Church of the Holy Name of Mary

PERSONAL. Very Rev. Father Stenmans, formerly of Gretna, now stationed at St. John's Church, St. James parish, was the guest of Very Rev. Father Larkin, S. M., last Monday.

With better weather the attendance at the Lenten Devotions has increased, but it is not what it should really be yet.

Services. Friday—Stations, 3:15 for children, 7:30 for adults. Saturday (St. Patrick's Day)—Mass, benediction and hymns at 7 o'clock.

Services. Sunday—Masses at 5, 7 and 9; high mass with sermon at 10:30; baptisms from 3 to 4; illustrated lecture at 3:30; rosary, sermon and benediction at 7:30; benediction for children at 3:15.

Services. Wednesday—Rosary, sermon and benediction at 7:30. Sunday—Communications: Holy Name Society at 5 o'clock mass, Holy Name Juniors, Children of Mary, Seniors and Juniors, at 7 o'clock mass.

Lenten Lectures. Last Sunday's lecture was a treat. Brother Fulgentius of Holy Cross College was kind enough to give his famous lecture on "Ben Hur."

First Communion. On Monday, St. Joseph's Day, at the 7 o'clock mass, forty of our little children will make their first communion.

Meetings. Thursday—Holy Name Society regular meeting in the church and in the hall. Come all. Business of special importance to all will be transacted.

THIRD DISTRICT FERRY FRANCHISE

This afternoon, at 3 o'clock, Hon. E. J. Glenn, Commissioner of Public Utilities, will take up with Algiers citizens the matter of the new ferry franchise for the Third District.

The request of the citizens of Algiers for better and cheaper service is made with a view to the future commercial development of our side of the river, as well as with a view to remedy present conditions, which are little short of intolerable.

The question of ferriage is a serious matter for consideration, and we have good cause to feel encouraged that Commissioner Glenn, under whose authority and jurisdiction the franchise will be drawn and sold, will give us a hearing and an opportunity to present our side of the case and explain our views.

We have received information that a quasi-private meeting was recently held by a few business people of our district at the residence of one of our esteemed business men, at which meeting certain suggestions were made for municipal ownership of the Third District Ferry. While it is unfortunate that these business men have not seen fit to join the popular movement already on foot to secure better ferry service for Algiers, it is equally and more regrettable that at this time we cannot have municipal ownership of this ferry, as it will require a legislative act to create a ferry commission for the purpose of purchasing and operating a ferry, and under the circumstances, it is up to us to do the next best thing we can until such arrangement can be made as will permit the city to take over and operate the ferries.

While the Herald has been fighting the ferry conditions for quite a few years back, it is glad to be able to say that our citizens have rallied to its assistance, and, furthermore, proud to state that in this latest movement it has with it men who are actuated by none but the most sincere motives and highest ideals, men who have the interest of their community at heart.

And now for the plot. Oh, well, Peggy is one of those gay and light-hearted young ladies who is always getting herself into trouble all of a sudden. She means well, but many times appearances are against her, and some of her explanations are clever and ludicrous.

At the night service there was a large congregation, many of whom had not been attending services. The subject was "A Grateful Convert," and was based upon the announcing of Jesus by a pardoned woman, recorded in Luke 7: 36-50.

The work of the Sewing Circle is rapidly growing. At the meeting Monday afternoon the ladies worked earnestly to complete the articles which had been requested by the pastor. A few who were unable to attend made the garments at their homes.

Divine services will be held on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock and Sunday morning at 8 o'clock. A special offering will be taken at the door after the service of Thursday evening for our Jubilee Church Extension Fund.

On the evening of March 27 Rev. E. Schmidt will deliver a lecture in our church on the "Life of Luther," the lecture being accompanied by stationary pictures. We would cordially invite everyone to enjoy this lecture with us. To defray the expenses a silver offering will be taken.

People of Algiers do not be mistaken, this is a real play. This is a real, genuine, guaranteed laugh-producing comedy. And those who cannot stand two hours of strenuous hilarity are requested not to come for the company does not want any accidents to happen.

The principal actor is Mr. Lionel Adams, son of Lionel Adams, attorney, New Orleans. He is well and most favorably known in New Orleans and the professional stage has no better actor. He plays his part with an understanding and a refinement which is most pleasing.

Mr. Vallery Barras is a professional of many years' standing, and his portrayal of the somewhat broken down English lord is realistic and well-sustained. He's a real real English Lord, don't che know, and remains so during the whole play.

Old reliable John McCloskey will surprise all his numerous admirers. Those who remember his clear impersonation of the society, aspiring tatonator know that John is good and that he will draw laughs out of people who will never be forgotten. Those present were Mmes. Wier, Warren, Wells, Perron, Summers and Daniels and Miss Irva Daniels.

BELLEVILLE NOTES. There will be a most interesting lecture to-night at Belleville Annex, to which the public in general is invited. All who are in any way interested in the welfare of the children of our district should attend.

Fearlessness a Virtue. From one cause or another we shrink from the responsibility of avowing our deepest convictions. Partly it is from the fear of ostentation and singularity, partly from self-distrust and sincere humility, partly from more unworthy motives.

For the Bird Cage. Attractive are new brackets of enameled iron which may be attached to the wall, near a window support the hanging bird cage. So. of these brackets are enameled bright yellow and a gay little yellow bird, supposed to be a canary, perches on the end of the bracket arm.

To Revive the Draggled Fern. Watering Boston ferns with weak tea instead of water will cause them to thrive wonderfully. When lice appear on ferns stick some sulphur matches head down in soil.

Worth While Quotation. "He who comes up to his own idea of greatness must have always had a very low standard of it in his mind."—Hazlitt.

Fine Field. Madge—"Did you have anything to talk about at the club meeting?" Marjorie—"Lots! On account of the storm there were only three of us present."—Judge.

"Cuisine" Quail. "Where is the best place for quail?" Nimrod asks us, and in the absence of the sporting editor we venture to reply, "On toast."—Browning's Magazine.

Why. "Why is it we don't hear any more complaints about defective life preservers on ships?" "Nobody has time to put them on."—Judge.

The Golden Shower

"Come in—and welcome!" spoke John Valentine heartily. The man addressed looked surprised at the sincere greeting.

He was a tramp. None of the signs failed in his presentation. He was ragged, lame, thin, pallid, hungry-looking. He slouched into the kitchen with an uneasy stare at Mrs. Valentine, as though her consent were necessary, but as she nodded to him pleasantly his face cleared.

"You're good folks—just that!" he said, in a tone quite husky. "I've traveled twenty-five miles since morning. I've applied to twenty places in town here for a bite of food and was turned down at all of them. You're blessed people."

"Give the man his supper, Nellie," directed John. She bestowed a faltering, questioning look at him, but he did not respond to it, saying simply: "There's the cold meat, Nellie. That, with the bread and butter and a cup of coffee, will set you on your pins—hey, neighbor?"

"Will it?" cried the pensioner with brightening eyes. "Say—was you ever real hungry?" "Well, probably not," answered John steadily.

"Oh, John! John!" whispered Nellie reproachfully as she passed him on the way to the pantry. The tramp squared to the table with glistening eyes. There was a plate of cold meat—not overloaded—four slices of bread and a cup of coffee.

"We have no milk—can you drink the coffee without it?" asked Nellie. "Can I! Oh, this is luxury!" gloated the tramp. John went into the pantry. He came out to set before their guest a small dish of apple sauce.

Then he smiled, broadly and benignly. It did him good to see the

Every person should remember that it is essential to health to ventilate a bedroom properly; but many people do not do this, even during the summer time.

Impurities of the body are thrown off when people sleep exactly as much as when they are awake. Yet scores of men and women forget apparently that there is any need of an exit for the impure breath or that it is essential to have a source of fresh air.

On retiring, the bedroom windows should be raised from the bottom and lowered from the top. If there are two windows, raise one from the bottom and lower the other from the top. The one raised should be toward the side from which the wind is blowing. The lowered one should be on the other side.

If the room has a window or windows on one side only, it often is necessary to open the transom on the other side of the room or perhaps leave the door open a few inches to create a current of air.

Did He Get a "Handout"? Many words of housewifery wisdom had her mother imparted to the fair young bride, on all subjects from managing husbands to tackling tramps.

He was a particularly dirty looking specimen, but he had told the tale with the pathos of an expert. The youthful house mistress felt touched, but determined to follow her mother's precepts.

"Now, my man," she said when he had finished, "I will give you something to eat if you will take that chop-pee!" "Oh, mmm, I shan't need it," the tramp reassured her. "My teeth are all right."
