OUR TREES AND THE BOYS

We do not know how the other sections of the city are faring with their new trees but the new decorations that are intended to some day beautify our section are meeting with every thing but encouragement for their growth. Boys of school age are busy each day destroying these beautiful shade trees, by not only cutting the bark but in many instances bending them over to such an extent so as to break them off abruptly. These boys can not be reached by the police, they are too cunning for that. We believe, however, that by talking to these boys through the church, through the school and through publications, we might by appealing to their better sense and better nature, conquer them and turn their inclination of destruction to an inclination, of preservation. Bad boys can be made manly men by the right kind of argument, by encouraging them to do certain things right.

We make another appeal to the school teachers of our district and also to the clergy and to our parents to speak to the boys about the destruction of these trees. Show them their fault in the right light and in the right manner and we will have their co-operation in helping to preserve these trees.

HELP THAT FOOD COST

Although the sack grows smaller and smaller day by day—it is not now much larger than operable galls—there is probably no more wholesome, more appetizing, more nourishing, or more digestible food you can buy to day for three times the price you pay for a sack of peanuts.

Peanuts are rich in protein. Compare them with the well-known protein foods.

Beef—Protein, 19.8 per cent; fat, 13.6; carbohydrate, none; water, 65.5. Graham Bread—Protein, 8.9 per cent; fat, 1.8; carbohydrate, 52.1; water, 35.7.

Peanuts—Protein, 25.8 per cent; fat, 38.6; carbohydrate, 23.9; water, 9.2.

Ask your butcher or your baker for one-third of the food value of a five-cent sack of peanuts, and he'll sell it to you for about 15 cents, unless he is a charter member of the profiteers.

The protein in peanuts is of a type especially adapted to replace that which the butcher deals out at such prodigious prices. It yields a liberal quantity of certain amino-acids which give meat, eggs and milk their high place in human nutrition.

Peanuts, like mince pie, cheese, lobster and other concentrated and very nourishing foods which are often taken as so much excess nourishment, have the reputation of being "difficult to digest." Anything in the way of excessive food is difficult to digest, of course, even if it be a snack of hospital broth guarded every second by a special nurse. Men whose diet consisted largely of dishes prepared from peanut flours experienced no digestive trouble, according to Bulletin 717, United States department of agriculture.

It is up to the efficient housewife to devise ways of utilizing peanuts, peanut flours and peanut butter in the bill of fare. This exceedingly economical, nourishing and digestible food should go far toward meeting the protein needs of the body which have been met at too great a cost in recent years with meat and wheat.

On Thursday last Father Larkin was the guest of the children of the parish, the occasion being his feast day. An excellent musical and dramatic entertainment was arranged by the children and their very fine showing reflected great credit on the Sisters. Many of the prominent priests of the city and country were present to felicitate the Very Reverend Rector.

The Novena in honor of St. Joseph, now in progress, is very well attended. The church is packed every evening.

The collection taken up last Sunday pleased beyond measure the devoted pastor, who is delighted to know that in the midst of so many recent drives the good people of Algiers have responded so generously to the cry for help from the home mission. The Holy Name of Mary parish, we feel sure, will again lead the diocese.

Until the opening of the mission Father McGrath will preach on Wednesday evening and Father Dougherty on Sunday evening.

Rev. C. C. Weir, Pastor: Residence, 236 Olivier; Phone, Algiers 138.

Last Sunday was one of musical interest and activity. At the morning hour the pastor's subject was the Stewardship of Money, and of course dealt with our possessions that we were allowed to hold in trust, and use according to the will of God. The matter of tithing was emphasized. After the sermon, the pastor asked for any one in the congregation who might wish to bear testimony concerning tithing. Capt. Zatarain took occasion to testify to the pleasure and satisfaction he had in tithing or paying the tenth of his earnings into the work of the Kingdom. The offer of the Hammond church was told by the pastor, which is as follows: "We the pastor and official board of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South of Hammond, La., promise to pay one hundred dollars in gold to any member of our church who will prayerfully and faithfully practice tithing for one year and then testify that he is not satisfied."

The Juniors had their usual good music, one feature being a solo by Miss Julia Cayard, in which the choir joined in the chorus. At night Mizpah Choir was to have had special anthems, but the organist Miss Etta Pettigrove, was sick and several members were absent and thus the disappointment.

The congregations were large at both services. The morning congregation was, perhaps, the largest that has attended at this hour since the present pastor has occupied the Algiers pulpit. The centenary of Methodism was presented by Mr. L. T. Dunn. Mr. E. E. Cayard presented the interest of the Methodist Association and told of the drive for new members.

The Epworth League, Mizpah Choir, and the Juniors went to the Naval Station at 3 p. m., and to the Bonner Home at 4 p. m., and held services. There were perhaps forty or fifty in the party.

The men's meeting at the parsonage, Monday night was full of interest.

The Board of Stewards held their monthly meeting and conducted routine business. The Board of Trustees held a called session and presented some matters pertaining to the parsonage. The meeting then assumed a general scope at which the matter of the new church building was the main topic. After a discussion in which Messrs. Lennox, Henning, Zatarain, Melancon and Dr. A. C. King expressed the opinion that starting work on the building should be postponed, it was unanimously accepted as the will of the body. The meeting was so interesting that it was regretted that the ladies had not been included in the call.

The Centenary of Missions was then discussed. Capt. Zatarain, chairman of Board of Stewards heartily entered into the big movement and spoke for that body. Rev. J. G. Snelien, Presiding Elder of the New Orleans District, spoke and introduced Dr. Goddard, of Nashville, Tenn. Secretary of Board of Missions. Dr. Goddard's speech was, of course the feature of the evening. His message was full of inspiration and the hope of victory. He said, that everywhere he had visited the churches, from California to Florida the movement was gripping the hearts of the people as nothing else had ever done. He thought that it was born of God and that the preachers and laymen who are entering heartily into the movement will be blessed and enlarged because they are working according to the will and plan of God, and that it marked the end of smallness in the church.

After the meeting everybody repaired to the dining room to enjoy refreshments, prepared by the committee, Mmes. Warren, Zatarain, and Miller, who were assisted in serving by Mmes. L. T. Dunn, Wier, Garrett, Lynch and the Misses Daniels. Ladies we thank most heartily.

Lent is a holy season, a time to spend with the Divine Master. We think a great deal about our work every day, let us for awhile think especially of our souls. And let us think too about the church—about our Faith; the need of Repentance and the Sacrament of The Holy Communion; about the Cross—lastly about Christ our Great Example. Lent is a time to get closer to God. The church invites us to "Come in, Rest and Worship." Let us accept the invitation and make the Lent, real and definite and spiritually—"a Lent with Jesus."

On Thursday, the Rector preached at St. John's at the evening service, taking his text from Isa. 55-6, "Seek ye the Lord while he may be found call ye upon him, while he is near."

On Friday, the Rector preached from the text "Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest awhile." St. Mark 6:31. Preaching on the subject Sabbath, Principle of Rest.

In fact he said: To-day the Butcher's Protective and Social Union is asking the church to use its influence to secure for the Butchers trade the Sabbath Rest. Like Prohibition it is another progressive movement for our city to catch up with. The church can best reply to this appeal, in the words of her Divine Founder. "The Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath." St. Mark 2, 27. And if left to public opinion, the Butchers should have their Sunday, as a day of rest, because they need it and we owe it to them. They should also have Sunday as a day of worship, because like all the rest of us sinners, they owe God something—and that something is worship. For Sunday is a day of worship as well as a day of rest.

The Campaign for a permanent fund of $3,000,000.00 in our Synod for the superannuated and incapacitated pastors, professors and teachers of our Missouri Synod and their widows or orphans is now in full swing. The only thing needed to make this drive a success is the right spirit in the heart of the Christians. And this right spirit will be found where the Gospel is believed. Let us show our gratitude for the preaching of the pure word by lending a hand that the noble and praiseworthy efforts of the Lutheran Laymen's League may be crowned with success.

Bulletins giving information concerning this campaign will be distributed Thursday evening and Sunday morning.

Our Sunday School attendance was 97 the past Sunday. Send your children and make it 100.

On Friday evening (tomorrow) the voting members meet at the parsonage. Please come and give us your help!

ENDLESS CHAIN NOT MYSTICAL. Doctor Fighting Influenza Explains How Curative Serum Went From Patient to Patient. The prevalence of influenza and pneumonia with their high death rate makes it imperative to resort to heroic methods of treatment rather than to follow the accepted ones only. The lack of serum or other specific remedy for influenza, writes Dr. Charles R. Humbert in the Medical Record, together with the inability to obtain antipneumococcus serum forced me to use convalescent serum.

The Endless Chain.—It is a well-known fact that persons convalescing from pneumonia have anti-bodies in their blood streams. As soon as the patients' condition permits, therefore, they are bled as much and as frequently as possible.

Serum is prepared and treated, and is placed in stock. When another patient comes in with pneumonia, treatment is begun. When convalescence sets in the above procedure is repeated. It is a case of one gives serum to two, two gives serum to three and so on, the procedure becoming endless.

WILL BE NO LABOR PARTY

Leaders of Organized Workers, After Consultation, Decide to Abandon the Idea.

Organized labor has abandoned the idea of forming a national political party. It was announced by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. The question was one of the most important decided at the two-day session of the executive council, held at New York.

"While local and central bodies and state federations may enter into the political field either independently or otherwise," said Mr. Gompers, "the council decided that it is not within the province of the central bodies to form or become part of a national labor party." The council was of the opinion that the best interests of labor would be served by a more thorough organization of the workers, skilled and unskilled, in the trade union movement.

Mr. Gompers also announced the personnel of the delegation which will represent American organized labor at the international labor conference to be held at the same time and place as the peace conference. Mr. Gompers will head the delegation, which will also include James Duncan, president of the Granite Cutters' International association; John Alpine, president of the United Association of Plumbers and Fitters; Frank Duffy, secretary of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, and William Green, secretary and treasurer of the United Mine Workers.
