THE CHRONICLE.

I only shut my eyes,
And the children are all about me,
A vision from the ski s:
The babes whose dimplet fingers
Lost the way to my breast,
And the beautiful ones, the angels,
Passed to the world of the blest. With never a cloud upon them,
I see their radiant brows;
My boys that I gave to freedom—
The red sword scaled their vows!
In a tangled Southern forest,
Twin brothers, bold and brave,
They fel; and the flag they died for,
Thank God! floats over their grave

And the pates are the weak of the possession of the unfortunatal the pos the sleep is over, until they feel as if they had rather get up than not. It is a very great and mischievous mistake for persons, old or young—especially children and feeble or sedentary persons—to bounce out of bed the moment they wake up; all our instincts shrink from it, and flereely kick against it. Fifteen or twenty minutes spent in gradually waking up, after the eyes are opened, and in turning over and stretching the limbs, do as much good as sound sleep, because these operations set the blood in motion by degrees, tending to equalize the circulation; for during in motion by degrees, tending to equalize the circulation; for during sleep, the blood tends to stagnation, the heart beats feebly and slowly; and to shock the system by bouncing up in an instant and sending the heart, causing it to assume a gallop, when the instant before it was in a creep, is the greatest absurdity. This instantaneous bouncing out of the bed as soon as the eyes are open will be followed by weariness long before noon."

"I must see to that."

So stepping up to the door, he gave a ring which soon brought the servant.

"I want to see the British Minis." and sneaks around a printing office or his neighbor's house to borrow what he is too cussed stingy to pay for, should be made to stand on his head four days (a cent a day) out of every week, and repeat the last speech made in Congress.
