THE NEXT GOVERNOR.

He is Given a Grand Reception by Clarksville Democrats.

Judge Peter Turney Met at the Depot and Escorted to the City in Grand Style.

No conquering Roman ever received a more hearty welcome than was given to Judge Turney last night upon his arrival in the city from Cumberland City, where he spoke to a large crowd of citizens yesterday. The people began gathering at Democratic headquarters before 6 o'clock, and by the time the hour of forming the line of march had come the crowd had swollen to enormous proportions. The procession was formed as published in the LEAF-CHRONICLE yesterday, and the march to the depot was begun. By the time that point had been reached the crowd had greatly swollen in numbers, and before the train arrived there were fully fifteen hundred people waiting to see the next governor of Tennessee and to give him a hearty welcome to the city. They had crowded every available place. Standing room about the depot was all taken, and the crowd then climbed to the top of the houses, and some took positions on the tops of the telephone poles to see the distinguished guest as he passed by. When Judge Turney was seen on the platform of the coach a yell went up that fairly shook the ground. It was repeated again and again. Shout after shout went up; hats were thrown into the air; sky-rockets were fired, and the whole heavens seemed to thunder with the reverberations of cannon crackers and torpedoes, as they were fired by the enthusiastic crowd. It was with difficulty that the procession could be swung into line for the return to the city. At last the torch light procession almost burned its way through the crowd and started to the city. Madison street was chosen as the route, and all along the way the ladies and children were standing in the windows and doors of the residences looking at the great parade. It was a grand sight. The flickering lights from two hundred torches added a lustre to the scene that made the spectators wild with excitement. Occasionally a glimpse of Judge Turney was caught, as the hack passed under an electric light. This was always a signal for a round of hearty applause. The climax was reached, however, when the carriage containing Judge Turney and the committee on reception drove to the Franklin House and the guest was helped to the ground. Cheer after cheer rent the air. Roman candles, sky-rockets and fire crackers were burned until it looked like the whole town would be touched off. Judge Turney was taken to the secondary portico, where he could see the crowd and thank the citizens for the demonstration. As he arose from a chair and faced the crowd men shouted themselves hoarse. When quiet was restored Judge Turney said:

"Ladies and gentlemen: This demonstration is exceedingly gratifying to me because it comes unexpectedly. I passed through your pretty little city to-day en route to another county to fill an engagement. I spoke to five hundred people and a horse from it. On my return I find this grand demonstration awaiting me, and it gives me the greatest pleasure. Again I say this demonstration is a grand one to be given to a walking corpse, as my enemies say, who is traveling around over the State asking the people to elect him Governor. I have made several speeches during the campaign, and judging from the receptions I am receiving at every point, some enemies will think I am the liveliest corpse in Tennessee about the 8th of November. I am, however, going about more as an exhibit for the Democratic platform than anything else, for I tell you frankly I am no speaker. All sorts of things have been said about me since I took the stump. One fellow up at Knoxville said I was a Yankee and that I had commanded a Yankee regiment until the Rebels caught me and put me in prison, where they kept me until the close of hostilities. Another one said he would vote for no Republican and that this d—n Pete Turney was the worst one this side of hades. All this matters nothing with me. I am doing my part for the success of Democracy and I tell you we are going to win. The Democratic campfires are burning brightly. They are illuminating the State from one end to the other. They are ablaze all over this land and I tell you again we are going to win. I am not going to make you a speech to-night, I speak in your county tomorrow and I hope that you will all come and hear me, for I will discuss the issues as they are seen by me in this campaign. If, however, there are those within the sound of my voice who cannot hear me to-morrow I give you a cordial invitation to come to my inauguration about the middle of January. Again I thank you for this demonstration."

At the close of Judge Turney's remarks loud calls were made for Judge Tyler, who responded in a short speech inviting everybody to go to Louise. Judge Tyler was followed by Hon. D. N. Kennedy, who paid to Judge Turney a glowing tribute and as usual worked up much enthusiasm among the large crowd. Dr. Northington and others also spoke briefly.

Judge Turney was taken to his room, where he was visited by scores of enthusiastic friends. He chatted pleasantly with them and expressed himself as being in excellent health. Indeed he is the very picture of health and is a Roman in every inch of his frame. He will make the canvass and will be elected. The people love and admire him and cannot help voting for him, provided they see him and hear him speak.

Judge Turney and his party spent the night at the Franklin House and left this morning for Louise, where they were followed by a large crowd of Clarksville people. Five special coaches were provided for the occasion by Superintendent Dunn.

CENSUS BULLETIN.

One Issued on the Combined Textile Industries of the United States.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The census bureau has issued a bulletin on the combined textile industries of the United States for the census year 1890 which will attract general attention. The increase of silk manufactures since 1880 was most striking, being 112.75 per cent. in the value of the products. The increase in cotton manufactures ranked second, being 39.51 per cent., and the wool manufactures third, being 26.39 per cent.

The increase in the entire textile industry was 38.51 per cent. The relative rank in importance of these industries has been changed. The wool manufactures in all its branches, including all descriptions of hosiery and knit goods, now stands first, with gross products valued at $37,768,534. Cotton is second, with products valued at $26,981,724, and silk manufacture third, with products valued at $7,298,453.

The actual increase in the value of products was $70,515,511 in wool, $75,891,614 in cotton and $46,265,409 in silk, the total increase being without a parallel in any country. There were 245 establishments engaged in drying and finishing textiles separate and apart from establishments which dye and finish their own products. The capital invested in these was $40,270,579, employing 20,067 hands and paying $9,917,011 in wages.

The value added to the product of the textile factories by these establishments amounted to $28,900,560, a decrease of $1,398,860 as compared with 1880. The decrease was on account of a great reduction in the cost of dyeing and finishing through improved methods estimated to be equal to 25 per cent.

A DESPERATE GAME.

The Straits to Which the Republican Party is Driven.

Buying Negroes by the Hundred, Herding Them Together and Shipping Them North.

Special to the Leaf-Chronicle.

MILAN, TENN., Oct. 18.—The Republican National committee has been holding secret meetings in every section of this part of the State and in Mississippi, buying up the negro votes and shipping them North.

The men come into a section purporting to be land inspectors, hire vehicles by the week, and by secret advertising get the negroes to meet them in country churches, school-houses, etc., where they are addressed by a fluent orator. The bloody shirt is waved and their passions and prejudices worked on until they are ready for any proposition. They are given a glowing description of the royal treatment awaiting them in the North. Their passage is furnished, all expenses paid, and they are headed together like cattle, carried to a wayside station and under a keeper sent away. Over seventy have been sent from West Tennessee and as many more from Mississippi.

Otis Greve, a wealthy resident of Florida, Treasurer of the Florida Phosphate League, and president of the People's Phosphate phosphate company, of Plant City, Fla., disappeared from his state room on the steamboat Pilgrim, of the Fall River line, a week ago. He has not since been seen nor heard from. His disappearance is unaccountable in every respect. Sizable, his friends declare, is out of the question.

A MERCANTILE NEW ERA.

Significance of the Transatlantic Mail Contract.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—President C. A. Griscom, of the International Navigation company, said Monday regarding the signing of the transatlantic mail contract by the postmaster general that the contract had not been returned to the company and the only information he received was through the newspapers, but it was undoubtedly authentic.

"This is an event of national importance," said Mr. Griscom, "and is the beginning of a new era in America mercantile traffic. The new cruisers will have a capacity to carry four-inch guns. The coal bunkers will be used to protect the sides of the boats, and the decks will be of extraordinary strength to support the guns. Apart from these differences the vessels will not vary from other passenger crafts.

"The service to Boulogne and Antwerp will be undertaken by vessels which will probably be classed with the Red Star fleet, but this is not determined upon. Of course, none of the ships at present in the Red Star fleet are equal to the requirements. The City of Paris and the City of New York will be placed under the American flag during one of the overhaul periods in the winter, possibly during this winter.

"Professor J. H. Biles, professor of naval construction at the University of Glasgow, has been in this city some time at work on designs. One day often designs the work of the day previous, and at this time there is nothing definite to say regarding the designs. A number of designers are at work all the time, and construction will be commenced within six months.

"The new vessels will be officered and manned by American seamen. We have several American captains and junior officers in our employ, and it would be hard to find more skillful, braver and intelligent men. Of course, this is a gigantic experiment. The probability is that will meet with proportionate success, but in the event of anything unforeseen happening at any time we should be able to sell the ships to sail under a foreign flag. However, I apprehend that nothing of this kind is likely to happen, and our business relations with the government will continue to be of the most cordial nature."

A TITLED FORGER.

Count Ruiz, Consul of Ecuador, Gets Into Trouble.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The police have a distinguished prisoner at headquarters. It is Domingo L. Ruiz, consul general of Ecuador, South America, a tottering and white-haired man of seventy-one.

He admits having forged the name of Gustavo Preston, vice consul of Ecuador, to two notes for $1,000 each. The detectives found Ruiz with Mrs. Bertha Laws, the woman to whom he gave the money. He has been locked up in a cell at police headquarters the same as a common thief.

Preston says that in the early part of the summer Ruiz offered him the vice consulship. Preston is a merchant at Boston. Ruiz represented that on account of business interests between South American ports and Boston he was anxious to have a vice consul in that city, and that Preston was just the man for the place. The latter accepted the appointment.

Ruiz borrowed $3,000 from Preston and afterward forged the notes for $2,000 additional. Ruiz comes from the nobility, and the title of count was bestowed upon him.

Bertha Krumstadt, the housekeeper and pretended daughter of Domingo L. Ruiz, the consul general of Ecuador, who is accused of forgery, was Monday morning arraigned in the Jefferson Market police court, and remanded until Wednesday for examination. Ruiz is in jail for lack of $2,000 bail, but it is expected that he will be able to obtain bonds during the day. Both Ruiz and the woman claim that they are victims of a conspiracy.

TO HIDE HER SHAME

A Young Girl Throws Her Illegitimate Child to the Hogs.

DANVILLE, Ky., Oct. 18.—A horrible crime is reported from Casey county, near Danville, about forty miles from this city. A young white girl gave birth to an illegitimate child, and in order to hide the evidence of her disgrace, threw the infant to the hogs. Two men saw her at the pen, and growing suspicious on account of her queer actions investigated the matter and found the mangled remains of the infant. The body was taken from the hogs and is now at Liberty, the county seat, preserved in alcohol, to be used as evidence in the trial of the mother.

Uncle Sam Will See to It.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—News from Butaritari, the chief city of the Gilbert islands, gives a gloomy outlook for American traders on the islands unless the United States does something to protect their rights. Since the British flag was hoisted in July the Americans have been subjected to many insults and the native chiefs have been plainly told not to pay any attention to the orders of United States Consul Agent Rick, who heretofore had settled all disputes and had been the real power on the islands. Commander Davis, of the British man-of-war Royalist, went out of his way to insult both the king and the leading Americans.

Expected Strike of Gas.

DANVILLE, Ind., Oct. 18.—While the township trustees were digging a well at the Quebec school house Friday there was an explosion when the drill was thirty-five feet down, which threw gravel and sand high into the air. A match was applied and there was a blaze ten feet high. The gas has been burning ever since.

Swimburne for Laureate.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The Times, referring to the question of the appointment of a poet laureate, says that it may be taken for granted that a successor to Lord Tennyson will be appointed. The Times thinks that the reasons for the objections formerly raised against Swimburne no longer exist.

Head-End Collision.

ATURN, Ind., Oct. 18.—A head-end collision occurred Sunday morning, three miles east of this place, on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. Charles Benthorn, of Chicago, I. L., head-end brakeman, and John Lanning, fireman of Garrett, both of the westbound train, were fatally injured.

IT IS ALL OVER.

Gov. Buchanan Has Come and is Now Gone.

The Third Party Rally a Thing of the Past and Democracy is Very Well Pleased. Thank You.

The Union Warehouse was the center of attraction to many Clarksville people last evening, and they went through pure curiosity. They knew that Gov. Buchanan would attempt to explain why he had forsaken the party that honored him two years ago by electing him to the high office of Governor of Tennessee. They wanted to hear just what he would say, but only a few of them could hear him after going. There were some five or six hundred people in the house. The stage had been erected as near the center of the room as possible, and here it was that the apology was delivered.

The Governor was accompanied to the city by Lecturer Roberts, who has been in Clarksville on a previous occasion, and by Commissioner of Labor Ford, who was arrested at Briceville charged with inciting the miners to riot. He is one of the Governor's appointees, and seems to be acting as a kind of body guard.

When the speakers reached the warehouse the hall was opened by R. Ledbetter, candidate for the Legislature on the Third party ticket. He spoke briefly, telling the people in a few words as possible that he wanted an office, and that if they would elect him he would do anything they wanted him to do.

Mr. Ledbetter was followed by 'Squire Slaughter, who spoke in the same strain, but somewhat longer drawn out. They, however, all delivered the stand up to the orator of the occasion, Gov. John P. Buchanan.

The Governor was introduced by Col. W. F. Young, and at once dived into his subject. He said he came before the people as an independent candidate for Governor, and that it was caused by the other side. The "sky-blues" and the "uppercases" had beat him and they ought not to have done it. He ought to have had the nomination by all means, then this trouble never would have come about. The Governor then branched off into the money question, and said the contraction of the currency was the cause of all the ills of which the farmers complain. He did not tell them why this was a fact, but left the impression that if he was elected governor all of it would be removed. The tariff was another thing in the way, and if elected governor he would have the thing paid off and stopped, or words to that effect. He seemed to try to make the impression that all the trouble the farmers have is due to the fact that he was defeated for the gubernatorial nomination. The speech was read from manuscript and was very tiresome, so tiresome in fact that he could not hold his own crowd. Col. Young was kept busy calling them to order and before the speech was half over there were not over 150 men listening to the speaker. They preferred walking about over the warehouse looking at the big crowd and yelling at the wrong time. The governor could not begin to hold them. He spoke for three hours, and they were very long ones at that. There was no intentional interference, however, and all the trouble mentioned was caused by the governor's own followers in their herculean effort to get away from him.

To sum the day up as a whole, it was a failure. The crowd was here, but there was a lack of enthusiasm, and it was a hard task for the speakers to get up a rousing cheer. It is all over now and the straight Democracy of the county is in nowise alarmed. Judge Turney will carry the county and a combination of the Republican and Third parties cannot defeat any man on the Democratic ticket. So mote it be.

Move It Away.

Men are engaged in scaping up the rubbish, litter, etc., on Franklin street into piles. The attention of a reporter has been called to the fact that frequently this trash is allowed to remain in piles on the street and is not removed at all. After these scrapings, it would seem that the proper thing to do would be to cart away the accumulation and not leave it to be scattered on the street.
