CANNOT FIND THE OWNERS OF $41,000 WORTH OF BONDS

Held in Federal Reserve Bank at San Francisco — Those Entitled to Them Were Given Interim Certificates.

More than $41,000 worth of first Liberty loan bonds, with accrued interest amounting to nearly $2600 is going begging for rightful owners in the federal reserve bank of San Francisco, according to an announcement received in Boise Saturday. The bank has had the bonds for over two years, and is anxious that their owners, who were given interim certificates in lieu of the bonds during the first loan, surrender the certificates at once in exchange for the bonds.

At the time of the first Liberty loan the actual bonds were not ready for distribution, and interim certificates were issued. These, however, bear no interest, so that persons throughout the Twelfth federal reserve district who are holding interim certificates should communicate with the federal reserve bank in order that the exchange can be made at once and the interest accrued on the bonds paid. If a subscriber has lost the certificate, the federal reserve bank should be notified, and, upon request, procedure to be followed in presenting claim for relief will be furnished.

K. C. MEMBERS ASKED BUY THRIFT STAMPS

"Buy thrift stamps and keep the government financially sound," is the message that has been sent around the country to more than 600,000 members of the Knights of Columbus by William J. McGinley, supreme secretary, and received in Boise Saturday. Because the "Casseys" have been found to be thoroughly efficient in all past tasks which the government has engaged them to participate in, the treasury department requested Mr. McGinley to boom the thrift stamp idea through the local councils of the order.

The knights have been at the service of the government in the war, the months following the armistice and now the peace time reconstruction. They have placed throughout the country more than 75,000 former service men in jobs, have assisted in war insurance, are recovering the lost luggage of the A. E. F., have supported all the Liberty and Victory loan drives, awarded 400 college and university scholarships to returned fighters, planned and opened school accommodations for more than 100,000 demobilized men, have urged the Roosevelt Memorial drive, located the graves of some 15,000 soldiers in Europe, supported the Red Cross, are fighting tuberculosis by educational methods and finding missing soldiers.
