

JUVENILE COLUMN

This column in the future will be devoted to Juvenile Sports. The editor is not responsible for poor grammar, as corrections to some of the articles, in changing the vernacular of the sentences, would have a tendency to destroy the meaning to those mostly interested.

Brune, Stevans and Kid Beans were winning fighters at Algiers, Sunday evening.

BY JUDLIN.

The bouts were as follows: Battling Stevans was awarded the fight over Kid Spitzfaden. By his victory Stevans reinstated himself in the good graces of the local fans. There was not a defect in the Battler's work. Stevans was too clever and swift for his opponent, thus causing him to swing wild and miss frequently.

FIGHT BY ROUNDS.

Round 1.—When Referee M. Koenig introduced the two fighters, both boys received a great ovation. Stevans was blocking through the first round in which when it was ended Spitzfaden had a slight shade.

Round 2.—They sparred in the middle of the ring. Spitzfaden's nose bled from the effect of a jab. Stevans peppered him with rights and lefts to head and body, and not giving his opponent a show of this round. All Stevans.

Round 3.—They fought fast and hard in the third round, Stevans jabbing double rights and lefts to body and head, and had Spitzfaden groggy and tired at the end. Stevan's round.

Just before the fourth round Spitzfaden seemed to have given up hope of recovering lost ground; he took off the mits and the referee awarded the fight to Stevans.

The main bout was between Young Schroder and Kid Brune. The fight was sharp and fast from the jump, though neither boy sustained visible damage.

FIGHTERS MIX THE DOUGH.

The fighters began mixing it at the outset and except between rounds dull moments were rare. So fast was the pace, in fact, both boys were tired before the end. Brune made the closing round as dashing as any that had gone before. Brune was decidedly more fortunate in his selection of fighting tactics, making a superficial show of advantage practically all the way by reason of his effectiveness in landing on Schroder's head and body. Brune out-pointed Schroder in long range fighting. While much of Schroder's handiwork on Brune's stomach was lost. There is no doubt that Brune fought with remarkable skill and ginger and that Schroder's blows lacked some of their reputed force. Brune gained four rounds out of five; they were the first, second, (third even), fourth, and fifth. Referee M. Koenig gave the fight to Kid Brune, the 85-pound dancing master of Algiers.

PRELIMINARY.

The preliminary was between Kid Beans and Kid Rice, which was to go five rounds. But in the second round Kid Rice being out of wind, his seconds threw up the sponge.

SIXTH ANNIVERSARY.

Master Bertrand Peck entertained his little friends at a party in honor of the sixth anniversary of his birth. He received lots of beautiful presents and a jolly time was had by all who were invited. Those present were: Little Misses Ura Babin, Lillian Hunn, Margaret Hymel, Xavier Talbot, Miriam Babin, Myrtle Shields Hilda Cook, Alicia Gravois, Lois Gravois, Myr Taluto, Florine Muntz, Thearessa Cordes, Francis Covell and Isabelle Christy; Masters John Hunn, Edward Schmitt, John Westerly Babin, Robert Talbot, Christy Babin, Alvin Vincent, Armand Delacaz, Isadore Davies, Tisdale Daniels, Leo Richards, Raymond Scheffler, Roy Drum, John Taluto, Emmet Wattigny, Pascal Taluto, Elmer, Clifton and Morgan Wattigny; Misses Ella Long and Margaret Wattigny; Mrs. A. Shields, Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Wattigny.

ADAMS' HATS

THAT GOO-GOO COMMISSION "FRAME-UP."

The Goo-Goo rooters are making a desperate struggle to land somewhere. No chicanery, no artifice, nothing is so contemptible, so low-flung or so reprehensible that these alleged reformers have not cheerfully resorted to it in the hope that it might influence their way and eventually enable them to accomplish the selfish purposes for which they have banded together. The meaner the thing, the more enthusiastically have they united in an effort to put it over on the people, who, however, happen to be fully advised as to the situation, and refuse to be numbugged or bamboozled by this hungry, irresponsible contingent of malefactors, who would cheerfully bring disgrace upon the fair name of their city, if they could only be the beneficiaries of their infamy.

One of the weakest attempts ever made by a gang of buccaneers to hold up a community was that recently put forth in the shape of a "New Charter for the City of New Orleans," when the Goo-Goo committee of statesmen, who went to Baton Rouge in the interest of the scheme, were forced to admit, while the matter was under investigation before a committee of the Legislature, that they knew absolutely nothing of the contents of this hybrid bill, and as a matter of fact, had not even read the document. But in spite of this admission, and as disconcerting as an admission of that sort would have been to anybody else, the spokesman for the Goo-Gos, who is also the paid attorney for the Southern Pacific Railroad, had the affrontery to insist upon the passage of the heterogeneous mass without modification, amendment or change of any kind. To suit their purposes it had to become a law just as it was, or not at all. The timely presence, however, of Mayor Behrman and City Attorney I. D. Moore, who had managed to secure a copy of the bill in advance of the meeting and who had become familiar with its multifarious provisions, were invited to discuss this marvelous product of the Goo-Goo brain, and incidentally they shot it full of holes.

Suffice it to say, a brief investigation revealed the fact that this "frame-up," so to speak, against Good Government was replete with "specials" of one kind or another—special railroad privileges being particularly conspicuous throughout; demonstrated its impracticability, its utter inefficiency and its many complexities, showed it to be seriously at variance with the organic law of the state, and with the exception of those provisions filched from the present charter, wholly inadequate and worthless except to create an oligarchy for the exclusive benefit and glorification of the few. The Goo-Gos naturally objected to this "intrusion" on the part of Mayor Behrman and City Attorney Moore, giving voice to their resentment through the columns of the Goo-Goo organs. They were especially severe in their criticisms of the Mayor for "neglecting his business here to do lobby work in Baton Rouge." He should have remained here, according to their way of thinking, and permitted the General Assembly and its committees to have been buoyed by these alleged reformers—should have permitted the adoption of legislation most hurtful to the interest of the city of which he is the responsible head and should have made no effort to protect it. This is precisely the situation and this is why the sophisticated Goo-Goo now foams at the mouth every time Mayor Behrman's name is mentioned in his presence.

But, on the other hand, is it not a fortunate circumstance that Mayor Behrman happened to be in Baton Rouge when this City Charter matter was under consideration? Who is better informed as to what is desirable in the way of practical legislation for New Orleans than he? And was not his presence at the Capital on that memorable occasion to be regarded rather in the nature of a duty than an intrusion?

CLOSING EXERCISES.

On Saturday, July 13th, were held the closing exercises of the Holy Name of Mary school, at which a beautiful program was presented. Four young ladies completed the commercial course, and as they stood on the beautiful stage enclosed in a halo of lights and flowers, they looked perfect pictures of innocent and youthful loveliness.

The program was intended as a welcome to the beloved pastor, Father Larkin, who returned Saturday morning, after an absence of six weeks. "Welcome Home" in electric lights was suspended over the stage, and the hall was tastefully decorated with blue and gold, the colors of the school. As Father Larkin, accompanied by Rev. Fathers Delaire, Seiler and Hebert and a committee of gentlemen entered the hall, the pupils burst forth in a joyous chorus of welcome, which was followed by an address of welcome to Father Larkin by Miss Marguerite Haggerty.

The feature of the evening was the presentation of the "Two Orphans," a drama in four acts. Miss Irma Wardrop, one of the graduates, personated the blind girl, the leading character, and acted the part to perfection. Miss Mercedes Belton distinguished herself in the difficult role of the professional beggar. Miss Irene Sinclair, as the sister of the blind girl, and Miss Margarita Keivin as the crippled beggar, performed their parts with admirable skill. Miss Doris Keivin, as Lady Alention, and Miss Imogene Barrett as Lady Washington merited much praise for the manner in which they personated their respective roles. Miss Nettie Worley displayed exceptional talent as the nurse, as did also Miss Katie Fitzpatrick as Mrs. Allenton's maid. Miss Edna Aucoin, Miss Ruby Legendre, Miss Stella Charleville and Miss Azelia Casey in their brilliant costumes as Colonial ladies, were very much admired in the graceful movements of the minuet. The beautiful spectacular "Cloudland" was bewitchingly rendered by the junior pupils, all of whom gave evidence of ability far beyond their years.

The extended applause that followed the Spanish dance and song by Miss Margarita Keivin showed the appreciation with which it was received.

The four young graduates—Miss Ruby Legendre, Miss Marguerite Haggerty, Miss Irma Wardrop and Miss Doris Keivin, at the conclusion of the program delivered the Graduates' Farewell, with clear intonation and unaffected grace.

The following rewards were presented by Rev. Father Larkin: gold medal for music, to Miss Mercedes Belton and Miss Emily Tallon; gold medal for history, donated by Alvin Foster, to Master John Birney; certificates of improvement in penmanship, by the A. N. Palmer Co., to Miss Edna Aucoin, Miss Nettie Worley, Miss Julia Twickler, Master Nicholas Collette and Master Andrew Bevan; graduating crowns, gold medals and diplomas to Miss Ruby Legendre, Miss Marguerite Haggerty, Miss Irma Wardrop and Miss Doris Keivin; diplomas for bookkeeping, from the South-Western Publishing Company of Cincinnati, to Miss Ruby Legendre, Miss Marguerite Haggerty, Miss Irma Wardrop and Miss Doris Keivin; class pins and gold medals for stenography to Miss Ruby Legendre, Miss Marguerite Haggerty, Miss Irma Wardrop and Miss Doris Keivin; diplomas for penmanship from the A. N. Palmer Co. of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to Miss Irma Wardrop and Miss Marguerite Haggerty.

Father Larkin in his address thanked the audience and the pupils for the very warm welcome they had just extended him and referred to the overpowering welcome he had received from the children that morning on alighting from the train. He spoke eloquently and with deep emotion to the four young graduates and urged them to be always faithful to the high principles of virtue and religion instilled into them by their devoted teachers.

BOAT RIDE.

Miss Yetta Cleutat entertained a few of her most intimate friends on a boat ride given on the "Sly Cupid." The hostess served her guests with dainty refreshments. Mr. Cleutat entertained the crowd with a few of his many comical jokes. Those that attended were: Misses Valerie Johnson, Hazel Senner, Eola Abbott, Yetta Cleutat and Florence Senner; Messrs. Elmer McCloskey, Johnny Cleutat, James McCloskey, Roy Schroeder and Kent Christy. The crowd was chaperoned by Mrs. C. V. Frisch and John Cleutat.

WATERMELON PARTY.

Miss Mamie Morrison was surprised by a jolly crowd of girls and boys at a watermelon party. Miss Morrison was presented with a silver buckle by Seldon Talbot. The following were present: Gertrude Finley, Eula Judlin, Martha McNeely, Julia Twickler, Beulah Thomas, Annie May Gould, Clare Wilson, Edward Finley, Peter Oliver, Clyde Bourgeois, Seldon Talbot, Julius Judlin, Harvey McNeely, Harry Lecourt, Andrew Worley, Winnifred Casey.

THE LOUISIANA MAY BE RAISED.

It is probable an effort will be made to raise the steamship Louisiana which sank several years ago in the river not far from the head of St Louis street. The vessel is the property of the Southern Pacific Company.

It seems likely an effort will be made also to raise the tug Taurus, which sank two months ago in South Pass. T. H. Gawley of Seattle, who is stopping at the Monteleone Hotel, is the inventor of the process of raising vessels by means of compressed air, and he says it is his belief the two vessels can be restored. Mr. Gawley states it will cost about $10,000 to raise the Louisiana. He says the ship and its contents are worth fully $500,000.

A YOUTHFUL AUTHOR.

In the July number of "Our Dumb Animals," which is the largest periodical of this kind in the United States, is published a story written by Carolina L. Slack, the bright little daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Slack. The title of this story is "How Wuzzy Became a Hero." The story is of the recent Mississippi flood and it won the first prize, a gold medal, offered by the Louisiana State Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to its Band of Mercy children in the public schools of New Orleans. The story is as follows:

"Oh! what are you going to do with those dear fuzzy little puppies," asked little Helen Barbour of her brother John.

"Drown 'em, I guess, Sis. Any objections?" he answered.

Helen vanished into the house, but soon appeared looking very much pleased.

"Johnnie," she said, "what do you think? You remember that mother told me I could have two pets. Well, I have taken these puppies as my choice, and I shall call them Fuzzy and Wuzzy."

Helen took the rescued puppies to an outhouse where she made them a comfortable bed in a soap-box. Here she put the puppies to sleep after they had drunk warm milk to their hearts' content.

It seemed to Helen as if every day Fuzzy and Wuzzy grew larger. Soon they were playful but awkward young colliers. Two years have passed since their rescue. They are now full grown dogs, the pets of all the Barbour household.

During this awful overflow of the Mississippi river, through which we are now passing, Fuzzy and Wuzzy have distinguished themselves. Mr. Barbour, Helen's father, was watching the levee in front of his home one night, accompanied by Wuzzy. The good gentleman was very much fatigued during his long vigil, and was dozing a bit when Wuzzy heard a peculiar sound. The dog's instinct guided him to a part of the levee where he saw the water pouring through a muskrat hole, in what seemed to be the strongest portion of the levee. He ran to Mr. Barbour, caught him by his trouser leg and tugged with all his might and main in an effort to awaken him.

Helen's father woke up and was about to pat the dog on his head and tell him to lie down and go to sleep, when Wuzzy barked loudly and ran to the muskrat hole where he stood and continued to bark. Mr. Barbour, not thinking anything serious the matter, did not follow him. When the dog saw that his master did not move, he ran to him, barked beseechingly at him, and ran back to the hole.

"That dog is certainly acting peculiarly," said Mr. Barbour. "I think that I will see what ails him." So he picked up his gun and walked to the spot where Wuzzy stood. His experienced ear caught the sound of running water and he looked anxiously to see where it came from. He saw the muskrat hole, and discharged his gun as a signal to his sons in the house. They hastily appeared, carrying spades, hoes and sacks of earth.

The break was quickly mended, so that it did not do any damage. Thanks to Wuzzy, no lives or property were lost. The whole Barbour family praised the dog for having saved their lives, but doubtless when he did this brave act he was thinking of Fuzzy and their four dear little puppies at home.

Without this humane act of Helen's, a larger portion of Louisiana would probably be under water causing a great loss of life and property. Thus we see that kindness is always doubly repaid.

FATHER LARKINS' RETURN.

The commencement exercises, which were delayed several weeks on account of the absence of Father Larkin, showed to what extent the children of his parish look forward to his pleasure, took place Saturday. He has always been a lover of the little ones and it is for that reason the commencement exercises were not held until his return from Salt Lake City.

As has been previously reported in The Herald on several occasions, that Father Larkin is to be transferred to some other place is not denied by those in a position to know, and when Father Larkin was asked regarding the rumor his reply was that he hoped that he would not be transferred.

The Church of the Holy Name of Mary and its parishioners have been immensely benefited through the efforts of Father Larkin. When he first came to Algiers he found the church greatly in debt and just before his trip to the West the entire debt had been lifted from the edifice, it had been beautified and embellished to the extent that it is pointed to as one of the show places of this locality. All of this came through the efforts of Father Larkin and that he has perpetuated his memory by kind acts and faithful service goes without saying. We sincerely trust that the Provincial will respect the petition of the many Catholics in our district who have asked that Father Larkin remain with us.

LOEWENGART BROS.

The many friends of Alfred and Edward Loewengardt, who were formerly associated with the jewelry house of Loewengardt & Armstrong, have recently associated themselves with the Hart Jewelry Co., corner Baronne and Common streets, where they will be pleased to see their many friends.

PERSONAL.

Tom Keelin was quietly married to Miss Nina Mahoney last Saturday evening. The couple have the best wishes of their friends.

Miss May Casey, accompanied by her niece, Helen James, will spend the remainder of the summer at their home at Bay St. Louis.

On Tuesday afternoon, July 23, at 2 o'clock, New Orleans Hive No. 5, Ladies of the Maccabees of the World, will give a eucharé for their benefit at the residence of Mrs. Kate McCormack, 521 Seguin street. Admission 25 cents; tallies 10 cents; refreshments served free. Suitable prizes given. Do not fail to come.

Quite a merry crowd gathered at the Hazel Cottage, Milneburg, to spend the day. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Babin and children, Mrs. A. Florin, Mrs. J. Chotin, Misses Ida, Florence and Mollie Kinkaid, Walter Babin and Jos. Kinkaid.

Jno. Hunn and family are home again after spending two weeks at Milneburg.

Miss Ida Kinkaid left yesterday for Houma, La., to spend some time.

Mrs. A. Kraus and daughter Louise left last week for New York. Mrs. Kraus will visit Europe before returning home.

Shade G. Smith has been appointed deputy grand chancellor for Halcyon Lodge No. 66, K. of P., Lea J. Burton for Virginia No. 136, Jas. O. Stewart for Crescent Lodge No. 3.

SAVE HALF YOUR GAS BILL.

Geo. W. Stewart, whose place of business is at 157 Delaronde street, has just adopted the Bradshaw system, where he is able to assure his customers that he will be able to save them just one-half their gas bills by regulating their gas stoves. Mr. Stewart not only makes this assertion, but within a few minutes is able to prove what he has to say. If you are skeptical, just give it a trial.

NAVAL RECRUITS.

Chief Quartermaster W. P. Raarup, of the United States Naval Recruiting Station, announced yesterday that he had officially closed the substation recently opened at Algiers. Weather conditions and the general state of conditions of surrounding territory were given as the cause for the discontinuance.

LOCAL TALENT.

Miss Ida Keivin, one of our most popular and charming young ladies, will appear all this week at the Nemo Theatre in vocal selections.

Miss Keivin is well-known as a singer of ability and will undoubtedly prove a big drawing card to the Nemo.

A Matter of Figures. Jack—What kind of figure has he got? Sam—Physically, poor; financially, fine!

Hard Cheek. "When an enemy smiles me," said the pious looking hypocrite, "I always turn the other cheek."

"Why," asked the man who knew him, "do you want your enemy to go around with both hands disabled?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Strong Hint. "Did your cook say right out that she wanted you all to stay at home that evening?"

"No; but she put onions in every mouthful of food we had to eat that day."—New York Sun.

A Saint's Tomb to Order. An English contemporary tells the story of an East Indian frontier tribe which, having been jeered at by another tribe because it possessed no tombs of saints, went out, killed a well known holy man and buried him.

Drawing the Line. "Before we were married you said you would die for me!"

"I know I did, and I would, but wearing that necktie you selected out on the street is different. I won't do that."—Houston Post.

A Surprise in Store. Sweet Innocence—Papa says that you can't afford to marry. Gulleful Youth—Oh, how absurd! Why, it only costs a few dollars! Sweet Innocence—Is that so? How foolish papa is! I'll tell him.

Perfectly Natural. Old Gentleman—How old are you, my dear? Little Girl—I was eight years old yesterday. Old Gentleman—Indeed! You don't look to be that old. Little Girl—Ah, how you naughty men do fatter us poor, weak women!

Cracking a Nut. The force required to crush an ordinary nut, such as one too often sees cracked between the back teeth, has been shown to be equal to a weight of more than 110 avoirdupois pounds directly applied.

A Peace Pact. The plumber had married the barber's daughter.

"No tips when you shave me here after, remember," he said.

"All right," quoth the barber, "and no charging it in the bill when you walk between my house and your shop any more."

On this basis they all lived happily ever after.—Chicago Tribune.

DIED.

Shields.—On Wednesday, July 10th, at 2:15 o'clock p. m., Edwin Shields died at Touro Infirmary after an illness of some time.

Deceased, who was one of our best-known young men, was born here twenty-nine years ago and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Amelia Landry, and by two children. Mr. Shields was prominent in railroad circles.

The funeral took place Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock from his late residence, 527 Bermuda street. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

BAPTISMS AT CHURCH OF THE HOLY NAME OF MARY.

Bernard Sarbeck, son of Bernard Sarbeck and Carrie H. Young, born on June 29th, 1912, was baptized by Rev. H. Seiler, S. M.; sponsors, Richard McCord and Mary J. Young.

August Joseph Serpas, son of August Serpas and Annie Dehan, born on Sept. 5, 1910, baptized by Rev. R. Hebert, S. M.; sponsors, Ed. Smith and Lillian Knowles.

MOUNT OLIVET NOTES.

Last Sunday the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nicholas Hintz was baptized, the name Vernon James being given him and the sponsors being the father, James Tingstrom and Miss Frances Ernestine Buras.

The members of Mt. Olivet Choir together with those from Annunciation Church Choir were the guests of Rev. and Mrs. Slack at the rectory last Tuesday night after choir practice. A most enjoyable evening was spent, games were played and songs, ancient and modern were sung. Light refreshments were served. Among those present were Messrs Herbert Palfrey and Zimmermann, Mrs. Herbert Palfrey and Wendel Palfrey, Messrs Jennie Barclay, Miller, Hart and Stephenson from Annunciation Church, and of our own choir, Misses Ayer, Forrest, Meagher, Hughes, Nelson and Messrs Cunningham and Nichols.

The death of Mrs. Annie Percival Chambers last Monday evening, after a long illness brought sorrow to many friends. She was the elder daughter of Rev. John Percival, for so many years rector of the Church of the Annunciation, New Orleans, a life long friend of our Parish, and its rector. Our rector assisted in the funeral services. May God grant unto her rest and peace and may light perpetual shine upon her.

Where They Go To.

"I thought you said he had three children."

"So he has."

"That's queer. He always seems to have a lead pencil in his pocket."—Exchange.

Masculine.

Mrs. Dix—Mrs. June strikes me as being entirely too masculine for a woman. Mrs. Dix—Yes, indeed. Why, every time she has an ache or a pain she makes as much fuss about it as a man would.

Ambiguous.

Wife—Do you recollect that once when we had a tiff I said you were just as mean as you could be? Husband—Yes, darling. Wife—Oh, James, how little did I know you then!—Glasgow Times.

The Main Point.

"Say, dad, gimme a dime."

"Your words are abrupt and even coarse, my son. You should say, 'Father, will you oblige me with 10 cents? That sounds very much better.'"

"Well, do I get it?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Opportunity.

"Opportunity comes," said the old proverb, "with feet of wool, treading soft." You must have the instinct of an artist for the approaches of this good genius. You must listen for it.—Samuel Johnson.

A Deduction.

Bugby—Who was that lady who sat beside you at the theater the other evening? Smith—Why, that was my wife. Bugby—Oh, I don't mean the one who sat on your right. I mean the one you talked with.

Tea In Java.

In Java tea is served in broad flat cups and flavored with Batavia arrack, and in Formosa it is steeped with tea flowers and one or two orange flowers. The result is a perfume and a flavor of the most intense kind.
