ASHLAND CITY.

This thriving little town, the capital of Cheatham county, about thirty-five miles above this place, is one of the liveliest and most stirring little places in this section. It is the shipping and receiving point for the largest portion of the county, and a large amount of produce is handled here during the year, as well as a great many goods sold.

Its business is conducted by live, energetic merchants, who are rewarded by a good, paying business. Though the size of the place is not more than one-twentieth of that of Clarksville, they have a Court-house here which would put our old rockery here to shame.

The officers of Cheatham county are such as any citizen in the State might well be proud of, for a more competent, clever and accomplished set of gentlemen can not easily be found, than Messrs. J. N. Allen, C. and M. W. B. McQuary, County Court Clerk; W. B. Nichols, Chairman County Court, and G. W. Maxey, Sheriff. While under obligations to all of the above gentlemen for courtesies, we are especially obliged to Mr. W. B. McQuary, the efficient and popular County Court Clerk, and to S. D. Power, Esq., for favors shown us on our visit there this week.

We had the pleasure while there of making the acquaintance of several of the magistrates forming the County Court, and of many others among the citizens of Cheatham, and succeeded in enrolling the names of quite a number of them on our subscription list.

A GOOD WOMAN GONE.—Mrs. Nancy R. Jackson died at her home on Madison street, in this city, Friday, March 31st, 1876, after a long and painful illness. She was born in Orange county, Va., in 1797, and had entered her 80th year at the time of her death. Her husband, with this devoted christian wife and nine children, removed to this city three years ago. They had not been here a year before her husband met with a tragic death, which left her to struggle in poverty to rear her children. To whom she was ardently attached. To show her charitable, christian sentiment, an eye witness informed us that when her husband's remains were carried home, she prayed earnestly that his murderer should not be his resident on First street to Mr. H. W. Ritter, and has commenced the erection of a new one for himself on the lot adjoining Henry Frech's, on the same street.

MR. G. B. WILSON has sold his residence on First street to Mr. H. W. Ritter, and has commenced the erection of a new one for himself on the lot adjoining Henry Frech's, on the same street.

READ the advertisement of W. S. Cheatham in another column. He offers a reward of $50, for the recovery of his horse and the thief who stole him.

D. B. GALLEY, editor of the Tennessee Reporter, a journal published at Nashville, in the interest of the Knights of Honor, in a communication to that paper, thus speaks of our city: CLARKSVILLE.

This is one of the most active business points that I have found anywhere in my travels through the State. The population is wide awake, thorough-going and enterprising. The town is pleasantly situated, in the center of the most agricultural region, on the Cumberland river, which gives it excellent commercial facilities, and also on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, which places it at a great highway of travel and trade.

This is the center of a large and productive tobacco region, and the trade of Clarksville, which places it at a great highway of travel and trade. The large crop of last year, now coming into market, at excellent prices, makes trade very lively, and money more plentiful here than at any point I have visited.

The society of Clarksville is said to be most excellent, and the community has a good many very substantial, well-to-do citizens. The merchants of the place are generally sound and reliable, and several extensive manufacturing concerns are doing a thriving business. The professions are here occupied by men of ability and talent, and good schools and educational institutions are among the attractive features of the place, while numerous church organizations indicate the controlling religious tendencies of the people. Clarksville has gas works, fire engines, insurance office, three banks and two hotels, which do a thriving business. Here all the prominent features of a city are flourishing and doing well. There are not nights enough in the week to attend them all. This being the case, it was difficult for me to find an unoccupied place for our new organization, but by dint of crowding she at last found a "standing room," and will stand contentedly in its place. Some of her appropriate and legitimate share of public entertainment and support. Clarksville has a very successful "Building Association," that has done a vast amount of good in the community, in building pleasant homes for men and women, and securing other valuable benefits to its shareholders. After a very successful run of six or seven years, it is now about "winding up" its stock all being paid in, and its original objects all attained. I understand a new one will be immediately organized to take its place.

THE CHRONICLE and Tobacco Leaf have good offices, managed by men who understand their business, and are consequently very popular and sustained. In these establishments we were made to feel at home, and were treated with marked courtesy, which was fully and truly appreciated. Take it all in all, we believe in Clarksville. We believe she is one of the best business points in the State; we believe she is one of the healthiest places of residence, one of the most attractive, moral and social communities in the whole country.

Immigration to Tennessee. The number of immigrants registered in the books of the Bureau of Immigration for the quarter ending March 31, was as follows: January, 141; February, 130; March, 141; total, 412. Of this number there were from Ohio 113, Indiana 154, Michigan 65, Arkansas 4, Illinois 6, Pennsylvania 18, Wisconsin 1, Switzerland 1, Texas 1, Canada 1, Missouri 1, Kentucky 1, Iowa 1.—Nashville American.

A CONVENTION of the Democracy of Montgomery county is called to meet at the Court-house in this city on Saturday, the 22nd inst., for the purpose of appointing delegates to the State convention in Nashville, on the 31st day of May, proximo. The citizens of the several districts in the county are requested to hold primary meetings on Saturday, the 15th inst., to appoint delegates to the convention on the 22nd.

THE Kocisko (Miss.) Star says it is understood that the Democrats of the several districts of Mississippi will re-nominate and elect the present Democratic congressmen, with the exception of Lamar, who takes his seat as United States Senator in March next. Hooker, Singleton and Moore are strong in their districts, and the impression is that they will have no opposition in the next election.

THE name of General J. Z. George is very generally mentioned throughout Mississippi as the one to be placed at the head of the State ticket at the next election.

THE amount of outstanding Louisiana State bonds is $8,500,000, and $4,000,000 are not paid.

THE influx of Northern people into Hartsfield, Ala., still continues—all of them men of intelligence, thrift and enterprise.

United Friends of Temperance.

Shelbyville can boast of the largest and most flourishing Temperance Society in the State. The success of the United Friends of Temperance in this community is wonderful, and is truly gratifying to all christian, sober and order loving citizens. The society has reclaimed many, both in town and through the country from a life of dissipation, and we have recently noted with peculiar pleasure, that several men who were wont to imbibe freely every time they came to town, and to return reeling to their homes in the country, now give the shooes the cold shoulder when they come to town, and transacting their business with cool heads and perfect sobriety. To the great joy of their wives and children. The same can be said, too, of a number of the citizens of the town. Mechanics who erst while spent their Saturday nights and their week's hard earnings in drinking and hanging around the saloons, now after their business, attend home perfectly sober, and providing some comfort or luxury for loved ones at home, and, perhaps, a book or periodical for themselves, spend the evening with their families in reading and conversation. They find themselves, too, enabled to supply many little home comforts which they could not afford to do before. Their health and their spirits change found its way into the drawer of the saloon keeper. Young men have quit their night drinking and appear more at morning with red eyes and bloated faces. The policeman's office has become almost a sinecure, and the Recorder rarely has to try a case of drunkenness, and there is a very marked improvement in the morals and good order of the community.

Most of this good arises from the earnest work of the United Friends of Temperance, whose salutary influence is felt in every home in the town and country. We bid them "God speed," and urge them to continue in their God-appointed work. There are other poor unfortunate wretches to redeem yet.—Nashville Gazette.

THE new Chief Justice. James W. Deaderick, the Chief Justice elect of the Supreme Court of Tennessee, was born in 1812. He was educated at the East Tennessee University, and at Center College, Danville, Kentucky. At the age of twenty he married Miss M. J. Dowell, daughter of Dr. William McDowell, distinguished Kentucky surgeon, and grand-daughter of Gov. Isaac Shelby, Kentucky's first Governor.

At the age of thirty he commenced the study of the law in the office of Judge Luckey, the first Circuit Judge and Chancellor of the Jonesboro District. He remained at Jonesboro until just after the close of the war, when he removed to Knoxville in April, 1867. He was elected to the State Senate in 1868, and was re-elected in 1870, and was elected to the Supreme Judgeship in 1870. Chief Justice Deaderick had six sons in the Confederate army.

Civil-service reform should take a wide range, if the New Orleans Picayune reasons soundly: "Suppose all the officers of the Federal army, commissioned and non-commissioned, were made removable at the pleasure of the president with a hue and cry to lower than ever before.
