LOCAL MATTERS.

HAPPENINGS IN AND AROUND THE CITY.

GATHERED BY OUR REPORTERS.

The Mountain View Land Company Rare Opportunities for Investments--Appointed Freight Agent in This City.

The property of the Mountain View Land company is, as its name indicates, splendidly located, in full sight of the Blue Ridge mountains, with every facility for perfect drainage and all things else conducive to the healthfulness of the locality.

It is surrounded by a beautiful boulevard 100 feet in width, and is intersected by numerous other streets, which cannot fail to add to its desirability as a place of residence. The Roanoke river is only a short distance away, and the visitor is at once struck with the beauty and quiet of the location.

R. H. Woodrum, esq., is building a splendid residence in this addition, and a number of other handsome dwellings will be erected there early this year. Large pipes for water mains have been placed in position along the principal streets, and investors will find that everything conducive to their comfort has been provided by the sagacity and foresight of the manager of the company.

This is the secret of the great demand for lots in this section, and parties desiring to invest should call on Messrs. F. B. Kemp & Co., who will see that they obtain the lots of their choice at reasonable rates.

New Advertisements.

If you will scan the advertising columns of the TIMES this morning, you will find the new advertisement of Messrs. Fishburne, Jones & Co., wholesale grocers and merchant millers. The wholesale business in our city is increasing very rapidly, and we feel quite sure that the time is not far distant when this city will be one of the leading centres for wholesale trade in the state.

These gentlemen are not only men of means and experience, but have all the necessary facilities to make their new business a success. Owning one among the best flouring mills in the state, controlling a number of brands of flour that none on the market can excel for popularity and quality. Their large warehouse, the second door from the corner of Henry street and Railroad Avenue, is full of everything usually kept in a first class wholesale grocery store. Their access to the railroad enables them to fill orders promptly. They keep a number of salesmen on the road. Their business is conducted upon principles which will doubtless merit the first assistance of the community.

Read the notices of the Roanoke Gas and Water company and the Roanoke Land and Improvement company.

Appointed Freight Agent.

Mr. H. W. James, who for some time past has been the freight agent of the Norfolk and Western Railroad company in this city, has been appointed freight agent of the same road at Norfolk to succeed Mr. J. F. Cecil, deceased. Mr. James will be succeeded by Mr. R. Ruffin, who for the past seven years has been the freight agent of the Norfolk and Western Railroad company at City Point. During his residence here Mr. James has made many friends who will wish him much success in his new home.--Petersburg Index-Appeal.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Salem Investment company was held yesterday. The president of the company reported its business as in a very prosperous condition. The assets are $1,000,000 and liabilities not quite $400,000, with only one-fourth of the land sold, and $250,000 in individual notes. It is evident that the managers of the company are thorough business men, with an eye open all the time to every opportunity for advancing its interests and those of the community in which they are operating.

St. Andrew's Church Fair.

The fair was well attended last night as it has been since it was first opened. Some small articles were changed off, and among them was a handsome shaving set won by Miss Rosa O'Brien. The contest for a tricycle between Henry Sauter and Joseph Conway will be decided tonight. It is hoped all the parties interested will be present. The music last night was excellent, as the many young folks who took part in the dancing will testify.

Down With the Grippe.

Twenty or thirty employees of the Roanoke Machine Works are so ill with the prevailing epidemic, the grip, that they are unable to attend to their duties. There is so much to do, however, that work is carried on at the shops night and day.

Should be Encouraged.

Mr. Antonio Miletti has rented a room over the saloon of McDonald & Rau, on Railroad Avenue, and opened a shoe shop. He is one of the finest workmen in the city, and those desiring work in his line would do well to give him a call.

Sale of Lots.

Messrs. Farman and Wm. P. Huff bought yesterday of Yager & Co., real estate agents, a lot at Vinton, on which they will open a coal yard. They also purchased two lots of the Central Park Land company and sold one at a considerable advance.

A GOOD MAN GONE.

Death of an Old and Respected Resident of Lynchburg.

The many friends of Mr. Joseph B. Lacy, paymaster of the Norfolk and Western Railroad company, will be pained to learn that his father, Mr. Lacy, died at his home in Lynchburg at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning. He had been in feeble health for some years, but the immediate cause of his death was pneumonia. The Lynchburg Virginian of yesterday, after mentioning the death of Mr. Lacy, has the following biographical sketch:

Mr. Lacy was eighty-two years of age, and was therefore one of the oldest citizens of Lynchburg. His residence here, we understand dates back sixty-one years. The deceased was a native of Halifax county, but moved to Tennessee early in life and thence to Lynchburg where he has since continued to reside. Mr. Lacy married Miss Tyree, daughter of a captain Richard Tyree, a prominent citizen of the older time, and sister of our esteemed townsman, Mr. Samuel Tyree. She survives him, along with the following children: Mr. R. T. Lacy, city collector; Messrs. Jos. B. and Julian Lacy, of Roanoke; Mrs. Parker of Brems Bluff; Mrs. Fendley, of Manchester, and Misses Pattie and Annie Lacy, of this city.

Mr. Lacy was an excellent man, and in a long business and social life maintained the reputation of an honest, upright and honorable man. He was recently connected himself with the First Presbyterian church. The death of Mr. Lacy makes a vacancy in the ranks of the old Lynchburgers whose lives began in the early history of the place and have kept pace with it in all its phases of progress and prosperity to the present day. Their number now is painfully few.

Postoffice Statistics.

The new official postal guide for 1890 was issued today. It shows that there are 38,999 postoffices in the United States, against 38,876 for last year. Maryland has 1,911, against 1,855 last year. In Virginia the number was increased from 2,481 to 2,543, and in West Virginia from 1,412 to 1,440. The District of Columbia is at the foot of the list with thirteen offices, an increase of two in the year. Pennsylvania is at the head of the list with 4,219 offices last year and 4,348 this year. There is an increase in the number of offices in every state and territory, except Rhode Island, where there are 129 offices, one less than last year.

Large Iron Property Purchased.

A dispatch from Clinton Forge, dated the 18th instant, says that the Long Dale Iron company, in Allegheny county, has just bought for $40,000 the Big Hill iron property near Gila Water, on the Richmond and Allegheny railroad. This valuable mining property is situated in Botetourt county, and is reached by a two-mile branch road of the Richmond and Allegheny. It was sold by the heirs of the late Captain C. R. Mason to the present purchasers, and three years ago could have been bought for $8,000.

Coal Shipments.

The shipments from the mines of the Cumberland coal region for the week ended January 18th, 1890, were 55,375 tons, and for the year to date 163,105 as compared with 1889. The shipments to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and local points were for the week 42,369 tons, for the year 117,910, an increase of 34,781 tons as compared with last year. The shipments to the Pennsylvania railroad for the week were 18,397 tons, for the year 45,195 tons, an increase of 22,914 tons compared with last year.

A Hostile Town.

During the past year Roanoke has spent $2,000,000 in establishing new industries or erecting buildings, including five business blocks. We have been egotistical enough to think that Hagerstown and her people were active and wide awake, but since we have heard from Roanoke we think we are as slow as Rip Van Winkle's old home, "Falling Waters," and while we have not been exactly asleep, we have been dozing considerably, and it is about time to wake up and make things hum a little lively.--Hagerstown News.

Amusements.

Our theatre going people will have an opportunity Tuesday night, January 23rd, of seeing Mortimer & Long's musical comedy in "Lorking." The play is plotless, but abounds in fun from beginning to end, and is put forward somewhat after the fashion of Geo. H. Adams' "Two Old Grimes." Good songs, good singing, and what pleases the people, good dancing. We bespeak for them a good house.

Number of Marriages for 1889-90.

Upon examination of the records at the clerk's office, it is ascertained that the number of marriages for the year 1888 exceeded that of the succeeding year by 18--the number in 1888 being 138, and for 1889, 128. In a good cause like this the state of affairs is not very encouraging, but it is hoped that the present year will show up better in this respect.--Fincastle Herald.

Castle Shipment.

Several car loads of cattle from Southwest Virginia passed over the tracks in the yards here from the Norfolk and Western railroad to the Shenandoah Valley for shipment to northern points.

DRAGON'S TEETH

CHARACTERISTIC SPEECH OF SENATOR INGALLS.

APPLAUSE IN THE GALLERIES

He Opposes Colonization, and Says the South will Reap as She Has Sown A Great Race War Predicted Decided Sentiment in the Gallery.

WASHINGTON, January 23.--Senator Ingalls today delivered an address before the senate that will easily be looked upon as the greatest event of the session, his subject being the Morgan bill, for the migration of the negroes of the South for colonization in Africa. His opening remarks were upon the history of the Caucasian race which, he said, would never mingle with any other race, in which respect it would maintain its past record. During his talk of two hours he quoted numerous instances of intimidation of negro voters in the South, especially in Mississippi, and says that there is now no question that negroes have not the suffrage that was supposed to be given them by the war. The inevitable result, he said, of this condition would be that as the South had sown, so shall she reap. As they had dealt with the negroes so would the negroes in turn deal with them. As enlightenment increases their power, they will learn the use of dynamite and the shot gun to enforce their rights when the time shall come and the negroes of the South are dominant. The North will look on silently, though a great race war between the whites and blacks of the entire country would ensue. The whites in the defensive as a unit. The contest between the whites and blacks of the South, will not be interfered with outside of that section. He deprecated the catastrophe but saw it coming as the inevitable outcome of the present political practices of the South. In considering methods to head off this calamity, he discarded schemes of colonization and suggested that the democratic party of the South practice simple justice toward the negro voters as the only means of preventing the uprising of imitators of John Brown. The remarks of the senator produced a decided sensation in the galleries where several hundred negroes were among the spectators. Applause was suppressed by the president of Senate until the conclusion of the address, when the approval of the galleries could no longer be silenced and round after round of applause came forth, being taken up in the corridors outside the Senate chamber by hundreds of negroes, unable to gain admittance, but listening to the stirring remarks of the senator shall cause riots throughout the South, when negroes have received the incendiary ideas, versed by the senator today.

BUENA VISTA.

An Interview With One of Her Leading Citizens.

Mr. E. L. Wilkinson, of Buena Vista, was in the city yesterday. When interviewed by a "TIMS" reporter as to the future of that town, he said: "The prospects are indeed bright, and a tremendous boom is expected to take place in the early spring. The stone work on the new furnace being erected by J. P. Whitford of Pittsburg, is nearly completed and work on the cast house will be begun in a short time.

Another big industry that Buena Vista has secured is a large steel plant, work on which will begin immediately. We also have two other large manufacturing concerns of construction which will greatly benefit the place when in operation--the Wise Wagon manufactory and the paper mill. As is the case in Roanoke, real estate is on a big boom in Buena Vista. We have five agencies and Friday the sales aggregated $40,000, which is quite a large amount, considering the smallness of the town.

Painful Accident.

William Wilson, a colored man at work on the limestone quarry in the western part of the city near the Crozier furnaces, had two of the fingers of his left hand caught under a heavy rock and badly crushed yesterday afternoon. When seen by the reporter about 3 o'clock in the afternoon he was looking for a doctor to dress his wounds and no doubt found one.

An Order for Poochontas Coal.

The new flag ship, City of Baltimore, has given the Poochontas Coal company an order for 1,000 tons of coal to be delivered at the Gosport navy yard at once. This will be the Baltimore's first coal-shipment.

A PATHETIC SCENE.

Mrs. Morris Accused of Poisoning Her Husband.

DANVILLE, VA., January 23.--Mrs. Morris, of Reidsville, N. C., who is accused of having poisoned her husband, was arraigned at Wentworth, the county-seat of Rockingham county, Monday, and the case set for trial on Friday. She is a pretty woman and well connected, and her case has been attended with great interest. When arraigned in court the indictment was read against her, and she asked whether she was guilty or not. She replied in a firm voice "Not guilty." "How will you be tried?" asked the attorney. "By God and my country," was her reply. "And may the Lord deliver you," said the attorney. Many men in the courtroom were moved to tears by the pathetic scene.

Yesterday afternoon, while Robert Cousins and John Hendricks, of North Danville, were fooling with a pistol at Stutz's saloon, on Craighead street, the weapon was discharged and Cousins was shot in the abdomen. It is thought Cousins will die. Both parties are youths, and Hendricks claims that the shooting was accidental.

Recommend the Unseating of Jackson

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, January 23.--By a strict party vote the house elections committee yesterday decided to report in favor of unseating Jackson, the democratic representative from West Virginia, and declaring Smith, the republican contestant, entitled to the seat. This is the first of the seven contested election cases which the committee has disposed of, and it was the first one upon which argument was heard. After talking over the case for a time, the committee decided that it would be useless to undertake to dissect the evidence taken, as several days would be consumed in the process, and the members of the committee were all acquainted with the facts and legal points involved. There will, of course, be two reports, which, it is expected, will be read before the house today. Mr. Dalzell will probably set forth the majority view, and Mr. Crisp will represent the ideas of the minority.

A Boy Sentenced for Killing His Parents.

By Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Iowa, January 23.--John Wesley Elkins, a boy of twelve years, has been sentenced to imprisonment for life in Iowa for murder. On the night of July 17 he shot his father with a rifle while he was asleep, and seized a club which he had placed conveniently near and beat his mother's head to a jelly. His infant sister, who was sleeping with his parents, he carefully washed and dressed and took in the buggy with him and started for his grandfather's. He told a story of murder by unknown parties, but confessed the crime and gave as his motive that he had desired to leave home and shift for himself, but his parents had objected.

Agricultural Farm--Land at Arlington to be Cultivated--An Interview with ex-President Cleveland--The Farmers and the Tariff.

WASHINGTON, January 23.--The secretary of agriculture has negotiated with the secretary of war touching a transfer of some 300 acres of the Arlington reservation to the control of the agricultural department. That department is not, however, willing to take this land, with its present occupants, a collection of colored people. The secretary wishes the property to be delivered to him clear and without incumbrance, and on such transfer, which will be made with the assent of congress, it is proposed to make Arlington bloom as a rose, by transferring thither several of the most important divisions of the agricultural department. The bureau of animal industry will go first, as there is ample space at Arlington for this work. The forestry division will establish there its headquarters, and efforts will be made to rear on its grounds specimens of every American tree which can be made to grow in the latitude of Washington. An experimental station for the cultivation of grasses will also find a location at Arlington, and in time, all the divisions of the department which require large areas of ground for their service will be transferred there. It is expected that as soon as the season allows the removal of the negroes from the grounds, the change will be made and the Agricultural department will begin its work.

Mr. Cleveland and 1892.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, January 23.--Morrison Munford, editor of the Kansas City Times, called on ex-President Cleveland yesterday, and found him as earnest as ever in the cause of tariff reform, and gratified at the interest which the people are taking in the subject. In reply to a suggestion that the democratic party was looking to Mr. Cleveland as its leader in 1892, the ex-president said: "Ah, that, it is the cause and not personal considerations that should concern us. I am so well situated now that if I consulted my own feelings I would prefer to have some one else take the lead. Men who have elements of leadership develop rapidly, and it is a long time till 1892. It is not a matter of men, but of principles. It would be a pity not to carry forward the work which the party has so grandly inaugurated, and there ought to be no halt until the ends aimed at are compassed and the people are in full possession of the benefits and blessings which an accumulation of inequities, called into existence by apathy on the one side and self-interest on the other, have diverted from them. I rejoice in feeling that the Democratic party is the repository of the best principles and purposes; that it ranks them with the intelligent young manhood of the country; that it enjoys a complete monopoly of every American policy, not merely sectional or time-serving."
