Turn out, everyone, this evening and attend the citizens' meeting. The subject of incorporation will come up and we want to thoroughly discuss it in order that our preliminary steps will be in accordance with the law. It is high time this incorporation business was properly attended to so that the petition can be got before the commissioners at their next meeting.

The National Zeitung says: "President Roosevelt knows Germany and has learned to esteem it by personal studies. His indorsement of the reciprocity treaties will bring both countries nearer to each other economically, and increase their common interests. In wishing to maintain the friendship and guarantee the peaceful development and national work of both nations the president of the great republic will meet with the cooperation of the German people and government."

Once again let us say that we are not here for the purpose of mixing up in private quarrels or scandals that do no one any good. If you have a grudge against your neighbor it is none of our business and we do not want to hear it, unless it would be of general interest. If you want to publish anything of a personal character send in your copy and ask for your bill and we will fix it so that you alone are blamed for the utterances. We are running a newspaper and not an agitating sheet that sets neighbor against neighbor and cuts its own throat by doing so.

The three sayings of the President when he was shot were worthy of his office. "Cortelyou," he exclaimed, "My wife! Be careful about her. Don't let her know!" The assassin was faring badly at the hands of the crowd. Mr. McKinley noticed the commotion. "Let no one hurt him," he said. Then, as he thought of the effect of the tragedy in Buffalo, he turned to Mr. Milburn with, "I am sorry to have been the cause of trouble to the exposition." At the supreme crisis in his life his thoughts were for others. The nation will always treasure these utterances. They belong to history.—K. C. Star.

The men who have reached Tannan say that the officers of the company who were at first reported to have escaped were killed with a majority of the company. The troops were attacked while unprepared by 400 bolomen, of whom the Americans killed about 140. Many of the soldiers were killed in their quarters before they had time to grasp their rifles. General Hughes is going to the scene of the disaster and will personally command the troops.
