WHO WAS SHE?

By F. A. MITCHEL

There has always been to me something impressive in a street at night, when all are in bed. Perhaps it is the contrast between its quiet and the life there was in it during the day.

I had recently begun the practice of medicine, and, having been called up at midnight to visit a patient not far from my house, had chosen to walk rather than get out a vehicle. I returned through just such a street as I have described, and, walking along on the sidewalk, was impressed with the solemnity of the rows of dark houses with their slumbering inhabitants. It seemed to me like a cemetery for beings whose consciousness was suspended every night during the same hours. So silent was it that my footsteps sounded loud enough to wake the sleepers.

Suddenly, while passing the portal of a church, from above came the clang of a clock striking the hour. So loud was it, so out of keeping with the prevailing stillness, that my heart seemed to stand still for a moment; then I braced myself against the next stroke. But it did not come. I wished it would, for there again was the silence, and silence is not natural to a human being. We require sound and motion. These are the two conditions without either of which we suffer.

My route lay through an open square used as a park. In its center was a fountain, and about the fountain were benches. The fountain was still, and the seats were unoccupied. Something in this condition of a city in suspended consciousness so attracted me that I was minded to give myself up for a few minutes to its influence. I sat down on one of the benches and lost myself in fancy. On the four sides of the quadrangle were dwellings and not a light to be seen in any dwelling. All within were sunk in oblivion. Surely death could be no more of nothingness than this brief period of slumber. I was the only live being within the square.

Whether the god of sleep, annoyed at one rebellious subject among so many who were obedient, touched me that I should fall under his sway or whether some other of the many gods who preside over our transit through life thought proper to hypnotize me I do not know. That I grew drowsy I will remember. I am sure I nodded. Catching myself after a nod, I looked about me, and there sitting on the other end of the bench was a young girl. There were city lamps burning, and I could see her features quite plainly. She was very pretty, but pale. Her hair was not coiled upon her head, but hung loose on her shoulders—not scattered, but in separate locks. Her dress was that of the lower middle class.

Somehow it did not seem to me that the conditions I have described were broken by the girl's presence. I did not feel that there were two persons where there had been one. Yet there sat the girl looking out on the trees in the park or the buildings beyond just as I did. It occurred to me that she must have come there during a brief interval when I had lost consciousness through sleep.

But how strange that she should be there at all! A young girl sitting in a park in the center of a city between 1 and 2 o'clock at night when every one else was in bed and asleep! It occurred to me to speak to her, but so unaccountable was the circumstance of our being there alone together that I dreaded to do so. I dreaded lest she should fall to break the spell by replying to me. In that case I should feel that I was sitting by a supernatural being, and the very thought caused a shudder.

While I was trying to make up my mind to speak to the girl I noticed something else about her that excited a new wonder. This was that she resembled me. The discovery increased the feeling that she was not real, but a shade. Once or twice in my life I have dreamed that I saw myself in duplicate and have always awakened with a horrible feeling and a rapid beating of the heart. But this time I was not dreaming. I was sure of that. I had been drowsy. I had nodded, but now I was thoroughly awake.

I was interested. My companion did not seem to me as a sister, but as I myself would have been had I been born a girl. I judged that she was my age. Her hair and eyes were exactly the same color as mine. Her features were all mine except that they were feminine while mine were masculine. If I had had a twin sister I should have believed this girl to be she. Finally I made up my mind to speak to her.

"Isn't it rather late?"

"I got no further. At the first breaking of the silence she was gone.

Wondering, I arose and went home. At the medical college where I graduated was a professor who was a deep student and thinker, having some strange theories in what some persons call the supernatural. To him I went and told my strange experience and asked him for an explanation. He was much interested in it, but gave no opinion regarding it at the time. Later he sent me and said:

"There are evidences on the human body that we were once bisexual, I have thought much of your vision, but can offer no explanation except through fancy. May not what you saw have some connection with a double feminine self, which the condition induced by your surroundings, enabled you to discern?"

Cats and Coons

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.

"That's a heap of difference between wildcats and coons," said the old mountaineer, "and I found it out one time in a way that was powerful unpleasant."

"Some of us are set in our ways and some of us ain't. I used to be one of the set kind. If I said anything, no matter if I knowed I was wrong, I'd stick to it to the last. Such a critter comes mighty high best a plumb vein, but no one could have made me believe it years ago."

"One Sunday, years ago, the old woman wanted me to go to the preachin' with her. It was a nice fall day, and I wanted to loaf around and see if the coons was comin' down from the mountains."

"She was huffy when she got back, and not a word was said at the supper table. After she'd cleared things away she got down the Bible and said:

"Zeb White, the preacher, was preachin' to us today about Dan'l in the lions' den, and I want to ax you some questions."

"Ax away, I said.

"Was them rec'lar lions, with teeth and claws?"

"Can't say."

"Do you know why the lions didn't eat Dan'l?"

"Nope."

"And you don't keer, do you?"

"Not a whop."

"Wall, you keer right on bein' mean and see how you'll come out. A man may be set ag'in his wife and not suffer too much, but when he's set ag'in the Bible that's a different thing. I wish you'd find the place about Joner and the whale and read it to me."

"I hain't pinin' to read this evenin'," says I.

"But you believe that the whale swallered him, don't you?"

"I hain't sayin' as I do or don't. What I'm thinkin' of is whether them coons will come down in my co'nfield tonight."

"And a Sunday night, too?" she gasps. "Zeb, that's suhly a rod of punishment laid up for you. You was set ag'in Dan'l, and now you are set ag'in Joner, and don't you be thinkin' you'll see the end of it without trouble. Will you read me about the children who was devoured by the bars?"

"Not jest now. I'm waitin' to hear the old dawg bark to show that the coons have arrive."

"But how many children do you think that was?"

"I hain't countin'."

"Was, how many bars?"

"Can't say. Might not have been a single child or a bar."

"Then you're ag'in them too. I wouldn't be in your shoes for this yer hull Cumberland mountains. I don't reckon you believe about the children of Israel passin' across the Red sea dry shod?"

"I hain't sayin' as I do."

"Jest then my old dawg begun to bark and rush around, and I took down my gun and went out. I heard a great rustlin' and spittin' and scenterin', and I reckoned that mo' than a hundred coons was movin' down on the co'n."

"I called to the dawg to sick 'em, but he drapp'd his tail and sneaked into the house. Peared like a funny thing for him to do, but I went down among the co'n without him. I had skassly got that when I heard sunthin' movin' about and freed at it."

"That was one of the blunders of my life. The powder smoke was still hangin' in the air when half a dozen wildcats began to climb all over me."

"The only thing I could do was to start for the house, and as I staggered along I kept up a yellin'."

"I was clawed and bit and scratched from head to heel, and I hadn't 'nuff clothes on me to cover a silver dollar. I was jest that scared and done up that I fainted away and fell in a heap, and when I cum to I was on the bed and the old woman was dressin' my hurts."

"She had to begin at my scalp and work down to my heels, and it took her all the rest of the night. I felt bad 'nuff, I kin tell you, but she made me feel a heap wuss. She didn't say a single word to me fur hours, but when she had about finished me up she started off with:

"Zeb, do you reckon them was rec'lar lions in the cage with Dan'l?"

"With all my heart, I do, I says.

"And them children of Israel and the Red Sea?"

"I believe every last word of it, Linda."

"And is the dawg to be whopped for not makin' as big a fule of himself as you did?"

"Not a whop. I reckoned on whoppin' him for not mixin' in, but I'll let it go this time. Anyhow mo'?"

"Nuthin' no, Zeb, she says as she cumms over and kisses me, 'cept that you hadn't better git too frisky ag'in an' think you are a bigger man than Providence."

"Linda," says I, "I suah thought them was coons."

"Of co'se you did—of co'se."

"And I reckoned on gettin' five or six prime pelts."

"Yes, you did."

"Do you think Providence kin turn coons into wildcats at a minit's notice?"

"Of co'se he kin. Whenever arter this you git to thinkin' he can't you start for town and git a gallon of sweet fer the bites and scratches sush to cum. Cuddle down now and go to sleep."

Early Diplomats to Turkey.

Some of the early diplomats accredited to Constantinople had unpleasant experiences even in times of peace. In 1673 the grand vizier, having intercepted some French dispatches, tried to borrow the cipher of the embassy. Delahaye, the first secretary, who refused to accede to this request, was thrown into prison, where he was beatified and all his teeth were broken. Louis XIV. was then at the height of his power, yet no reprisals were made for this treatment of his representative. Until the middle of the eighteenth century the foreign envoys in Constantinople were under close supervision. They were forbidden to visit one another's houses or to meet elsewhere. When a protest was lodged against this restriction the Grand Vizier Sokoll replied, "You can jabber together as much as you like when you return to Christendom, but we will not have you plotting among yourselves here."—London Chronicle.

Rain Making Fallacies.

The United States weather bureau has many times given its opinion that the production of rain at a time when it would not otherwise have fallen cannot be brought about by any means in the power of man. The enormous weight of air in a storm cloud of even moderate extent prevents our believing that a discharge of powder or dynamite can affect the cloud. Even if a great shock could be given to the air, there is no reason to believe that a shock can condense water vapor to water drops, producing a cloud in clear air and causing a downfall of rain from the cloud thus formed. Water vapor is not condensed into water by a shock. It is condensed by cooling. The popular notion that rain is caused by great battles or other explosions is regarded by scientific men as entirely erroneous.—Scientific American.

At the expiration of this charter, or if sooner dissolved, the affairs of this corporation shall be liquidated by the board of directors, who are hereby vested with power to sell any and all assets of the corporation and to convey full and complete title thereof, and to do all things necessary and proper to fully and completely liquidate the affairs and distribute the proceeds among the stockholders in proportion to the amount of stock held by each; and said directors shall have the right to apply to the courts for recognition as liquidating commissioners or receivers.

This done and signed in my office, in the city of New Orleans, Louisiana, on the day of the month of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twelve, and of the independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and thirty-seventh, before me, John Marshall Quintero, a notary public, duly commissioned and qualified, and in the presence of the witnesses hereinafter named and undersigned, personally came and appeared the several parties whose names are hereunto subscribed, who severally declared themselves of the laws of the state of Louisiana, and they all agreed and provided, they have contracted and agreed, and do, by these presents, covenant agree and bind themselves, as well as such persons who may hereafter become associated with them, to form a body corporate for the objects and under the articles and stipulations, to-wit:

The name of this corporation shall be "The G. E. and E. Reiman Co., Ltd.," and it shall exist and continue for a term of twenty years from the date hereof. It shall have its domicile in the city of New Orleans, parish of Orleans, state of Louisiana.

The objects and purposes for which this corporation is organized and the nature of the business to be carried on by it are hereby declared to be to engage in and carry on in this city and elsewhere, the business of general contractors and building, and to do all things necessary, proper, incident and convenient to the said business, or in any wise related thereto.

The capital stock of this corporation is hereby fixed at the sum of twenty thousand

ARTICLE X.

The capital stock of this corporation may be increased or decreased in accordance with existing laws.

ARTICLE XI.

At the expiration of this charter, or if sooner dissolved, the affairs of this corporation shall be liquidated by the board of directors, who are hereby vested with power to sell any and all assets of the corporation and to convey full and complete title thereof, and to do all things necessary and proper to fully and completely liquidate the affairs and distribute the proceeds among the stockholders in proportion to the amount of stock held by each; and said directors shall have the right to apply to the courts for recognition as liquidating commissioners or receivers.

This done and signed in my office, in the city of New Orleans, Louisiana, on the day of the month of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twelve, and of the independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and thirty-seventh, before me, John Marshall Quintero, a notary public, duly commissioned and qualified, and in the presence of the witnesses hereinafter named and undersigned, personally came and appeared the several parties whose names are hereunto subscribed, who severally declared themselves of the laws of the state of Louisiana, and they all agreed and provided, they have contracted and agreed, and do, by these presents, covenant agree and bind themselves, as well as such persons who may hereafter become associated with them, to form a body corporate for the objects and under the articles and stipulations, to-wit:

The name of this corporation shall be "The G. E. and E. Reiman Co., Ltd.," and it shall exist and continue for a term of twenty years from the date hereof. It shall have its domicile in the city of New Orleans, parish of Orleans, state of Louisiana.

The objects and purposes for which this corporation is organized and the nature of the business to be carried on by it are hereby declared to be to engage in and carry on in this city and elsewhere, the business of general contractors and building, and to do all things necessary, proper, incident and convenient to the said business, or in any wise related thereto.

The capital stock of this corporation is hereby fixed at the sum of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000.00) to be divided into two hundred shares (200) of the par value of one hundred dollars ($100.00) each; the said shares shall be paid for in full, and non-assessable, and when issued shall be issued for cash or property of the equivalent value, and no transfer of stock shall be binding on this corporation unless recorded on its books.

This corporation shall be a going concern as soon as three thousand dollars ($3,000.00) of its capital stock shall have been subscribed for.

If any shareholder shall ever desire to sell his stock in this corporation, he shall first give a written notice of such intention to both the president and the secretary thereof, for the full term of ten days (10), giving notice of said intention to sell his stock, or any portion thereof, and, after the expiration of the said ten days, the corporation or the shareholders thereof, or any of them, do not purchase the said shares or any portion thereof, then the said shareholder offering to sell said shares shall have the right to sell the said shares as he sees fit and to whomsoever he sees fit.

ARTICLE V.

All the powers of this corporation shall be vested in and exercised by a board of directors, who shall be composed of a president and a secretary and treasurer. A vice-president and a secretary shall be composed of the following: G. Emile Reimann, president; Eugene Herkes, secretary and treasurer; George H. Reimann, vice-president; and said board of directors shall hold office until the first Monday of January, 1914. All directors shall hold office until their successors are elected and qualified. All elections shall be by ballot conducted at the office of this corporation under the supervision of three commissioners appointed by the board of directors. Each stockholder shall have one vote for each share of stock standing in his name on the books of this corporation, to be cast in person or by proxy, in writing, and a majority of votes shall constitute a quorum.

Any vacancy occurring among the directors be death, resignation or otherwise, shall be filled by election for the remainder of the term by the remaining directors. A failure to elect directors shall not dissolve this charter, but the board of directors then in office shall hold office until their successors are elected and qualified. Each director shall own at least one share of stock. The board of directors shall have the right to call and pay shares of stock in this corporation for cash, or in payment for labor done or for property actually received by this corporation. Each director shall have the right to appoint a proxy to represent him at the meetings of the board of directors, the said proxy to be in writing.

ARTICLE VI.

Whenever this corporation shall be dissolved either by limitation or from any other cause, its affairs shall be liquidated by three commissioners to be appointed by the board of directors at a general meeting of the stockholders convened for that purpose, and each stockholder shall have one vote for each share of stock standing in his name on the books of this corporation, to be cast in person or by proxy, in writing, and a majority in amount of the capital stock represented at said meeting shall be requisite to determine the liquidation of the corporation in office until the affairs of the said corporation shall have been fully liquidated. In case of the death of one or more of the said commissioners, the vacancy shall be filled by election by the remaining commissioners.

ARTICLE VII.

This act of incorporation may be modified, changed, altered or amended, or the said corporation may be dissolved, by a vote of three-fourths of the capital stock represented at a general meeting of the stockholders called together for that purpose, after notice thereof shall have been given in one or more newspapers of the city of New Orleans, at least one week for four weeks preceding the date of the meeting, and by a written notice addressed to each and every stockholder on the books of the corporation, at least ten days before the date of the said meeting, at the post office address designated by him in writing.

No stockholder shall ever be held liable for the contracts or debts of the said corporation in any further sum than the unpaid balance due to the corporation on the shares of stock subscribed for by him, nor shall any informality in organization have the effect of rendering him liable beyond the amount of his subscription to the stock.

The list of subscribers signed hereto shall serve as the original subscription list of this corporation, and the secretary of the corporation shall have a copy of the same.

This done and passed in my office on the day, month and year aforesaid, in the presence of Messrs. Eugene Herkes and Scott E. Beer, competent witnesses who have hereunto signed their names together with the said notary, and me, notary, after a due reading of the original.

Signed: G. Emile Reimann, 15 shares, $1,500; Ernest Adolphe Reimann, 15 shares, $1,500; Eugene Herkes, 2 shares, $200; George H. Reimann, 15 shares, $1,500.

Witnesses: Eugene Herkes, Scott E. Beer.
