For the Children

Miss Katherine Brown, Five-year-old Swimmer.

One of the features at a recent water carnival held at College Point, N. Y., was the swimming feats of Miss Katherine Brown, the five-year-old daughter of Commodore Al Brown, the champion long distance swimmer of the world. The little tot not alone swam a hundred yards in fast time, but performed some remarkable diving stunts from a thirty-five foot stand especially erected for the occasion. Miss Brown has been swimming since she was three years old and is considered a water marvel for her age. She does not alone use the breast stroke while swimming, but can use the crawl and the trudgen as well. The illustration shows Miss Brown on the diving board showing some of her little friends how to begin the breast stroke. No need to say the listeners are paying strict attention to her advice.

A Potato Race.

Children of all ages (except the baby) enjoy greatly a potato race. Two rows of potatoes are laid along the ground for a distance of a hundred feet or so, about five feet apart. A basket or pail is placed at the end of the row from which the contestants start. Two persons begin together, each having a spoon, and they must pick up the potatoes, one at a time, on the spoon without touching it with the hand, and carry it safely and drop it in the basket. One may select the potatoes in any order one pleases, but must make a separate trip for each potato. Sometimes they flip the potatoes from a distance, but if it falls short it must be picked up and placed in the basket. Whoever gets his potatoes in first is the winner of these two; then two others enter the contest. After all the company have had their turn the winners are pitted against each other until there is only one remaining, who is pronounced the champion.

Hidden Pet Puzzle.

By taking the initial letter of a one syllable word from each of the following sentences and writing them together correctly the name of a certain kind of four footed pet will be spelled: Aim at the sun and you'll reach the moon.

Few gems are as rare as the pearl. Art is a long and tedious study. A gentle nag is the children's friend. When given an inch do not take a mile. Sweet is the bread one can earn for himself. Always look well before leaping. Answer.—Spaniel.

Riddle.

I may be made of brass, paper or wood. I may live for a century or be easily defaced and lost. I am given as a token of love, and yet the sight of me may cause sorrow. Sometimes I hold a stream, a tree, a bird and a bush; sometimes I hold only a face. I may look like you or like your friend. I may be black or white and so small I may be seen in your eye. Answer.—A picture.

Fern Dust.

We tiptoed through the forest One bright midsummer night, And there we found a clearing Aglow with fairy light. We spied a little elf man, With a tiny, shiny pall, And he was singing, "Fern dust, Fern dust for sale!"

He said us each a painful To sprinkle in our shoe. We paid him for it, gladly, With a bunch of meadow rue. And then we heard a rustling, A whispering in the breeze, And the laughter of the fairies Who danced beneath the trees.

We pitter pattered homeward, And my, but we felt queer! For not a soul could see us, And not a soul could hear. As, fairy-like, we tripped it, And scarcely touched the ground— The magic fern dust hid us, And stilled the smallest sound.

But when we woke next morning, The fern dust had all gone; Had vanished with the fairies In the misty light of dawn. But we shall find that elf man With his tiny, shiny pall, For we'll hear him singing, "Fern dust, Fern dust for sale!" —St. Nicholas.

Became Confounded.

"A book agent dropped in to see me this morning," said the man at the desk. "Was he one of those 'confounded' book agents?" asked the caller. "Not at first. But he was when I told him that I already owed his firm for a set of books on which I hadn't made a payment in six months." —Birmingham Age-Herald.

A Rain Soaked Summit.

Little Boy Who Won a Prize in a Baby Parade.

Clifford A. Halstead is the name of the little boy herewith pictured. Clifford lives in New Jersey, and he recently won a prize at the annual baby parade held at Asbury Park. He represents Cupid, the god of love, and his costume, or lack of it, was considered the best in the fifth division of the famous baby carnival. Twenty-five years ago Asbury Park held its first baby parade, and as this was the quarter century anniversary a special effort was made to eclipse all that had preceded it. Everybody who was present said that the affair was the best that they had ever seen. There were hundreds of babies in line, and each was out for the prize. As said before, Clifford won in his division, but it is doubtful if he appreciated the compliment. He doesn't appear exactly at his ease. His mother, however, was very proud.

Importance of Little Things.

A friend once called upon Michelangelo while he was finishing a statue. Some time afterward he called again. The sculptor was still at the same work. His friend, looking at the figure, exclaimed, "You have been idle since I saw you last!"

"By no means," answered Angelo. "I have retouched the statue here and polished it there. I have softened this feature and brought out this muscle. I have given more expression to the lip and more energy to the limb."

"But," said his friend, "these are all trifles."

"It may be so," replied Angelo, "but remember that trifles make perfection and perfection is no trifle."

Conundrums.

Why is a steam engine at a fire an anomaly? Because it works and plays at the same time.

What word of five letters is it, of which two being removed, only one will remain? St-one.

Why is a fly taller than most men? Because he stands over six feet without shoes or stockings.

Why should a false friend never leave his house? Because you might look in and find him out.

When is a man hospitable and a cheat at the same time? When he takes you in.

Why is a divinity student like a merchant? Because he studies the prophets (profits).

Boston.

The following amusing game is called "Boston." Any number of persons may play this game. Every one must sit in a ring and then receive a number. One player is put in the middle of the circle and blindfolded; then she calls any two numbers, according to the numbers in the game. The two persons whose numbers were called should change seats before the one who is blindfolded can get to the seats. If the one in the center calls "Boston," every one should change their seats, and the one in the center should try to get a seat.

Persimmons.

Aquila Forepine one day Met Peter Possum by the way; The latter seemed in haste, for he Was going toward the 'simmon tree.

"Oh, have you heard," said Peter P. "What luscious fruit grows on yon tree? The frost we had on yester night Will make the 'simmons taste just right."

"To fill my basket I have come To find the little chips at home, And I must hurry, for I'm late." And so the two improved their gait.

When Peter scampered up the tree And shook the 'simmons—one, two, three— Aquila stayed upon the ground And ate the best that could be found.

At last, when Peter did descend, He scarcely recognized his friend, For on the end of every spine Was stuck a 'simmon, large and fine.

To eat them all he vainly tried, Then rolled himself on every side, Till scarce a plum could Peter see For his expectant family. —Youth's Companion.

Wrecked.

"Hello, old chap! Heard the latest about Brown?"

"No. What's that?"

"Why, he had a terrible accident the other night. He had his brain wrecked."

"Good heavens! How did it happen?"

"Oh, he let a train of thought run through it."

Their Life.

"Tramps vegetate, don't they?" "Certainly. Aren't they beats?" —Baltimore American.

Two Small Persons Lead Wedding March.

The interesting young couple here pictured represented a bride and groom leading the wedding march at the annual baby show at Asbury Park, N. J. Also they won the prize in the fourth division of the parade. That means, of course, that the judges considered this bridal couple the best feature of the whole division. Quite a compliment for the youthful pair! The groom is bashful looking, as is usually the case in a real grown up wedding, while the bride is demure and serene. That also is the usual demeanor of brides. A handsome couple they are, and they won the prize on their merits. That's what everybody who saw the parade said.

Russian "Follow the Leader."

Russian boys and girls have a form of "follow the leader" that is well adapted to the fall and winter months in northern latitudes. Since it requires fast running, it offers a good way to get warm on a cold day.

Any number of players can take part. A circle large enough to contain all of the players without crowding is drawn in the middle of the playground. That is the goal. The choice of a leader is made by "counting out." The boy who is chosen starts the game by running about in the circle and tagging one after another of his comrades. Each one falls behind the leader, at the same time tagging another player, who also falls in line and tags another. This is continued until every one is in line. The leader then starts away, followed by the rest of the players, running in Indian file. The run continues at the discretion of the leader, who finally halts at a point some distance from the starting place and calls out, "To the goal!" At this signal the players break from the line and run, leader and all, helter skelter, pell-mell, back to the circle. The player who reaches it first has the privilege of leading the next run.—Youth's Companion.

Brooklyn and New York.

An enjoyable and interesting out of door game is entitled Brooklyn and New York. At least eight players are required. Two sides of an equal number of players are chosen, one called Brooklyn and the other New York. A space is marked off at one end of the playground, called home. Once in this space a player is safe.

One side retires while the other plans what to have, such as mowing grass, dressing for a party, etc.—something of action each time. Then the other side is called, and both stand in line with about five feet between them. The side decided upon to give the phrase gives the first letter of each word in it, such as for mowing grass, "m g," etc. Then each member of that side makes the action the phrase indicates, and the other side tries to guess the phrase, and, if it does, the other side runs for home, trying not to be caught by any one on the opposing side. If any one is caught he is then a member of that side.

A Bundle Race.

The following is a very exciting and amusing game. It is called a "bundle race" and is very appropriate for a party:

Several small gifts are wrapped up in paper and stuffed with excelsior or cotton wadding so as to make them large and bulky. The players are each given a spoon and a bundle and told to make the circuit of the room five or ten times, carrying the bundle on the spoon without dropping it.

The player who completes the rounds successfully wins the small prize contained in the bundle. The others compete over and over till each has successfully made the rounds.

Walk the Rope.

"Walking the tight rope" is an interesting game for indoors. Lay a piece of white twine along the floor, give a person a pair of opera glasses, let him focus the glasses on the string, then reverse the glasses, looking through the large end of the glasses, and try to "walk the rope." The resulting attempts are often very amusing, and a favor may be given to the one doing it best.

Charade.

My first is an immature man, And easily guesses this you can. On my second he'll lie As the night passes by. Both together make trade's greatest ban. Answer.—Boy, cot—boycott.

Candidate For Congress.

The constitution says, "No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years."

This would seem to mean that one may run for congress before he is twenty-five, provided the election day comes on or after the candidate's twenty-fifth birthday.—New York American.

A Cannibal God.

Fijian cannibals worship a god named Mata Waloo, who has eight stomachs and is always eating.

For Young Folks

Girls Masquerade as Cowboys For Charity.

New York society folks recently held a circus on Long Island, New York, to raise funds for charity. Piping Rock, where the entertainment was held, is a most exclusive place, and only the most select are welcome. The circus was a pronounced success, and a large sum of money was raised. Among the many interesting exhibits was a group of young girls who posed as cowboys and performed in a most daring and skillful manner the feats of horsemanship commonly attributed to the cow-punchers of the plains. They rode their ponies in races, jumped hurdles and threw the lasso in real cowboy fashion. The young girl here pictured is Miss Helen Leeming, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff Leeming of New York city. She is standing on the back of her pony, the stirrup straps crossed over the back of her horse. She was saluting the grand stand occupants when the camera man snapped her.

Penny For Your Thoughts.

Provide each player with pencil and paper and a penny. The hostess explains that the answers to the following questions are things which are found on each penny. An old fashioned cent, not a Lincoln penny, must be used. A prize may be awarded to the person guessing the greatest number of correct answers.

- An emblem of victory (laurel wreath).
- An emblem of royalty (crown).
- An Arabian fruit (date).
- A spring flower (tulip—two lips).
- A portion of a hill (brow).
- A portion of a river (mouth).
- A messenger (one cent—sent).
- A piece of armor (shield).
- Mode of ancient punishment (stripes).
- Means of inflicting it (lashes).
- Something to be found in school (pencil).

- Three weapons (three arrows).
- An animal (hare—hair).
- A part of a stove (lid).
- Plenty of assurance (cheek).
- The first American settler (Indian).
- Part of a duck (feathers).
- A place of worship (temple).
- Two sides of a vote (eyes and nose—eyes and noses).

Musical Puzzle.

In each sentence a term used in music or the name of a musical instrument may be found. The letters spelling the names are in order.

1. When was the club organized?
2. Violets have an exquisite odor.
3. The boy must be careful after his knife is sharpened.
4. He cast a net into the stream.
5. Did Lulu tell of the accident?
6. Pro and con certify whether you are for or against the measure.
7. He sped altogether too fast for such a busy street.
8. The lamb and the dog were companions.

Answers: 1, organ; 2, viol; 3, harp; 4, castanet; 5, lute; 6, concert; 7, pedal; 8, band.

Weatherwise Birds.

The seagull makes a splendid living barometer. If a covey of seagulls fly seaward early in the morning sailors and fishermen know that the day will be fine and the wind fair, but if the birds keep inland, though there be no haze hanging out toward the sea to denote unpleasant weather, interested folk know that the elements will be unfavorable.

When Willie Minds the Baby.

I betcha Skinny Martin An' Patty Wilson, too, An' Walter Gray an' Oscar Ayer An' even Sissy Puzh Are out there plannin' somethin' I haven't ever done. I don't know what, but ennyhow They're gonta have some fun.

I guess they're all a-sayin': "I wonder where he's at? He ain't been out this afternoon." Or somethin' else like that. But let 'em keep on whistlin'. I guess it's jest as well. If things keeps up th' way they go A feller shouldn't tell.

Wish I'd been borned a orphan Without no kin at all; I wouldn't have 't stuck around An' hear a youngun squall. There ain't much use a-bein' A boy, as I kin see. If you have always got 't have Too many folks—like me. —New York Times.

Tart Repartes.

Of Sir William Harcourt, Disraeli once said in his affectedly cynical way, "He has the three essential qualifications of success in politics—a fine person, a loud voice and no principles." To this when it was repeated to him Harcourt rejoined, "Leaving out the first two qualifications, it might almost be applied to 'Dizzy' himself."

A Pessimist.

"Say, pop, what's a pessimist?" "A pessimist, my son, is one who of two evils chooses them both."
