LYMAN ABBETT'S VIEWS ON THE SOUTH.

At the present time the people of the North are giving a great deal of time to a discussion of affairs in the Southern States, and the negro in the South of course occupies prominent position in the discussion. It is encouraging to note the many Northern men of intelligence have been visiting the South and have carried home with them much valuable information. Among other tourist the Rev. Lyman Abbott has gathered some facts which he told at a public meeting at Brooklyn the other day. Dr. Abbott called attention to the fact that while the North has sent $30,000,000 to the Southern States for the education of the negro, the South itself, out of its poverty, has spent $120,000,000 for that purpose. If there is any prejudice against the negro in the South, or any hostility to him, this does not look like it, as Dr. Abbott justly remarked. The war and reconstruction left the South bankrupt and it took years to recuperate. For this condition of the negro the North was responsible. The North gave the right of suffrage to the negro and then left mainly to the white people of the South, bankrupt as they were, the burden of educating him for the ballot. The burden the North should in justice have shared to a far greater degree than it has.

Discussing conditions in the South Dr. Abbott said: "The negro in the little log cabin in the South is better off than the negro in the North in a tenement with fifty more of his kind."

"Let us get away from the notion," he added, "that the South can't be friendly to the negro as we think they ought to and as we would not regard the negro if we were living surrounded by them as they are. We must get rid of the idea that all men are equal and that every man has an equal right to a place in society and an equal right to stand where every body else stands."

Many other gentlemen of intelligence who have visited the South in recent times have come back to the North and have told the people there these same things and the newspapers have published what they said. A correct understanding may be slow in coming, but it will come finally. There has been talk in the North among politicians about governing the South by disfranchising the negro. Maryland even was threatened with the loss of a portion of its representation in Congress and its electoral vote because it was believed that difficulties had been put in the way of the illiterate voter, but notwithstanding that the right of Maryland to disfranchise its illiterate voters absolutely was conceded. But nothing but some of all these threats, were necessary so far have prevailed. It may be that the idea of handing up a Republican party in the South is a delusion. But one thing is certain. Whatever the people of the South may think of high tariff and reciprocity and silly subsidies, there can be no Republican party in the South as long as Northern interference means the race issue paramount and renders impossible for the white people to unite in order to prevent a return of the reconstruction era and negro domination. Self-preservation is the first law, after that is established then people may have time to talk about tariffs and subsidies.—Baltimore Sun.

Great consternation was felt by the friends of M. A. Hogarty, of Lexington, Ky., when they saw he was turning yellow. His skin slowly changed color, also his eyes, and he suffered terribly. Then he was advised to try Electric Bitters, the wonderful Stomach and Liver remedy, and he writes: "After taking two bottles I was wholly cured.
