DIES OF HIS WOUND.

Another Chapter in the Hollingsworth Shooting.

After Great Suffering the Wounded Man Dies at His Home on Taylor's Hill.

Thurston Hollingsworth, who was shot yesterday morning by his wife, died last night between 8 and 9 o'clock. He died without making a statement further than the one published in the LEAF-CHRONICLE yesterday. He suffered great pain, dying in agony.

Nothing has developed that will benefit his slayer, while there are several new points that will make it against her when she is arraigned for trial. When the crowd arrived at the house yesterday, the fact that a mosquito bar was doubled up at the head of the bed did not attract attention. Afterward, however, it was pulled down and examined. It was found that the side of the bar that would have been against the wall had it been left down over the bed, bore the tell-tale marks of bullets. In fact a large hole had been shot through it. There were also particles of flesh and blood hanging to the cloth. Following up this clue it was ascertained that shot had been imbedded in the wall of the room, after passing through the bar.

The woman claims that Hollingsworth was in the act of going to bed when she shot him, and that when the load struck him he fell on the bed. The questions then arise, why were not both sides of the mosquito bar shot? and how could the pillow have received the lead if Hollingsworth was in a standing position? The conclusion is that Hollingsworth was in bed asleep. The woman, many think, raised one side of the bar (the next to her) put the gun to her husband's head, and pulled the trigger. However this may be, the general impression is, and circumstances bear this conclusion out, that Hollingsworth was killed by his wife in a jealous rage. She is in jail and does not seem to regret what has happened. She is in good spirits and seems not to understand or realize the gravity of the charges that have been preferred against her. Her trial is set for 9 o'clock Monday morning before Squire Caldwell. She will be defended by G. Q. Boyd and Nancy Fort, while the State will be represented by G. L. Pitt and Thos. Martin.

$500 Reward.

This amount the Lemon Chemical Co. proposes to pay to anyone who will prove that one of the testimonials concerning the wonderful effects of Lemon Chill Tonic are not genuine. Anyone can write flattering articles and sign fictitious names, but "Lemon Chill Tonic" stands at the head as a Blood Purifier, a general tonic and appetizer. Lemon Chill Tonic is as pleasant as lemonade, and as large as the regular dollar size. Ask for Lemon Chill Tonic and insist on getting what you ask for. Take no substitute, but get a bottle, and you will thank this paper for drawing your attention to its merits. Price 50c. For sale and guaranteed by Clarksville Drug Co., Edwin Thomas, Jr., Manager.

Pistol and Razor.

Mercer West turned two negroes over to Sheriff Collier this morning. They were John Pendleton, charged with carrying a razor, and Henry Hanner, charged with carrying a pistol. They were tried by Squire Harrelson yesterday and in default of bond were sent to jail.

Mile's Nerve and Liver Pills.

Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation, rheumatism for men, women, children. Smallest, mildest, surest, 50 doses, 25 cts. Samples free at Owen & Moore's.

Base Ball.

Since the boys have returned from Coal Creek they have resurrected base ball, and the public will see two good games next week. On Monday they will play the Port Royals, or Pickering nine, and on Tuesday the Owensboro will be here. The games will be called at 3 o'clock.

The demand for Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea cure is steadily growing, from the fact that all who give it a trial are pleased with the results and recommend it to their neighbors. We feel sure that the remedy cannot be recommended too highly.—WAGELY & SNEAD, Druggists, Newton, Iowa. For sale by Owen & Moore, Druggists.

Bank Stock For Sale.

On Saturday, Sept. 10th, I will sell to the highest bidder, at the courthouse door, two thousand dollars of F. & M. National Bank stock.

E. P. TURNLEY.

The Rev. Wm. Stout, Wartton, Ont., states: After being ineffectually treated by seventeen different doctors for scrofula, and blood disease, I was cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. Write him for proof. Sold by Tudhope Drug Company.

HON. H. C. MERRITT

Will Accept the Nomination Tendered Him Yesterday.

Hon. H. C. Merritt was met on the streets this morning by a LEAF-CHRONICLE reporter, who asked him if he would accept the nomination for Congress tendered him by the prohibitionists at Nashville yesterday. Mr. Merritt replied that he had not given the matter much thought, but he supposed he might as well accept it. "I do not want a seat in Congress," said Mr. Merritt, "and if I see, toward the wind up of the campaign, that I will be elected I will resign." With this sally he walked away, saying something about being in good company and having plenty of ice water.

THE M'WHIRTER CASE.

The Victim's Wife Gives Important Evidence.

She Gives the Name of a Man Who Followed Her Husband One Night.

FRESNO, CAL., Sept. 9.—The Coroner's inquest on the body of Louis B. McWhirter, who was shot and killed in his own yard about two weeks ago by unknown parties, has commenced. A number of witnesses testified. The most important testimony was that of Mrs. McWhirter. She said her husband had told her that he had observed a certain person, one of his enemies, following him one night. When asked whether Mr. McWhirter had told her the name of the man who followed him she answered "yes," and whispered the name into the ear of the official short-hand reporter.

Yes, We Mean You!

Have you a tired feeling, appetite poor and nothing tastes right to you? Have you a dizzy feeling when stooping over or a bad taste in your mouth? If so you are bilious and a 50c. bottle of Lemon Chill Tonic will make you feel like another person, brings back your appetite and you wonder why you haven't tried it long ago. Price 50c. Pleasant as lemonade. For sale and guaranteed by Clarksville Drug Co., Edwin Thomas, Jr., Manager.

Clarksville Tobacco Market.

Our receipts are now very light—most of them coming from outside districts. The sales for the week will probably range between 400 and 500 bbls. The offerings this week were poor as a rule, most of the leaf being either faked or faded. The market was active, though irregular at times. Cutting of the new crop has fairly commenced.

THEY ARE ADMITTED.

The Executive Committee of the Y. M. D. C. Hold a Meeting.

They Decide That Democrats From County Districts May be Members Under Certain Conditions.

The Executive Committee of the Young Men's Democratic Club met last night at F. D. Daniel's office and held an interesting meeting. The first question discussed was that of admitting members from the civil districts of the county. It was decided to admit them as members of the club, but clubs will be organized all over the county, and while members of these clubs will be members also of the club here they will maintain a separate organization by electing their own officers and holding their regular meetings, independent of the club here.

The following gentlemen were appointed a committee on organization: B. L. Rice, chairman, F. D. Daniel, E. R. Beach. It is the duty of this committee to correspond with young men of the various districts of the county and interest them in the work of organizing clubs. It was further decided that each member of the Executive Committee should organize ward committees, and that the member so organizing will be the chairman of his respective ward committee. It will be the duty of the ward committees to see that all Democrats register, and to do anything else that may come up that will benefit the cause of Democracy.

The committee will ask the registry to keep a list of all the white men that register in the city so they can know exactly who has not been enrolled. They propose to see that every Democrat in the city is ready to vote in November.

F. D. Daniel was elected secretary of the Executive Committee.

AFTER TEN YEARS.

An Escaped Kentucky Murderer is Run to Earth.

MADISONVILLE, KY., Sept. 9.—George R. Killough, who murdered Polly Adcock in this (Popkins) county ten years ago, and who one year afterward broke jail at this place, has been apprehended in Arkansas.

He arrived here yesterday and was placed in jail. When Killough broke jail, he left a wife and one child in this city, and, when apprehended, he was married and had two children.

ISSUES A CHALLENGE.

Hon. Joel B. Fort Wants to Meet Any Third-Party Stumper.

The following, taken from the American, shows that Hon. Joel B. Fort has lost none of his fighting Democracy:

"Joel B. Fort has issued a challenge to any man who supports the Peoples' party ticket at any point in the State to meet him on the stump. He makes a special challenge to Jno. H. McDowell to meet him at any time. Mr. Fort's challenges were submitted to L. K. Taylor, of the Teller, who refused to consider them."

THE REPORT UNTRUE.

Ex-Gov. Taylor Will Not Resign the Electorship.

NASHVILLE, Sept. 9.—The story that ex-Gov. Taylor will resign as elector is not true. He telegraphed the Democratic Executive Committee to-day that he was ready to begin work again under its direction, and will fill all appointments made for him.

The Stare Critical.

How observant most women are! That swift, passing look reveals every defect and likewise takes in every charm, and the critic can tell her escort how many shoe buttons are missing or whether the shoe laces are silk or not, as well as the sort of trimming and its arrangement on your gown, and whether you wore flowers or feathers in your hat. This staring is rude, but it certainly sharpens the perceptions, and if the day should ever come when women detectives are in special demand they would be found in large numbers among the girls of today, who have a clever way of making you in more ways than one.—Philadelphia Times.

How to Bring Up a Son.

Make home the brightest and most attractive place on earth. Make him responsible for the performance of a limited number of daily duties. Talk frankly with him on matters in which he is interested. Sometimes invite his friends to your home and table. Take pains to know his associates. Encourage his confidence by giving ready sympathy and advice. Be careful to impress upon his mind that making character is more important than making money.—Young Men's Era.

A DAY TO BE REMEMBERED.

"Kathleen Mavourneen" Sung by the Author of "Kathleen Mavourneen."

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 1.—"Oh, by the way, here is Professor Crouch, author of some songs you may have heard of. Perhaps you would like to meet him." "Would I like to meet the man who wrote the music of 'Kathleen Mavourneen'?" I would have traveled from New York to Portland just for that and considered myself well paid. "Kathleen Mavourneen!" There are some songs that will last forever, and here is one of them. The maiden sings it to her lover, and her granddaughter in turn sings it to her lover. Its music, touching and sweet, wakens all true love and longing and tender regrets. When we weak mortals are tempted to forget the old loves sometimes, and we hear "Kathleen Mavourneen" sung, the soft, thrilling notes wait us back to our true faith and loyalty and bring us up short.

I went to call on a friend in Portland, Miss Charlotte Thomas. Miss Thomas was not at home, but her brother, Mr. George A. Thomas was, and he it was who introduced me to the grand old song writer, eighty-four years old Aug. 1. He is Professor Frederick Nicholls Crouch, Mus. Doc., M. A., F. R. S., and I don't know what all besides, but to me it is enough to know he is the author of the music of "Kathleen Mavourneen." The words, by the way, were written by an English lady, Mrs. Crawford.

Professor Crouch is a handsome old gentleman, with brilliant, beautiful dark eyes and a long, gray military mustache. He has exquisitely graceful and courtly manners, rare to see in our country. But Professor Crouch is an Englishman, who learned his manners before our "hello" telephone days.

"How long ago was the song written?" I asked the old master.

"Just before her majesty's coronation," he answered. Her majesty's coronation occurred June 28, 1838. From 1838 to 1892 "Kathleen Mavourneen" has been warming and melting the hearts of all true lovers and all well wishers of true lovers, and when 1892 is ushered in it will still be fulfilling its sweet mission. But what will you say when I tell you that Professor Crouch has never received one cent of money for the song? Fact. Thirty-one music publishing houses in America have made their thousands of dollars off the sheet music, and never had the grace to offer the composer one dime.

The gifted, gentle old man is now living in poverty at 230 Parkin street, Baltimore.

A gift of ten cents each from the people who love his song would give him a fortune.

But the experience of all for me was when Professor Crouch went to the piano and sang "Kathleen Mavourneen," softly playing the accompaniment with his own hands. It would have given you "thrills" to hear him, just as it did me. It was touching beyond any words of mine to tell, the notes falling on the ear, now in a rich, sweet baritone, now quavering and unsteady, from the lips of the man who composed the music of the imperishable song fifty-four years ago. Do you know what I did at the close? I just put my arms around the musician's neck and gave him a big squeeze. One had to do that or else cry or run away, and I always hated crying.

I was so wrought up I quite forgot as I went home that I was walking through State street, the most beautiful highway in the state and the pride of every Maine native, with its double rows of magnificent elms, which have been "growing there forever," they say. I saw only a picture of a man standing in the doorway, looking out of a pair of brilliant dark eyes and bidding me good-by with his grand old school bow. I heard something in my ears only those throbbing bars of melody, "Kathleen Mavourneen, the gray dawn is breaking." Everybody who loves "Kathleen Mavourneen" must help his friends see to it that the dawn of happiness and prosperity shall come for Nicholls Crouch.

But only a poet can do justice here. Read below the poem James Whitcomb Riley wrote about "Kathleen Mavourneen" and its author. I would have written it myself if I could:

Kathleen Mavourneen! Thy song is still ringing
As fresh and as clear as the trill of the birds;
In world weary hearts it is sobbing and singing.
In pathos too sweet for the tenderest words,
Oh, have we forgotten the tone which first
Breathed it—
Oh, have we forgotten his rapturous voice—
Our need to the master whose genius bequeathed it?
Oh, why art thou silent, then voice of the heart?
Kathleen Mavourneen! Thy lover still lingers
The long night is waning—the stars pale and dim;
Thy sad remembrance, with tremulous fingers,
Is bowed with his tears as the lily with dew;
The old harpstrings quaver—the old voice is shaking—
In sighs and in sobs moans the yearning love;
The old vision dims and the old heart is breaking—
Kathleen Mavourneen, inspire us again!
ELIZA ARCHAID CORNELL.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

They Were Very Dull at the Opening To-day.

This Dullness is Attributed to a Lack of Trade, Due to the Cholera Scare.

Special to the Leaf-Chronicle.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—The market was rather weak around opening, due principally to lack of trade and fear of additional reports of cholera. Later it became steady, although very dull. There was a good deal of demand for cash, especially lower grades by sample. St. Louis reports holders asking December prices for cash. Receipts seem to be dropping off somewhat and the general demand increasing. Clearances wheat and flour aggregate nearly 1,000,000 bushels. Liberal receipts of corn and warm weather caused about a 1 cent. decline in corn in speculative grades. Sample lots, however, were in good demand at yesterday's fall prices. Oats were steady, very little change noted.

Hog products was strong. The large holders appear to be buying lard and ribs, while the shorts are principally buying of mess pork. The general trade appears to be waiting for cholera and the drought report. Some of the local brokers have expressed a doubt as to which is the worst obstacle in way of trade.

FEDERAL SUPERVISORS.

Each Political Party in Tennessee Asked For Lists.

Judge Jackson Will Appoint Them on the Recommendation of Chief Supervisor Doak.

Concerning Jno. H. McDowell's application for election supervisors, the Banner of last evening contained the following:

"Mr. John H. McDowell, who applied to Judge Jackson, some days ago, for Federal supervisors at the polls in the November elections, to-day called on Col. H. M. Doak, Clerk of the United States Circuit court, and presented the list of men he wanted appointed.

"Col. Doak received the list and filed it. Then he wrote a letter to the executive committee of each political party in Tennessee asking that a list of desired supervisors be forwarded him at once. When the lists are all in, Col. Doak will select from the consolidated number one supervisor for each ward and district for which one is asked. No supervisor will be appointed for wards not named in the lists.

"The only decision Judge Jackson has to make in questions of this kind is as to whether the petition is drawn up in legal form or not. The law provides that a supervisor may be appointed for any election, provided the proper requisition be made. Mr. McDowell's first petition was not in proper form. Judge Jackson returned it. The petition was corrected, and nothing remains to be done except the appointment of the supervisor.

"Col. Doak will select the required number in much the same manner as he selects juries, and when he has his list made out, he will recommend it to Judge Jackson, who may make any changes he sees fit.

"Col. Doak was appointed Chief Supervisor four years ago when the Republicans asked for Federal supervision at the polls, and it is because he holds over as Chief Supervisor, and not because he is United States Circuit Clerk, that he has charge of the present selection."

SONS OF VETERANS.

A Society With Fifteen Members Organized at the Court House.

A Society of Sons of Confederate Veterans was organized at the courthouse last night with fifteen enrolled members. Frank S. Beaumont was elected president, B. N. Coffman vice-president, Chas. W. Smith, secretary, F. D. Daniel treasurer, and Pat Stacker sergeant-at-arms. The society will meet again Monday night to decide who will accompany Forbes Bivouac to Franklin. A full attendance is desired at this meeting.
