WHAT OF THE CROPS AND BUSINESS OUTLOOK?

For the past three months we have heard nothing but complaints of the drouth, stagnation of business and general croaking on all sides and upon all subjects, until we, here in Tennessee, have almost subsided into the condition of the pessimist, seeing no good in anything, no silver lining to what we have seen fit to magnify into a cloud, and instead of whistling to the steeds of time to make them jog on merrily with life's burden, we have let the ghost, the chimeras of hard times hang like an incubus upon our spirits and business progression. Now that the hot depressing summer months are about to pass away to be succeeded by cooler weather, and the long drouth has ended, is it not high time we quit croaking about what has been and begin to look forward into the future and see what the harvest and business outlook bids fair to be. Notwithstanding the cry of the croakers about a total failure of crops it is now clearly shown even by the meagre reports which as yet, at this early date are enabled to be gathered, that there will be a much better yield in the crops than at first anticipated. It is now conceded, in this immediate section, that there will be a fair tobacco crop, and a much better yield of corn than many would suppose. Granting that there will be a partial failure of crops in Middle Tennessee, or even throughout the state, and in parts of our neighboring states, still we cannot believe that the present high prices at which grain and other products are selling will be kept up. It is a mere spurt of the speculators, and as soon as the crops are fully matured and gathered, and it is then seen there is a plenty to do all and a surplus to sell, the market will fall back to its normal condition and the general business of the state will be as good if not better than usual. Let us then quit brooding over the fear of evils to come, let every man put his shoulder to the wheel, and do the best he can and all will be well.

Leave it to the chronic croaker and demagogue to quibble about the postponement of taxes and the thousand of evils he sees staring the "dear people" in the face, and with brave progressive manly hearts from down fossilism and dishonor and enter the ranks of the New South, determined to dare and overcome any fate. The trade reports from all the leading business centers of the country, in the south no less than in the north, form a chapter of most encouraging reading matter, revivifying and restrengthening the hope that a new era of prosperity is about to come upon us all. We would not be considered optimists but we believe this and in the language of another we would be glad to "hear a chorus of glad tidings of great joy that would silence the everlasting croakers."

More Silver-wedding Presents. Since your last published list of "bride presents," two others have been added, viz: a handsome Syracuse stand from Dr. and Mrs. Shearer, and a picture of Mr. Mooney and myself, from Mr. W. J. McCormac. This last is the admiration of all who have seen it, and if beauty consist in fidelity to nature this is a beautiful picture, for it is life-like, and shows the master's touch in every detail. The work, indeed, would reflect credit upon any gallery, and of the many mementoes of friendship that we have received, none will claim a higher place on memory's wall than this. It will be prized the more lovingly as Time shows his years upon us, and when we have fallen asleep and form and feature have faded and faded into forgetfulness, this picture will be a faithful memorial for the loved ones who live after us. We shall hold grateful appreciation of the generous artist for this specimen of his skill and this token of his good will.

THE INDIGNATION FAIR AT PARIS. As we predicted the low-tax indignation "mass meeting" which was to come off at Paris, Henry county, on last Monday did not materialize to any great extent. It is reported as being a stupendous failure. Experience is said to be the best teacher, and it seems to us that after so many repeated failures on the part of those few enraged and disappointed political tricksters to arouse the passions and prejudices of a contented, sensible people, they too ought to learn a little sense and to realize—what sooner or later will be delivered into their own hands—that the people of Tennessee have something else better to do than to quit their business and run around to so-called "mass meetings" and listen to their wearisome drivel. The age of demagoguery is fast fading away and under the manly tread of honesty and progress and new enterprise it is soon to be crushed out in Tennessee. One hundred and eighty thousand copies of the state spoken in thunder tones, at the ballot box last year, for the maintenance of the public faith of the state, how can these chronic agitators, so soon after, hope to make them assemble together and recant what they then sacredly and solemnly endorsed by the exercise of the highest prerogative known to freemen—a free and untrammelled vote? You cannot persuade the people to go back upon what they have once sanctioned, and the sooner you cease to try to stir up these unpleasant disagreements the better it will be for all of us. We are charitable enough to believe that your errors are rather those of the head than of the heart and if you are willing to cease this unwholesome agitation and return to the ranks of the true democrats we extend you the honest hand of friendship and say welcome. It is never too late to mend and the sooner you begin the better.

ABOUT fifty editors in Nebraska announced simultaneously their intention of suspending the issue of their paper for two weeks, "owing to the intense heat." The Memphis Appeal insinuates that the "intense heat" was that of a fire which burned the office in Omaha, where their present issue of papers was printed. A large number of Tennessee papers are liable to suspend on account of the same "intense heat" some of these days. What would they say if the intense heat should occur in the dead of winter?

THE New York Sun says, "the indications are of a fall trade of great activity in whatever direction. Indeed, in whatever direction we look, we see signs of great energy and healthful progress for the autumn."

THE Indians, by their continuous depredations on west, in the horrible massacre of citizens and soldiers seen to be determined upon their own extermination and the sooner they are wiped out the better.

JOAQUIN MILLER, the poet, is proprietor of a Saratoga boarding house. The weird aesthetic poetry of "the songster of the Sierras" may be good enough for a feast of reason and flow of soul, but the average boarding house fiend demands a little more solid substance.

Our Streets and Street Lamps.

The work that is now being done by the board of mayor and aldermen upon our streets is receiving the praise and approbation of all our citizens. Their efforts to place the streets of Clarksville in first-class condition before the muddy sloshy winter months set in, are now being crowned with success, and we will soon boast of good streets as can be found in any city of its size in the country. They have first had the streets well graded and macadamized, and are now having this season rock covered with gravel, taken from the river bed. This spread upon the rock makes a most excellent road bed. When this is fully completed there will be but one thing left to complete our streets and add to the convenience and safety of the citizens, to say nothing of the beauty and general appearance of the city by night, and that is the lighting of the streets with gas lamps, which may be kept burning every night, except bright moonlight nights, until at least one o'clock. Let us have light is the cry of our citizens.

THE Court-house commissioners are having a new iron fence put up enclosing the grounds of the new Court-house. The fencing was manufactured by the Charleston Iron Fence company of Kenton Ohio, and presents a very substantial and handsome appearance. The commissioners thought at one time of having the fence placed on stone curbing, but after getting estimates of the work and finding that it would cost as much additional as the fence itself, they decided not to have the stone work. The fence company guarantees the stability as well as the quality of the fence. Mr. Bingham, the agent of the company, is here in person attending to its erection. It is a beautiful fence and will add no little to the general appearance of the building and grounds. Its estimated cost is about $2,500.

MR. GILBERT C. BREED, who has been purchasing agent for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company for a number of years, has recently been promoted to the position of Assistant General Manager of the road, with headquarters at Louisville as before. The many warm personal friends of Mr. Breed in this city, who became greatly attached to him during his residence among us for a number of years, will be pleased to hear of his promotion. There is no position in which the railroad company could place Mr. Breed that would not be worthily bestowed and efficiently filled.

MR. Wm. KLEEMAN was thrown from his horse near his residence on Franklin street near the cross streets on last Tuesday morning, and considerably bruised about the head and body. His horse became frightened at some men scattering gravel on the street and becoming unmanageable dashed down an embankment, throwing him violently off. At first it was thought he was seriously hurt, but upon his being removed to his home, near by Dr. Badger sent for, it was discovered that he had escaped with only a few severe contusions.

PUBLICANS are getting dangerous, or rather the attendance upon them. A young man in New York State went to one of the other day and while there danced with a young lady, after which pleasure, he looked a little too deeply upon the wine that is red, went home. A few days later he was informed that during his hilarity he had married the girl and now she produces the clergyman's certificate and flaunts it in his face. "This should be a warning to publicans, especially of the male persuasion."

H. M. DOAK of the American and Dr. R. C. White of the Lebanon Herald are discussing the momentous question of whether it is correct to say "there are no snakes in Ireland," or "there are no snakes in Ireland." If they keep up this discussion the public will be forced to ask of them "are there no snakes in your boots?"

MR. J. A. CALDWELL, of Hadenville, Ky., was married in this city on last Tuesday afternoon, to Miss Emma Smith, of same neighborhood. The ceremony was performed at the Episcopal church, by the Rev. Dr. Pitts, in the presence of a few friends of the happy nuptials. After the ceremony was over, the joyous couple left immediately for Louisville and other cities.

Improvements at Dunbar's.

In conversation with Hon. J. F. House, the other day, who has just returned from several weeks sojourn in McMinnville, Tenn., and the mountainous summer resorts thereabouts, we were inquiring about the temperature of the weather in that region during the excessive hot months which have just passed, when he answered in reply to our inquiry that he "supposed the temperature of the weather had been much cooler and more pleasant in those parts than in many other summer resorts, but the coolest place he had come across this summer, was Dunbar's cave, right here at home," where he had been the day previous. This was indeed a high compliment as well as a deserved one, to our "at home" summer resort, and while mentioning it, we wish to impress upon the proprietors of the cave the great importance of their taking time by the forelock and, this fall, erecting a suitable hotel and other accommodations out there. There is not the least doubt but that, with proper and convenient accommodations, Dunbar's cave could be made one of the most extensively patronized and popular summer resorts in the state. The proprietors have already made many alterations and improvements both inside and out of the cave the past summer, and what they now ought to do, is to go right ahead this fall and build the hotel and make other necessary improvements so that by next season the cave will be in perfect readiness for the reception of permanent and transient guests. Give them the proper accommodations and the guests will be forthcoming.

THE President, although slightly affected by the fatigue of his journey to Long Branch, which caused his pulse to rise somewhat higher, after he had been placed in his cotage, has, on the whole, notwithstanding the severe heat at the Branch, which was the severest ever known there, passed the week very comfortably. He has generally slept well, and at the last report, was considered better than he has been for many days. His appetite is greatly improved and he is now taking chicken broth.

THREE of his physicians, Drs. Reynolds, Barnes and Woodward, together with Mrs. Dr. Elson, his nurse, have retired from the case. There are the most buoyant hopes of his ultimate recovery now felt throughout the country at large.

FLIPPER, the only negro who ever graduated from West Point and the only one who held a commission in the United States army has been arrested at Fort Davis Texas, for the embezzlement of $4,500, from the government while acting as assistant quartermaster of subsistence. It was also discovered that he had been living in disgraceful and immoral manner with a negro woman, but the prompt and effective manner in which this case was dealt with shows their determination and ought to be a warning to all who have any inclination to violate and defy the law. They mean business.

THE Clarksville Reading Club. This association met on last Tuesday night, at the residence of Mr. J. West, on Franklin street. The change of place of meeting somewhat affected the attendance though the handsome double parlor was well filled. There were readings, recitations, music, instrumental and vocal, but the usual discussion and essays were omitted.

MR. J. W. RUDOLPH tendered his resignation as secretary, an office which he has filled from the organization of the club. The lady members testified their appreciation of his faithful service by the presentation of a beautiful gold pen, tendered him in behalf of the donors by Miss Nora Baker with a few well chosen words.

MR. RUDOLPH, as we learn from his associate officers, and from members of the club, has been a most efficient officer, and we join our regrets with theirs that he has chosen a new home.

THE following was announced as the program for next meeting: Recitations, Prof. Jno. S. Collins and Mr. Chas. Hall; Mrs. Jno. F. Couts and Miss Hallie Herriag.

THE PRESIDENT REMOVED TO LONG BRANCH—HIS CONDITION.

President Garfield was removed from the White House, at Washington, last Tuesday morning, to Long Branch, on a special car fitted up for the purpose. His removal was successfully accomplished without any mishap or noteworthy incident. At precisely 5:10 o'clock the President was carried from the sick room to a large Express wagon, which had been backed up to the steps of the front portico. He was carried out on the same bed on which he had lain ever since he was shot. His features though greatly emaciated, were a patient and resigned expression. A small platform had been erected from the portico to the wagon, and across this he was tenderly and carefully carried and placed in the wagon. As the express wagon moved away from the door of the executive mansion, the President feebly but cheerily lifted his left hand and waved good-by to the inmates of the house who had assembled on the porch to bid him Good speed. The wagon was driven with the horses at a walk, down Pennsylvania Avenue to the depot, where he was carefully removed to the car which had been prepared for him. The train started immediately for Washington, going at the rate of almost thirty miles an hour. Nothing of note transpired on the journey. The President stood splendidly, even better than his physicians, who accompanied him, had anticipated.

Public School Notes.

There have been twenty-four new pupils enrolled in the public schools during the week, making the entire enrollment to date, six hundred and eighty-seven. In the grammar department, the five following have been added: Lucien F. Nixon, Morton Turnley, Lucien Whitten, Richard Finn and Mabel Scarborough, all interesting and promising children. For lack of space, the names in the other departments are not given.

Parents and the public generally, should visit these schools, not merely as a matter of duty, but see the harmonious and beautiful workings of a well-ordered and large school. At any time between 8.30, a. m., and 2.30, p. m., visitors will find the schools in session, and are at entire liberty to pass from room to room as if visiting a public library. They are never in the way. Teachers, it is true, will proceed with their duties, going on the principle that visitors will see the schools, and not themselves.

THE superintendent earnestly requests all patrons living in the city to start their children for school at 8 o'clock, a. m., that they may be neither tardy nor before time. Pupils outside the corporate limits, should be started earlier, according to the distance to be travelled. This request is in direct accordance with the rules of the board, and is a very necessary thing to attend to where such large numbers are to be handled.

TEACHERS of the Howell school meet at their building to-day, Saturday, at 9 o'clock, a. m., as a Normal class. Lectures will be delivered by Prof. Weber on arithmetic, and by Miss Lovell on geography. All teachers of the city and county are cordially invited to attend and participate in the discussion which will follow the lectures.

THE prisoners in the Ohio penitentiary have been discovered amusing themselves with the manufacture and circulation of counterfeit nickels. It would seem that the Ohio penitentiary, like most of other states' prisons is not a success as a reformatory institution.

LORENZO DELAMONICO, of New York city, the king of restaurateurs and caterers, died at Sharon Springs New York, on last Saturday. He was a native of Switzerland and sixty-eight years old.

"GENERAL" MARVIN, the forger and much married man, says he has never heard of his name in any round figures. The greatest export of grain, grass, corn or tobacco. Also three hundred acres of corn, one of 100 acres and one of 100 acres. All of which will be sold on reasonable terms.

MR. T. M. BRODIE, who lives in Montgomery county, near Jordan Springs, had the misfortune to have his smoke house broken into and about 125 pounds of bacon stolen, last Sunday night. The thief, is a negro named Dick Brodie, who also took a mule, and in company with another negro, came this way. Mr. Brodie came to Dover last Wednesday, and offered a reward of $10 for the return of the mule. The negro was tracked to the Bear Spring, on the north side of the river, but made his escape. He has been at work in the coaling for about 15 months, and goes by the name of John Jordan—Dover Courier.

ADRIANA PATT has signed a contract in London for a concert season in the United States, beginning at Steinhay Hall, New York, Nov. 9th.
