Aniline in a Pigment.

To detect the presence of aniline in a pigment a little of the color is laid upon a piece of letter paper, and a drop of spirit poured upon it. If the pigment contains an aniline dye, the paper will be colored right through by it, while a pure pigment will not alter the shade of the paper and will not be under no circumstances penetrate it.—Popular Science Monthly.

A Disappearing Island.

At Lake Orion, in Michigan, there is a certain mysterious island which comes to the surface each summer, only to disappear again every winter. Quite regularly, along the middle of August, the island bobs up above the waters of the lake, and down it goes again about the middle of February. Once some farmers of that part of the country loaded the island with heavy stones, thinking that, when it went down the next time, it would stay down. But, when it was summer once more, up came the mysterious island as serene as ever. This is one of the most famous of the curious floating islands.—Christian Science Monitor.

If you've found a task worth doing, it matters little where I was born, or if my parents were rich or poor; but whether I live an honest man and hold my integrity firm in my clutch I tell you my brother, as plain as I can—matters much.—Emerson.

ECONOMICAL DISHES.

Junket is such a quickly prepared and well-liked dessert that we are always glad to find some new way of serving it.

Junket With Raisins.—Dissolve a junket tablet in a tablespoonful of cold water; heat one quart of milk just lukewarm; add three tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of almond extract. Mix all the ingredients, stirring well, then pour into sherbet cups to become firm. A pinch of salt should be added to the milk. When the junket is firm sprinkle the top with chopped raisins or dates—a teaspoonful to each glass and top with a spoonful of whipped cream. The fruit may be placed in the bottom of the glass and the junket poured over it as the weight of the fruit will often cause the junket to separate.

Ginger Pudding.—To one pint of sifted bread crumbs (brown) add one and one-half cupfuls of cornmeal, one tablespoonful of fat, one beaten egg, two cupfuls of sweet milk, one cupful of brown sugar and one-third of a teaspoonful of ginger; one and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix well and add one cupful of chopped raisins. Bake slowly three-quarters of an hour. Serve with a sauce.

Baked Calves' Liver.—Lard the liver with small strips of salt pork, using one and one-half pounds of liver. Dust with salt and pepper and brown in pork fat. Add a cupful of hot water and bake in a hot oven twenty minutes, basting twice; the last time add two tablespoonfuls of sour cream and a tablespoonful of flour well mixed. Serve after ten minutes further cooking.

Caramel Pudding.—Cream together one cupful of brown sugar and one-half cupful of shortening. Add one cupful of sweet milk, one cupful of bread crumbs, one cupful of blanched chopped almonds, one cupful of sifted flour and one teaspoonful of baking powder. When well mixed, add a cupful of raisins. Bake slowly forty-five minutes. Serve with a sauce made of ginger sirup, a bit of butter creamed with powdered sugar.

The following are some of the excerpts from the write-up: "One of the most notable weddings of the year was that of Miss Helen Marx and Mr. Richard Joseph Zander, which was celebrated at Temple Sinai last evening at 7 o'clock, Rabbi Rossinger of Beaumont performing the ceremony.

"Temple Sinai had been converted into a veritable bower of palms and flowers for the occasion by skillful decorators. The altar was banked with palms and dainty French baskets of the Watteau period filled with pink and blue hydrangeas and tied with pink and blue maline. These picturesque baskets were used in designating the pews reserved for relatives, making quite an artistic and unique effect with their dainty blend of color and fluffy bows and streamers of maline.

"Rabbi Rossinger, the groom and his best man, Mr. Max Zander of New Orleans, and the groomsmen, Mr. Abe Feifer of Philadelphia, took their places at the altar and awaited the coming of the bride

"Two little flower girls, Miss Janice Muller of this city, a niece of the bride, and Miss Hilda Adams of Algiers, a niece of the groom, looked very dainty and pretty as flower girls. They were dressed in white net over pink satin and carried old-fashioned French opera bouquets of forget-me-nots and pink roses. A FAMILY MEDICINE

In Her Mother's Home, says Georgia Lady, Regarding Dr. Dought's Relief From Headache, Malaria, Chills, Etc.

Ringgold, Ga.—Mrs. Clara Dought writes: "I was one of Theodor's Black-Draught patients. It was one of our family medicines. It was in my mother's home, and she was a child. When any of us were ren complained of headache, we were caused by constipation, and a dose of Black-Draught, and we rectify the trouble. When I was in Spring, we would have chills, or troubles of this kind, we would take Black-Draught, and we would soon be up and well again. It certainly has saved me doctor bills. Just a dose of Black-Draught when not so well, a lot of days in bed."

Theodor's Black-Draught has been in use for many years for the treatment of stomach, liver and bowels, and the popularity of it is now enjoys its proof of its efficacy. If your liver is not doing its duty, you will suffer from such symptoms as headache, constipation, indigestion, and unless something is done, your trouble may result.

Theodor's Black-Draught has been found a valuable remedy for such troubles. It is purely vegetable, acts in a prompt and safe manner, regulating the liver to its normal functions and cleansing the bowels of impurities. Try Theodor's Black-Draught, the original and genuine.
