CITY COUNCIL.

Monthly Meeting of the City's Law Makers.

A Meeting Which Was Devoid of Special Interest—The Work in the Main Routine.

The meeting of the city council last night was devoid of special features and only a small amount of routine business was transacted. The accounts for the month were audited and ordered paid and the regular reports were read and received.

The report of the city marshal showed the following collections for October:

Old Territory.....	$108 88
South Ward.....	5 20
Tenth Ward.....	98 30
Police.....	225 00
Penal.....	18 00
Total.....	$455 38

The report of the recorder showed $186.41 in revenue collections for the month.

Chief Mattill, of the fire department, reported six fires for the month.

James Henratty asked that his residence be assessed the same as last year. Granted.

The Clarksville Land Improvement Company asked for a reduction of $500 in the assessment of certain lots in the new territory. Granted.

At the suggestion of Alderman Smith the tolls at the lower Red river bridge were reduced to half price during the San Jones revival meeting.

On motion of Alderman Young the Board was ordered to purchase a Copy of Tennessee to be kept at the city hall for reference.

The City Engineer's report was heard and passed over for the time being.

Dr. Marable, Chairman of the school committee asked for an appropriation of $5.50 for certain repairs on the colored school building. Granted.

The fire committee reported a bill from a Chicago firm for $4.00. The chairman of the committee knew nothing about it, and the same was dropped.

The city tax books were reported in the hands of the city marshal. These are the books for 1892 and all taxpayers are requested to come down with their cash.

The city engineer's report was taken up. It recommended work in every ward in the city, almost, being in the main for streets and pavements. Alderman Young threw a bomb into the street committee when he arose to say to the board that past orders should be carried out before any more were issued. He recalled several orders for pavements that had not been enforced and thought it useless for the board to issue the orders just for the sake of issuing. Chairman Harrison claimed that the orders alluded to by Mr. Young were improperly drawn.

A petition to open an alley in the rear of Howell school building brought up considerable discussion. This alley is between Franklin and Main streets, running west from University avenue to the public school property. The citizens who are concerned in this alley claim that they experience trouble from the fact that wagons cannot be turned around in the same. They want the alley opened through the public school lot, intersecting a private alley east of the property of Mrs. Jno. J. West, so they will have a driveway around the school building from University avenue to Franklin street. The board, of course, is opposed to opening the alley, for the reason that it will cut the school lot into two parts. They disposed of the matter last night by referring it to a special committee for the purpose of working for a compromise.

Chas. Welch petitioned the board to refund him a part of a very large sum of money he has paid to the city pound within the last few months. Rejected.

On motion of Alderman Neblett the Electric Light Company was ordered to move the light now in front of C. M. Barker's residence to the intersection of Second street and West avenue.

Alderman Young offered the following ordinance, which was passed final reading and is now a law: "Be it ordained by the Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Clarksville, that it shall be unlawful for any person to burn paper, rags, shavings or any other combustible material on the public square, streets or alleys in the fire district of the city, and any one so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of not less than $5 or more than $25 for each and every offense."

On motion of Dr. Marable, $30.00 was appropriated for putting gravel on Front street. A like amount was appropriated for the purpose of making rock valleys on Martin street, and on motion of the same Alderman, a committee was appointed to select a site for a bridge across Gallops Hollow, connecting the old city with the Tenth ward.

At a former meeting of the Board, by motion of Dr. Marable, it was agreed to keep the money of the Ninth and Tenth wards separate. The two wards employ a policeman, and the fines in the Ninth ward will nearly or quite pay his salary. Dr. Marable made a motion last night that these fines be applied to the payment of the policeman's salary. The motion was lost.

On motion, Geo. Wallenhaupt was released of a part of a fine against J. J. Jenkins, for which he was security.

Jno. S. Neblett was elected a member of the School Board, and the Board adjourned.

Guaranteed Cure.

Schwatka's Death.

PORTLAND, Or., Nov. 4.—It now transpires that Lieutenant Schwatka, who dropped in the street and later died, was in the habit of taking laudanum for a stomach trouble. Tuesday night he complained to a friend that his stomach was "killing him." He then went to a drug store and purchased a two-ounce bottle of laudanum, remarking to the clerk that he was accustomed to taking fifteen or twenty drops of laudanum when his stomach was troubled. When last seen he appeared in a cheerful mood and gave no evidence that he contemplated suicide. The theory that he committed suicide is fast giving way to one that he took an overdose of laudanum by accident.

Money in Sunflowers.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Nov. 4.—William F. Headley, in the northern part of this county, is giving his attention to the culture of sunflowers. Sunflower seed is converted into oil, and has the same drying properties as linseed.

The Drouth in Kentucky.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 4.—The disastrous drouth in portions of Kentucky is made notable by the exhaustion of many famous springs never before known to fall in supply. Among those now exhausted is the celebrated spring at Boonesborough. Early sown wheat in many localities is almost destroyed.

Against Universal Suffrage.

BRUNSWICK, Nov. 4.—The chamber of deputies committee on the revision of the constitution have rejected the proposal to grant universal suffrage. The vote stood sixteen against the proposal to four in its favor.

Too Much of a Risk.

It is not unusual for colds contracted in the fall to hang on all winter. In such cases catarrh or chronic bronchitis are almost sure to result. A fifty-cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure any cold. Can you afford to risk so much for so small an amount? This remedy is intended especially for bad colds and croup and can always be depended upon. For sale by Owen & Moore, Druggists.

DEATH IN HORRID SHAPE.

A Brooklyn Man Torn to Shreds by an Eagle's Talons.

OGDEN, U. T., Nov. 4.—J. F. Barklow, of Brooklyn, who with Frank M. Conroy, also of Brooklyn, left here two weeks ago to examine the territory of the extinct cliff dwellers along Nine Mile creek, returned here yesterday. He tells a most horrible story of Conroy's falling down a precipice and landing on a projecting rock, where he was struck by two eagles and clawed to death.

"When Conroy and I had finished our jaunt along the creek, we placed our entire outfit on the back of a burro, while we walked along the side of the cliff. One morning about two weeks ago we were picking our way along the edge of what looked like a bottomless gorge, a few miles from the junction of Nine Mile creek with Green River. The path was a narrow one, a perpendicular rock wall on one side and the dark precipice frowning below us on the other. The burro became fractious and knocked Conroy off the ledge and fell with him.

"A hundred feet or so down the precipice a flat level part of the rock jutted out and formed a sort of platform. On the outer edge of this the burro struck and rebounded slightly just as Frank in his descent struck on the animal's side, thus saving him from instant death, and he dropped back upon the platform. I leaped over and called out, but it was some time before he was able to answer. Frank was on a small ledge of rock with several ribs broken and one arm smashed. There was absolutely no chance of rescue that day, as it would take some time to get to the place. Just as we had agreed that Frank should take his chances while I went for assistance, I heard a shriek from him and glancing down saw the beginning of a terrible combat.

"Above him and to one side was a large nest with several young birds in it, and two enormous eagles, suspecting him of an attack upon their young, swooped down upon him and struck at him with bill and claws. The great birds at last succeeded in what they were trying to accomplish—they reached his face with their horrible claws. I will never forget the sight as he staggered backward. With a scream of triumph and gratified revenge his victors followed him over the edge of the cliff and far down into the abyss."

Mr. Barklow reached Ogden more dead than alive. He received temporary assistance from a young business man here who is acquainted with his family and left for the east last night.

STORM RAGED ABOVE.

But These Torpedo Boatmen Were Safe Down Under It.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—The submarine boat of Professor George C. Baker arrived in this city Wednesday from Detroit, and is now anchored in the outer harbor. The vessel, which was towed from Detroit by a tug, passed through the heavy gale of last Friday night when the C. W. Gilcher foundered. The boat weathered the storm by being lowered about ten feet below the surface and was raised once every two hours to enable those on board to obtain a supply of fresh air.

No attempt was made to use her own propelling apparatus and she was towed comfortably along by the tug. She was five days overdue and Professor Baker, who was awaiting her arrival in this city, was nearly frantic with anxiety lest she had gone to the bottom. The boat, which was built in Detroit, and is 40 feet long, 8 feet wide and 14 feet deep and will stand a water pressure at 80 to 100 feet under the surface. Her displacement is 75 tons and the motive power is electricity. She will remain here during the winter.

DRANK POISONED MILK.

A Young Girl Attempts Murder and Then Takes Her Own Life.

COLUMBIA, Pa., Nov. 4.—John R. Childs, a married man not reciprocating the attentions of young Sarah Haddon, the latter offered him a glass of milk in which she had placed strychnine at the supper table last night. Childs took the glass, and, noticing a bitter taste refused to drink it.

Miss Haddon then took the glass, and, saying she would throw the milk out, went to another room and swallowed the poison. She died soon afterwards. Childs boarded with the would-be murderer's mother. He was made ill by drinking a portion of the mixture, but recovered.

CANADA ALARMED

At the Attitude of England Concerning Canadian Cattle.

OTTAWA, Nov. 4.—The government is alarmed at the steps taken in England toward scheduling Canadian cattle when imported into Great Britain. At a meeting of the council Thursday the matter was fully discussed and, while up to the present time the government has been unable to trace the district from which the infected cattle recently landed in England came from, they continue the investigation, as the result is an important one to the Canadian cattle trade. Thirty-two per cent. of Canadian exports during the past quarter were upon the headings of animals and products.

DAY AND NIGHT

An Armed Guard Watches the West Union Jail.

WEST UNION, O., Nov. 4.—Sylvester Howe, the murderer of James Straw, has not confessed. He is still confined in jail at this place, and pleaded not guilty. A guard surrounds the jail day and night.

Caught at Last.

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., Nov. 4.—Charley Martin, who enticed the two colored fellows across to the Ohio side, on the pretense of seeing a dog fight, some time ago, and beating them up with a club, was Thursday morning caught at South Point, O., and taken to Ironton.

Jealousy Causes a Double Tragedy.

BROWNVILLE, Tex., Nov. 4.—W. A. Ripple and Barney Whalen, soldiers at Fort Brown, fought over a woman Wednesday. Whalen was shot dead by Ripple, who, to avoid arrest, killed himself.

Cripples Not Lame in Faith.

DETROIT, Ia., Nov. 4.—A carload of cripples left here for Canton, Minn., to be cured by the vision of the virgin in the church here.

A DEFENSE OF BLACK.

Reasons Why Women in Mourning Wear the Signs of Grief in Public.

In an article entitled "Against Wearing Mourning" it is urged that some civilized nations mourned their dead in remote and solitary places who were wearing the garb of woe. "Today," continues the writer, "such a garb is worn in the streets, the shops, the lecture room and the concert hall. We even meet it in some of those gradings of graded grief prescribed by the Spencer system of fashion leading as afternoon teas and those other frictions of insipid entertainment which make up the somewhat un-Christian year of this end of the century. How can any one who has ever known the crushing and refining grace of sorrow bear this wretched travesty which seems to measure to the public eye its successive stages of consolation?"

As a matter of course the protest applies more particularly to the wearing of mourning by women. Now, whatever civilization has done for women it certainly has not perpetuated the Spartan type. In the century, the spirit which dominated the Spartan mother, leading her to put out of existence her sickly or deformed babe, is at the present day neither admired nor encouraged. More popular attributes are a spirit of love and tenderness toward the weak and helpless; toleration of the follies of others. Therefore, although from the standpoint of a small quota of the human family—a quota, by the way, quite unable to tolerate any effervescence of sentiment—the wearing of mourning seems a meaningless, vulgar practice, there is a much larger contingent with whom, it is an expression of the purest, tenderest sentiment.

Marion Crawford says, "Of women there is no general statement which is true." Admitting there are women who assume the garb of woe merely to follow fashion's dictates, it must also be admitted there is a large number who do so actuated by moral and worthy motives. The removal by death of a near and dear one—perhaps the nearest and dearest—seems like the shock of an earthquake upon many a woman. The very foundations of her being are stirred; her little world is hideously transfused; perhaps an entirely new regime of existence is presaged. Under such circumstances putting away the gay gown, adopting the somber one, is a positive relief—indeed almost a positive necessity no matter when or where it is to be worn.

Of course the mode of living engendered by a modern civilization, wherein women occupy so prominent a place, makes a season of absolute privacy and retirement impossible except for the favored few. Employer and employed, entertainer or entertained, mistress or subordinate, must, as a rule, keep up with the procession, do her part, or perhaps be dubbed useless and a burden.

Under these circumstances the habiliments of mourning must of necessity be seen in the street and in business circles, but their adoption serves a useful purpose, inasmuch as the wearer secures a certain immunity from attending the gayer and more public forms of social entertainment so repulsive to the heavy hearted.—Cor New York Sun.

Speaking of Cholera.

"Speaking of the cholera," said George H. Murray, manager of the "Dazzler" company, "it does some strange things. I remember once when I was traveling with my father's circus we were playing in South America in a cholera stricken district. Well, sir, hundreds of deaths occurred all around us every day. A man would step up to the ticket wagon to buy a ticket, and before he could get his change back he would be attacked with cholera and die. I sold a man a ticket to the grand concert we gave after the big show which he had been looking forward to for some time. He was a demented stake driver who was one day disappointed in a love affair with a Hindoo snake charmer, and he wished night and day that he would become a snake. Well, sir, the cholera killed the man who slept with him and every other stake driver we had with the circus. This particular fellow died fat."

"He afterward married the snake charmer because there was nobody else, and soon rose to prominence in his new and happy life by becoming one of the best monkey tenders we ever had with the circus. At another time I was quarantined in Florida during the yellow fever epidemic, but I told the officials that the plague could never have gotten into Florida if they had a good farce comedy in the town like 'Cue'." But his audience had fled in terror.—St. Louis Republic.

A Disappointed Listener.

At a concert held lately in a certain village near Glasgow a duet on the piano and violin was being played when some gentleman entered the hall. Among them was a sportsman who evidently had not heard much of this music before, for he stopped at the door and listened attentively for a few moments. Then, thinking that he was trying to get to the end first, he started those near him by such exclamations as:

"The fiddle wined! Three to one on the fiddle! No—the piano! Good old piano! Go it, piano! The violin is better!"

When both musicians stopped at the same time a shade of disappointment was seen to cross his face, and he was heard to mutter:

"A dead heat, by Jove! Who'd have thought it!"—London Tit-Bits.

Those Pneumatic Sulkies.

A correspondent writes to ask which is the heavier, a regulation trotting sulky or a new fangled one with pneumatic tired wheels. The latter is heavier by from six to ten pounds, but it is so much easier drawn that the additional weight doesn't count. I was talking with a trotting horse breeder, who said: "The new fangled sulkies seem to run almost of their own accord. Not long ago I saw a horse trotting in front of one; suddenly he broke, and he went his forelegs into the air, the sulky ran right under him and he actually fell over it on to his back."

This seems like a pretty tough story, but Henry Clay Dumas and Mr. Post were present when it was told me, and they vouch for the narrator's veracity.—New York Advertiser.

Mr. Fisher's Devilfish.

Police Justice Edward Sweeney, of Flatbush, declares he saw a young octopus, or devilfish, after it had been taken from the stomach of a 4-pound black sea bass and put on exhibition at A. C. Fisher's fish market in Grant street. Mr. Fisher went to market, and among the dozens of sea bass which he carried home he noticed one much puffed out beyond its usual proportions.

"After we opened it," said Mr. Fisher, "we discovered the octopus. Its head has the regulation pea sized eye, and is as large as a silver dollar, and the legs, with its tentacles and suckers, which stretched out over a distance of five inches all around."—New York Tribune.

SHORT METRE POLITICS.

News Items on the State and County Campaign.

Notes Gathered From Various Sources and Given in a Condensed Form.

The legislative candidates on the Democratic ticket, notwithstanding the rain, had a large crowd to hear them yesterday at Central Chapel in the 21st district. Speeches were made by Mike Savage, W. B. Dunbar and B. L. Rice, the latter filling 'Squire Baxter Watkins' appointment. The speaking was held in the school house, and it was full. A good barbecue dinner had been prepared and the day was a successful one. To-day the candidates are at Vernon Furnace, in the Sixteenth district.

C. P. Warfield, R. Ledbetter and E. M. Nolen went to New Providence last night to address a mass meeting, and thereby hangs a tale. There are only seven Buchanan men in the Seventh district, and but four of them were present when the orators arrived at the warehouse. Sing Hambaugh, however, out of respect for Brother Ledbetter, went to work and drummed up a few Democrats and went to the warehouse bent on hearing the gentlemen speak. Warfield and Ledbetter thanked the audience for coming out, but declined to enter into any discussion, owing to the small crowd. When Mack Nolen got up, however, he came down to the facts in the case and told them that it was a bigger crowd than they had been in the habit of meeting. By actual count there were sixteen men and boys present, only four of whom were Third party followers.

Rev. Sam Jones has been invited to deliver a prohibition speech at Nashville before the election. Inasmuch as this gentleman is a strong Cleveland man, and since his time will be taken up with his Clarksville meeting, he will hardly deliver the address.

The announcement has been made that Judge Tyler would make a speech or two during the campaign in this county. While that gentleman is now, and has been for several weeks, hard at work for the interests of Democracy he has never yet authorized these announcements. Of course he has attended all the speaking he could and has made several short talks, but as to having prepared a campaign speech, he has never as much as thrown ten ideas together looking in the direction of a studied speech. His time has all been taken up in other directions during the campaign, and he has done the party valuable service. He is working now all the time and has no time to prepare a speech. THE LEAF-CHRONICLE will state for him that he is uncompromisingly opposed to anything antagonistic to Democratic principles, is for Grover Cleveland, Pete Turney, and the balance of the straight ticket.

PADUCAH, KY., Oct. 18, 1890.

This certifies that a few months ago my little son was afflicted with chills, and, after using quinine without effect I concluded to try Lemon Chill Tonic, and am pleased to say that a few doses, in accordance with directions, completely cured him. Other members of my family have used Lemon Chill Tonic with perfect satisfaction; hence I cheerfully recommend said remedy, being confident that it will do all that it is claimed for by its proprietors. E. B. JONES, Dep. Clerk McCracken County Court. For sale and guaranteed by Clarksville Drug Co., Edwin Thomas, Jr., Manager.
