ORDINANCE PROHIBITS THE HANGING OF SIGNS

City Electrician Foster Olroyd has called Mayor Martin Behrman's attention to a clause of the building code, ordinance 6712, which declares that no signs shall hang over any public way, and suggests that the Mayor have the police watch for violations. The only exceptions are flags and banners.

"I do not think the ordinance will be interpreted so as to force the removal of such signs as are up at present," said Mr. Olroyd. "I do not think the council intended the ordinance to have a retroactive effect."

If enforced absolutely against all signs, future or present, the ordinance would change the appearance of the principal streets of the city. A large number of costly electrical signs would have to come down.

zens of Algiers that lacked neither enthusiasm nor genuineness.

The ramp leading from the ferry house to Delaronde street; Delaronde street to Seguin street, Seguin street to Pelican avenue and Pelican avenue to the Mayor's residence were lavishly decorated with multicolored flags extending across the street, bunting covered many of the residences and lines of incandescent lights stretching from the ferry landing to the Behrman residence made the vicinity gay and bright.

A committee consisting of John Fitzpatrick, Judge Thomas Maher, J. P. Veziem, William Ward, Frank Henning and Albert Twickler journeyed to Dunbar to meet the incoming Louisville and Nashville train that bore the Mayor and his party homeward, and when the Canal street station was reached many prominent persons, besides the Marching Club of Algiers, were on hand to welcome the city's chief executive. After escorting the Mayor to his residence, E. W. Burgis made a short address of welcome, thanking him for his efforts in behalf of New Orleans at Washington, and expressing the thanks of the community to those other ardent workers who did their best to aid the cause.

Presented With Resolutions.

The Mayor was then presented with the following resolutions:

"To the Honorable Martin Behrman, Mayor of New Orleans:

"Sir—Recognizing the worthy effort you have made and the faithful work you have performed in behalf of New Orleans and its people in their endeavors to secure the Panama Canal Exposition in the year 1915—

New Presbyterian Hospital, formerly the New Orleans Sanitarium.

PRESBYTERIAN NOTES.

Three years ago an organization of women calling themselves the "Women's Home Missionary Union of the Presbytery of New Orleans" raised $15 to establish a Presbyterian Hospital. The desire for one appealed strongly to their pastor. He undertook to get it, as part of his work. A small hospital was established. The patronage it soon gained and the crowds of the poor who flocked to its free clinic emphasized the necessity of a larger establishment.

Dr. Barr's work in securing the New Orleans Sanitarium will long be remembered, and will stand as a monument to his efforts. Dr. Barr and his assistants deserve praise for their successful efforts.

The Algiers Presbyterian Sabbath School is continually adding to its membership.

Should the present increase in attendance continue the time is not far distant when this Sabbath school shall have the largest membership of any of the many Sunday schools now under the mission of the Lafayette Presbyterian Church.

Sabbath school is held at the Pythian Hall, Bermuda street, Sunday evenings from 3:30 until 4:30.

All are cordially invited to join in this hour of beautiful thought, given to the study of the "Better Way."

THE OLD MAIDS' CONVENTION.

Under the above title the young ladies of the Methodist Church will render a most amusing and entertaining programme on Friday evening of this week at the Masonic Hall. The young ladies will all be dressed in old-time and queer costumes, and will present a most picturesque and attractive appearance. The entertainment bids fair to draw a very large audience. This Old Maids' Convention was rendered in Algiers about three years ago by the same young ladies, but it is said to be better than ever.

The same young ladies who will participate in the Spinsters' Return on Saturday evening will take part in the Old Maids' Convention.

Just before the Old Maids' Convention is given a short comedy sketch, entitled "Hard of Hearing," will be rendered by Miss Ruth Pettigrove, Miss Minnie Lee Curran and Mrs. T.

P. Bell. This is a very amusing sketch and requires about 15 or 20 minutes, after which the Old Maids' Convention will be given.

PICNIC IN FAIRYLAND.

Under the auspices of the young ladies of the Methodist Church, about thirty children will give a very pretty cantata and entertainment, entitled a "Picnic in Fairyland." This delightful entertainment will especially appeal to the many children of Algiers. There will be brownies, elves, fairies, and gypsies presented—all wearing attractive and appropriate costumes.

This splendid entertainment will be given on Saturday evening of this week at Masonic Hall, and will begin promptly at 7:45 P. M. It will precede the entertainment by the young ladies, entitled "The Spinsters' Return."

Only one ticket will be required for both the entertainments of the evening. Adult tickets are 25c and children under fifteen years of age will be admitted for 15c each.

The following children will take part: Thos. Bays, Louise Aikman, Mary Harvey, Etta Pettigrove, Dorris Donnenfeller, Edgar Cayard, Alice Dizell, Ida Harvey, Thomasetta Harvey, Evelyn Corbett, Walter Jones, Iva Daniels, Julia Cayard, Ruth Hakesbring, Orrie Summers, Minerva Dillon, Margaret Dizell, Maude Lennox, Adolph Wolverton, Archie Wolverton, Katie Wolverton, Thelma Cayard, Carrie Kern, Gaiques Gilder, Juanita Brail, Katie Bieber, Charles Burgis, Melba Butcher, Bertha Ryan, Herbert Hingle and Annie Curran.

Mr. C. E. W. Griffith, the Noted Dante and Shakesperian Student and Interpreter, to Again Lecture in New Orleans—Will Lecture in St. Mary's Hall, Algiers, the 17th of February.

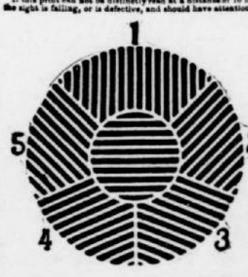

It is not often that lovers of poetry and dramatic literature, and especially of the great artists, Dante, Tasse and Shakespeare, have the opportunity of hearing these celebrated authors read and interpreted as delightfully and artistically as will be done by Mr. C. E. W. Griffith, the famous Catholic reader and lecturer.

Mr. Griffith is one of the noblest and ablest exponents of Catholic faith in the world of literature. His readings will be from the immortal Dante and Tasse, and from various plays of the great Bard of Avon. Mr. Griffith has just returned from an extensive tour of the British Isles, where he gave readings before the most distinguished audiences. He is engaged to return there for five months, beginning May 1, 1911.

In New Orleans he is expected to give readings at the Ursuline convent, St. Simeon's School, the Dominican convent and Sacred Heart convent, St. Charles avenue; Holy Angels Academy, New Orleans College of Oratory, Jefferson College, and before the Knights of Columbus.

Mr. Griffith needs no introduction to New Orleans audiences, as he has visited here several times and established a reputation and following that few attain. Wherever he goes he is always a big drawing card, and his readings are rare treats. He has the temperament and emotional power of the actor; he is intensely dramatic; his characters are finely drawn, and he carries his audience with him so thoroughly into a play by his wonderful interpretation of the whole that it is just as though one has seen the play with all the characters presented. The audience is thrilled by the fervor of the reader, and Mr. Griffith never fails to impress his great artistic ability while portraying vividly the moral lessons that underlie all his readings.
