Idaho Architectural Association Enjoys Banquet at Owyhee—Paul Davis Discusses Idaho's Law Enforcement System.

Members of the architectural association and invited guests to the number of 23 enjoyed an elaborate banquet at the Owyhee Monday evening. Charles W. Wayland presided as toastmaster. Short, snappy and pointed addresses were made by Charles H. Whitaker of Washington, D. C., Fred P. Wilson of Bozeman, Mont., Benjamin W. Oppenheim, Mayor Eagleston, W. N. Sweet and A. S. Whiteway. Two addresses featured the Monday afternoon session, one by Fred P. Wilson, a member of the state architectural board of Montana and past war committee. "Advertising and Fees" was the topic under which the Montana architect spoke. He pointed out that architects got very little advertising in building write-ups in newspapers and also cited that in awarding the work of drawing plans school boards and commissioners often required that a dozen or more architects draw preliminary plans and figure on work only to find that it is let to some outside firm, not familiar with conditions with the result that later the plans and work are found to be more expensive than if done by a firm on the ground acquainted with conditions. The speaker cited instances which he knew of the kind told of, where the costs had been several thousand dollars more than had a local architect been employed in the first instance.

DISCUSSES IDAHO LAWS
Paul Davis addressed the architects upon the subject, "Idaho Professional Laws," explaining in detail the present system used in connection with the law enforcement department with which he is associated. He said in part: "To secure the enforcement of the law we must have the cooperation of the professions, and vice versa. To secure enforcement you must report violations to the department or file complaints yourself. Some practitioners send anonymous letters to the department. While these are placed on the complaint list, they do not receive the consideration that a signed letter would. Remember this, every complaint to the department is held in strict confidence. The department has at times been censured severely for releasing the name of the man making the complaint. No name was ever given out by the department but the inspector investigating a case comes in contact with the alleged violator and demands to know the name of the man making the complaint. Upon refusal the man would say, 'you don't need to tell me, it was So and So, he is sore at me,' or words to that effect."

CLOSE HARMONY
"There is the closest harmony between the societies and associations in Illinois, and I will make mention of the veterinarians society in that state. The practitioner in the locality where the illegal practitioner operates sends to the secretary of the state association three distinct violations of the veterinarian laws. The secretary of the association then turns them over to the department of registration. Inspectors are then dispatched to that locality. If the information is found correct, he then files a complaint against the alleged violator. Under this plan they secured 87 convictions out of 99 cases reported."

"This plan appeals to me for the reason that in this state we have been sent information against certain parties, but upon investigation we find insufficient evidence. It would be a waste of the prosecutor's, inspectors, and the court's time and money to file a complaint. There is no use in trying to prosecute any man, however, if you have a reasonable chance for conviction, you certainly should proceed. As a rule these men say well I reported a case, they looked around, said they had no case, and that was the last I ever heard of them. It's no use, the department won't do anything. He has only a general idea of the law, while the inspectors are acquainted with every loop-hole and technicality in the law. You readily see why the department will be condemned for no apparent cause."

TO MAINTAIN STANDARD
"Idaho is a large state and the fact that a violation is reported today, it might be impossible to send a man the succeeding day or week. We have complaints from every locality, literally by the hundreds. Some cases have merit, while others are reported upon suspicion alone and sometimes personal animosity is involved. The sifting process is necessarily slow. But let me tell you, if the department has the evidence we will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law, be he high or low."

"While this convention is in session, if there is anything the department should have done, or something we have done, and should have done otherwise, any action for raising of the standards of the profession, we shall be pleased to have you pass resolutions or recommendations to that effect."

"By and with, your help and cooperation we will endeavor to maintain the standards of the profession on the highest possible level and to strictly enforce law against all illegal practitioners. To do so, your cooperation will be needed and appreciated. The department shall be glad to receive suggestions and advice at all times. Personally and on behalf of the department I wish to give the assurance that the department of law enforcement is, in every way, at your command."

PLAN DINNER IN HONOR OF SUSAN B. ANTHONY

Council of Women Voters to Celebrate Anniversary of Suffragist—Talk Welfare Home.

Celebration of the birthday of Susan B. Anthony, American pioneer suffragist, by the Boise Council of Women voters, will be given unusual prominence this year. It comes on Feb. 15, shortly after the special session of the legislature called to ratify the national suffrage amendment. The council Monday night decided to observe the occasion with a dinner and program at the Owyhee hotel.

Projects under consideration by the council for the establishment of a city detention home and a county "opportunity farm" as adjuncts to social welfare work, were also discussed by the council. The former is needed for delinquents who ought not be placed in the city or county jail, and the farm is desired to give backward or subnormal children a place to learn useful occupations.

EARLY IDAHO SHERIFF PASSES IN CALIFORNIA

Jack Campbell, a pioneer and politician prominent in Idaho history, died at his home at San Dimas, Cal., Monday at the age of 87 years. He was formerly sheriff of Logan county, and was warden of the state penitentiary from 1893 to 1897. He left Boise in 1907 and has made his home in California since. His widow and two sons survive.

Warden Cuddy of the penitentiary recalled, on receiving word of Mr. Campbell's death, incidents of his career as an officer of the law. At one time, said the warden, when in charge of the jail at Holey, Campbell was all but killed by a Chinese imprisoned murderer, but succeeded in overpowering the desperate man after he had been felled by a blow on the head.

PRESIDENT TO CALL MEETING OF THE LEAGUE

State Department Officials Assert Wilson Can and Will Call Gathering Following the Ratification of Treaty.

Washington, Jan. 6.—President Wilson can and undoubtedly will call the first formal meeting of the league of nations, it was said at the state department today.

It is explained that the president is empowered as an individual to call such a meeting upon ratification of the peace treaty by three or more of the ratifying powers, whether or not the United States has ratified.

Premier Clemenceau of France is charged with assembling the league of nations council informally. This body then will request President Wilson to issue the formal call. These moves will follow the deposit of treaty ratifications after the Germans have signed the protocol.

FALLS FROM WING OF CAPITOL; WILL LIVE

J. P. Losser Has Miraculous Escape From Death—Skull Fractured, but Has Chance to Recover.

A miraculous escape from instant death was fate's gift Monday afternoon to J. P. Losser, a worker on the capitol wings construction. Losser lost his balance on the second story of the east wing, fell headlong to the first floor, bounced and fell to the basement, his head striking between two steel projections used to reinforce the concrete. He suffered a compound fracture of the skull, and was severely bruised, but he lived. His head struck the steel projections he would probably have been beheaded.

Last night Dr. F. A. Pittenger performed an operation on Losser to raise some depressed bones on his skull, and this morning, although suffering mainly from his bruises, the injured man seemed to have every chance of rapid recovery.

TO THE DYSPEPTIC.
Would you not like to feel that your stomach troubles are over, that you can eat any kind of food that you crave? Consider then the fact that Chamberlain's tablets have cured others—why not you. There are many who have been restored to health by taking these tablets and can now eat any kind of food that they crave.—Adv. This.

COUGHED NIGHT AND DAY.
John Vognue, Elberton, Ga., writes: "Last fall, when my neighbors were down with influenza, I took a severe cold and before I was aware of my condition I was down sick in bed. I coughed night and day and my throat was raw and sore. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and took about 60 doses in two hours. My condition began to improve and in a few days I was as well as ever. In my opinion of Foley's is the best cough medicine made."—Adv.
