They had five bottles of the liquor in their possession. The case will go to the federal courts.

Fiske's Admiration for Darwin.

The biography of John Fiske contains this comment in one of his letters from England: "Darwin is the dearest, sweetest, loveliest old grandpa that ever was. And, on the whole, he impresses me with his strength more than any man I have yet seen. There is a charming kind of quiet strength about him and about everything he does. He is not burning and eager like Huxley. He has a mild blue eye and is the gentlest of gentle old fellows. . . . None of these men seem to know how great they are. But Darwin is one of the most truly modest men I ever saw."

How Jerusalem Wails

Wailing Wall of the Jews.

"TE-KE-OO—Te-ke-oo," the notes ring out, poignant, pitiful; "Te-ke-oo." Once again it resounds in the hoary rifts of the "wailing wall," remnant of Hebrew glory, symbol of Hebrew fall. Piercing, clear, it heralds a mighty surge of grief. For from the gloom of a hundred souls a cry is wrung, uncanny in the smiling sunshine, writes Marian Weinstein to the Chicago Daily News. The Jews of Jerusalem have come to mourn, to pray. They have brought to their Father the sting of their newest affliction, the fresh page in their long tragedy—the slaughter of their brethren in free Galicia.

DIDN'T LET STOMACH KNOW

A Pittsburgh man, by thrift and economy, acquired a competence but a most humble beginning, but still related his experience to his friends in the bank where he did business. He was unable to discover the real source of his success. Here is his story according to the Pittsburgh Dispatch: He started to work on the South side of the city and was soon advanced to $10 and later to $12. When he was marked up to $14 he got married, beginning double team life in two weeks in one of the alleys high to Cass street. His boss thought so well of his marriage he added $2 more per week to his income. He bought a suit in the alley, put up a little house and ere long was living free of rent. Then he annexed a lot, erected another house and found himself a landlord. Another legacy of $2 a week was his good fortune and at last followed property that enabled him to live out of daily toil. "Well," said the president of the bank, "you have not these tellers and young fellows in the bank the real secret of your success; you confided it privately to me," laughing, the man said: "Oh, you know what you mean. Well, he told me I started at $9 per week and believe me, no matter how often I was advanced in wages, I never let my stomach know that I was on any other than $8 weekly allowance." The man explained his comfortable bank balance: Moral: Go thou and do likewise. "A home."

All United in Mourning.

Jerusalem has forgotten its squabbles. In this hour of prayer and mourning before their Maker all Jews are brothers. "A dole, a dole," a wretched bundle of rags whimpers through the crowd. Between two sputtering candles against the wall a khaki-clad soldier from the Jewish battalion pauses to read the call to this prayer that was posted for days in the streets of the Holy City, in Hebrew and in Yiddish.

Cultured Hindoo.

In Bengal there are about seven millions of people, and they speak perhaps the best culture in India at the present time. The language of written language is only fifty years old. Though for over a thousand years it has been a dialect, the Indian history unfortunately no part of Bengal having been an important literary tongue. The language borrowed its alphabet, grammar and vocabulary. There are numerous Persian, Arabic and English words incorporated in it, and the wonder of it is that, instead of having been degraded into some vulgar form like pidgin English, Bengali has become the most literary, scientific and perhaps the most philosophic of modern Indian languages.

Workmen Marooned High in Air.

A violent windstorm recently swept across Great Salt Lake, and over into Ogden, which it coated with a thin layer of salt. Pedestrians, sidewalks and automobiles were all "salted" impartially. The only real damage done, however, was in the destruction of a 200-foot steel tower in the construction of a 200-foot steel tower, 100 feet in the air, at the time the collapse, were completely rescued until rescued with extensive machinery by the local fire department.—Pittsburgh Mechanics Magazine.

Personal Illustration.

The master of a Glasgow school presiding over the reading lesson of the third standard when the class whose turn it was to read came to the word "hiring." "What is a hiring?" asked the teacher. The boy thought for a moment or two, and then replied, "I don't know." The question was next propounded to the entire class, with a like result. The master then explained the meaning of the word as lying on his back and, at the conclusion of his explanation, repeated the question. "Please, sir," replied the boy, dressed, "you're a hiring!" The master paid to teach us."

Jack of All Trades.

Edinburgh once enjoyed the distinction of possessing the most prolific signboard on record: "John Main, Stationer. Bibles, Testaments, Psalms, Hymns, Prayer Books, Catechisms, Proverbs, Books, new and old, in various branches of literature. Money or exchange for old Books; Papers, Pens, and Ink; Wax and Waters; Black-boards, Hair and Hair Pencils; Coloured Books, Memorandum Books, Religious Tracts. Books neatly bound, on moderate terms."

Assisting Herodias.

A man's instincts, intuitions, emotions and perceptions, and especially his habits, are changed, improved, made to overcome his hereditary tendencies by the proper training of the muscles. With the impressions of the physical, impressions of the mind, into the other senses, resulting in physically, impressions of the mind, helpful, improving work. No reason in the world why the nature of certain work is not stable individuals can be lifted out of their present state.
