ANOTHER BIG SERMON

By Evangelist Sam Jones Last Night.

His Eloquent Pleadings Cause Men to Tremble and Make the Start Toward a Better Life.

More interest was manifested at the Gracey warehouse, perhaps, last night than at any one of the preceding services. There was a large number of people present, and they sat spellbound under the eloquent words of wisdom—the earnest appeal which fell from the lips of the evangelist. The text was taken from the 1st chapter of Proverbs, 24-26 verses inclusive:

"Because I have called and ye have refused; I have stretched out my hand and no man regarded; but ye have set at naught all my counsel and would none of my reproof; I also will laugh at your calamity; I will mock when your fear cometh."

The first idea impressed on the audience by the evangelist, was that God calls men to a better life at every turn of the road. He calls them from every avocation and at every hour of the day. He is calling us to a better life. We know that when we arise in the morning God calls us to better things. When we put on our hats and go forth to the duties of the day God points us to better things ahead. The sun looks down on us as he climbs the slippery steps of heaven and says oh, man are you looking for something better? He reaches the meridian and starts down the hill. Are you descending life's hill knowing that you will get something better at last. We see him as he sinks behind the western hills and we seem to ask: Man, will you go down in splendor like me or will you go down in darkness? We go into our homes to-night and shut ourselves in. Heaven's door will shut in some day. Where will you be? "Be ye also ready for ye know not the hour nor the day wherein the son of man cometh." Every hour that calls us to a better life. The farmer goes forth to sow his seed. He sows good seed and his harvest is abundant. He goes out with his sickle to cut his grain. The sickle of death is on your track and you will eventually be cut down. The thresher separates the wheat from the chaff. God in his judgment will separate the chaff from the grain. The carpenter takes heed how he builds a house. Storms and winds must beat against that house; it must be built right. The merchant measures off his cloth. God measures off your days. The scissiors of death are clipping off the yards. In every avocation God calls us to a better life. You walk out in the beautiful grove and sit under the shade trees. Will you ever sit under the tree of life? This beautiful river flowing by your doors asks you: Will you ever sit on the banks of the river of life? Your beautiful dwellings asks you: Will you ever dwell in the mansions of light? Your hills suggest the city of God, and your valleys are Elysian fields. God is in earnest in saving men. He calls them by his holy spirit. This spirit broods over the people wherever I preach. It is moving and stirring the hearts of the people. You do not honor God's spirit. Without the holy ghost preaching will be in vain. Thank God for the holy spirit. It knocks at the door of your heart. Will you let it in? That spirit broods over you to-night and asks you to lead a better life. It is calling you to a better life. It says, come to God and be saved. Fly to the cross and be saved. Yield to the influence of the holy spirit. God is in earnest about saving your souls. He calls to you on every page of his blessed book. I thank God for the thousands of invitations contained in this blessed bible. I prize this book. It is the book my mother gave me when I was a little boy. I take it and hang over every word it contains. Thank God for this precious book. It says, come to the healing waters, come. The Lord is in earnest about it. He calls by every avocation and by his ministry. Some one said if the Salvation army was moved from London the police force would have to be increased 1,000 men. I have heard all kinds of preachers. I have heard the most learned, and the most illiterate. I never sat an hour and listened to any preacher but what I heard him tell enough truth to save a thousand souls like mine. There is no friction between the pastor and the true evangelist. One sowed and the other reaped. Thank God for them. Every man, rich and poor, may hear them. God never left a stone unturned to save a man. No man is ever lost unless it is on his own account. I was preaching in Nashville in the great tabernacle. My my wife was sick, and I concluded one day I would run down to Cartersville and see her. At Murfreesboro the train stopped. The conductor came to me and said: "Mr. Jones, the engineer wants to talk to you; will you go out and ride on his engine?" I went and climbed into the cab. The bell rang and the ponderous locomotive moved off with the train. I watched the engineer with his hand on the throttle until the train was going at the rate of fifty miles an hour. The engineer, an intelligent, manly looking fellow, turned to me and said: "Mr. Jones, you got next to me last night when you talked about the little girl being sick in Cartersville, who had a drunken father. I had a little girl to die some time ago, and I have not touched a drop of whisky since her death." I sat there in that cab and preached the Word of God to that man as earnestly as I ever preached it to ten thousand men. Would to God I could get close to some of you men here to-night. Your wife may be bathing her pillow with tears for you to-night. Oh, the trouble that some men give to their sweet wives. I have begged my wife's pardon ten thousand times for the trouble I have given her, and if we ever walk the streets of the golden city together I will imprint a kiss on her cheek and ask her pardon there. Your sweet child may be taken from you. Your duty may call you to the bedside of your dying wife. You may think this is serious preaching, but God will not leave you to your sins until he has stripped you. Your wife and child can not come to the better world to you, but you can go to them. I have reached a point in my life when I am afraid to do wrong. I don't know what will happen this side of heaven. I go home worn out sometimes and think I will rest a month. I may be there a week when letters and telegrams will come calling me to work. I say to my wife: "Wife, pack up all my valise, I am going. I would rather be in California preaching the word of God than at home with a telegram staring me in the face asking me to come. I might be doing wrong by staying at home. I may be a fool, but I am a happy fool. I would not go off on a spree for all the money in the world. I try to be loyal to God. I want to do right. You girls who go away sometimes against mother's will, will remember this sermon I am preaching to-night. You are rushing to hell and God will laugh at your calamity. Come back before it is too late.

It would be difficult for a man to picture the awful warning, the earnest plea set forth in this sermon, in the columns of a newspaper. It was the strongest plea for God the evangelist has made in Clarksville, and it bore fruit. He invited sinners who wanted to lead better lives to give him their hands. Over seventy-five persons shook hands with him while tears streamed down their cheeks. Some of them were among the most prominent men in the city. The preaching is just now taking a firm hold on the people, and great results may be expected.

PATRIOTIC GIRLS.

HOW THE ORDER OF DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS WAS ORGANIZED.

Fourteen Girls Started the Society at Massillon, O., in 1885—Now They Have a National Organization with Members in Twenty States.

MASSILLON, Nov. 10.—One of the results of the recent G. A. R. encampment at Washington was the bringing into more universal prominence and ognition an association known as The National Alliance of the Daughters of Veterans of the United States of America. As its name suggests, this order is kindred to the G. A. R. This body has heretofore been but little known to the general public, and but for the fortunate decision of its officers to hold their third annual convention in conjunction with the G. A. R. encampment it would perhaps have remained in the darkness of semiobscurity.

The National alliance is the outgrowth of a society organized seven years since in this city, and the formation of that society was suggested by the daughter of a veteran soldier, partly through a good natured desire to rival the efforts of the local Sons of Veterans' camp. This suggestion, made on Memorial Day, 1885, was acted upon, and six days later the first meeting was held.

A permanent local organization was effected on June 10, and on Dec. 12 of the same year the secretary of state of Ohio granted the society a charter. The name of the wife of Ohio's present governor was chosen as a title, and it is related of the apostle of protection that one of the few occasions on which he has exhibited signs of deep emotion in public was when informed by a delegation of Daughters that their tent had been named Mrs. Major McKinley tent, Daughters of Veterans. Miss Minnie F. King, a sister of the present national executive, and who died on May 16, 1891, was the first president of the original tent, and the other members were Nellie King, Bertha Martin, Harriet Knapp, Olive Howard, Levo and Maudie Stevens, Mame Huber, Maudie Merrill, Frank, Eva and Bertha Merwin, May Bowman and May McMillan.

The little tent flourished under careful guidance, and its influence soon became manifest in the outside world. In 1887 the Daughters issued a charter to the local alliance, O. The new members adopted the name of Mrs. John A. Logan tent, No. 2. The honor was wisely bestowed, for their namesake has since shown her appreciation by innumerable acts of kindness toward the tent. The following year Prairie Depot, O., and Quincy, Ill., the latter named Caroline Scott Harrison tent—were chartered, and Ada, O., followed in 1889. When in the latter year an application came from Keokuk, Ia., the necessity of creating a national association became obvious, and the original charter of Tent No. 1 was so amended as to adapt it for such requirements.

A national constitution was adopted, and Miss M. Estella McMillan, of Massillon, O., was chosen president at the first national convention held at Quincy, Ill., in June, 1890. Only Ohio, Illinois and Iowa, comprising 194 members, were represented at the meeting. The framers of this constitution were the Misses Mol-le and Maggie Robertson, of Keokuk, Ia.; Eva Ware, Rose Jansen and Anna Wessels, of Quincy, Ill.; M. Estella McMillan, Bertha Martin and Viola Maiera, of Massillon, O.; Lizzie Beardsley, of Alliance, O., and Lizzie Davis, of Ada, O.

The second national convention met in the birthplace of the order, Massillon, July 28 to Aug. 1, 1891. Twenty-four delegates, representing thirteen tents in Ohio, Illinois, Nebraska, Iowa and Massachusetts attended, and Miss Mollie Robertson, of Keokuk, Ia., was elected president. At the third convention, which met in Washington Sept. 20 to 23 of the present year, eleven states sent delegates, and the following states were reported as admitted during the past year: Arkansas, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan. During the late meeting the Daughters were accorded much recognition by the Grand Army members and by the citizens' committee of Washington. The officers found it of great advantage to meet with the Grand Army, and the benefits thus derived in advertising the order were such that they propose to meet at Indianapolis next year in conjunction with the veterans.

Miss Nellie A. King, who was chosen national president at Washington, was born in the cradle of the order, Massillon, where she is a teacher in the public schools. She is twenty-one years old and is a charter member of Mrs. Major McKinley tent. She was elected national vice president last year, and her universal popularity is attested by the fact that her recent nomination was made the work of the Massachusetts delegation, and her election was made unanimous by her fellow delegates. She is an enthusiastic worker and her capability is unquestioned. Her father, now deceased, was Valentine R. King, an honorably discharged member of the One Hundred and Seventh Ohio Volunteer Infantry.

The captain who was placed in command of the national bark when it was first launched was Miss M. Estella McMillan. She also is engaged in educational work in Massillon, and she was largely instrumental in the formation of the national department. Her reward was the first presidency of the order, and last year she acted as treasurer. She possesses a wonderful capacity for work, and has much executive ability.

Another national officer, the secretary, Miss Bertha Martin, resides in the same city. She is a charter member of Tent No. 1, and besides her national position is the present mustering officer of Ohio. She is an earnest and prominent worker in the order, and has always been identified with its more important measures.

The reports of the last convention show a membership of 1,400, with tents in twenty states. Fifteen hundred dollars were expended for charity last year, besides $700 for flowers for veterans' graves. The Daughters are by no means an aggressive organization, their prin-

Is Marriage a Failure?

Have you been trying to get the best out of existence without health in your family? Have you been wearing out your life from the effects of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and Indigestion? Are you sleepless at night? Do you wake in the morning feeling languid, with coated tongue and salivary, haggard looks? Don't do it. A shout in the camp tells how Aunt Fanny's Health Restorer has cured others; it will cure you. Trial package free. Large size 50c, at Tudhope Drug Co.

In Memory of a Fallen Comrade.

The subject of the subjoined resolutions, Augustus Eugene Morris, was a brother of Thomas Morris, a member of the LEAF-CHRONICLE typographical corps. They are the voluntary expressions of his former typographical associates on the New York Times, and will be sacredly cherished by the bereaved father and brother of the deceased:

NEW YORK TIMES CHAPEL, Oct. 27, 1892.—At a meeting of this chapel this day, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, God has called from our midst our fellow craftsman, A. E. Morris, a respected member of this chapel;

Resolved, That we offer to the parents of our deceased friend our deepest sympathy in their bereavement, and assure them of the esteem in which their son was held by all his associates.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns, and all skin eruptions and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Owen & Moore.

Move That Light.

The LEAF-CHRONICLE would respectfully ask why that light in front of C. M. Barker's residence has not been moved in compliance with the order of the City Council at its last meeting? That order was that it should be moved to the intersection of Second street and West avenue.

Corn on the stalk is an emblem of plenty. A corn on the toe is an emblem of woe.—Remove them quickly by using "C. C. C. Certain Corn Cure," the great remedy for corns and bunions. Sold by Owen & Moore.

Bardock Blood Bitters taken after eating will relieve any feeling of weight or over fullness of the stomach. Sold everywhere. Sold by Tudhope Drug Co.

CLAIMED TOO SOON.

Savage and Watkins Will Represent the County.

Third Partites and Republicans Cannot by Fraud Carry Elections in Mont-Gerry County.

The LEAF-CHRONICLE is rejoiced to state to-day that the Republicans and Third partites of this county have claimed a victory in the Legislative race too quick. They have noised it abroad that Slaughter has been elected to the Senate over the head of Mike Savage, and that Watkins has been defeated for Floater. This is all a mistake. Mike Savage will be the next Senator from the county and Baxter Watkins will be the Floater. It is highly probable also that R. Ledbetter will never get to take a seat in the Legislature as representative from this county. This is official, and our readers will bank on it.

American Cholera.

Daily Reveille, Whatcom, Wash.: "T. C. Barnett, the Democratic candidate for Sheriff, was taken violently ill at Clearbrook. He had all the symptoms of Asiatic cholera, and for an hour or two it was feared he would die. They finally gave him a dose of Chamberlain's Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which revived him until a physician arrived." That is precisely what the manufacturers of that medicine recommend for cholera. Send for a physician, but give your medicine until the physician arrives. If cholera becomes prevalent in this country next summer, this preparation will be in great demand because it can always be depended upon. For sale by Owen & Moore, druggists.

Tobacco Quiet.

The dealing in tobacco up to this date has been small. Several buyers have been heard from in different portions of the county, but only a few crops have been sold. The highest price yet reported for a crop is seven cents round. This was paid by Matt Dunlop to his brother, Will, for an extra crop. Several parties have refused five cents round. The indications are that a good crop is worth about six and one-half cents. The majority of the tobacco grown this year, however, will possibly bring that much.

HORNBEAKE, TENN., Nov. 20, 1890. I take great pleasure in recommending your most wonderful Lemon Chill Tonic to all who may have cause to use a medicine of that nature. My daughter had the chills for twelve months and had tried many remedies, and all to no purpose until she tried your Lemon Chill Tonic, of which one-third of a bottle cured her, and now she is well and healthy. Would say, I hear it often spoken of, and have yet to hear of a single case it has not cured. J. W. HAYS. For sale and guaranteed by Clarksville Drug Co., Edwin Thomas, Jr., Manager.

Salutes Will Be Fired.

Capt. Stecker, of the City Guards, has ordered one thousand blank cartridges to be used by his company the night of the big ratification here. This gives them twenty-five rounds and they propose to make the welkin ring. Salutes will be fired in honor of the election of Judge Turney and Grover Cleveland.

Yes, We Mean You!

Have you a tired feeling, appetite poor and nothing tastes right to you? Have you a dizzy feeling when stooping over or a bad taste in your mouth? If so you are bilious and a 50c. bottle of Lemon Chill Tonic will make you feel like another person, brings back your appetite and you wonder why you haven't tried it long ago. Price 50c. Pleasant as lemonade. For sale and guaranteed by Clarksville Drug Co., Edwin Thomas, Jr., Manager.

His Contract Complete.

H. E. Beach has completed his sewer contract on First street and it is a good job. Mr. Beach has been very successful in every contract he has been given by the city, and the surveyor, J. H. Mearns, says he is one man in a thousand who will try his best to do a piece of work according to contract.

Worth Knowing.

Many thousand people have found a friend in Aunt Fanny's Health Restorer. If you have never used this great specific for the prevailing malady of the age, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Costiveness, Nervous Exhaustion, Nervous Prostration, Sleeplessness and all diseases arising from derangement of the stomach, liver and kidney, we would be pleased to give you a package of this great nerve tonic free of charge. Tudhope Drug Co.

Farmers come fifteen miles to my store to get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Many of them, like myself, are never without it in their homes. I cured my boy of a very severe attack of croup and, I believe saved his life.—K. Dalton, Luray, Cassell county, Kansas. This is a certain cure for croup and, if used as soon as the first symptoms appear, will prevent the attack. For sale by Owen & Moore, Druggists.
