New Definition.

"The study of etymology," says the Philadelphia Record, "causes no end of trouble among that class of school children whose knowledge of English is limited to words which figure in the ordinary street conversation, and many curious results have followed. The custom usually observed by the teachers is to require such a definition of the word, then its derivation, and finally a sentence in which the word is properly used. The word 'ignominy' led to the lot of a rather diffident boy recently. He defined it properly as 'a band,' but followed up the correct derivation with this remarkable sentence: 'I was wakened up last night by hearing a brass ligament going down the street.'

Achievement. Undertake some big job and then keep everlastingly at it, to it, on it, by it, in it, until you finally get through it.

Attenuated Birthright. Any American boy may be president of the United States some day, but when convention time rolls around there are mighty few eligible candidates.

Have Prejudice Against Stoves. Native cooks in Ecuador are prejudiced against stoves, saying the excessive heat produces fever.

DIED.

Marcicante.—On Thursday, May 3, at 3 o'clock p. m., Mrs. Anthony Marcicante died at the Touro Infirmary. Deceased, who was Miss Louise Vass before her marriage, was born in New Orleans twenty-six years ago. For the past six years she has resided in our district. Besides her husband, deceased leaves three children. The funeral took place Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock from her late residence, 520 Bouny Street. Interment was in Metairie Cemetery.

O'Driscoll.—Thomas F. O'Driscoll, a former well-known Texas and Pacific Railroad employe, died last week in Oklahoma, where he has been for some time, and the body was brought home Thursday. Deceased was thirty-five years old and a native of McDonoughville. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Daniel O'Driscoll, nee Mary Devine; two brothers and two sisters. The funeral took place Friday afternoon, interment being made in the McDonough Cemetery.

Gravois.—Military honors were accorded L. E. Gravois, the youth who accidentally killed himself at his home, the funeral taking place Thursday afternoon and interment being made in St. Bartholomew Cemetery. Bishop Laval officiated. There was a military escort from Battery F of the Washington Artillery, of which the young man was a member. Corporal P. A. Dayries was in command. The following privates of Battery F acted as pallbearers: H. B. Curtis, S. E. Owen, M. Goldberg, R. Smith, A. Marion and H. Malocher.

Kelly.—On Saturday at 10 o'clock a. m. Owen L. Kelly, a former resident of our town died. Deceased was the son of Margaret Reilly and the late Thos. Kelly. The funeral was held Sunday from his late residence, 932 Julia street.

Fumed Oak. A good method of producing the peculiar dark brown of old oak is by fumigation with liquid ammonia. The wood should be placed in a dark and airtight room, and half a pint or so of ammonia poured into an open dish placed upon the ground. The gas that comes from the ammonia acts in a wonderful manner upon the tannic acid in the wood, and browns it so deeply that a shaving or two may be taken off without removing the color. The depth of shade will depend upon the quantity of ammonia used and the time allowed for the operation. Other methods may be used to obtain a similar result. Liquid ammonia may be laid on the wood with a brush or rag, and the color will deepen immediately. Potash bicarbonate, dissolved in cold water, will produce a similar effect. In Germany, the cabinet makers use very strong coffee for darkening oak. To make it very dark, use iron filings with a little sulphuric acid and water, put on with a sponge, and allow it to dry between each application, until the right hue is reached.

Begin to See Daylight. The doctors may disagree over the origin of pellagra (they disagree about most things), but the theory of the public health service is reasonable enough. We are largely what we eat, says the Boston Daily Advertiser. Diseases that once were fatal are now treated absolutely by diet and treated successfully, as all physicians agree. Perhaps, in another generation, the drug store will be a food shop. Instead of paregoric or castor oil, the family doctor will prescribe orange juice or lettuce. Every child will know the relative importance of fats, proteins and carbohydrates. A new generation will circulate pledges against sugar and pie crust. Both have slain their thousands and tens of thousands, and sugar has killed more Americans than rattlesnakes ever did. Many a man takes far more worry over the lubricating oil he uses on his motor car than on the fuel he shovels into his digestive motor. We call this a civilized age, but in the matter of food and food frauds, we have just begun emerging from the stone age.

Service is a Hard One. Naval air mechanics are accomplished swimmers, and possess a constitution of iron. When the navy's great seaplanes are launched the mechanics generally have to wade up to their necks into the water to maneuver the machine from the snore. To plunge into icy-cold water in the half light of dawn is not a pleasant task, yet it is one which the sailor mechanics have to carry out almost daily. In rough seas the waves break over their heads, and the seaplane they are maneuvering is tossed about like a cork. Yet in true naval spirit the mechanics of the naval air service carry out their hazardous duties cheerfully.

Destroying Germs. Chemists employed by hospitals have found that disease germs die quickly on certain building materials. It has been found by the tests made that the strongest or most resistant germs perish within a day when placed on the surface of linoleum. This is due to the large quantity of linseed oil used with the cork in making linoleum. Tests have also shown that it is the use of linseed oil as a binding medium which gives to many wall paints their claim of being effective for hospital use. It is claimed that as the oil leaves the paints they lose their powers of sterilization.

Thunder at Sea. The Astronomical Society of France has again taken up the discussion which has been before it on several previous occasions, and that is the statement that thunder is never heard at sea. The statement was originally attributed to Baron von Humboldt, and it has been frequently questioned, but those who insist that they have heard thunder at sea have also stated that the peals were no loud as on land. A large number of seamen have been found to agree with the scientist, although it is suggested that the other noises prevailing on shipboard during a storm may be the reason why the thunder often passes unnoticed.

Austria and Germany use more aluminum for war purposes than all the other warring nations combined. It has been known, in fact, that Germany has for some years been collecting and storing the metal for war uses.

The great majority of the drinking mugs, cans and cups of the German soldier are made of the light metal. The frames for Zeppelins and the fuses for shells are made from aluminum.

One of the difficulties the Germans have had to face is the shortage of copper necessary for the rings around shells. Many of the German shells are now provided with aluminum rings.

Although aluminum does make a substitute, even in cartridges as well as shells and fuses, it is not so good as copper. The French authorities experimented with it some years ago for artillery purposes, but rejected it. The Germans are using it in such large quantities because they're forced to do so on account of the shortage of copper.

Chase's Valuation. William M. Chase figured amusingly in a transaction concerning himself and an unartistic congressman who owns a bad painting.

"Isn't that grand?" the latter remarked when pointing out his purchase. "A great bargain, too. Got it for four hundred dollars, and William M. Chase says it is worth ten thousand dollars."

A friend of the painter heard this statement and took it to Chase, who smilingly explained: "He cornered me one day and wanted me to fix a value on it, but I told him I couldn't do it. He then came at me with a question I couldn't dodge: 'Well, Mr. Chase, how much would you charge to paint a picture like that?'"

"I assured him most earnestly that I wouldn't paint one like it for ten thousand dollars."

Snooping Spinners. "Queer how nervous elderly maiden ladies get."

"Isn't it? Why, I have an aunt who lives near a river would look under the bed of it every night before going to sleep."—Boston Transcript.
