MONEY DISAPPEARED.

Charles Harris, boatswain on the steamship Norman Bridge, lying at the head of Bermuda street, met up with two Englishmen while out on a lark Thursday night and is now bemoaning the loss of $240, which he says his erstwhile companions stole from his locker on the ship. He does not know the names of the two fellows and can not aid the police in their search for the guilty parties.

Harris met up with the Britons at 11 o'clock and they accompanied him to the ship at 4 o'clock after spending the time intervening at a number of saloons in the city. While in his room on the ship Harris had occasion to open his locker, exposing to the view of his associates the roll. All three then left for shore and indulged in more drink, returning about 8 o'clock.

Harris left the two strangers in his room while he went to attend to some work, and after an absence of 15 minutes returned to find they had gone, taking with them the money, which they obtained by breaking the panel of the locker door, which they kicked in as is evidenced by the heel prints on the woodwork.

William T. Schling, chief engineer of the steamship Viking, lying at the head of Bermuda street, reported to the Algiers police at 1 o'clock Friday morning the loss of a double-case 14-karat gold Waltham watch set with 17 jewels. While under the influence of liquor Schling met two unknown white men, who escorted him from the Canal street ferry landing to his ship at 8 o'clock, when he threw himself across his bunk and fell asleep.

When he awoke at 12:30 o'clock Schling discovered his loss, the watch having disappeared from his vest pocket, but he cannot say positively that it was stolen. As it was not attached to a chain or otherwise secured to his clothing the timepiece may have been lost. It is engraved "W. T. S." on the outside of the case.

RECEIVES THREE HUNDRED AND SIXTY DOLLARS.

The widow of Howard Hibben, who died some time ago in the Panama Canal Zone, a few days ago received from one of the Pythian lodges in the Zone a check for three hundred and sixty dollars, which was made up by public subscription among the Pythians who were connected with the building of the Canal and also from the dredge-boat men. In the letter transmitting this money it was stated that it was a token of the high esteem in which Mr. Hibben was held by his fellow members and associates.

HOW TO GET CHICKENS IN AND OUT OF CITY'S CONCRETE BOX, IS ASKED.

And now comes into court Mr. Chicken Kaiser, plaintiff herein, who declares, affirms and asserts, that Ordinance No. 17 of the City Board of Health is vague and indefinite and of no effect and impossible of execution, because of the fact that said ordinance provides no way, manner nor means for placing chickens in the inclosures described in said ordinance.

This probably will be the plea of a citizen who called upon Dr. O'Reilly Tuesday, and who raised a unique objection to the chicken ordinance which Major Hughes, attorney of the Board of Health, has spent so much time in drafting. Dr. O'Reilly was out of the office at the time, but the citizen stated that he wanted to ask the doctor how he could get his chickens in and out of the inclosure if constructed according to the ordinance, as there is nothing in the law which provides for a door.

For those persons who reside in what is known as "Area No. 2," the ordinance provides that chickens must be kept in an inclosure surrounded by a wall of cement and covered with chicken wire, and it says specifically "provided that openings may be let in said surrounding walls for the purpose of drainage only, and provided further that such openings shall be securely screened with a metallic grating having openings between the gratings of not more than one-half inch."

"If the ordinance permits no openings except for drainage, and these must be grated, how am I to get my chickens into it or out of it and how am I to get my eggs?" was the question asked. "Further, do I have to tie my chickens in the yard and then build the inclosure around them? There is not a word in the ordinance about a door."

There were many applicants at the Board of Health for copies of the chicken ordinance Tuesday, and hundreds of copies were distributed. Many questions were asked, but the inquiry as to how the chickens could be put into or taken out of an inclosure with no door was the most interesting one submitted.—Times-Picayune.

NEW PLAYGROUNDS SITE.

Civic League Very Busy.

On Monday night the regular meeting of the Fifth District Civic League was held, the principal topic of the evening being the new location for the playgrounds. Several new sites are now before the League for consideration, one being the Randolph property, corner Olivier and Delaronde streets. A communication will be addressed to Mr. Randolph at Bay St. Louis asking his consideration of the matter. Another site and the most desirable one, being more centrally located, is the Reynolds property, containing about four or five lots, located at the corner of Eliza and Vallette streets. The Civic League will have a committee looking after this site and asking permission for its use.

Regarding the McDonoghville square on the parish line, no supporters were found in the League for this remote place. It was pointed out that few mothers would allow their children to go this distance for a short time of play and on account of the residents in that section being mostly negroes, it was decided that the McDonoghville park would not be considered.

The League is also making an effort to secure for the Milk Station an art rug, a wheel barrow, and a small heating stove. If any persons have any of these articles either to be donated or loaned, the use of same under either condition will be greatly appreciated by this meritorious organization.

REV. J. P. CASSAGNE HAS RETURNED.

It was certainly a pleasure to see Fr. Cassagne back at his duties as priest in the Church of the Holy Name of Mary, and those of his friends who are not of his faith are equally glad to welcome him back to our midst. Fr. Cassagne has been away from the work of this parish since about the 14th of July, having gone to Gulfport, Miss., to take charge of the church in that town, which was deprived of a pastor in the sudden death of their late parish priest. It is needless to say that the residents of Gulfport were very anxious to have Fr. Cassagne remain with them but we are delighted that he is back in dear old Algiers once more, and hope that he will remain here for many days to come.
