A Serious Imbrogio.

The peaceful relations existing between France and Germany were very seriously threatened by a piece of reckless carelessness the other day. On the Franco-Germany frontier, near Raon-sur-plain, a party of four or five French gentlemen who were out hunting, followed by four beaters, had three shots fired into them from an ambush of trees about eighty yards from the frontier line on the German side. The huntsmen were about seven yards from the line on French soil. The shots were fired by a German soldier named Kauffmann, who was detailed to assist the foot guards in preventing poaching. One of the beaters was killed by the second shot, and the third severely wounded a gentleman named Wagner, a pupil at the Laumer Cavalry school. A great deal of indignation was naturally excited in France over this most cowardly outrage, but it is thought that the German government will be bound to make reparation, and that it will probably be peaceably settled in this way. Later information is to the effect that Count Von Munster, the German ambassador at Paris, has expressed to M. Flourens, minister of foreign affairs, his personal regret that the shooting should have taken place, and said that Germany certainly would give satisfaction if her officials were found culpable.

The Glenn Bill.

That Trojan horse and ancient chestnut, yclept the "Glenn Bill," with its substitutes, died a natural death the other day and was buried, let us hope, in the tomb of the Capulets. As the law now stands the Atlanta University will never receive a stiver of the $8,000 appropriated by the Legislature of the State of Georgia to that institution unless ample guaranties are given that the colored children alone, for whose benefit the institution was founded, shall have the exclusive benefits of it. And this cuts out those officious dead beats who want to raise a muss by sending their children to a negro school, and forcing the negroes to recognize their social equality with decent colored folks.

Tennessee Crops.

The average of the State of the following crops has been furnished in advance by Commissioner B. M. Hord, of the Bureau of Agriculture, Statistics and Mines, Nashville:

Corn—Condition compared with average crop, per cent. 77.
Cotton—Condition compared with average crop, per cent. 76.
Sorghum—Condition compared with average crop, per cent. 82.
Tobacco—Condition compared with average crop, per cent. 67.
Millet—Condition compared with average crop, per cent. 67.
Late Irish Potatoes—Condition compared with average crop, per cent. 55.
Sweet Potatoes—Condition compared with average crop, per cent. 70.
Apples—Condition compared with average crop, per cent. 48.
Grapes—Condition compared with average crop, per cent. 77.
Melons—Condition compared with average crop, per cent. 88.
Peanuts—Condition compared with average crop, per cent. 68.
Stock Peas—Condition compared with average crop, per cent. 74.

Greatly Excited.

Not a few of the citizens of Clarksville have recently become greatly excited over the astounding fact, that several of their friends who had been pronounced by their physicians as incurable and beyond all hopes—suffering with that dreaded monster Consumption—have been completely cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, the only remedy that does positively cure all throat and lung diseases, Coughs, Colds, Asthma and Bronchitis. Trial bottle free at Owen & Moore's Drug Store, large bottles $1.

Another Shooting Tragedy.

The Bell County, Ky., feud has been the parent of another terrible and cold blooded murder. On Saturday 24th inst., J. H. Monroe was shot and killed through a window while sitting on the arm of a chair in which Miss Edith Turner, to whom he was engaged to be married, was sitting. Jack Turner, the father of the young lady, had been recently assassinated from a horse belonging to Monroe's uncle, but Monroe had nothing to do with the killing of Jack Turner, and was an honest and peaceable young man. Miss Turner had not lived with her father for several years, her mother having separated from him because he had killed her mother's father. Mr. Lane. Joe Henderson, one of the Turner gang, was suspected, but no arrests have been made.

Death From Morphine.

Thos. H. Perry, a carpenter 60 years old, of Nashville, Tenn., was found dead in his bed, at Mrs. Trimm's, on South Summer street, where he boarded, on the morning of the 26th ult. His death was the result of an overdose of morphine, but whether administered to himself with a suicidal intent, could not be ascertained as he went to bed sick, and was just recovering from a spree.

THE Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham road has been completed through from Memphis to Birmingham, and the last spike was driven on the 28th ult., at Guin, Marion County Alabama.

THE wives of the anarchists threaten to commit suicide if their husbands are hung. This will no doubt be a good thing all around.

They Took to the Woods.

An ex-moonshiner from the wilds of Calloway was in town to-day and tells a good one on Marshal Wickliffe's posse during their recent raid after illicit stills through that region. He said they were riding along in the heart of the moonshiner country in a dense forest and all were naturally more or less nervous. Just as they were in the darkest recesses of this wilderness some boy a few rods from their path shot a squirrel. The whole crowd with the exception of Marshal Wickliffe, so the ex-moonshiner relates, jumped from their horses and took to the timber like a covey of frightened quails. It took the marshal three-quarters of an hour to hunt them up and pull them out from behind the stumps and logs where they were hidden. The boys evidently thought they were being assailed by a whole regiment of "shiners and acted accordingly. "It's all right enough to hunt moonshiners," one of them is reported as exclaiming to his chief, "but when the moonshiner commences to hunt you, the fun is not quite so exhilarating."—Paducah News.

The Commercial Conference.

The programme for the State Industrial and Commercial Conference, to be held in Louisville on October 4, 5 and 6, has been arranged. There will be two sessions a day, morning and afternoon, and the leading papers to be presented are as follows:

"The Present and Future Railroad Development of Kentucky," Basil W. Duke.
"Kentucky River and Its Relations to the Eastern Kentucky Coal Fields," by J. Stoddard Johnston.
"Resources of the Upper Licking River," by J. T. Hazlerigg.
"The Geological Survey of Kentucky," by John R. Proctor.
"Report on the Foreign Colonies Established in Kentucky."
"The Forests of Kentucky, with Reference to Wood Manufacturers at Home," by Stephen E. Jones.
"Kentucky Horticulture," by E. D. Powell.
"Agricultural Experiments," by M. A. Scovell, Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station of the State College.
"Peculiarities of Kentucky Soil," by C. M. Hanna, of Shelby county.
"Minerals of the Green-river Valley," Col. M. H. Crump.
Gov. Buckner will be in attendance, as will also be about all the prominent men in the State.

Wretched, Indeed.

Are those whom a confirmed tendency to biliousness, subject to the various and changeable symptoms indicative of liver complaint, Nausea, sick headache, constipation, a dull or sharp pain in the neighborhood of the affected organ, impurity of the blood and loss of appetite, signalize it as one of the most distressing, as it is one of the most common, of maladies. There is, however, a benign specific for the disease and all its unpleasant manifestations. It is the concurrent testimony of the public and the medical profession, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which achieves results speedily felt, thorough and benign. Besides rectifying liver disorder, it invigorates the feeble, conquers kidney and bladder complaints, and hastens the convalescence of those recovering from enfeebling diseases. Moreover, it is the grand specific for fever and ague. oct-3-1m

It is time the editors were beginning to let up on that stale old chestnut that whenever a red headed girl appears on the streets there is sure to be seen a white horse at the same time. There was never either sense or wit in it, and if some of the fools who are looking for a red-headed girl, and a white horse, would consult their pocket mirrors instead they would see not exactly a horse, but something with elongated auricular appendages very nearly akin to a horse.

Ookland City, Ind., Sept. 27, '86. J. C. Mendenhall & Co., Evansville, Ind. Gentlemen: "Your Certain Chill Cure is meeting with greater demand than ever at present. I have been selling it on a guarantee (without any authority from you, however) to break chills, with privilege in case of failure, of customer returning for money, with happy results so far, not a bottle having been returned.

CRITICISING the return of the captured flag of the Sixteenth Connecticut volunteers by its captors, Harper's Weekly says:

"This is a fine illustration of the nobility and generosity of the American soldier, a manly and admirable expression of what we are proud to believe to be American character. It is a striking contrast to recent utterances of some other Americans who insist upon stigmatizing the officers and men of the Alabama regiment as rebels and who seem to suppose that by such a cry they can array one section of the country against another."

WIFE (who has been very silent all through breakfast)—John Smith, you talked in your sleep last night about a Miss Ford. I distinctly heard you say that she was a daisy. And you the father of a family? Mother shall hear of this.
John (who had been to the races)—Miss Ford, my dear, is a horse.
Wife—John, love, let me send you some hot coffee.—Harper's Bazar.

A Desperate Outlaw Caged.

Frank Dorsey, the celebrated robber, thief, desperado and murderer, was arrested and locked up in the jail of Warren county at Bowling Green last week by Sheriff J. R. Perry, of Logan county. He was captured in an out of the way part of Logan county between Lewisburg and Dunmoor. The Sheriff found him in the woods chopping wood, and, being an entire stranger to the outlaw, they took a seat a log and entered into friendly conversation. The officer took a drink of water with the outlaw from his jug. The conversation became so interesting with the apparent frankness of the officer that he laid his axe aside. This was the opportunity that Perry wanted. Instantly clapping the handcuffs on his wrist, he made him his prisoner. He deserves a great deal of credit for performing with such exquisite skill, so difficult and dangerous a piece of detective work.

Bombshells.

Ben Butler has shown the real bitterness lurking in his heart against the South, whose homes he robbed and plundered, by comparing them to the Chicago anarchists, and saying, as an argument why the latter should not be hung: "The bomb throwers of the rebellion were forgiven." When a man or set of men invade the homes and firesides of a people with murderous weapons and hostile intent, the old North Carolina practical sense of the thing is that they invite and naturally expect bombshells. The Livingston Journal is wicked enough to say "it would have been fortunate of one of the bombs thrown during the rebellion had struck old blink eye."

Saved From the Wreck.

If the delicate organization of women gets out of order prompt application of remedial agents is required to save it from total wreck. In all such cases, whether to assist nature in the discharge of her functions, or to repair damages caused by diseases of special organs, there is no remedy so mild, and yet so effective, as Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," prepared at the World's Dispensary, at Buffalo, N. Y., and administered for many years to thousands of patients with the happiest results.

One of Gen. Forrest's Old Men Lucky.

As announced, Mr. W. A. Barnhill, of this city, held one-tenth of ticket 26,146, that drew $50,000 in the August drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery, and received his money—$5,000—promptly through the First National Bank of this city. He is an old man, 55 years of age and proposes to manage his fortune so as to live easy, and experience as few of the worries of life as possible. He served through the late war on Gen. N. B. Forrest's staff and make a good soldier. Persistent and patient investing of one dollar each month in the Louisiana State Lottery, and that the practice he has kept up so long, he proposes to continue.—Jackson (Tenn.) Tribune and Sun, Aug. 26.

Ladies.

In delicate health needing a gentle yet effective laxative will find the California liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs, pleasing to the taste, acceptable to the stomach, and perfectly safe in all cases. It is the most easily taken and pleasantly effective remedy known to cure and prevent costiveness, to dispel headaches, colds and fever, and strengthen the kidneys, liver and bowels, and therefore a favorite remedy with ladies. For sale in 50 cents and $1.00 bottles by druggists. oct8-1m

What a Printer Boy Accomplished.

Ex-Senator Simon Cameron of Pennsylvania, is in his eighty-eighth year, is still hale and hearty, began life as a printer boy, worked his way up to the highest position as a newspaper man by his industry and abilities, and was elected to the United States Senate from Pennsylvania, in which position he represented that grand old commonwealth for a great many years, holding rank among the most distinguished statesmen in that august body.

AMONG the Romans, if a man kissed his betrothed, she gained thereby the half of his effects in the event of his dying before the celebration of their marriage; if the lady herself died under the same circumstances, her heirs or nearest of kin took the half due to her. A kiss was worth something among the Romans.—West Tennessee Whig.

It is the next thing to marriage you know.

After Three Years.

W. F. Walton, of Springfield, Tenn., says: "I have been suffering with Neuralgia in my face and head off and on for three years. I purchased a box of Dr. Tanner's infallible Neuralgia Cure and took eight of the pills. I have not felt any symptoms of Neuralgia since. It gives me pleasure to recommend it." Sold by Owen & Moore, Druggists, Clarksville, Tenn. oct8-1m

Did You Ever?

W. H. Reveles, M. D., of Baltimore, Md., says: "I have been in the practice of medicine for over eighteen years, but never have I seen the equal of Hodges' Sarsaparilla. It has worked miracles here in curing Rheumatism and Scrofula. Have almost come to the conclusion that I cannot practice without it." Sold by Owen & Moore, Druggists, Clarksville, Tenn. oct8-1m

An Original Remedy for Drunkenness.

We see, in our exchanges, frequent remedies for drunkenness suggested. In our opinion the most sensible remedy for drunkenness is to quit drinking. It is not worth while for any man to say that he can't do it. Nine-tenths of them can do it, if they will. We know of a case where an eminent physician of Stewart county, a friend of the editor, who had become a victim of the habit resorting to a very new and very effectual way to stop drinking after he had had delirium tremens. He stated to us that he bought a five gallon jug of good old Robertson County whisky, and carried it home, and that whenever he took a drink, he put back in the jug the same amount of water, and never put any more whisky in the jug. By this means, he tapered off and lived a sober useful citizen for many years afterwards.

A Cruel and Cowardly Murder.

At Ronceverte, Greenbrier County, W. Va., a well known lady of that place, named Miss Louise Eldridge, while standing in her own door at about midnight Friday 23rd, ult., was shot and killed with a rifle fired by some assassin lurking in ambush about the premises. She was shot through the heart, the ball having passed entirely through her body.

Bound Over.

D. S. Hendricks was tried and bound over to the criminal court to-day by Justice MacKenzie on the charge of assaulting George Harwood, colored, with a plank. The proof showed that Harwood called at Hendrick's store yesterday and demanded some money due him for work. Hendricks ordered him out, and when he refused to go assaulted him, inflicting several ugly wounds on his head.—Banner.

ALASKA is full of wonders, the half of which have not been brought to light. A great lake has been found at the source of the Korvok river, which is so deep that no fathom line has been found long enough to reach the bottom. The natives are strong and hardy, about the size of white men, with small black eyes, high foreheads, small and flat noses, fine teeth and coarse, black hair. They are of a bright brunette color. Their dress is made from the skin of the reindeer and other animals. They live in huts partially underground.

THE Paducah News states the question very strongly but truly when it says: "If this country has any law under which it is a free thing for a set of foreign scoundrels and murderers and outlaws to come over here, not yet being citizens even, and get up riots and murder American citizens and come clear it is high time it is made known and such a law abolished. There is none by which American citizens are allowed to do such things."

The Dudes Know It.

Or if they don't they should know that Rungum Root Liniment cured Big Head in mules for W. E. Hunt, of Adairville, Ky. J. H. Mallory, of Fort's Station, Tenn., cured his hogs of blind staggers with it. In fact this King of Liniments is invaluable for man and beast, and no family should be without it. Sold by Owen & Moore, Druggists, Clarksville, Tenn. oct8-1m

Now that the Prohibition fight is over, and the smoke of the battle has cleared away, and the wounded have been properly cared for, it is time for the Democratic orators and editors of Tennessee to unlimber their guns again and to trail them upon the enemy in the near approaching presidential contest. The issue just decided was a non-partisan one, and we look to see the grand old Democratic party again marching in serried columns to victory shaking the earth with their solid tread.

DEPRIVED of their accustomed resource for a "filling" article by the retirement of that ancient chestnut McGargle to strictly private life, the diabolical editors have seized upon Dr. Howard, the man who is suspected of aiding in his escape, and have opened up "Tray, Blanche and Sweetheart" upon the trial. This is rather hard on the American people, but daily newspapers have to be filled.

MR. W. W. FUGUA and Miss Hattie White were married at the Christian church at Lafayette at 8 o'clock on the morning of the 31st ult. The bride and groom are both popular in Lafayette where they reside, and were followed by the sincere congratulation of numerous friends as they departed for this city whence they took the cars for an eastern bridal tour.

MR. J. A. P. SKILLEN and Dr. J. C. Roberts, of Pulaski had a difficulty at Pulaski the other day in which Roberts called Skillen a liar, Skillen knocked Roberts down, and Roberts drew a pistol and fired at Skillen missing his aim. All of this and nobody seriously hurt. Roberts was bound over to answer. J. A. P. had more Skillen the science of the prize ring, than Dr. Roberts had in shooting.

A MUZZLED dog trotting down the street attracted the attention of a five year old, who observed: "Gosh! mother, that dog's got his bustle on the wrong end."—Yonkers Gazette.

THERE will be a grand re-union of Ex-Confederate and Federal Soldiers in Paducah, Ky., on the 19th of October.
