

MRS. ABBEY PROUD OF HER BIG GAIN

Weight Increased 39 Pounds and Nine Years' Trouble Ended.

"I hardly see how I endured such awful suffering, and if it hadn't been for Tanlac I don't believe I would be here today," said Mrs. Mollie Abbey, of Jennings Lodge, Ore.

"For nine years everything I ate caused gas to form so that it almost drove me distracted. I didn't dare eat any fruit and for four years if I even drank a glass of cold water I would suffer dreadfully. No one who didn't see me can imagine the awful condition I was in.

"But Tanlac changed all this and now I'm simply feeling fine. My appetite is splendid. I eat anything I want, have actually gained thirty-nine pounds and have so much strength and energy I easily do all my housework. Tanlac is a wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. —Advertisement.

Profiteering by a Doctor.

A medical man in Nagykoros, near Budapest, recently charged 5,000 crowns (present value £2, but purchasing value in a village about £6) for a single visit to a patient who lived not far from the doctor's residence. This patient sued the doctor for "profiteering," but the court dismissed the case. The plaintiff appealed, however, to a higher court, which gave judgment against the doctor, on the ground that the demanding of an exorbitant fee for professional services was to be regarded as profiteering, and was therefore illegal. It was decided that mental workers could fairly be considered as profiteers in such cases; no exception could be made concerning doctors, for although the latter did not technically receive "wages," their services came within the accepted meaning of "work."

Qualified Criticism.

Betty is a little southern beauty in spirit as well as in body. Always she finds things lovable in everything and everybody, and if she cannot say kind things she speaks not at all. It was cold and raw when she visited Chicago recently. With her aunt and mother she sat at a luncheon table in the loop. "My hands are terribly cold," said mother. "It's too bad the weather should be so chilly," the aunt agreed. Betty, with even a good word for a bad Chicago day, held up her hands. "Mine didn't get cold," she said with a smile. Then honesty compelled her to add—"except a little around the edges."—Chicago Tribune.

BROTHER'S HOME

The fact that his supposedly adored big brother was returning home from college that day had been carefully concealed from ten-year-old Tommy until he came back from school.

"Tommy," said his mother, after her younger son had gone upstairs to wash his face and the elder had been concealed in the pantry, "I have a big surprise for you."

"I know what it is," replied Tommy unconcernedly. "Brother's back." "Why, how did you guess that?" "Cause my money-box won't rattle any more."

Hint on Dancing.

She—You should change your style of dancing a little. He—In what way? She—You ought occasionally step on my left foot.—Irish Independent.

This is your corner. Make use of it for your information on questions that are puzzling you. It will be my pleasure and privilege to answer carefully and promptly all questions submitted to me. If a more detailed answer than can be given in these columns is desired, send a stamped envelope and it will be given prompt attention. All communications will always be held in absolute confidence.

All letters should be addressed very plainly in pen and ink to Helen Brooks, Box 1545, Salt Lake City.

Dear Miss Brooks:

I have been reading your corner every Friday night, and have had quite a lot of help so I thought I would come to you. I go with a girl. We have been friends for years. In the dance and other places we happen at times, to get in with some very popular girls. Then she thinks she is better than us, and slights us. Any other place she treats us all right. Some of my friends she will not go with, because she thinks they are not good enough. Would you go with her or not?

I remain, A QUESTIONER, Malad, Idaho.

Your girl friend does not show much tact, to say the least. If your friends are decent and respectable, they are "good enough" for any one to associate with. But you know we all have the right to choose our friends and it may not be altogether because she considers herself superior to your friends, but that she just does not care particularly for them and shows it in an untactful way. You must use your own judgment as to whether you should continue to go with her. Compare her with your other friends and see if she is not a friend worth keeping, then try to convince her that your other friends are also worthy of better treatment from her.

Dear Miss Brooks:

I'm going to take advantage of your little corner "Just Between You and Me." I have a few questions I would like you to answer for me.

- (1) Is it proper for a girl to treat a boy if he has some candy or gum? (2) How old should a girl be, before starting to go to dances? (3) If you met a boy should a girl say "Hello" first, or the boy?

Thanking you in advance, GRAY EYES, Idaho.

Yes, surely, it is proper to offer a boy friend candy or gum, but I might add that it is not good taste to chew gum anywhere in public. (2) You should be at least sixteen before going to dances, and if you attend public dances you should always be accompanied by your mother or some other person. (3) A girl should speak first to her boy friends.

Dear Miss Brooks:

I have some questions that have been bothering me.

When a boy starts keeping company with a girl should he ask to go to her place and get her, or should she ask him to call on her? And after taking a girl out should the boy thank her for going with him?

Thanking you very kindly in advance, A CORNER READER, Wendell, Ida.

Yes, indeed, after having asked a girl to accompany you any place, call and get her. A girl may ask a boy to come to her home for a call, but not to take her any place. It is perfectly proper to thank a girl for having gone any place with you.

Dear Miss Brooks:

I have some questions I would like to ask you.

(1) There is a girl in my town that was a good friend of mine until a new girl came and she quit me and went with the new girl. Now the new girl has gone away, is it proper for me to go with her again?

(2) I am a girl 14 years of age. Is it proper for me to go to public dances?

Hoping to get an early reply, BOBBY, Arco, Idaho.

Yes, dear, I think I would be friends with her again. We often neglect our best friends, but do not mean to really hurt them. I would not advise a girl of fourteen to go to public dances, and when you do go, you should always be accompanied by your parents or some older person.

Dear Miss Brooks:

I have read your corner for some time and I think it is just grand.

(1) Is it polite for a boy to go with a girl older than himself? (2) Is it polite for a boy to go with a girl the same age he is? (3) What is the best thing there is to whiten tanned or brown arms and face?

Thanking you very much for your trouble, from, A WONDERER of Idaho.

It is quite all right for a boy to go with a girl older than himself, or with a girl his same age. A few years difference either way does not make a great deal of difference. If you will send a stamped envelope I will send you the name of a reliable bleach for the face and hands.

Dear Miss Brooks:

I am quite pleased with the answers you have been giving in your corner "Just Between You and Me," so I thought I'd have you answer one. How would you use lemon soap to take the tan off the face and neck?

Thanking you dearly and I'll call again in the future. Sincerely yours, HOPE, Preston, Idaho.

There are various kinds of lemon soaps on the market and I know of no particular way to use them for removing tan. Do you know that it will remove tan? Ask the person you bought it of for directions how to use it. If you will send your name and stamped envelope I will send you the name of a good bleach.

Dear Miss Brooks:

I have some questions I would like

you to answer for me.

What are some proper games for girls and boys 14 years old to play at a party? And is it all right for a girl about 14 years old to come in town to work, although there is work at the ranch? I want to earn a little money for myself. I go home every night and my mother does not object. Is it proper?

Thanking you in advance, BROWN EYES, Arco, Idaho.

See answer to "Helen," Morgan, Utah, for games which may interest you.

You are young to leave home to work, but it would be perfectly proper, Brown Eyes, for you to do so if your mother is willing. We are all anxious to earn a little money of our own, aren't we?

Dear Miss Brooks:

I have found your corner very interesting and helpful and now I am going to ask you a question. I have hardly any eyelashes at all and what I have are very short and thin, and now, Miss Brooks, please, oh please, tell me what to do to make them come in long and thick.

Thanking you in advance, I am PINKY.

I hope I may be helpful to you. Send your name and a stamped envelope, and I will send you the name of a preparation which will increase the growth of your eyelashes.

Dear Miss Brooks:

I have been a constant reader of your corner since I discovered it and the answers you have given other girls have helped me a lot. So I thought I would write and see if you could help me out by answering some questions that have been bothering me.

1. Just what does it mean for a girl to be eighteen? Is it all right for her to stay at home and help as much as possible or should she try to support herself? I am eighteen, graduated from high school last year, but I want to take a post-graduate course to be ready to do the work I have picked out. Would it be all right for me to stay home and do this?

2. I am having the same trouble as Hope of Idaho. I do not like the boys of my town, but I cannot say as much for them as Hope does. Most of them are not what I would call good boys. They go entirely too far, and I would not trust myself with them at all. There is only one I care for at all, and he goes to the other extreme. He doesn't go anywhere but church. I like to go there with him, but would also like to go to a show once in a while with some one. What am I to do? Put away some of my proper and old-fashioned ideas and go with some one else, or go on as I am now?

PEGGY, Calif.

(1) When a girl reaches the age of eighteen it usually means that she thinks and acts for herself more than she has before that age. You are now ready to choose your life work, which you have done to some extent at least. It should depend entirely upon circumstances whether or not you stay at home. If your parents are able financially to keep you and your mother needs you, you should stay at home. I would think, if at the same time you can continue your studies, which is most important at this time. You should not try to support yourself unless the family finances are such that it is necessary.

(2) No, dear, I would not put away the perfectly proper ideas you have, but I would try to convince your boy friend that for his own good he should go somewhere besides church. Such a course causes one to become narrow and selfish and we all need diversion. A good show is educational and entertaining, and dancing is harmful only when we make it so.

Dear Miss Brooks:

Of all the "Corners," I like yours the best. Will you please answer the following questions for me? I have so many questions to ask, but will not ask them all this time, but come again some other time, if I may.

(1) When one gives a friend, either boy or girl, who graduates from high school or college, and this friend sends one the announcement, is one expected to give a present, or is it proper? And if so, just what is proper to give them? Would a pretty cretonne apron or a corset cover or a pretty night gown be appropriate to give the girl friend?

(2) When one receives a wedding announcement (not an invitation to the wedding reception, there was no reception given in this case) just what is proper to do—give a present or not? Or is it more proper to send a card congratulating the couple?

Best wishes and love to you, and thank you ever so much, CLAUDIA, Wyo.

Thanks for your glorious words of praise, Claudia.

(1) Yes, it is proper to give a present upon receiving an announcement of the graduation of a friend from high school or college. Any of the articles mentioned would be perfectly appropriate for a girl friend.

(2) A letter of congratulation is all that is necessary when only wedding announcements are received, except the case of that of a dear friend whom you would naturally wish to present with a gift. An invitation to a wedding, of course, calls for a wedding gift.

What Is It Worth to Change a Tire? On the road changing a tire is not an especially pleasant task. The dust or mud, the grease and grime, the tedious delay—all are things we like to avoid. But the time to think about these things is when you buy the tire—not after the blow-out occurs. For some tires blow out much more easily than others. Outward appearance counts for little. It is the material in the tire and the construction of it that determines its strength. Goodyear recognizes these facts and all Goodyear Tires are made of long staple cotton. Take the 30 x 3 1/2 Cross Rib Clincher Tire here illustrated, for example. It is made of Arizona cotton, the fibres of which average 1 1/2 inches long. Many 30 x 3 1/2 clincher tires are made of short staple cotton from 1/2 inch to 1 1/8 inches long. This means less strength and greater danger of blow-outs—more tire troubles. Yet this high grade guaranteed Goodyear Tire costs only $10.95. You can buy some tires for even less than this but none with the fine materials and construction of this one. Can you afford to take a chance on more frequent tire troubles for the sake of the slightly lower price of cheaper tires? GOODYEAR "Western Made for Western Trade"
