

ments of the best chemists in the United States as to his proficiency in medicine, and also possesses a regular diploma of the Philadelphia Medical College, the most celebrated in the country. He is a skillful druggist, and comes into the business here after several years experience in other cities, where he is most highly recommended. He has been in the business here without a partner for about a year, but was burned out in the April pyrotechnics, but very soon began again at his present stand, near the Franklin House. The first will open in the house just vacated by G. N. Myers. Every man, woman and child in Clarksville and Montgomery county, knows John Reynolds and likes him. He is one of the most popular tradesmen "extant," and his connection with a firm, almost of itself, insures success. His friends are legion, and they are not only glad to see John in business for himself, but they will give him trade. The new firm will get their share of the drug business.

John Elder.
The extensive and heavy business in the hardware line, which, up to one year ago, was carried on by the firm of Turnley & Elder, is now under the sole control and management of John Elder, the successor of Turnley & Elder. John Elder brings to his business, sound judgment and discretion, indomitable energy and industry, and a large capital. He is a liberal minded, public spirited citizen, and has done as much towards forwarding the growth and prosperity of Clarksville, as any other man. His stock embraces everything usually kept in large city hardware stores, and is scarcely surpassed in the south. In addition to the regular line of the trade, it is his intention, as soon as he gets into his large new rooms, to keep all kinds of machinery for farming and other purposes, such as harvesting machines, threshers and separators, wheat-fans and cider mills, plows and drills; wagons and buggies, in fact anything from a Jewsharp to a Telephone.

Fox & Smith.
This hardware firm began business under its present name, September, 1865, and is now one of the oldest mercantile firms in Clarksville. Until 1869, they confined themselves exclusively to the sale of hardware and iron. In that year, they added the sale of agricultural implements to their business, and have since had a successful and growing trade in Montgomery and adjoining counties in Tennessee and Kentucky. They introduced the Walter A. Wood Self-Raking Reaper, which has had such splendid success; the Chicago Pitt Separator, and their improved farm machinery. They are at all times on the alert for improvements in this class of goods, which will be beneficial to the farming interests. They carry in stock, a fine line of builders hardware, mechanics' tools, horse shoes, and nails, Avery Steel and Cast Plows, Clarksville steel and Cast Plows, wagons, chains, hoes, axes, pumps, prize screws etc., etc.; and in season a full line of reapers, threshers, hay rakes, wheat fans, grain drills etc. They are sole agents for the celebrated Oliver Chilled Plows. This firm is doing an annual business of about $50,000.00.

Saddlery and Harness.
Joslin the "come to stay" man, and John Young, two accomplished workmen as ever drew a stitch, supply the trade of Clarksville, and vicinity with as good work in their line as can be had in the United States.

Kincannon, Wood & Co.
The handsomest stove and tin house in Tennessee is that of the above firm. They lost very heavily by the fire, but it has had the effect of "fixing them up" in most elegant quarters. They have one of the best houses in the south, and their stock will compare favorably with those of larger cities than Clarksville. They are doing a wide wholesale and retail business, in stoves, tinware, glass gewandars and house-furnishing goods generally.

R. L. Hamlett.
dealer in stoves, tinware, etc., does business on Franklin street next door to the telegraph office. He keeps constantly on hand, and makes to order, everything in his line.

C. Mehigan.
A stove and tin house has recently been opened near the Harrison corner by Mr. Mehigan. He comes to Clarksville from New Providence, where he had been in business for a number of years. Mr. Mehigan keeps an extensive and well-selected stock of goods.

John F. Counts.
the furniture man, until recently did business on the ground floor in the Hillman block, but has now gone up higher, viz, upstairs over his old stand. He is a man of long experience in his business, and is a careful buyer. He keeps in stock an immense amount of everything in the furniture line. He is also a practical undertaker. You can find anything in Counts' establishment you may need, from a cradle to a coffin.

Q. C. Atkinson.
Another leading furniture house is Q. C. Atkinson's, on Franklin street, two doors west of First. Mr. Atkinson has a well selected stock of the most elegant furniture. He also does undertaker's work.

Lovell & Myers.
Franklin street, second door east of Caldwell & Shelton's livery stable, do a lively trade in pictures, frames, mouldings, parlor brackets, window cornices, etc.

C. L. Cooke.
One of the most splendid jewelry stores in the Southwest is that of the Cooke Brothers, who have for many years been doing a very large business here. The house is old, and one which, by its efforts in the past to meet the wants of the public, has built up an extensive trade, and is known far and near. Their stock, for extent and elegance, is not often surpassed anywhere. Everything in the way of jewelry and house-furnishing goods can be found in their mammoth establishment.

settled in our city just before the fire, and opened in the jewelry business on Franklin street. His entire stock, amounting to thousands of dollars, was burned. He went to work again in earnest and has rebuilt, and opened a large assortment of the handsomest jewelry. Mr. Gauchat comes to us from Allensville, where he is well known and respected as a gentleman of worth and a skillful goldsmith.

Rhoner & Auling.
do a thriving jewelry business in the Postoffice building.

Ligon & Settle.
We come now to notice the confectioneries, of which the city has three. The senior member of the confectionery business since 1852. Their store is a model of neatness and beauty, and their stock consists of a bewildering array of everything that can please the eye, gratify the palate or tempt the pocket.

E. B. Ely.
was, up to a few months since, the partner of Mr. Ligon in the confectionery business. He is now sole proprietor of a most elegant store, filled to overflowing with the very choicest goods in his line. Mr. Ely is a man of great industry and experience, and fully understands the needs and tastes of the people.

Barker & Aldridge.
This is a new firm in the confectionery business of the city. They occupy Rexinger's new building on Franklin street. They manufacture their own candies, caramels, etc., and are doing a thriving business.

Wm. Kleemann,
the huckster and meat man, keeps a well appointed establishment on the north side of Franklin street, a short distance west of Second.

Gunsmiths.
There are two gunsmith shops in town, that of Otis E. Davidson on First street, between Franklin and Commerce, and that of Moore & Bates, corner Franklin and Second. They are skillful artisans. Mr. Davidson being the recent inventor of a paper bag machine that excels anything of the kind heretofore invented.

McCormac.
Everybody in the community knows him, and also knows that his gallery is one of the best and most splendidly equipped south of Mason and Dixon's line. His work compares favorably with work done in the Northern and Eastern cities, and indeed he was awarded a medal at Buffalo, N. Y., some time since, for the superior excellence of his work.

F. P. Gracey & Bro.
are two of the "lives" business men here or anywhere else. They are men of large means, and do a general shipping and commission business, making coal and salt a specialty. They have in constant employment about twenty-five wagons and teams, and are general agents for St. Bernard and Pittsburgh coal.

J. S. Woodson
is agent for the Diamond coal and deals extensively in hay. Office on Franklin street, near Third.

B. F. Poston,
office in Alwell's feed store, north corner of Franklin and Third, is agent for the Hecla coal.

Caldwell & Shelton,
the headquarters for fine horses, fine buggies and horse-turnouts, is on the corner of Franklin and Second. Their stable is large, well furnished and popular. They keep from twenty to thirty horses of their own, and as many buggies, carriages, hacks, etc., as you want. They are gentlemen who thoroughly understand their business.

Daniel & Jones,
successors to Daniel & Bro., proprietors of the Eclipse livery stable, corner of Second and Strawberry alley, keep a magnificent supply of horses and buggies, and have one of the most commodious and conveniently arranged institutions of the kind in the country.

Wm. Dudley
keeps a good livery stable on Strawberry alley, and divides the patronage with the others.

Manufactories.
In this department Clarksville, while she does not claim to be a manufacturing town, is yet able to present a considerable showing. One of the leading industries in this line is the

Sewance Planning Mill.
Those who have not visited this establishment of G. B. Wilson & Co. will be surprised to learn the extent of this manufacturing interest. This mill began business in 1869, and its owners have succeeded in building up a gradually increasing trade, extending through Kentucky as far as Bowling Green, and south to Paris and McKenzie and beyond. They have a full line of the most approved machinery, and give constant employment to fifty hands. They manufacture by wholesale all kinds of building wood-work, such as doors, sash, blinds, flooring, store shelving, counters and store fronts, using hard woods, such as walnut, oak, ash, etc.; also in their best manufactures they use large quantities of white pine. In their more ordinary stock work they use yellow poplar. They carry several million feet in stock, thereby insuring dry lumber.

McKynolds & Son
also have a planing mill in successful operation on Commerce street, between Third and Fourth. They are contractors and builders, manufacturing their own lumber. Clarksville Foundry and Machine Shop, is operated by Whitfield, Bates & Co., and does an immense business in the way of manufacturing and repairing all kinds of machinery, from a wheelbarrow to a printing press. They make steam engines, saw mills, prize screws, wagons, plows, etc., etc.

Barksdale, Clark & Co.
are manufacturers of all kinds of builders' material. They have a planing mill on the corner of Franklin and Fifth streets.

Meriwether & Patch
are the manufacturers of the celebrated Clarksville steel and cast plows, which have attained such a wide popularity in Tennessee and the adjoining States.

Clarksville Wagon Manufactory.
This establishment is owned by a stock company, and manufactures in great numbers the far-famed Irvin wagon, which is so well and so favorably known throughout the country.

Chair Factory.
Mr. H. A. Current is the chair man, and makes as good a chair as can be had for the money anywhere. He is fitting up his new factory with improved machinery, and will soon be enabled to turn them out more rapidly than ever.

W. S. Kerr,
carpenter and builder, recently from Huntsville, Ala., has permanently located in Clarksville, and advertises for business. Mr. Kerr is highly recommended, and brings with him an experience of thirty years in his business.

Baker & Bro.
have one of the completest buggy factories in the country, and the "Baker" buggy has obtained a reputation second to none. You can't buy them for five dollars apiece, but when you do get one you can depend on it. Baker & Bro. get all the work their factory is capable of turning out, and their buggies, carriages, etc., never fail to give satisfaction.

Hardin & Co.
also do a large business in the manufacturing business of the city. Their shops are on the corner of Commerce and Third streets. They use the very best material, employ none but the most skillful workmen, and consequently they put up as good a buggy as can be made.

Banks of the City.
There are four banks in Clarksville, and for the amount of stock, managerial ability and general solidity they are unsurpassed.

Franklin Bank
is located on Franklin street, next door to Kincannon & Wood. It is one of the leading banking institutions of the city, and is backed up by talent and capital of the first order. The Franklin Bank building was one of the first to burn in the fire on Saturday night, April 13th, Monday morning promptly at 9 o'clock, its officers were at their posts, and the business went on without interruption. Their safe and vault went through the fire without the slightest injury to any of their books or papers. P. C. Hambaugh is President; W. S. Poindexter, Cashier.

Northern Bank
is situated on the west side of the square, near the Franklin Hotel. D. N. Kennedy is President; James L. Glenn, Cashier; John W. Faxon, Assistant Cashier.

First National Bank
is situated on the west side of the square. S. F. Benumott is President; Wm. P. Huie, Cashier.

Bank of Clarksville is situated on the west side of the square. H. C. Merritt is President; A. Howell, Cashier.

Educational Institutions.
Clarksville may well feel proud of the high rank she is taking as an educational center, for we date say there is no other town of its size more generally blessed with fine schools. We are sorry that we cannot do more in this sketch than to barely mention the different institutions.

Churches.
The Baptist church, corner Fourth and Madison, Dr. A. D. Sears, Pastor.

Christian,
corner Third and Madison. Rev. W. A. Broadhurst, Pastor.

Catholic,
College and Fourth, Father Gleason, Pastor.

Cumberland Presbyterian,
Corner Fourth and Main. Has no Pastor at present.

Episcopal,
Franklin Street, between Third and Fourth. Rev. P. A. Pitts, Rector.

Southern Methodist,
Corner Fourth and Franklin. Rev. R. K. Brown, Pastor.

Presbyterian,
Corner Third and Main. Rev. J. W. Lupton, Pastor.

Some of these church buildings, notably the Episcopal and Presbyterian, are magnificent specimens of architecture, and in beauty and richness of finish, are all that wealth could make them.

Other Public Buildings.
Besides the churches, hotels etc., may be mentioned the University buildings; the Howell building; the Tobacco Exchange, (the latter two being now in process of construction) and the Elder Hall, which when completed will be an ornament to the city, and a noble monument to the public spirited gentleman who, while judiciously investing his capital, is supplying a want long felt in Clarksville for a first-class public hall. Elder Hall will be 105 feet deep, by 51 feet wide, and 23 feet between floor and ceiling. It will have a stage 30 feet deep, and a seating capacity of nearly 1000, including the galleries.

Clarksville has long felt the need of suitable concert and theater hall, and now congratulates herself on the possession of one that would be a credit to any city.

Conclusion.
We have thus undertaken to present to our readers as well as to strangers a birds-eye view of Clarksville and her advantages, not in point of business, but as a residence. Whilst her advantages as a market for buying or selling everything that is bought or sold, are, we contend, unequalled, yet her inducements to those seeking a residence for life, are powerful. Here you find, not only the shrewd prosperous merchant, the thriving mechanic, and the monied capitalist; but you find also a quiet, intelligent, temperate and Christian people who are noted for their liberality and their genuine morality; who regard their churches and Sunday schools as among the necessities of life. Clarksville never was more prosperous than now, and is pluming her wings for even loftier flights toward the bright goal that awaits her. What mean these hundreds of new buildings that are popping up on every side? What mean these immense warehouses and these gorgeous dry-goods houses, and these streets thronged with the busy crowds? How does it happen that a dwelling house is not allowed to remain vacant twenty-four hours? It all means that Clarksville is on the high road to success. "May she live long and prosper!"

THE next Legislature of this State convenes on the first Monday in January, which is the 6th day of the month.
CHRISTMAS morning while you are indulging in egg-nog, Tom and Jerry, etc., "just think of your head in the morning."
No use to look around. Go to Lieber's where you find everything kept in a first-class dry goods and clothing house. New and fresh goods received daily.
ALL of our subscribers out of the city can always tell to what time they are paid up to by referring to their address at head of paper. If you are in arrears please renew at once.
We learn that the Supreme Court will take up the docket for this county on the first Monday in January next.
REV. R. J. CRAIG well preach at the Methodist Church, in this city, on the 5th Sunday in this month, Dec. 29.
For an appreciative Christmas present you cannot do better than have your photograph taken by McCormac, and present the same to some friend. He is turning out some of the finest work that has ever been done in the State.
YOUNG Mr. Sterling Ussery, from the south side of the river, has taken a position with Mr. P. H. Keese & Co. in their tobacco factory. He is an industrious and clever young man, and we hope his residence in the city will be both pleasant and profitable.
As we noticed in our last, Prof. Wm. Mueller, the celebrated artist in music, and Professor of dancing, from New Orleans, Memphis and Louisville will, on his way south, open a fashionable dancing school in our city during the first week in January next. Prof. M. is so well known to our citizens, and all over the south as to need no commendation from the press, his name has become a household talk with all who are fond of music and dancing.
Public Reads.
EDITORS CHRONICLE: I wish you would lend me space in your columns for a short article on the above caption. Politics, the question that usually fires the average citizen, being now in one of its quiet stages, and the road question being an entirely new one (for I have not seen or heard of mentioned by either man or newspaper for many years), I hope it will be readable matter. To tell the truth, some of our public roads have been so long neglected, and look so forlorn and desolate, that all respectable men have cut their acquaintance; yet there is nothing more useful than these same public roads. I consider that public schools and public roads are two of the most important levers whereby you may prize an obscure neighborhood into a good healthy state of civilization, and without these it will be up-hill all the way. The public schools are leading men, but as for the public roads, who are supporting them? And yet it will take no money and but little labor, together with a little energy, to put them in good shape. I consider a road in good fix when it has a ditch on each side and slopes each way from its center. Now all of our roads are divided into short sections, with an overseer appointed over each of them, and if they would subdivide these sections into four parts, and the overseer put one of these parts in good fix each year, besides keeping up the others, in four years we would have good roads. On some of our roads when the overseer has a fit of energy upon him, he rides around and warns in the hands, and at the appointed time they come in late, usually bringing wedding hoes, and occasionally a man with a grubbing hoe. The man with the grubbing hoe loosens the earth, and the men with wedding hoes rake it into the gulleys. They work until noon, rest and play marbles in the afternoon; then the overseer goes home and sleeps that profound slumber that only great men can, after discharging an onerous public duty, and while he sleeps a shower of rain falls and washes the fresh, loose earth out of the gulleys, and the rising sun beholds that public road just exactly in the same condition it was the morning before.
From what I can see there are two difficulties in the way. Firstly, those who have bad roads have had them so long that they have become accustomed to them, and would not know how to drive on a good road. Secondly, no one will make a start. If some of "the powers that be" in using hard money take a little interest in this matter, and put a little enthusiasm with the intrest, I believe our roads, which are now standing objects of neglect, would shortly become objects of pride.
