OUR LAST NOTE.

In his last note to Carranza does our President prove practical and definite? Is he playing only a diapason note for diplomatic purposes? Wilson's so-called ultimatum is certainly not as pointed and clear as the crucial occasion would seem to demand.

Frankly, we must confess feeling a vague sense of indefiniteness, of dimmed vacillation in the President's latest note. There appears more of rhetoric than reason.

Our nation must maintain its prestige, must preserve its high glory, its splendid ideals of other days! Citizens, soundest sense, solidest reason, pulsing purpose of dauntless patriotism—these the hour and occasion require.

We are not playing a guessing game, we cannot waste time in mere word-play! Not haziness and ambiguity, but clearness and action are needed in this testing time!

HELP OUR BABIES.

Much has already been printed about the great good accomplished by the Child's Welfare Association throughout the city of New Orleans, but notwithstanding the merits of this enterprise there is a lack of co-operation among those of our citizens who are able to assist such a worthy cause.

On the last day of this month the different organizations of our town, through their committees, are arranging for a monster entertainment to be held for the purpose of obtaining sufficient funds for the station in Algiers.

There are enrolled at the child welfare station here more than three hundred babies who are receiving the attention of the trained nurse in charge, Miss Katie Renecky, and who are also receiving (some gratis) the certified milk which is purchased for the purpose of saving the lives of the infants.

To the mothers and relatives of these three hundred infants that have been receiving treatment and milk, we make a special appeal to give help in this worthy cause. And to all those who are desirous of contributing either money, material or services, their contributions will be received with great welcome by the different committees or Mrs. J. E. Huckins.

All of the funds which are to be raised at this entertainment will be devoted solely for the benefit of the Algiers Station. Do your boosting for this great day and see if we cannot realize at least twenty-five hundred dollars for this meritorious institution.

Facts, Fun and Folly.

Hall of Fame.—On October 6th, the electors of the Hall of Fame chose the following names for places on its walls: Mark Hopkins, educator; Francis Parkman, historian; Elias Howe, inventor; Joseph Henry, man of science; Charlotte Cushman, actress; Rufus Choate, advocate and orator; Daniel Boone, pioneer.

In some of the states that now forbid the liquor traffic, the National Dairy Council is working to extend the use of milk as a beverage. Americans now spend in a year five dollars and ninety-two cents apiece for milk, and about twenty dollars apiece for alcoholic drinks.

There were big headlines and much editorial comment last month when the French Chamber of Deputies voted to call the class of 1917 to the colors. As if war ever meant anything else than calling boys to the colors!

THE WISE WIDOW.

Colonel Jiggs—I just told the widow that my love for her was as deep as the deep blue sea.

Nut—What did she say? Colonel Jiggs—She said she took it with the corresponding amount of salt.—Pittsburgh Press.

Proving It Logically. Joe Cose—I'm the soul of wit. Moe Rose—Pooh! Joe Cose—Well, brevity is, isn't it? Moe Rose—So they say. Joe Cose—Brevity means short, doesn't it? Moe Rose—Yes. Joe Cose—Well, that's me.—Browning's Magazine.

Alas. "When money talks it says goodbye!" And do you know the reason why? Because it's built in such a shape it cannot help but make escape. If it's a coin, how can it stay? "Money is round and rolls away." And banknotes are so light and thin they naturally "blow them in!"—Pittsburgh Press.

Fitted For It. "I hear our shoemaker has gone in for missionary work and preaches reform to all his customers." "Well, he ought to be successful after all the practice he's had in saving people's soles."—Baltimore American.

Main Point. Passenger—Man overboard, captain! We've thrown him life preservers. Captain—Lower a boat, boys, and pick up them life preservers.—Exchange.

Business Efficiency. "Young man," said the village merchant, "you can't unload any of your substitute stuff on yours truly. I know what I want."

"But, my dear sir," calmly replied the knight of the sample case, "I'm afraid you are not wise to the advantages of our educational campaign. We are spending a half million annually for the purpose of teaching the public to buy what we have to sell."—Cleveland Press.

Artless Child! Six-year-old Melvina Souder, told to take a sedilite powder. Let 'em go down in Indian file—Some of her pieces went a mile!—Judge.

A Misfit. Jack—Yes, poor John may have had his faults, but his heart was on the right side. Waggs—Is it possible! No wonder he died!—Exchange.

Comparison. "Why do you liken De Broke to the busy bee? He isn't particularly industrious, is he?" "Oh, no; it isn't that. But nearly every one he touches gets stung."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Shop Talk. She—I've heard that men prefer to make love to short girls rather than to tall girls. He (a broker)—Yes; it's the shorts you always hear of as getting squeezed.—Boston Transcript.

Helpless. He never smiles. At freakish antics. Although, 'tis true, they're rare. Instead he sweats. And then despair. They're followed by his wife. —Birmingham Age-Herald.

That Tired Feeling. He—But doesn't my devotion arouse in you some feeling for me? She—Oh, yes; the sort of feeling one takes a tonic for in the spring.—Boston Transcript.
