STATE NEWS

A car of machinery consisting of boilers, a hoist, pump and engine for the Blue Jacket mine, passed through Cambridge this week enroute to the mine.—Citizen.

Sheep are dying of swelled head, by dozens, on Elk creek, Camas prairie, says the Wood River Times.—Review.

The Times probably means "Little Camas Prairie." There is no Elk creek on Camas Prairie and there are no sheep dying here.

Lewiston, June 26.—Senator Mettfield is in the city visiting relatives and old friends. He says that rural free delivery routes from Lewiston into the fruit and farming districts to the east will be established as soon as the agent of the postal department can arrive and make a report.

Fred White returned the first of the week from a trip to Buffalo Hump and other camps. He reports about 18 miles of snow on the Hump road. The Jumbo machinery was all in at the mine when he left. Twenty-three men were at work on the Vesuvius. Warrens camp is very quiet.—Mail.

Secretary Hitchcock today denied the plaintiff's motion for a review in the case of Henry L. Land against Thomas F. Jacobs, from the Lewiston district, Idaho. The former decision dismissing Land's contest is adhered to.—Tribune.

This case involves a quarter section near Lawyer's canyon about ten miles from Cottonwood.

Judge I. B. Cowan was an arrival yesterday from Wallace enroute to Pierce City. On a recent visit to the district Judge Cowan inspected the strike made near Pierce by Tom Wilkinson, and on his return took a quantity of the ore to Wallace where it was assayed. The returns showed $895 in gold. Judge Cowan states the strike is unquestionably the richest ever made in that section.—Tribune.

The new town of Dublin has been laid out and is now only awaiting inhabitants to make it one of the best towns on the prairie. This town is situated about seven miles west of the homestead of David Lowry. A building 28x60 is now being erected by Tony Londers as a general mercantile store. W. A. Wright will probably erect a large flouring mill here during the summer.—Nex Perce Herald.

It is not necessary to ask if mining in Idaho is a profitable industry. As shown by the report of the United States assay office at Boise, the state produced in 1900 the great total of $18,236,840 worth of gold, silver and lead. The census gives Idaho 161,772 population, so the mineral yield was equivalent to $112 for every person in the state, or $560 for the average family. And this takes no account of the great sums derived from the farms, orchards, forests and ranges.—Statesman.

Oil near Weiser! We may come in a little behind our neighbors up the line, but we always get on top the heap in the final wind up. We are not called the "Fat Land" for nothing and will show that we have grease in our bowels as well as fat on the landscape. Cambridge, too, is in the swim, and a discovery of oil was made there this week by the P. & I. N. Ry., and a section of land covering the discovery was located Monday. It is believed the railway company will at once install machinery to develop the find.—Signal.

It is learned that Deputy United States Marshal Pinkham is enroute to the Salmon river country, where he will serve papers on a number of cattlemen who have been made defendants in actions recently instituted alleging unlawful enclosure of government land. The complaints, it is said, were recently made by individuals before the United States commissioner at Mt. Idaho. The actions, it is understood, are indirectly the result of the recent investigation made by special agent Meyendorf, who visited the Salmon river country and spent two weeks there. At that time he reported that the unlawful enclosures embraced thousands of acres extending for a distance of 100 miles along Salmon and Snake rivers. In one instance he stated that he found 6,000 acres under fence. The federal law against unlawful enclosure is very stringent, the extreme penalty being a fine of $1000 or one year's imprisonment. The south Idaho papers report that Agent Meyendorf returned a few days ago from a trip to the Salmon Meadows section of the Salmon river country, and it is believed the purpose of the trip was to secure further data before instituting suits in behalf of the government.—Tribune.

Four thousand soldiers are expected to purchase tickets to the east and south and a special staff of clerks has been ordered on hand for the occasion.
