MISTRIAL ENTERED.

The Jury in the Avant Case is Discharged.

They Stood Nine For Acquittal and Three For Conviction—A Talk With a Juror.

The Avant jury was discharged this morning by Judge Tyler, and a mistrial was entered on the docket. After the jury was turned loose it was learned that it stood nine for acquittal and three for conviction. This resulted on the first ballot, ten minutes after the jury went to their room at the Franklin House Thursday evening. There was no change afterwards. The jurors who were for conviction were Dean, Robinson and Williams. They claim they would have hung the jury until doomsday before they would have voted to turn the prisoner loose. The jurors who were for acquitting the prisoner are equally obstinate in their belief that the prisoner is an innocent man. A member of the jury, who was for acquittal, said to a reporter this morning that the evidence of Dr. Wharton, the analytical chemist, fixed him on the side of Avant. He said that Dr. Wharton would not swear particularly that he found strychnine in the stomach, but "to the best of his knowledge and belief" it was strychnine. This juror holds that when a man's life is at stake the evidence should be positive. He did not construe Dr. Wharton's testimony as being positive, consequently he gave the accused the benefit of the doubt.

A reporter approached Attorney-General Pitt this morning and asked him what he would do. He replied that he would hold the prisoner for another trial.

Business Booming.

The merchants are doing a good business in all lines to-day. The fact is, they are rushed. A prominent merchant remarked to a reporter last night that his sales yesterday went $50 over the same day last year and that to-day they would go $100 over the same day a year ago. This is good, and it will get better.

The "Celebrities" Last Night.

This company played to a fair house last night, but not one equal to its merits. Our people are slow to patronize anything without knowing something of its qualities. We have no doubt, however, of the attendance to-night, as the unanimous approval of last night's performance is a guarantee for a good house to-night.

It was some disadvantage that the lady soprano vocalist was prevented from being present by the dangerous illness, as we are informed, of a brother; but the exertions of Miss Daily, the mezzo, and the great variety of other attractions varied the defect inappreciable.

The first triumph scored was that of E. A. Couturier, whose solo on the cornet evinced a mastery of the instrument which developed the capabilities of that instrument to an extent only limited by the limitations of the instrument.

The violinist, Chevalier Niedzelski, went beyond even this, for the violin is an instrument that has no limitations. In the hands of this performer it produced effects we have never heard before; it seemed like a familiar spirit under the control of a great magician, sometimes breaking loose from his sway into the most eccentric freaks, but always returning to its allegiance and doing its master's will. It was altogether a most original performance.

Miss Gleason is an elocutionist of an unusually high order. From grave to gay she always swayed the feelings of her audience at their utmost pitch, and at one time we began to think there would be no end to the ecstasies.

A very attractive feature in the performance was the ballad singing by Mr. Julian Jordan. This gentleman is a composer as well as a vocalist, and only wants more physical power to become a primo tenore. But the touching expression that he gave to the singing of his own songs gave them an interest beyond the reach of the operatic artist.

We have only to notice in addition the powerful voice and the scientific singing of Signor Visini, whose performance of the well known "Il Balen," from Travatore, left nothing to be desired.

We must add, however, that the interest in Mr. Couturier's cornet playing was greatly enhanced when the able second cornet of Miss Zimmerman was added to the music of the leading instrument.

If transcendent merit, now well ascertained, has anything like its legitimate influence the "Celebrities" must certainly have a crowded house to-night.

Surprising Testimony.

Many physicians who have examined into the merits of B. B. B. (Bottanic Blood Balm), have been confronted with testimony which they deemed surprising, and thus being convinced of its wonderful efficacy, have not failed to prescribe it in their practice as occasion required.

H. L. Cassidy, Kennesaw, Ga., writes: "For two years my wife was a great sufferer. Skillful physicians did her no good. Her mouth was one solid ulcer, her body was broken out in sores, and she lost a beautiful head of hair. Three bottles of B. B. B. cured her completely, incredible as it may sound, and she is now the mother of a healthy three months old baby clear from any scrofulous taint."

A. H. Morris, Pine Bluff, Ark., writes: "Hot Springs and several doctors failed to cure me of several running ulcers on my leg. B. B. B. effected a wonderfully quick cure after everything else had failed." For sale by Owen & Moore.

Mrs. Mary A. Grinter Dead.

Mrs. Mary A. Grinter, of Cadiz, Ky., died at her home in that place Saturday night last of pneumonia. She was 66 years old, and was a most estimable lady. Her husband, the late Thos. H. Grinter, was one of Trigg county's most wealthy and prominent citizens. They reared a family that is an honor to the county. Mrs. N. L. Carney, of this city, being a daughter. The deceased was interred at Cadiz Monday, a large crowd of friends attending, among whom were Dr. N. L. Carney and wife of this city.

Mrs. R. C. Rhea.

Of Milford, Neb., says she suffered greatly from a complication of diseases of female weakness and liver and kidney troubles. Her health was fully restored by using Dr. Hale's Household Tea, the most pleasant and most effective medicine known. 25c. and 50c. per package at Clarksville Drug Co.'s drug store, Edwin Thomas, Jr., manager.

NEWS IN TWO STATES.

Tennessee and Kentucky Happenings Briefly Chronicled.

Some News Notes That Will Prove Interesting to Readers of the Leaf-Chronicle.

The tobacco market at Henderson, Ky., is reported on a boom. Buyers are paying fancy prices for good tobacco.

The railroad assessors of Kentucky have just completed their assessments. The valuation has increased over two million dollars. The L. & N. is assessed about $33,000,000 on its property in the State.

Henderson, Ky., gets coal gas at one dollar per thousand. The coal costs the company, according to the Gleaner, 7 1/2 cents per bushel.

The recent municipal contest at Louisville resulted in the defeat of all but one of the regular Democratic nominees. A coalition of Independents and Republicans did the work in spite of the strong fight for the straight ticket by the Courier-Journal.

The following from the Giles County Democrat would lead one to believe that the people of that county are easily "torn up." "On Monday last we were shown letters which disclose a disgraceful episode of the attempt to tear Giles county up over the United States Senatorship. Every member of the executive committee of Giles county has received a letter or letters from Mr. Laps D. McCord, containing a complimentary ticket and invitation to attend Gov. Taylor's lecture Thursday night."

The Pulaski Citizen will be pardoned for this, as the Christmas rush for advertising space is now on: "Gentlemen, kindly cut your articles on the Senatorial question shorter to insure insertion. Our paper only has forty-eight columns and some of these have been previously engaged by our advertising patrons."

The Pulaski Citizen doubts the assertion made by the LEAF-CHRONICLE: That this paper was the first one to nominate Ex Governor Porter or a place in Mr. Cleveland's cabinet. The LEAF-CHRONICLE nominated him the day after the election, and this was two days before the Citizen had told its readers of the landslide.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has issued an order to the L. & N. railroad company requiring a reduction of rates on the coal from the Kentucky coal fields on the South-eastern road. There are many people in Clarksville who think cheaper coal could be secured here if the right kind of effort was made.

When will the people rebel against the remorseless dirt road tax? It kills horses, breaks wagons, and robs the people day and night. The costliest thing on earth when you consider its length, breadth and thickness is the dirt road; and the sooner it is abandoned the better for the public weal.—West Tennessee Whig.

Says the Banner: The quarterly report of Treasurer House, which was due Oct. 1, and which was not published at the time because Mr. Simonton, the chief clerk to the Treasurer, who usually transmits it to the Governor, was away at the time it should have gone in, has been in the hands of the Governor since Monday. The Governor has been so busy this week that he has not had time to look over the document. * * * Some time before the election Gen. Norman had occasion to write to Jesse Sparks, Jr., at Murfreesboro on legal business, and in the letter he facetiously invited Mr. Sparks to Gov. Buchanan's inauguration, which, he said, would take place some time in January. Mr. Sparks showed Gen. Norman the letter to-day. Gen. Norman takes these things pleasantly. * * *

A friend of Senator Bate is reported as saying that the Senator spoke freely of his chances of re-election. The figures given by him to his friend were as follows: Over forty of the eighty-eight members are positively instructed for him and over two-thirds of the Democrats are for him at this time. Said Senator Bate's friend to a reporter: "The opponents of Senator Bate will have to do some mighty fine work to defeat him. No wonder they ask for an appeal to some other tribunal besides the Legislature."

Senator Carlisle, of Kentucky, is spoken of as likely to become Secretary of the Treasury under Mr. Cleveland. A movement is also on foot in favor of Mr. Breckinridge as Speaker of the House.

The following story, started at Knoxville, is now going the rounds of the press: Two prominent citizens of Loudon county, Tenn., while hunting in the mountains, discovered ed a cave containing a well-preserved mummy similar in every respect to those of Egypt, and a large trunk or case bound with brass and sealed in several places. Upon being opened it was found to contain several leather cases, also sealed. The largest was opened and a roll of parchment was found which was covered with Hebrew characters. The relics were deposited in the vault of the First National Bank of Loudon and the Smithsonian Institute notified. Rev. Dr. Tucker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, translated one of the manuscripts and finds it to have been written by Menkara, High Priest of the land of Khem. It contains reference to the hidden treasures, which the writer says will be needed for a great war. The story is stranger than Rider Haggard's most visionary efforts. The Clerk of the County Court, A. S. Henderson, has written a very peculiar incident which led to the discovery.

DEAD IN HIS TRACKS.

A Prominent Citizen of Russellville Dies Very Suddenly.

He Had Started From His Residence to Town, But Fell on the Doorstep Dead.

Special to the Leaf-Chronicle.

RUSSELLVILLE, KY., Dec. 10.—This place was thrown into excitement this morning by the announcement that one of its most prominent citizens had dropped dead in his yard just as he was leaving home for the city on business. The deceased was none other than Mr. Monroe McLean, a prominent citizen and capitalist. At breakfast he was in his usual health and ate a hearty meal. He put on his hat and overcoat to go down town to his business. Just as he stepped from the door he fell dead in his tracks. The death took place at 7 o'clock, and heart disease probably caused it.

Mr. McLean was one of Russellville's best citizens, and his death will be a sad blow to the business interests of the city and county. He was an excellent business man and had made considerable money. The death has cast a gloom over the city. The interment will probably take place to-morrow afternoon.

A Little Girl's Experience in a Lighthouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trescott are keepers of the Gov. Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter four years old. Last April she was taken down with the measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones." Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at Owen & Moore's.
