

DREAD HOG ON TRACK

WRECK USUALLY FOLLOWS RUNNING DOWN OF PORKER.

Engineers Prefer to Stop Train and Chase Animal if Possible—Humorous Combination in Air When Wagon Was Struck.

"Of all animals that wander along a railroad track," declared a veteran engineer, according to the Pluto Ledger, "goats are the most irritating. It is next to impossible to kill them, and that is not the least tantalizing thing about them from an engineer's standpoint. No matter how fast a train may be running or how quietly you steal down upon them, a goat will see you out of the corner of his eye and manage to get away in time to miss the cowcatcher.

"Cows and horses are generally disposed of with ease, though sometimes they get under the wheels and cause a bad wreck. But they are so large that the pilot gets under them and throws them off to one side. The goat, on the other hand, nearly always succeeds in getting us worked up to a high degree of nervousness and then contrives to get off without a scratch.

"Speaking of striking animals on the rail," continued the engineer, "the one we most dread to meet on the tracks is a hog. Nine chances out of ten the hog will throw you. He is tough and greasy, and if an engineer has any show at all it is best for him to stop the train and drive the animal off the track. When the pilot of an engine hits a hog it usually knocks him down and rolls him for a few yards before the trucks strike him, and when they do there is great danger of their leaving the rails, so you see what havoc one pig can make on a railroad. Another disagreeable thing about a pig is that he never stops squealing from the time he is hit until he is stone dead.

"Sheep are the most pitiful of all animals to run down. They seem to realize danger and huddle together between the rails awaiting death. Their innocent eyes stare at you so mournfully and sadly that they haunt you for days to come. A locomotive seems to take a savage delight in destroying sheep. It throws them in every direction and will kill a whole flock in an instant.

"I struck a flock of geese once. Well, I never had thought there were so many feathers in the world. I couldn't see anything but feathers for ten minutes, and when we reached the station my engine looked as if it had received a coat of tar and feathers."

The twinkle in the engineer's eyes and the twitching of his lips indicated an amusing reminiscence. Presently it came out.

"Mentioning feathers," he said, after a pause, "brings to mind a curious experience I had a few years ago in running a fast passenger train on a seaboard line. We had gone through a fairly large town without slackening speed and had whirled safely around the base of a steep ridge to the east, when we struck a little stretch of straight track between high dirt banks which was so narrow that the wheels of the engine and the wheels of the train were almost touching.

"The men in the wagon were evidently farmers returning from town in a boisterous humor after a day's marketing. Curiously enough, they were not hurt in the least, neither were the horses. The wagon, until we cut it clean in two, contained a feather bed, a keg of nails and a barrel of whisky. "We struck them all at the same instant. The nails flew away in the air, as it seemed, and came down with a pepping rattle on the roofs of all the coaches in the train. The feathers scattered far and wide through the air like a driving snowstorm and seemed to come from a thousand split feather beds instead of one. The whisky got mixed with the feathers and spurted up in every direction, falling in a fine spray, principally over the first couple of coaches. The whisky and feathers clung to the tops and sides of the cars for the rest of the trip.

"It was altogether the funniest mess I was ever in, and the strangest combination. Think of it! Nails, whisky and feathers, the feathers flying through the air and following us for miles."

Thomas A. Edison says we should stay up an hour later every night. But, of course, he does not know how late some of us do remain up.

The old-fashioned gentleman who grabs his whiskers every time he splits is still to be found in rural communities.

When a man is down and out the unkindest cut of all is to remind him of his days of prosperity.

Knew of War's Horrors. Take my word for it, if you had seen but one day of war, you would pray Almighty God that you might never see such a thing again.—Duke of Wellington.

Met His Approval. Passer-by (to farmer leaning on roadside fence)—"Do you approve of automobiles?" Farmer—"Sure! Why wouldn't I? Didn't I make over $50 clean cash haulin' 'em out of snow-drifts last winter?"

MUFFLED KNOCKS.

"No, you're not at all in the way, Boris; I'll step right over you when I want to go out."

"It's so kind of you to ask me to your house, Mrs. Tungle! I'll call some evening when I have nowhere else to go."

"Bobby, I've warned you not to watch people when they eat; you're embarrassing Cousin Cyrus so much that he's spilling gravy all over the tablecloth."

"It's a pleasure to lend you my money, old chap; I'll not see you again, probably, for a year."

"Certainly, Mr. Spooner; I shall be delighted to have you call some day next week. I start for Europe tomorrow morning."

"These are just the kind of cakes mother used to make, Mrs. Irons; she was about the poorest cook you ever saw."

"When I left home as a lad," said Mr. Dustin Star, "I had ten dollars in my pocket."

"You'll never forget that day."

"No, sir. It's the only time that I have felt that I could settle up on a moment's notice and be absolutely sure my assets would cash in for more than my liabilities."

NO JUDGE.

Scribbler—So your father likes my poetry. Is he much of a critic? Edith—Why, of course, not!

Too Much. A young theologian named Fiddle. Refused to accept his degree. "For," said he, "it is enough to be Fiddle. Without being Fiddle, D. D."

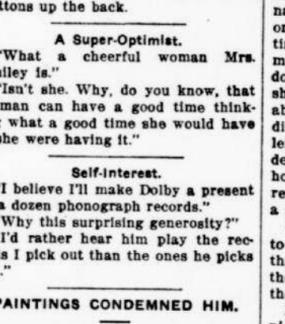

On "Time." "Is this train running on time?" "I should say so," answered the conductor. "It can't run any other way. The company has got to get so many extensions of credit that the whole road is running on time."

Sure to Sell. Caller—Your wife has told me you are working on a new invention. Hubby—Yes. Women's shoes don't match the rest of their complicated attire, so I'm working on a shoe that buttons up the back.

A Super-Optimist. "What a cheerful woman Mrs. Smiley is!" "Isn't she. Why, do you know, that woman can have a good time thinking what a good time she would have if she were having it."

Self-interest. "I believe I'll make Dolby a present of a dozen phonograph records." "Why this surprising generosity?" "I'd rather hear him play the records I pick out than the ones he picks out."

PAINTINGS CONDEMNED HIM.

Vandyke Brown (the artist)—And pray tell me, madam, why you think I'd better not go out today? Mrs. Flattie (the landlady)—Well, some men were asking for you and they said they were the hanging committee.

The Happy Farmer. The farmer wears a knowing smile. And sees the statesman day by day. Shed tears about his prospects while he keeps on putting clover away.

Currency Discussion. "Are you in favor of coining a three-cent piece?" "Yes. The only trouble will be to find something that you can buy with it."

Not Bad. "My doctor allows me only one glass of ale." "I have a glass, sir, that holds about a quart. No so bad, sir," murmured the sympathetic waiter.—Kansas City.

Birth of Great Ideas. Whether the story of Newton discovering the law of gravitation by watching the fall of an apple is true or not, it might have been. That is the way great discoveries come. The time and the man must be ready for them. But then the idea usually dawns as a sort of inspiration.

THE WRONG ADDRESS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON.

Rosina looked around doubtfully, scrutinizing the house along the street.

"White, with a buckeye tree to the left of the front porch," Aunt Ina had said. The one before her answered the description.

Bob Nevis, with his feet comfortably elevated on the porch rail, sat reading the morning paper. Noting a lady turn in at the gate he sprang up and stood waiting for her at the door.

"I've brought the tating for Mrs. Mendelheim," Rosina began diffidently. "Will you please give it to her, and tell her that Aunt Ina, I mean Miss Ridgeway, is sick today and won't be able to help with the fancy-work booth. She's very sorry and hopes Mrs. Mendelheim will be able to manage without her." She held out a small paper parcel which the young man accepted with thanks.

Bob stood looking after her. "Hm! Who the deuce is she, I wonder? Don't remember having ever seen her before. By Harry's she's a cracker-jack for looks, isn't she?"

Doctor Nevis stood smiling inside the screen door and Bob spied him. "Then you heard, dad?"

"Yes, couldn't help it and can't say that I blame you much. Mighty pretty young lady! But if I were you I believe I'd have told the truth. That Mrs. Mendelheim does not live here, and, incidentally, suggested showing her the way to the right house."

Bob considered the matter. He didn't relish a walk of eight blocks—alone—when he had an interesting book and good cigars.

So he called Sammy Croop, next door, and gave him a nickel and the bundle of tating, telling him where to go.

Sammy Croop stuffed the small bundle into his pocket and started on his way. At the corner of Crissmore street he met Jimmy and David Harrowdale on their way to the swimming hole. Sammy yielded without much coaxing and agreed to go along, deciding that the return trip would be time enough to make his delivery.

But Sammy got a cramp in the deep water, and Jimmy managed to help him up in a way while David yelled for help to some men in a nearby field. The result was that Sammy, weak and subdued from his soaking, was brought home on a partly loaded hay wagon and delivered to his mother.

All day, Mrs. Aaron Mendelheim worked at the church, wondering why Miss Ridgeway did not come to help.

"If she can't come she might have sent word," she soliloquized indignantly. "I could have gotten someone to help. And how about that tating she has been working on for months? She says there's twenty dollars' worth. And now where is she? Does anybody know anything about Miss Ridgeway?" But nobody did. At six o'clock Mrs. Mendelheim left the completed yellow and lavender booth and dragged her weary way homeward. Her cup of tea failed to revive her and she went to bed with a splitting headache.

One of the Mendelheims telephoned to the Ridgeways and the result was that Rosina went to take charge of the proprietorless booth, puzzled about the miscarriage of her message.

Mrs. Nevis, leaving the house that night, asked Bob to go along, and he soon found himself facing Rosina! But Rosina had a disconcerting way of looking directly through him that made him feel decidedly insignificant.

"I hear that I can get some of Miss Ridgeway's beautiful tating," said his mother.

"I'm sorry, but we have none. It was sent, but through some error has not reached the church."

"That is too bad!" returned Mrs. Nevis, moving away. "Come, Robert."

Robert discovered the Indian suit and the tating next morning, both drenched with rain.

He took the tating home to his mother and started out to hunt the Ridgeways to turn in twenty dollars to Miss Ina.

Rosina came to the door. "I've come to confess!" began Bob, humbly. "Yes?" "I'm a liar and a thief!"

In spite of herself Rosina laughed. "How dreadful! You look contrite enough to be a murderer also. We may as well be comfortable while having this awful confession! Won't you sit down? Now tell me why you let me talk to you yesterday when you knew I was at the wrong house?"

"Because—because, you were so lovely and I was afraid you'd go. I wanted to have you stay and—and—say, I'm a stupid donkey, and here's the money for the—whatever you call that stuff. The little boy I sent with it went swimming instead. You must think me a muddle-head!"

Rosina laughed again. "Oh, don't go! Here you have a chance to talk to me and now you are running away."

Bob needed no second invitation. (Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

PERSONALLY CAME AND APPEARED.

The several persons whose names are hereto subscribed, who severally declare that, availing themselves of the laws of the State of Louisiana, they have made and approved, they have covenanted and agreed and do hereby covenant and agree and bind themselves, as well as all such persons as may hereafter be associated with them, to form a corporation for the objects and purposes and under the articles and stipulations following.

Article I.—The name of this corporation shall be the Merges Marine Hardware & Supply Company, and under its corporate name it shall have power and authority to have and enjoy corporate existence and succession for the full term and period of ninety years, to be computed from the date hereof, to contract, to sue and be sued, to make and to use a corporate seal and the same to alter and break and to receive and accept of all moneys, deposits, and property, real, personal and mixed, corporeal and incorporeal, and to do and execute all such acts, deeds, and things as its business interest and convenience may require, and to make and establish, as well as alter and amend from time to time, such by-laws, rules and regulations for the proper government of the affairs of said corporation as may be necessary and proper.

Article II.—The domicile of this corporation shall be in the City of New Orleans, State of Louisiana, and all citations to the President of said corporation, or in the event of his absence, upon the Vice-President thereof, and in the absence of both of said officers, upon the Secretary-Treasurer of said corporation.

Article III.—The objects and purposes for which this corporation is organized are established and the nature of the business to be carried on by it are hereby declared to be to engage in a general furnishing and supply business, as principal and as agent, in hardware, ship-chandlery, rail, railway, mill supplies and in connection therewith to engage in the purchase and sale of real estate in all lines of hardware and supplies for painters, mills, railways, ships and things of that nature, and to carry on the business of a corporation in Louisiana and in all the States of the United States and in foreign countries, and generally to do and perform all such acts, deeds and things as may be proper and necessary to carry out and execute the objects and purposes of this corporation.

Article IV.—The capital stock of this corporation is hereby fixed at the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars ($20,000.00), divided into and represented by Two Hundred Shares ($100.00) the par value of one hundred dollars ($100.00) each. Said stock shall be paid for in cash or in such manner and at such times as may be determined after such notice to subscribers as the Board of Directors may fix, or same may be issued in whole or in part, and the same may be performed for said corporation or for property or rights actually received by said corporation.

Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000.00) of the capital stock has been subscribed to the corporation at the time of the passing of this act of incorporation, and the subscribers thereof have come a going concern and shall be authorized to commence business as soon as Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) of its capital stock shall have been paid for.

All transfers of shares of the capital stock of this corporation shall be made and entered on the stock book and in the books of the corporation in such manner as to bind the corporation and the stockholders under the following conditions, which are the essence of their rights as stockholders, and which conditions shall be briefly set out in each stock certificate.

1st. That no stockholder shall sell, alienate, hypothecate, or otherwise dispose of his stock until he shall have first offered the same to the other stockholders of the company, who shall have a written offer in writing to the Board of Directors, whose duty it shall be to transmit to the stockholders immediately, and the stockholders shall have seven days from the receipt of such notice by the Board of Directors within which they may purchase at the value thereof plus ten per cent.

The value of the stock for the purpose aforesaid shall be the same as is shown by the books of the corporation—established on the basis of the last annual statement of the corporation in connection with the semi-annual balance and the semi-annual inventory.

It shall be the duty of the corporation to make and preserve all correct and true balances and semi-annual and annual statements for the purposes aforesaid, and which shall at all times be open to the view of the stockholders.

Should more than one stockholder offer to purchase the stock, the same shall be distributed according to their holdings in the corporation. In case of the acceptance of the offer under the provisions hereinabove set forth, the price therefor shall be paid in cash within twenty-four hours after such acceptance.

2nd. The rate hereinabove set forth shall govern in case of a stockholder, surviving stockholders may, at a meeting held after the death of a stockholder, or in the event of his death, or in the event of his stock at its book value plus ten per cent, established in the manner above set forth for the purpose of conveying the stock to the survivors in the said corporation.

Article V.—The capital stock of this corporation may be increased to the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00) and a vote of two-thirds of all of the stock, at a meeting called for that purpose.

The option of right shall not be exercised by the stockholders within the date of the death of the said stockholder.

Article VI.—All the corporate powers of this corporation shall be vested in and exercised by a Board of Directors composed of five stockholders, a majority of whom shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and the Board of Directors shall be elected annually by the stockholders at a meeting to be held on the second Monday of January in each year, and the stockholders to be elected shall be entitled to elect a Board of Directors, who shall serve until the election of their successors.

Each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote for every share owned by him or her; all elections shall be held under such rules and regulations as may be determined by the Board of Directors. At all meetings, all questions shall be determined by a majority represented by the stockholders, and the Board of Directors shall continue in office for one year and until their successors shall have been duly elected and qualified in their stead.

The Board of Directors shall have the right to elect and fill the office of a Secretary and a Treasurer, and they shall appoint such other officers, clerks, agents and employees as may be necessary and proper and dismiss the same at their pleasure.

Article VII.—This corporation shall be authorized to commence business at once, when ever this corporation is organized, its liquidation or from any cause, its affairs shall be liquidated by three commissioners to be elected from among the stockholders at a general meeting convened for that purpose at least thirty days prior notice in writing to each daily newspaper and by publication in one of the newspapers shall remain in force. The said business and affairs of the corporation shall have been liquidated. In case of a vacancy in the number of commissioners, the stockholders shall fill the vacancy.

Article VIII.—This act of incorporation may be changed, modified or amended or this corporation may be dissolved at a general meeting of the stockholders convened for that purpose after thirty days' prior notice, to each stockholder, in writing, and by publication in one of the daily newspapers in New Orleans.

Article IX.—No stockholder shall ever be held liable or responsible for contracts of this corporation or for the faults thereof in any further sum or for the faults thereof in any shares of stock subscribed for by him, or the effect of rendering this charter null or of exposing a stockholder to any liability beyond said unpaid balance due on stock.

The following named persons shall constitute and follow named persons shall be the first Board of Directors and shall hold office until the first Monday in January, 1915, or until their successors are hereby elected and qualified. To-wit: Joseph Vaccaro, Business, Queen & Crescent Blvd.; Felix P. CHARTER OF TROPICAL ICE COMPANY, INC.

OF TROPICAL ICE COMPANY, INC. United States of America, State of Louisiana, Parish of Orleans, City of New Orleans.

Be it known, That on this 14th day of the month of December, in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fourteen, and of the Independence of the United States of America the One Hundred and Thirty-Ninth, Before me, Philip Joseph Paterno, a Notary Public, duly commissioned and qualified in and for the Parish of Orleans, and in the presence of the witnesses hereinafter named and undersigned, personally came and appeared the several persons hereinafter named and undersigned, all residents of the City of New Orleans, and all of the full age of majority, who severally declared that, availing themselves of the laws of the State of Louisiana and particularly of the provisions of the Act No. 267 of the General Assembly of 1914, relative to the formation of corporations, they have covenanted and agreed, and do hereby present do covenant and agree, to form themselves, their successors and assigns, to form themselves into a corporation and body politic for the objects and purposes, and under the stipulations following.

Article I.—The name and title of this corporation shall be The Tropical Ice Company, Inc., and under this name it shall have power and authority to corporate existence and to continue for a period of ninety-nine years from the date hereof, and shall have and exercise for the purpose of the business to be carried on by it, all the powers and authority conferred by law on similar corporations, including power to make and use a corporate seal, and the same to break or change at pleasure, to contract, sue and be sued in its corporate name, to own, hold, receive, purchase, alienate, lien, convey, mortgage, hypothecate, pledge or otherwise dispose of real and personal property, and to establish such by-laws, rules and regulations as may be necessary and proper, and the same to amend, alter and abolish at pleasure, and generally to do and perform all such acts as may be proper and necessary to carry out and execute the purposes of this corporation.

Article II.—The domicile of this corporation shall be in the City of New Orleans, State of Louisiana. Citation and all legal process shall be served upon the President, and in his absence or inability to act, upon the Vice-President, and in his absence or inability to act, upon the Treasurer.

Article III.—The objects and purposes for which this corporation is organized and the general nature of the business to be conducted by it are hereby declared to be: The manufacturing, purchasing and selling of ice, distilled water, and generally to do and perform all such acts as may be proper and necessary to carry out and execute the purposes of this corporation.

Article IV.—The capital stock of this corporation is hereby fixed at the sum of One Hundred and Seventy-Five Thousand Dollars, divided into Seventy-Five Hundred and Fifty Shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars each, to be paid for in cash or its equivalent in labor or property.

The capital stock of this corporation may be increased to Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars.

Article V.—Transfer of stock shall be made only on the books of the corporation, subject to such regulations as may be adopted by the Board of Directors may prescribe. Any stockholder wishing to sell his stock must offer the same in writing to the other stockholders, through the Board of Directors, at a price not exceeding the book value thereof, and he shall have a period of ten days to accept or refuse to purchase all or a part of the shares of stock so offered, and if he does not so accept or refuse within that period, he shall be deemed to have accepted the offer, and he shall have thirty days in which to deliver to the stockholder offering his stock at a price less than that at which it was offered, or to the other stockholders at such reduced price in the same above set forth. Any sale or transfer made by a stockholder in violation of this article shall be void and no transfer of stock shall be made on the books of the corporation unless the provisions thereof are strictly complied with.

Article VI.—All the corporate powers of this corporation shall be vested in and exercised by a Board of Directors to be composed of five stockholders, who shall be elected by ballot. The first election shall be held on the first Monday of January, 1915, and annually thereafter on the first Monday in January in each year, and the stockholders to be elected shall be entitled to elect a Board of Directors, who shall serve until the election of their successors.

Each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote for every share owned by him or her; all elections shall be held under such rules and regulations as may be determined by the Board of Directors. At all meetings, all questions shall be determined by a majority represented by the stockholders, and the Board of Directors shall continue in office for one year and until their successors shall have been duly elected and qualified in their stead.

The Board of Directors shall have the right to elect and fill the office of a Secretary and a Treasurer, and they shall appoint such other officers, clerks, agents and employees as may be necessary and proper and dismiss the same at their pleasure.

Article VII.—This corporation shall be authorized to commence business at once, when ever this corporation is organized, its liquidation or from any cause, its affairs shall be liquidated by three commissioners to be elected from among the stockholders at a general meeting convened for that purpose at least thirty days prior notice in writing to each daily newspaper and by publication in one of the newspapers shall remain in force.
