

At The Playhouses

TULANE THEATER

Following the production this week of what has been properly declared to be the biggest musical play that New Orleans has seen in many seasons, the Joseph Peck company will commence Sunday, September 24, present the "Gingerbread Man," another extravaganza with a punch. The company now numbers more than 100 people and is augmented by the Jass Band and other features, both singing and dancing.

"The Gingerbread Man" is distinctly a spectacular musical play and offers opportunities for both musical and vocal extravaganza, advantage of which has been taken by the producers of the new Tulane offering.

Manager Campbell believes that the company now playing at the Tulane offers every advantage to playgoers here, and he has, for that reason, made it possible for every one to take advantage of the offer by placing the prices within reach of all. The matinees Wednesdays and Saturdays are 25 cents to 50 cents and night prices run from 25 cents to $1. "Let's Go" runs through the week and on Sunday night "Gingerbread Man" starts its week.

at home and abroad, Loew's Universal Weekly, showing events all over America, Mutt and Jeff, Cartoon Comics, comedy productions from the big "movie" studios, and other features. The features of all the Loew productions are the magnificence of the dress and the class of the acts.

H. N. G. C. THEATRE AND AIR-DOME SECURES LITTLE AMERICAN.

Friday night Algiers will have the opportunity of seeing the great photo classic—the Little American, in which America's sweetheart, Mary Pickford, plays or rather lives the part of Angela Moore, a typical American girl, who is fortunate enough to have been born on the glorious Fourth, the day of all days. Her chapter is not completed then and when she reaches lady frocks, which is a much sought after lady in which the Count Jules de Destin, of the French Embassy, and Karl Von Austrein, a German-American, though a reserve officer in German army, are rivals. The great war only adds greater treats and to fully appreciate the wonderful picture and the noble lessons taught, you must see the production.

The management has purchased 100 additional chairs and is putting everything in order for the occasion.

On Sunday Ann Pennington, in the "Little Soldier Girl," a Paramount production, Mutual weekly, Christie Comedy, and Bray Pictograph will be the attraction and Tuesday, Sept. 25, Roscoe Arbuckle in "The Butcher Boy" and the Paramount picture, "Seventeen."

IS THIS "YOUNG MAN'S AGE?"

Golden Period of Achievement Comes When Man Is Well Past Forty Years of Age, It Is Claimed.

"Our times are frequently called the age of the young men. But when one looks back to the revolutionary era of our country, from 1775 to 1825, and considers the striking youthfulness of the leaders of America the appellation does not appear exactly to fit," said a New York man in a recent interview.

"Nor do the men now in their twenties and thirties push the men of the forties and fifties hard enough to prove that this is pre-eminently the young man's age. Unless men of forty are considered young, this scarcely is a young man's age."

"The youngsters under thirty receive an undue degree of attention from the professions and business. A notion prevails that the latest graduate from college, technical school or university is more desirable than the man who has had post-graduate courses in life's college of experience. Best sellers, movies and magazine articles about business foster the notion. Consequently, a distressingly large number of men from twenty-five to thirty expect to be the bosses of big businesses or corresponding professions or technical vocations by the time they are thirty-five."

"Many will, if they work hard and prove to possess capacity, occupy positions of responsibility. But scarcely at thirty-five. The golden age of achievement really comes in most cases 15 years later. In fact, the present age is the age of the mature man. In literature the success today is not the man of thirty. Irvin Cobb would almost universally be considered a success in literature, but Cobb is forty-one and has not reached the fullness of his power. George Ade is fifty-one, Tarkington forty-eight, Frank Cobb, a chief writer of editorial, forty-eight. The success achieved through development of talent, hard work and sacrifice is reserved for the mature."

SEA MOSS MAKES GOOD FOOD

Made into "Laver Bread," It Is Found on Sale in All Welsh Markets Near the Coast.

The sea moss on the Irish coast, called by some "sloak," is really laver. In Ireland it is called "Sloucaun" (with the "c" hard), and "Slouc" for brevity. In Ireland, as in England, it is prepared by washing, to get rid of sand, etc., and then boiling.

When boiled, a little butter or bacon fat is added and a dash of lemon juice completes the preparation. It is eaten with fish, and by some with nuttun instead of jelly.

In Wales a great deal of laver is used, mostly in the form of "laver bread," says the London Chronicle. The boiled laver is mixed with a proportion of oatmeal and shaped into round cakes.

"Laver bread," or "lava bread," as it seems to be pronounced, is on sale in all the Welsh markets anywhere conveniently near the coast.

Good Night.

There are two brothers in Indianapolis whose names are not John and Richard Jones, but might be. Richard owns a grocery store and his telephone listing follows directly under the listing of John's residence. This conversation took place the other day between Mrs. John Jones and a voice on the wire:

"Hello, is this Jones'?"
"Yes."
"Have you got any soap?"
"Why, yes, I guess I've got a little. Why?"
"Why, I want to buy some. What do you think?"
"I've only got one cake. Who is this, anyway?"
"Isn't this Jones' grocery?"
"No."
"Good night!"—Indianapolis News.

New Use for Motorcycles.

That new uses for motorcycles are still being discovered is shown by the fact that a Californian with a big lawn to care for drives his mower with the aid of his powered cycle. After several unsuccessful attempts he devised satisfactory means of attaching the grass cutter to the front forks of his machine, and now he asserts that he can trim the lawn in about one-tenth the time formerly required. The only consideration that limits his speed apparently is the fact that the mower must be oiled frequently.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Discontent.

A certain discontent with the immediate job is one of the most common of human failings. Ninety-nine out of every hundred of us are conscious of it at intervals, or more or less continuously. There are times, and with some it is practically all the time, when we would like to do something else, be something else or be somewhere else. The grass on the other side of the road looks greener; the other fellow's job looks easier and more desirable.—Providence Journal.

Making Fire With Ice.

Take a smooth, clear, curving piece of ice, one not too thick, and hold it in the rays of the sun so that it will bring the light to a sharp focus just as will a lens in a reading glass. The ice will not last long enough to burn a piece of paper, but if the focus rests on a speck of gun cotton it will cause combustion and a flame will result. Arctic explorers have built fires often with this expedient when matches were absent and flint and rock not handy.

A Package Worthy of the Coffee
The new package for French Market Coffee is as perfect in its way as the wonderful old secret blend coffee is in its way. We couldn't improve the coffee so we improved the package. It is absolutely sanitary, lined with germ and water defying wax, triply sealed and air and moisture proof. The new package is not an economy to us because its cost is as great as the old cans, but it delivers to the consumer a pound of fragrant French Market as fresh and delicious as when it leaves the mills.
French Market Coffee
in the new carton is saving for the use of our country the millions of cans that have been used each year for French Market. The cans are badly needed, without cans our boys "Somewhere in France" can't have food, so ask for French Market in the package and help save the cans for them.
