

US TAKING PRESENTS NUMEROUS DIFFICULT PROBLEMS SAY OFFICIALS

The enumeration of the population of the United States always presents numerous difficulties, among them the apprehension on the part of the people, particularly those of foreign birth or extraction, that their answers to the enumerators' questions will cause increased taxation, legal entanglements or other consequences injurious to their welfare. In order to quiet such unfounded fears and at the same time acquaint all persons with the main questions included in the census schedules this statement has been prepared.

It is, therefore, earnestly hoped that clergymen, editors, school teachers, employers, agricultural agents and other public-spirited citizens who come in contact with large numbers of people will grasp every opportunity to correct any erroneous opinions about the census which they may hear. It is no less earnestly hoped that all public-spirited citizens will aid the government in the gigantic task of taking the 1920 census by making frequent use of the information set forth to impress people with the great importance of the coming census and to urge them to prepare for the coming of the census enumerators so that correct and complete answers may be given.

ENUMERATION BEGINS JAN. 2

The census is requested every 10 years by the constitution of the United States and by act of congress. The date named for beginning the 1920 census is January 2, but the "Census Day" is January 1.

In cities the population enumeration will be completed in two weeks.

The enumeration of farms will be completed within 30 days.

The censuses of manufactures, mines and quarries, oil and gas wells and forestry and forest products will, as a rule, be taken by special agents and by correspondence and not by enumerators.

The census is the means by which the government ascertains the increase in the population, the statistics concerning agriculture and the vital information concerning the resources of the nation.

CENSUS FOR STATISTICAL PURPOSES

The census inquiries are defined by act of congress.

The information gathered is strictly confidential, made so by law.

Census information cannot under any circumstances be used as a basis for taxation, nor can it be used to harm any person or his property.

It has nothing whatever to do with detection, arrest, prosecution or punishment of any person for any violation of law.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS ASKED

1. Age at last birthday.
2. Each person ten years of age and over will be asked whether he is able to read or write.

6. Each person will be asked his occupation and whether he is an employer or employee or is working on his own account.

The answers to the above question give valuable and vital information to the government concerning the health, welfare and progress of the persons under its protection.

QUESTIONS ASKED FARMERS

off the farm during the year 1919?

11. Acreage of timber land on farm and value of forest products.

Correct answers to the above questions are of the utmost importance. The United States department of agriculture assisted the census bureau in preparing the questions on the agriculture schedule and appeals to farmers everywhere to keep farm records for census purposes.

Copies of the agriculture schedule can be had in advance by any farmer by writing to the director of the census, Washington, D. C.

FARM DEFINED

A farm for purposes of the census includes all the land cultivated by a single farmer, either by his own labor alone or with the help of hired labor. It may be in two or more separate tracts, but it is all one farm if it is all under one management.

The land cultivated by a share hand or cropper, or by a cash renter, constitutes a separate farm and is not to be counted as the owner's farm or included in it, but should be reported in the name of the tenant.

IDENTIFICATION CARDS CARRIED

Census enumerators will carry identification cards as well as written commissions. These will be shown promptly by the enumerators upon request of any person.

In all cases where persons are suspicious of imposters these identification cards should be demanded. It is a census official and imposters should be reported to the authorities.

QUESTIONS MUST BE ANSWERED

The act of congress providing for the census makes it the duty of all persons to furnish the information asked for by the enumerators to fill out the census schedules. No persons should hesitate, neglect or refuse to answer fully and accurately all the enumerator's questions. He only asks the questions necessary to fill the schedules as required by the act of congress.

Keepers of hotels, apartment houses, boarding or lodging houses, or tenements, must assist the enumerator in getting the information concerning the persons living in such hotels and houses.

UNCLE SAM GIVES TIP ON CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Our good old Uncle Sam, whom the men who draw our funny pictures, have caricatured in all poses, pranks and predicaments, has put on false whiskers, stuffed a pillow over his tummy, and arrayed himself in a red-furred suit for Christmas. He is going to be a real Santa Claus—not a Santa Claus who climbs down your chimney when you are not looking, but a fellow who knows what he is about and is going to knock on the front door of your common sense, intelligence and Americanism this Christmas and ask you to give at least part of your presents in war savings stamps and treasury savings certificates.

He is not going to try to rob anybody of the joyousness of Christmas, nor is he going to take from us as much as he gives. As a Santa Claus he has bargains—the greatest bargains in the world. He will sell a $5 war savings stamp for $4.25. It is a United States security and therefore the most durable present in the world. He will sell a $100 treasury savings certificate, which is really a grown-up war savings stamp, for $84.69 and a $1000 treasury savings certificate, which is really a giant war savings stamp, for $846.

Uncle Sam is going to be such a tremendously big Santa Claus that he won't be able to get around to see you personally, so he asks that you go to the postoffice or to any bank and buy his Christmas presents. With a war debt of $26,000,000,000 he needs

BEHOLD THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD

Place a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before eating more food.

To feel like young folks feel: like you felt before your blood and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate, which is inexpensive and almost tasteless. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast.—Adv.

Bulbs May Be Grown Over Very Wide Area Says Department of Agriculture

The United States uses every year, in normal times, about $2,000,000 worth of bulbs and has produced nearly $25,000 worth of Dutch bulbs in any one year—this despite the fact that few plants are more widely adapted and few crops more easily grown than bulbs.

The reason for this situation, says the United States department of agriculture, is that bulbs have always been thought that the bulbs could be bought cheaper than they could be grown. In the future, however, conditions are going to be different, and the department has published Bulletin No. 737, "Commercial Dutch-Bulb Culture in the United States." This 50 page discussion of the subject is available for limited distribution to interested persons.

Thus far, says the bulletin, commercial production of Dutch bulbs in this country has been confined to the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard, north of Norfolk and San Francisco, respectively. Good bulbs have been produced in both regions. The western area is confined to a rather narrow strip which receives suitable rainfall and is sufficiently affected by sea coast conditions to prevent rapid transition from winter to summer. Heat and moisture conditions are not so sharply defined in the east, and the bulb area is much more indefinite as to width.

SUCCEED UNDER MANY CONDITIONS

In the interior, in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, small quantities of tulip and narcissus bulbs have been grown sufficiently long to show the possibility of the successful production of many varieties.

Some of the harder and more robust of the narcissus varieties thrive well and naturalize even in the Gulf states, but this region is best adapted to the so-called south France stocks. The growing of tulips and Dutch hyacinths probably should not be attempted there.

Contrary to what would be generally supposed, it is not too cold for tulips and narcissus to succeed as far north as Sitka, Alaska. They thrive well along the entire northern border of the United States wherever the moisture conditions are suitable.

Thus it will be seen that these stocks succeed under a great diversity of conditions. Indeed, they seem to be as adaptable as ordinary cultivated crops. The successes with the three main groups of these bulbs on the northern Pacific coast; the large production of a long list of narcissus varieties in southern Illinois and Virginia; the culture of Darwin and other tulips in Michigan, northern New York, Ontario, and Virginia, and the admirable hyacinth bulbs often produced in private gardens throughout the region south of New York, under conditions of comparative neglect and a large measure of ignorance of their life history, would seem to prove sufficiently that we have an abundant territory adapted to growing these stocks.

Many are the uses of a new fountain brush with a hollow handle from which any liquid or paste can be fed to the bristles by manipulating a valve with a thumb.

Above the frame of a new gaslight fixture is a turbine that is whirled by the heated air, stopping and shutting off the flow of gas should the flame be blown out.
