BUCKAROOING A REAL BUCI

We are all acquainted with deer rides in these days of the gas buggy and each of us probably have some great experiences to tell in connection therewith. But Tom Horton has a tale to tell of a ride he took some time ago which makes all the other tales we have heard about as interesting as a snowball in the land where dwells the Eskimeaux. Last year's deer season was fast drawing to a close when Tom brought him of the nice, juicy venison steaks which were roasting the hills and dells of our Central Idaho and decided to go and get some. He had been in the haunts of the fleet footed deer but a short time when his keen hunter's eye discovered a magnificent buck and Tom let drive with the result that Mr. Buck gave a snort of surprise and leaped to gather his cleak about him as one who lays down to pleasant dreams. Tom drew his edged hunting knife and just straddled the buck's back preparatory to "attacking" when the animal came suddenly to life, jumped to its feet and started down the steep side of the hill with a speed that a motorcycle cop would have envied. But where was the brave hunter all this time? Standing idly looking on? Ah, no, dear reader, you do not know Tom. He did not propose to trail that buck the rest of the day so decided to go with him and as the animal jumped to its feet Tom grabbed the branching antlers for the same reason that one hangs desperately to the straps in a street car, and just "natch-erally went along." The end of the fast ride was in the bottom of a gully and Tom did not leave his seat with any regrets. After this, Tom says, "he'll trail 'em instead of ridin' 'em, that is, of course, if he is allowed to take his choice."

DELICIOUS CORN MUFFINS.

Here's an old fashioned recipe for corn muffins that has recently been revived and used with unusual success in several of the larger New York hotels. To make three and a half dozen muffins take one quart milk, six ounces butter substitute, twelve ounces of light syrup or honey, four eggs, pinch of salt, two ounces baking powder, one and a half pounds cornmeal and one and a half pounds rye flour. The butter and syrup should be thoroughly mixed; then add the eggs gradually. Pour in the milk and add the rye flour mixed with cornmeal and baking powder.

WHEATLESS BISCUITS.

Parched cornmeal is the feature of these excellent wheatless biscuits. First, the cornmeal—one-half a cup—is put in a shallow pan placed in the oven and stirred frequently until it is a delicate brown. The other ingredients are a teaspoon of salt, a cup of peanut butter and one and a half cups of water. Mix the peanut butter, water and salt and heat. While this mixture is hot stir in the meal which should also be hot. Beat thoroughly. The dough should be of such consistency that it can be dropped from a spoon. Bake in small cakes in an ungreased pan. This makes 16 biscuits, each of which contains one-sixth of an ounce of protein.

Theodore Allison Laid to Rest

The funeral service of Theodore Allison, the notice of whose death we published in last week's Messenger, was held at the Odd Fellow's Hall Sunday afternoon, January 27th at 2 o'clock and was conducted by the Odd Fellows' Lodge of which he was a member, assisted by the Rebekahs, the choir and pastor of the Congregational church.

A very large number of sympathetic friends was present at the service and the floral offerings were beautiful and abundant.

Mr. Theodore Allison was born at Ulen, Minnesota, June 16, 188, where he grew to young manhood and where on December 17th, 1902, he was united in marriage to Miss Rose Blume, who, with their two children survive him.

About twelve years ago he came to this community from Minnesota and here he had formed a wide circle of friends.

Cut off in the prime of manhood, at the age of 37 years, 7 months and 5 days, he leaves besides his family here, his father and mother, five brothers and one sister, residing in Minnesota to mourn his death.

His mother and one brother were present at the funeral services.

Interment was in Challis cemetery.
