THEATRICAL ATTRACTIONS.

Col. Tom Campbell, manager of the Tulane and Crescent theaters, arrived on the steamship Creole from New York yesterday morning. Col. Campbell spent his vacation motoring through New England, ending the last weeks of it, however, at his "old stamping ground," Buzzard's Bay, Mass. On the homeward trip he was accompanied by Mrs. Campbell.

Col. Campbell said the Tulane will open Sept. 17 with Charles Dillingham's production of "The Girl in the Train," a Viennese comic opera, which enjoyed great success in New York, Berlin, London and Paris, and the Crescent on Sept. 3 with the old standby, "McFadden's Flats."

For the Tulane theater the bookings already made include the following: "The Girl in the Train," "Madame Sherry," "Anna Held," "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," "The Country Boy," "Excuse Me," Nora Bayes and Jack Norworth in "Little Miss Fix-It," Blanche Bates in "Nobody's Widow," Alpha James, "The Spring Maid," "The Red Rose," Francis Wilson, "Seven Days," "Alma, Where Do You Live," Richard Carle, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," Jefferson De Angelis, "The Sweetest Girl in Paris," Kyrle Bellew, "The Top of the World," Billie Burke, John Drew, Elsie Janis, Montgomery and Stone, "The Fortune Hunter," and other successes.

For the Crescent he stated the following attractions had been booked: "McFadden's Flats," "The House Next Door," "The Soul Kiss," "The Traitor," Billy Van, George Sidney, "Graustark," Evans Minstrels, "The Winning Widow," "The White Slave," Ward and Vokes, "Checkers," "The Girl from Rector's," "St. Elmo," "School Days," Fields' Minstrels, "The Girl in the Taxi," "The Goose Girl," "Tiberius," "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "Around the Clock," "Buster Brown," "The Newly Weds," Dave Lewis, "The Rosary," Billy Clifford and "Jeff and Mutt."

WILL EXTEND MAINS.

The executive committee of the Sewerage and Water Board met Monday, and after hearing S. E. Redfern, commissioner of immigration, and Mayor Behrman, decided to extend the water mains to the immigration station at a cost of $10,000. In deciding to do this it was understood that Mr. Redfern would exert himself before the congressional committee to have the city reimbursed by the government for this expenditure in whole or in part. A bill to that effect will be introduced by Congressman Estopinal in December, and Mr. Redfern promised to do what he could to have favorable action on it by the committee, which will have consideration of the matter.

In the discussion which preceded the action of the committee, Mayor Behrman took occasion to say that while he was anxious to see water connections made with the immigration station, he would remind Mr. Redfern that the city was in no wise obligated to assume that expense. On the contrary, he said, it was understood at the time the question of locating the station at that point was under consideration that the city's water supply did not extend that far down, and this fact was emphasized in a way that made the situation perfectly plain to the representatives of the government. However, if there was any way the connection could be made that would not operate to the disadvantage of other interests the board had to take care of, he would willingly do what he could to provide the station with water from the city's plant.

The views expressed by the mayor were shared by C. H. Ellis, Mr. Theard, Mr. Frawley and Chairman Voegtli.

Mr. Redfern thought it likely that Congress, when it met in December, could be induced to appropriate whatever amount was spent by the city in the proposed extension, and in this connection cited a practically similar case in Galveston, where the government reimbursed that city for certain expenditures by which the government benefited.

Mr. Earl stated that the connection would require the laying of a six-inch pipe at a cost of $10,000. He saw no chance now of there being any revenue derived from the extension beyond what the station would pay, but the mayor remarked that that section of the city was improving, and the time might not be far distant when the connection would prove a paying investment.

Mr. Redfern, in reply to a question propounded by Col. Ellis, said the station would be ready to operate by July, so that it would not be necessary to begin laying pipe for the extension before early next spring.

MEYER'S NAVAL STATION.

RUIN PLAN KEPT UP

Despite All Protests—Marine Garrison Now Ordered Away—Baracks Will Be Vacant in Two Weeks.

By Sept. 5 there will not be a marine at the garrison in Algiers, and everything which can be moved will have been sent to Philadelphia.

That is the effect of an order received Monday by Lieutenant Thrasher, the commanding officer. It means that the Navy Department is not stopping in its determination to render useless the government property, over which a fight is being made.

Seven marines who have been ordered to Honolulu will leave Sunday. These will be followed between Sept. 1 and 5 by eleven men who will be sent most probably to Port Royal, and the rest to Norfolk. The order instructs Lieutenant Thrasher to have everything which can be taken away ready to be shipped before all the men leave.

The latest news from the Marine Corps, which, of course, is acting from instructions by the Navy Department, came as a surprise to the men at the station. All of them have come to like New Orleans for the hospitable manner in which they have been received, and they regret leaving the post.

Lieutenant Thrasher would not discuss the matter at all. He will simply carry out instructions, which means a blow to those who had hoped that at least the marines would be kept, even as guards over the government property.

The last act of an official nature performed by the preceding commanding officer, Captain Purcell, was to send in a request for more men, as in his opinion they were needed for the barracks. When the Marine Corps asked the post to send in its requests for the winter it was generally believed the garrison was not going to be disturbed, in fact there were many who expected more men to come here.

The barracks was opened in June, 1904, when the fourteen men who formed the original detail occupied buildings then on the reservation. In 1908 the handsomely equipped two-story modern building was opened. From that time to the present there were as many as 100 marines detailed here.

During the maneuvers which were conducted in Cuba several months ago the roster was materially decreased by transfers to Guantanamo and other posts, but these men were replaced by recruits who were put through general instructions here and were later transferred until the list numbers at present some twenty-five men, including the detachment already under orders to get away from here Sunday.

The first commanding officer was Captain Turrell, who remained for a year and was replaced by Captain Hall and Lieutenant Clifford Meyer; then Captain Wallace took charge, followed by Captains Banker, Harding, Green, McC. Huey, Captain Purcell and Lieutenant Thrasher.

The buildings and equipment here have been passed upon by many and pronounced to be excellent. The grounds were large and well adapted to the purpose, and it is believed were it not for the determination of the Navy Department to end the station and its adjuncts that even more men than the highest number recorded would have eventually been detailed here.
