FREE TO SCHOOL CHILDREN.

Composition book and two blotters will be given away to each school child on Friday, Sept. 29th, between 3:30 and 5 o'clock. Herald coupon necessary to receive gift.

Mr. Jules Bodenger, one of our most enterprising merchants, is starting out early this year in his advertising campaign to distribute to the school children composition books and blotters.

These are to be given away, the first free distribution taking place Friday afternoon, Sept. 29th, between 3:30 and 5 o'clock.

In order to secure one of these presents from Mr. Bodenger it will be necessary for each child to have one of the coupons appearing on the first page of The Herald in this issue. This coupon must be signed by the pupil, together with his or her address. No books or blotters will be given out unless the coupon is presented.

All advertising is more or less costly and the result not always as plain as could be wished; but it is universally agreed that a business, to be successful, must be made widely known, and when an attractive advertisement is backed up with reliable goods and first class workmanship there is no question as to the benefit of extensive advertising, irrespective of what it may cost.

Among the most progressive business firms in Algiers, the one that is perhaps best advertised is the Algiers Cornice & Plumbing Works—better known to many of our residents as "Bodenger's"—taking the name of its wide-awake founder and president.

Mr. Julius Bodenger's latest bid for public attention is of the same general character as several he has made in the past few years, being a free distribution of a useful and necessary article among the school children.

At various times his firm has distributed such articles as blank books, pencil cases, needle cases and other similar souvenirs and now, following out his usual plan at this time of year, he has prepared to distribute school composition books and blotters all of thoroughly good quality.

These articles can be had by using the coupons in this issue of The Herald, and those children who are fortunate enough to secure them will obtain an article which at once is useful and ornamental.

We believe that Mr. Bodenger will obtain the advertising results he expects by deserving the generous approval of his numerous friends and customers both in Algiers and New Orleans.

COUPON!

Composition Books and Blotters Free

THIS COUPON, when properly signed, will entitle the holder to ONE COMPOSITION BOOK and TWO BLOTTERS, if presented on Friday, September 29th, between 3:30 and 5:00 o'clock, at BODENGER'S PLUMBING SHOP.
