of Washington players, probably for the reason that they use their heads for other purposes.—Seattle Times.

AMERICAN TO COACH ITALIAN TRACK TEAM

Platt Adams, physical director for the Y. M. C. A. in France, and coach of the A. E. F. track team at the inter-allied games at Pershing Stadium last spring, has been chosen as coach for the Italian team which will compete in the Olympic games next year. Adams was a member of the American Olympic teams in 1908 and 1912 and is winner of 38 championship events.

EDDIE HEARNE SETS NEW 100-MILE MARK OVER ARIZONA TRACK

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 10.—Eddie Hearne today holds the world's record for 100 miles on a one-mile dirt track.

He set it yesterday driving his Chevrolet car in the auto races at the Arizona state fair here. Hearne drove the 100 miles in 89 minutes, nine seconds, lowering the record of 91 minutes, 30 seconds, which was set by Tom Alley at Hamline, Mich., and has stood since 1914.

Roscoe Sarles, driving a Frontenac, was second in yesterday's race and Cliff Durant, driving a Chevrolet, was third.

STILL POUNDS BALL; PUTS IT OVER FENCE THREE TIMES SUNDAY

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 10.—Babe Ruth pounded three balls over the fence here yesterday but was credited with only two more home runs.

The big Bostonian belted one over the right field wall of the Oakland grounds in the morning and another one off his bat cleared the right field fence of Recreation park, San Francisco, in the afternoon. A third hopped over the right field fence of the park and was called a foul, but fans, thinking it fair howled at Umpire Hildebrand. The morning battle was a draw but Ruth's slugging won the afternoon session for Weaver's pets against Harrington's All Stars.

Ruth departs tonight with the victors for Sacramento where they are to play an exhibition game on Tuesday.

BRITISH BOARD PUTS FEAR INTO STALLERS

A good example for American Athletic commissions is set by the board of boxing control of London every now and then. Not long ago Alf Mansfield was suspended for three years for striking a foul blow in a boxing contest. Joe Conn, the English featherweight champion, and a boxer named Rossi are now up before the board for stalling. The referee stopped their bout at the end of the 17th round and called it "no contest" on the grounds that the men were not boxing on their merits.

LEONARD RISS TITLE AT 140 POUND MARK

When Benny Leonard meets Jimmy Duffy next Saturday at Tulsa it will be a 15-round contest to be a referee's decision for the lightweight championship. And Leonard has consented to defend his title at 140 pounds. The title has been known to change hands at various weights above the 133 pound minimum, but never at as high a figure as 140.

OHIO STATE IS HEADED FOR GRID TITLE; ONLY UNBEATEN TEAM IN WESTERN CIRCUIT

By N. E. BROWN.

Ohio state university is headed toward the western conference grid title and, unless the dope bucket is kicked Hongkong west and crooked, Chick Harley and his fellow gridgers will win it.

The battles of Nov. 1 left the state team the only undefeated eleven in the Big Ten. Wisconsin had battled through the early games without losing until they ran up against Minnesota. The Minnesota crew nicked them to the tune of 19 to 7. Chicago had hopes of keeping her slate clean until Illinois put a crimp in it. And so, the list of unbeaten elevens dwindled to one—State.

State has three games yet to play and, to be absolutely sure of a clear claim to the title, must win all of them. One defeat would give Wisconsin a chance to claim half the crown, provided that team went through the rest of its schedule without slipping again.

Of the three games State faces only one that looks to be a real tough battle. That is the final game of the season with Illinois Nov. 22, despite the fact that Wisconsin must be overcome the week previous.

How can Illinois be figured as more dangerous than Wisconsin, if Wisconsin has kept its slate clean the longer and has a record as good as Illinois shows, you ask?

Well, for this reason. Wisconsin nosed out a victory over Northwestern University 10 to 6 Michigan, defeated by Ohio State, barely managed to sneak through with a victory over Northwestern, which would make Wisconsin look strong. But, on the other hand, Chicago swamped Northwestern 41 to 6, and Illinois hung on to Chicago's eye, 14 to 10.

Of course, football figures are the most unreliable little things in the world, but the cold scores are the most definite means of judging the relative strength of the teams at that. Looking at the figures from another angle, an easy victory for Illinois over State can be doped out. State defeated Michigan by a score of only 13 to 3, Michigan just nosed out Northwestern, Chicago swamped Northwestern and Illinois swamped Chicago.

This line of dope is weakened by the fact that Northwestern's team had been crippled by Wisconsin and half of the men who played for Northwestern against Chicago were second string men.

Aside from the figures the general team play of the two teams, Illinois and State, gives State the edge. State, led by Chick Harley, ably assisted by Pete Stinchcomb, has a wonderful machine. The defeat handed Michigan showed State to have one of the most powerful, smoothest working football teams in western conference history.

ing Willard and Dempsey together. The largest crowd ever assembled in America for a boxing contest, though not the biggest money maker, was that which watched Johnny Kilbane defeat Frankie Burns at Jersey City recently. The bout was held in the baseball park, and seats sold for $1 and $2. The attendance was 46,800.

The prize for the low water mark in box office management should go to an obscure promoter in Colorado Springs who recently tried to organize a pass-the-hat boxing club. All plans were suspended after the opening entertainment because the promoter failed to get his hat back.

Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Patterson of Berkeley are guests at the Owyhee. Guy Saunders of Hazelton is in the city on business for a few days. A. E. Robison and M. S. Cathcart, are down from Placerville, guests at the Grand. C. E. Robison was an arrival Sunday evening from Quartzburg.

HEAVY WRESTLERS READY AND ANXIOUS FOR FRAY TONIGHT

Suggestion of Personal Feeling Adds to Expectancy of Fans in Santel-Petroff Grappling Contest—Details Settled.

Sport fans are in for a great entertainment tonight at the Pinney theatre when Dan Petroff, the Balkan Lion, and Ad Santel, champion light heavyweight wrestler of the world, get their hands on each other. Both are splendid physical specimens, crafty and experienced, and like two thoroughbred race horses are anxious to be on their way.

A well known business man of Boise, member of the Boise Athletic club, said yesterday that Petroff was the finest example of physical development and strength he had seen in this city.

"Eugene Sandow," said he, "was supposed to be the most perfect physical wrestler of 15 years ago when he was examined by the directors of the big universities. But he has nothing on this Balkan Lion. Sandow had a finer face and head, but he surely did not measure up to the bodily perfection of this lad."

There seems to be some personal feeling between Petroff and Santel, too. The former has mentioned more than once that he has been especially anxious to meet the champion, and has intimated that there is a private score to settle. It is worthy of note that up to a late hour this afternoon the two men had not shaken hands or consented to appear at the same time at the club or elsewhere. Each one says he intends to win tonight without any waste of time.

Promoter Collins says he has six fast colored boxers and a pair of white boys all roped and fastened in the corral, ready to pick from for the boxing preliminaries at the show tonight. The first preliminary will begin at 8:30 o'clock, doors being opened 45 minutes earlier. Thompson's orchestra will waft sweet music before the battle and during any waits that may occur.

Konstantine O. Romanoff has been appointed by the athletic commission to referee the main event. Mason Youd will keep the boys moving in the preliminaries. Judges and timekeepers will be selected at ringside.

PERSONALS

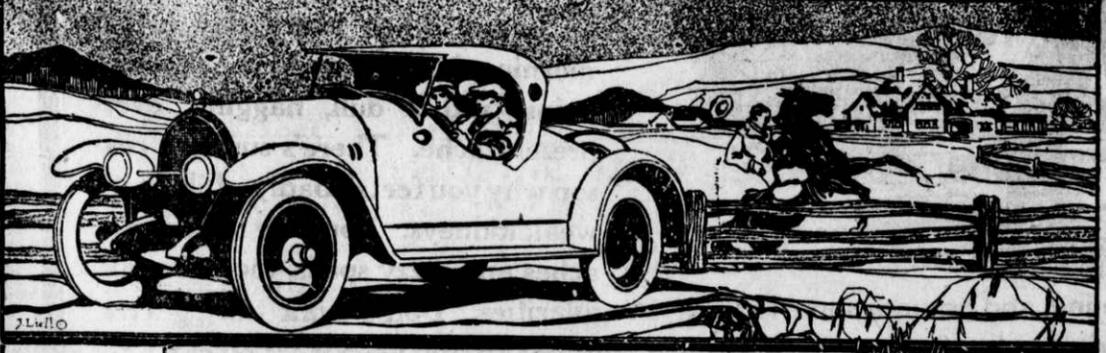

R. O. Graham arrived this morning from Pocatello and will remain in the city for a day or two on business. W. J. Greenwood and C. D. Williams came in from Mackay today. They are guests at the Idahoan. W. J. McFarland is up from New Plymouth on a short business trip. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Schodde and Frank Schodde, well known residents of southeastern Idaho, are guests at the Grand. Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Patten of Caldwell spent Sunday in Boise. Henry Cutler and family are down from Banks spending a few days. B. F. Buffington was a Sunday evening arrival in the city from Buhl.

TRYOUT FOR DEBATE TEAM.

University of Idaho, Moscow, Nov. 10.—Between 25 and 30 aspirants to forensic honors will try out Wednesday afternoon for positions in the University of Idaho debate team which will meet Washington State college, December 12, in a platform tilt on the subject, "Resolved: That the United States should adopt a plan to provide for universal military training."

Professor C. W. Chenoweth, university debate coach, yesterday expressed his belief that this large array of candidates will make possible the development of a decidedly capable debating squad.

Boiling Points are the only real proof of Gasoline Goodness in a motor fuel

The gravity test is not a dependable or accurate way to judge gasoline. It tells nothing about combustion or carburetting qualities. And the real test of gasoline goodness is its combustibility and its even vaporization.

Both complete combustibility and uniform vaporization depend on an unbroken chain of low, medium and high boiling points. These are only found in a straight distilled gasoline. Mixtures of super-volatile casing head gasoline and sluggish kerosene lack the medium or intermediate combustion points and therefore vaporize unevenly and give carburetor trouble.

Con-O-co Gasoline has a complete, unbroken chain of boiling points. That is why it burns up completely and leaves no troublesome carbon deposit to foul spark plugs, clog piston rings or require frequent carburetor adjustments.

With Con-O-co Gasoline in the tank engines start promptly, pick up speed easily and develop the utmost power at the smallest gasoline cost per mile.

At filling time look for the Con-O-co Soldier Sign.
